make changes to the superintendent's contract in order to win back community support. The superintendent's contract was changed to include roll-over language, which allows the contract to be automatic.

Industrial Arts students receive state awards

At the state industrial arts fair in Grand Rapids this past weekend, Charlevoix Middle School students won several awards. Held in conjunction with the annual convention of the Michigan Industrial and Technology Education Society, this program is designed to recognize outstanding student work in the Industrial Arts, vocational, and Technology Education areas in the State of Michigan. This year's Charlevoix winners and their projects are as follows: second place - Levi Bakker, copper tooled picture of Babe Ruth; third place - Luke Whitley, hog dog roasting fork; fourth place - Kristy Shindorf, hot dog roasting fork; fifth place - Amanda Simpson, hot dog roasting fork; sixth place - Jason Maltese, hot dog roasting fork; sixth place - Tommy Yaroch, copper tooled picture of a deer; seventh place - Randy Houghton, copper tooled picture of a deer; eighth place - Edwin Bellairs, copper tooled picture of a deer; ninth place - Brian Ward, turned wooden bowl; honorable mention - Nathan Dean, turned wooden bowl; honorable mention - Andrew Kitley, vertical gun rack; honorable mention - Todd Schaperkotter, turned zebra wood bowl and walnut fold-up table.

Each of these students won ribbons for their projects along with a certificate for an "Outstanding entry in the Michigan Industrial and Technology Education Society cally extended for a year if the board fails to take action on it. Board member Sulane Hamilton explained the reasoning behind the change in contract language. "The focus wasn't on the roll-over clause. The focus was on creating a responsible process. The process includes a self-evaluation by the superintendent, a board evaluation, and a jointly developed growth plan. If the board fails to act in a timely fashion, then she (superintendent Roberta Jackson) has that safety net." The board voted six to one to extend Jackson's contract, with roll-over language included. Board member Ardith Wieland cast the only dissenting vote.

Audience member Bruce Hamilton cautioned the board to get their budget in order before they ask the public to support a 17 million dollar school improvement plan. "You showed us a huge dark cloud in the budget committee meeting this afternoon. Don't you dare bring this out until your budgetary house is in order," Hamilton said.

Hamilton was referring to a new liability the school is facing with teachers' retirement benefits. Indications from Lansing suggest the state will probably require school districts to pre-fund their own retirement benefits. If that happens, the district will have to budget for another $860,000 over the next five years to pay for retirement benefits.

Pre-funding retirement benefits is a common practice in the private sector. Employees pay into their own deferred compensation plans to pay for their future retirement benefits.

The board will hold a budget hearing at their June 19 meeting.

State Craftsmen's Fair." In addition, Bakker and Whitley each received a plaque.

School faces difficult budget decisions

By Laurie Lounsbury

Dr. Roberta Jackson's face was flushed with frustration as she opened the school budget committee meeting last Thursday morning. She pleaded with board members, teachers, and parents to abide by rules previously agreed upon for budget discussions.

"We agreed not to attack one another, no blaming or finger pointing, and if there are problems, we will share them openly and honestly without fear of recrimination," Jackson reminded the group. Jackson was referring to the rules established in the ODDM (Outcomes Driven Developmental Model) method of quality school reform.

But the school's union steward Tom Sothard blasted Jackson for discussing budget ideas with the school board before the budget committee had finalized the plan. "I know I personally feel that we lost the ODDM process when you took a work in progress to the board and passed judgement on it," Sothard said to Jackson.

"We agreed not to attack one another, no blaming or finger pointing, and if there are problems, we will share them openly and honestly without fear of recrimination."

The work in progress that Sothard referred to was one facet of the budget. His suggestion was to include a five-year retirement buy-out incentive for teachers nearing retirement. Jackson took the idea back to board members, who in turn expressed doubt about how much money it could save the school district. "I think many of us on the board do not see things as you do. We don't see the buy-out as a savings," board member Ben Cunningham told Sothard. Dollar amounts representing the potential savings of a retirement buy-out plan ranged from $9,000 to a million dollars. But the buy-out plan is based on hiring inexperienced teachers on the lowest end of the pay scale to replace the retiring teachers. If more experienced teachers are hired, the plan could cost the school district extra money in the long run.

The buy-out plan is just one branch of a thorny thicket that the budget committee is trying to prune.

...school budget debated

The budget committee has to make significant cuts somewhere in order to end up in the black. Major changes in school financing continue to challenge the committee. Gone are the days of holding millage elections to get more money for school operations. Charlevoix has one more year to hold a millage election, and any money gained from the millage may be used only for school enhancement. The school has already held two millage elections in the last year, and the millage was voted down both times.

So the budget committee, which is made up of parents, teachers, and board members, finds itself divided on the issue of future budgeting.

There are two positions among committee members. Some want to budget one year at a time and spend money that's available, including dipping into the school's fund equity savings. Others want to plan a five-year budget and save money for the possible financial burden that the state might dump in the laps of local school districts. (see related story)

Perhaps the most challenging aspect of balancing the budget is trying to squeeze a lot of money out of a very small slice of the budget. Eighty percent of the budget is spent on teacher and support staff salaries and fringe benefits. The remaining 20 percent of the budget is where union members would like to see the cuts made. "There should be no cuts to people or programs," Sothard said.

Supreme Court benefit ruling may cost school $860,000

By Laurie Lounsbury

The Michigan State Supreme Court recently ruled that the state must prefund retirement benefits. The decision came after Michigan Education Association (MEA) sued the state for not prefunding of retirement benefits since 1991. What the supreme court didn't say was who will foot the bill for the last four years' worth of retirement benefits that weren't prefunded. The state supreme court said they don't have the power to tell other branches of government how to spend their money.

The governor's office has filed for a rehearing on the case. They don't plan on paying for the retirement benefits. "Budget targets have been discussed, and they don't include prefunding," said Mary Noah, the legislative liaison for the state department of management and budget.

The MEA has also filed for a rehearing. They don't want local school districts to have to pick up the tab. "This is an issue that the school district and the MEA should be right together on," said Dave Bowman, the local MEA representative. "I can't imagine the local school districts wanting to pay for this when it's not their fault."

The Charlevoix school district might not want to pay for it, but they want to be prepared to pay for it. If forced to pay for the prefunding shortage, it will cost the Charlevoix school district $860,000 over the next five years. Some budget committee members think this item should be included in the five year budget plan.

If the budget committee is going to set aside that kind of money for retirement funding, then the money will have to come from a different part of the budget. The obvious answer would be to cut back on teacher raises each year, since the money is going to be used for their fringe benefits.

An official at the Michigan Public Schools Employment Retirement System office said that the funding problem could affect future contract negotiations. "If the cost is left to the school district, it could be absorbed in the form of no raise for employees," the official said.

Teachers are the only public employees in the state of Michigan who get prefunded health benefits.

Woman dies in one-car accident

Ann Marie Hufford, 37, of Charlevoix died in a one-car accident on Pincherry Road Saturday evening. Hufford was a passenger in a car driven by Ronald J. Barkley, 33, of Boyne City.

The crash occurred shortly before midnight in Hayes Township, approximately 1/4 mile north of Church Road. Barkley lost control of the car while northbound and went off the road at high speed. Barkley was thrown from the vehicle. Hufford was pinned under the vehicle when it came to rest. The vehicle then caught fire and burned. Efforts by another motorist to pull Hufford out from under the vehicle failed. Hufford died at the scene.

Barkley was transported to Charlevoix Arca Hospital by the Charlevoix City Ambulance where he was treated for multiple injuries.

The accident remains under investigation, but according to a press release from the Charlevoix County Sheriff's Department, excessive speed and alcohol are suspected as contributing factors in the crash. The sheriff's department was assisted at the scene by the Charlevoix City Rescue/Jaws of Life, the Charlevoix Township Fire Department and the Boyne City Ambulance Service.

Local resort life of '20s and '30s recaptured

Charlevoix author Edith Gilbert has released a revised edition of her book, "Summer Resort Life: Tango Teas and All." The book, which describes summer resort life in Charlevoix between World War I and World War II, was originally released in 1976. The updated version includes a beautiful new cover by Kathleen Cheney Fritz, approximately 20 additional pages, some new pictures and a chapter written by Pat McKeown Jr. CB North bank underwrote the project and will be hosting a reception.

"There's tremendous interest in this," Gilbert said last week, noting that she's having trouble keeping up with demand for the book. She said there's even more interest now with the revised publication than there was with the original publication.

Gilbert began seriously working on getting the revision printed last October. Friends may well recall that prior to beginning work on the revision, she often lamented the loss of the print galleys for the original. Due to the loss of the galleys, the revised version had to be redone from the ground up.

Gilbert met McKeown last year and as they talked he told her that he was interested in Charlevoix history and liked to write. She told him about her book project and asked if he would like to help out.

Gathering the photos for the original book and those added to the new book has been a major undertaking. Gilbert said the photos were difficult to find, but with help from the Charlevoix Historical Society some wonderful photos were located.

The book's appeal varies depending on the age of the Charlevoix reader. For older readers, the book brings back memories. For younger readers, the book offers insight to things they've heard older Charlevoix people talk about hundreds of times. Things like the Beach Hotel, the Inn Hotel, the luxurious boat Sylvia, and Koch's Club.

"This is the only book that addresses the lifestyle during the '20s, '30s and '40s of the summer resort," Gilbert says. "...and it was a very glamorous era between World War I and World War II."

The book is available at both Charlevoix book stores as well as at book stores in Boyne City and Petoskey.

Editorial

School's five-year budget must be realistic

The Charlevoix School Budget Committee has discovered that developing a five-year projected budget for the school system is not going to be an easy task. At least not if you want the proposed budget to be balanced.

The budget committee is composed of representatives from various groups within the school system: administrators, teachers, board members, support personnel etc. For the past several months, they've been working on coming up with a proposed five-year budget. All of their meetings have been open to the public. Conceptually, the process is meant to let everybody know how much money is available and provide everyone with a chance to make their pitch for how the money can best be spent to provide Charlevoix with a good school system.

Last week, after the process hit a snag, committee members got heated at a Thursday morning meeting. The snag involves an $860,000 bill, over the next five years, for teacher retirement benefits. The Michigan Supreme Court recently ruled that teacher retirement benefits must be prefunded. In other words, the court said money to fund retirement benefits must be available sooner (i.e. up front when retirement benefits are granted) rather than later (i.e. when teachers retire and start collecting the benefits). There's still some debate over just who's going to be coughing up that money. State funding may eventually cover some or all of the costs, but the way things are looking at the moment, the costs will fall to individual school systems.

School board members on the budget committee want to be conservative and have the proposed budget include the $860,000 expenditure. Some teachers on the committee look more favorably upon adopting a one-year budget in the hope that the state will in some way mitigate (i.e. come up with money) the shortfall during the next four years.

Tom Sothard, a middle school librarian who negotiates for the Charlevoix teachers' union, has also discussed the possibility of saving money by early-buyouts of some teachers nearing retirement. Theoretically, savings would result from replacing teachers at the high end of the salary scale with teachers at the low end of the scale. Just exactly how much money would be saved is subject to dispute. Projections range from $9,000 to $1 million. Board members understandably find this range a bit broad and would like to see some significant fine-tuning before they make a decision.

At the Thursday morning committee meeting, Sothard harshly criticized school superintendent Dr. Roberta Jackson for discussing the buy-out proposal with the school board. He termed the proposal a "work in progress" as opposed to something which needed review by the board. When you analyze the matter, Sothard's criticism makes little, if any, sense. To begin with, the whole process is supposedly open, so why shouldn't the board be informed about the buy-out proposal? Beyond that, Jackson works for the board. She's obligated to keep them informed. If board members are going to make good decisions, there's no such thing as Jackson conveying too much information.

The Thursday morning meeting ended up being unproductive. Consequently, the committee met again Thursday night. The evening meeting began at 7 p.m., but it was nearly 8 p.m. before the committee got down to business. The committee spent the first hour recommitting themselves to ODDM (Outcomes Driven Development Model) principles. First they had everybody, including audience members, stand up and stretch. Then they all stood in a circle, turned to the right and massaged the shoulders of the person standing next to them. After that, all the committee members used the hand they don't usually write with to write their name on a big white piece of paper to demonstrate to themselves that there's naturally a certain degree of discomfort and awkwardness whenever you're trying something new. Then a lady read a passage from a book. The passage was titled, "Every Child is a Marvel." (For about two-thirds of the passage, the press person in the audience mistakenly thought the lady was saying marble instead of marvel - which made the metaphor seem pretty obscure.)

Finally, each of the committee members read one of the ODDM principals. The principals, as read, state it in a lot of filler language, but what they boil down to is: Committees accomplish more if everyone is open and honest and willing to listen. It's more productive to think and then speak calmly and reason passionately as opposed to ranting and raving at each other. So play nice!

After they finished ODDMing, the committee got down to business. And it should be mentioned that all parties involved were quite civil and conducted discussion on an intellectual plane and dignified manner. (Either the recommitment to ODDM principals did them some good, or they feared that if they started fussing again they'd have to go through another hour of ODDMization at their next meeting.) The $860,000 is only a portion of a projected cumulative shortfall over the next five years of $1.5 million. In other words, in order to come up with a projected five-year budget that is balanced, the committee has to cut $1.5 million out of current planned expenditures.

Exacerbating this problem, the budget committee has decided to only discuss non contract negotiation items. That leaves out salaries and benefits which account for about 80 percent of the school budget. That leaves the committee with the task of whittling $1.5 million out of the remaining 20 percent of the budget. (The projected annual budgets for the years in question range between $9.6 and $10.8 million.)

To his credit, Sothard recommended several areas which could be considered for cuts. Some of the areas included conference and various subscription costs. If they were all made, perhaps $559,476 could be cut from the five-year budget. The problem is some of these cuts would be in equipment replacement. That type of cut doesn't really eliminate an expenditure. It just delays it.

Although the committee isn't discussing salary increases, a figure has been penciled in. That figure is three percent for each of the next five years. The problem is that while salary increases are projected at three percent for each of the next five years, total school revenue increases are projected at 2.5, 1.7, 2.2, 2.2, and 2.2 percent for each of the next five years.

Asked how the salary increase figure of three percent was arrived at, school business manager Rich Kelly said it was based on historical data and projected cost of living. Currently, the school district is in the second year of a three-year contract calling for three percent pay increases. The first year of the five-year budget is the last year of the three-year contract. Obviously with a contract in place, the salary increase figure will be three percent.

But the remaining four years are open. Rather than penciling in a salary increase figure based on historical data, it would make more sense to pencil in a salary increase figure based on keeping salary increases in line with projected revenue increases. For the final four years of the budget, the projected salary increases should be changed from three percent to 1.7, 2.2, 2.2, and 2.2 percent. Then run the numbers and see how close the budget comes to being balanced.

That's not etching in stone that salary increases will be at exactly those percentages. If revenues change, expenditure figures including salary increases could also change. A budget is just a road map. Budgets are amendable. But they've got to be realistic. And projecting 80 percent of your expenditures to increase at three percent while your total revenues are only increasing by 2.2 percent isn't realistic.

The Argonne!
People who haven't been to Charlevoix in thirty years ask, "Is that shrimp place still in business?"
You bet it is, and the crowds are as devoted as ever!

Steve Ager and his wife are now sole owners, and have expanded the dining room this winter to accommodate 200 people. The decor is fresher and more attractive. The fixed menu and reliable service are as dependable as the bridge going up and down.

The plain building was originally a farm house and before World War I, it was turned into a fancy restaurant that served chicken dinners on monogrammed plates. There was a dance band, as well as limousine service from downtown Charlevoix, we've been told. Later the restaurant was bought by a man named Cy Powers, who was a sign painter. He named the restaurant the Argonne Supper Club, so the story goes, in memory of his brother, who was killed in the Big War at the famous battle of Argonne. Then, during the period known as Prohibition, Powers served "set ups" to his customers, who either brought their own booze, or ordered moonshine liquor made of grain alcohol, that was provided by a local bootlegger.

Sometime during the 30s, Powers sold the club to a pharmacist, Bill Kerns, better known as "Doc". The place became more of a roadhouse, with gambling upstairs. "Doc" sold the place to a fellow, who served minors, and subsequently lost his liquor license. I can remember when I arrived in Charlevoix in 1940, that this was not the place to go. Fortunately, the atmosphere changed when Bill and Irma Metzinger, and her two brothers, Paul and Charles, bought the place and started serving shrimp, "all you can eat for $1.95!"

Wayne Belding's band played dance music for the dinner guests, and Henry Supernaw remembers dancing with his future wife, Elvira. They slow danced to the lovely tune, "Stardust", and occasionally, Henry, who had a good voice, would break into song for the benefit of the local crowd.

The Metzingers sold the Argonne on New Year's Eve in 1961 to the Ted Ager and Herb Moores. Clara Ager and Ann Moore are sisters. Clara until recently, ran the dining room, while Anne was in charge of the kitchen. In those earlier days, the shell of the shrimp had to be cut by hand, which was a long and tiring job. Steve's German grandmother, Margaret Speigl, is credited with creating her original and popular maraschino cherry jelly that is still served from time to time along with her mouthwatering recipe for "puffs" and homemade bread. But Clara says, "You have to top sell a lot of mixed drinks in order to have enough cherry juice to make the delicious jelly!"

A king size menu of the era lists the Tuesday and Friday night specials, "all you can eat here" shrimp for $4.75, which included French fries, salad, rolls and coffee. A glass of wine was 50 cents. The policy also stated "no children served after 9 p.m. please."

These days, running the Argonne is not enough for Steve Ager. He is also in partnership with another local-boy-made-good, Terry Left, and together they bought the former Parkside Restaurant building. By the time memorial weekend comes around, you will be able to enjoy the intimate coffee house atmosphere of "The Perk Side Cafe" created by Karen Caufield. Her plan is to serve not only espresso and cappuccino, but iced coffee with exotic flavors as well. Specialty desserts will be featured along with Ashby's ice cream cones, etc. All this while seated at cafe tables and chairs overlooking Round Lake! They expect to be open long hours, starting with continental breakfast in the morning, and on through the evening, serving the after-movie crowd.

My guess is that the place we now know as the Argonne Supper Club, has been operating as a restaurant for over eighty years. It will, undoubtedly, continue to be "that shrimp place" for many more years to come.

Historical Society to host Civil War presentation

The Charlevoix Historical Society's June program will focus on the Civil War. The program, titled "Hold the Banner High; Portrait of a Union Soldier," will be presented by Geoffrey Reynolds at 7:30 p.m., June 6 at the Harsha House Museum at 103 State Street.

The program will tell the story of Alexander Bush. Bush became a Charlevoix County resident and businessman after serving in the Civil War. He was one of few color berets to serve in battle and survive the war. Reynolds will use slides and discuss interesting facts about the Civil War and Bush. The program was first presented earlier this spring at the 37th Annual Conference on Local History at Wayne State University.

Hospital receives art donations

Because many area artists have contributed their paintings and prints, Charlevoix Area Hospital is a more pleasant place for patients and visitors.

Through the efforts of Sulane Hamilton, hospital board member, area artists were solicited to provide their work to help complete the interior design of the new and remodeled sections of the hospital. "We are very grateful to the artists who responded," Hamilton says. "Where walls were bare, we now have art which is beautiful in itself, and, in addition, which ties the hospital to the communities it serves."

"We invite the public to tour through the hospital and view the art," Hamilton says.

Hamilton says, "We are continuing our 'Canvassing for Art' campaign and hope that we will receive further donations from both artists and others who have art pieces they would like to contribute. We have many areas remaining where we would like to showcase the extraordinary work of our area artists." She points out that the artists and art contributors may take the tax advantages available to them from such a donation.

Anyone wishing more information on making donations of art should contact Sulane Hamilton, 547-5507, or Kathy Johnson, Fund Development Director at Charlevoix Area Hospital, 547-4024.

Works of more than 18 artists have been contributed to Charlevoix Area Hospital in its "Canvassing for Art" campaign. Local artist Jan Glass contributed a print titled "God's Medicine Chest" to the hospital. The painting depicts medicinal and edible plants. (Photo courtesy Charlevoix Area Hospital)

by REV. BRUCE HAMILTON

My "father who has a daughter about to graduate" emotions were plucked on for the first of many times last Saturday night. We attended the High School Performing Arts dinner theater where Debbie was one of four seniors who shared the stage for their final time. For four years now, we have gotten up in the wee hours of the morning to take her to different competitions. We have camped out in the snow-covered and blowy parking lot waiting for the Rayder bus to motor down a sleepy May Street.

All that seemed to fade away as I sat there transfixed watching this young woman I have known all her life stand before the microphone and sing in the sweetest voice I have ever heard. Wasn't it only yesterday that the nurse wheeled my wife down the hall from the delivery room to me? Wasn't it only moments ago when she unwrapped a little bundle swathed in a green sheet and said, "I'd like you to meet your daughter?" How the time has flown. As hard as it seemed for me to imagine, that was indeed my baby all grown up there.

I wonder if you realize that God looks at us with the same type of wonder and amazement. He has known us even before the first gleam of love passed between our mothers and fathers. He has known us and He has loved us. He has known us in the good times of our lives and rejoiced in every blessing that you have received. He has known us in the dark nights of the soul that we have all ventured through at one time or another. He has known us and has provided more light, more strength to our steps, and blazed a clearer trail than we could ever have imagined or gotten through on our own.

But what is most precious of all revolved around the way He has patiently waited for you to dictate the terms of His relationship with you. He has never forced His will upon you and yet His love is from everlasting to everlasting. He would never make you do something you absolutely, positively refused to do, and yet He would turn around and forgive you for being so stubborn in an instant once you discovered how right He was and how wrong you were.

Maybe it is because I am more aware of life than I was when I was younger. Maybe it is because I see so many who take life for granted. I wish everyone would just stop and take a deep breath now and then and realize how much their heavenly Father really does love them.

I spent the last three weekends marrying young couples. Watching fathers bring their daughters down the aisle to give them to another man has plucked on my heart strings as well. We want nothing but the best for our children. There isn't anything that we wouldn't do for our children. If anyone threatened them, we would defend and protect them with all the strength we could muster. If you really feel that way, is it all that hard to transfer those feelings to how God, your heavenly Father, feels about you?

To know that you are loved completely and accepted without reservation can make you do more than you ever thought about doing on your own. It is liberating to be free of guilt, to be free of doubt, to realize in your heart of hearts that you need never be alone. That's what having a good relationship with your heavenly Father is meant to do for you. Just as I hope my daughter will always know her father loves her and will be there for her in all things that I can, I hope she remembers God will be there for her as well. I hope you realize He can be there for you too.

(Rev. Bruce Hamilton is pastor of the Charlevoix Community Church of God. Beacons of Blessings is provided to the Courier by Hamilton and other members of the Charlevoix Ministerial Association.)

Council ponders driveway encroachment problem

Charlevoix Courier Wednesday, May 24, 1995 - PAGE 9

City councilmembers want to see more information before deciding whether or not to pursue having a private driveway moved off of city property. The driveway in question is at a Park Avenue home owned by Dick Georgi. A portion of the end of the driveway extends 30 to 40 feet into city park property.

The driveway has been on city property for a number of years, but the exact number of years is in question. Currently, the driveway has been torn up to be repaved. Second ward councilmember Gabe Campbell feels that now that the driveway is torn up, it would be the proper time for Georgi to move it off of city property.

Attorney Dan Barron spoke on behalf of Georgi at the council meeting. Barron said Georgi had hoped the matter had been resolved three years ago when the city council discussed a flower garden which Georgi had placed on city property. Barron said that at that time Georgi, acting as a good neighbor, acknowledged the garden is on city property and waived any claims to it. Barron said the driveway encroachment is not a situation created by Georgi, but by previous owners of the property decades ago.

Barron said there should be a cooperative nature between the city and homeowners because what goes around comes around. He questioned the fiscal soundness of action which could lead to litigation.

Barron also claimed that steps on city property lead to beach property owned by Georgi. Campbell asked if the steps are on city property.

Barron said yes, but they are set at an angle which would lead people toward Georgi's property.

There was some dispute about how long the driveway has been on city property and if it has been moved since Georgi owned the property. City attorney Jim Young has advised the city council that the length of time the encroachment has been allowed to exist would probably be a factor in a judge's decision should the case go to court.

Campbell made a motion for the city to take whatever action is necessary to remove the encroachment. Campbell's motion was supported by first ward councilmember Don Meggison.

First ward councilmember Cheri Hoffman and mayor Josh Barnes spoke in opposition to the motion. Hoffman said it was her understanding from the city attorney that should the case go to court the city's chances of winning would be 60 to 70 percent. She said she can't justify spending thousands of dollars to have the driveway moved. Barnes questioned what the city would win if the driveway was moved.

Second ward councilmember Butch Russell and third ward councilmember Bruce Reid said they were hearing different dates and would like to have that resolved before taking action.

Campbell said he didn't object to taking time to allow for additional research before taking action, but didn't want the driveway to be repaved before the city took action. Barron was asked if Georgi would wait to repave the driveway until after the city's next meeting. Initially, Barron was hesitant to make that commitment, but Russell said that without such a commitment, he would support Campbell's motion to act immediately. Barron agreed to leave the driveway unpaved until after the council's June 5 meeting.

Between now and June 5, Young and other city staff members will be doing further research on the matter.

Other teams fail to stay close to Charlevoix's track team

The Charlevoix boys' track team participated in the regional track meet Saturday at East Jordan. Seventeen other teams were there too, but that's hardly worth mentioning. All those other teams were there for was to determine who would get second place.

Charlevoix scored 131 points, more than twice as many as second place Kingsley, 53, to take the 1995 regional title.

The prime example of the Rayders' domination was the 800 meter race. Charlevoix's Mike Bush, Matt Dickinson, Chris LeButt and Brian Martinus finished one, two, three and four. The same four runners combined to win the 3200 meter relay. They will try to win Charlevoix's fourth consecutive Class C 3200 relay state title at the state finals Saturday, June 3 at Bay City Western High School.

In addition to the 800 and 3200 relay wins, Bush also won the 3200 m.

Travis Wood won the pole vault, placed second in the hurdles and joined Dave Manker, Seth Kilander and Jerry Duhart to win the 800 meter relay.

Duhart also won the 200 and 400 and teamed up with LeButt, Manker and Kilander to win the 1600 relay.

Dickinson also won the 1600 race.

By the time the dust had settled, the Charlevoix boys' track team had a stack of regional hardware and had qualified for 13 spots at the state finals.

Charlevoix's girls team placed fourth with 47 points behind Lake City, 93.3, Onekama, 54.3 and Suttons Bay, 50.

Becca Chamberlain, Liz Kelly Candice Vandergriff and Chelsea Gorkiewicz won the 3200 relay. The Rayders also placed second in the 1600 relay. Gorkiewicz placed second in the 1600 and Chamberlain finished second in the 3200.

Jenny Swenor beats feet for first base.

Liz Grunch tosses a runner out at first base.

Softball team loses twice in tournament

Charlevoix's varsity softball team lost twice in the Bellaire Classic Tournament Saturday. The Rayders dropped the opening game 11-8 to Traverse City and later in the day fell to Bellaire 1-0.

Jenny Eveleigh took the pitching loss against Traverse City. She gave up four hits, walked 12 and struck out two in five innings. Eveleigh helped her own cause on offense with two hits, including a double.

In the second game, leaky defense wasted a one-hit pitching from Liz Grunch. The Rayders had four errors, including two in the first inning which allowed the game's only run. Amanda Eaton had two hits for Charlevoix. Bellaire is ranked number one in Class D.

Last Thursday at East Jordan, the Rayders beat on the Red Devils. Charlevoix took the first game 17-5 and the second game 13-3.

Grunch pitched both games, striking out a total of 14.

In the opening game Christie Kaczynski had three hits, including a double. Grunch had two hits, including a double.

Grunch and Eveleigh each had two hits, including a double in the second game while Eaton, Jenny Swenor and Waja Wujcik each had singles.

Charlevoix's season record is now 21-10-1. Charlevoix's hosts Petoskey, Wednesday, May 24.

And the winner is...

A collection of awards and accomplishments by Charlevoix athletes.

Three Charlevoix bowlers were among the top finishers in the Northern Area Bowlers Charities Finals which took place recently at Gateway Lanes in St. Ignace. Dave Hoyt of the True Value team which bowls in the Thursday night Sportsmans League at Paul Bunyan Lanes in Charlevoix, placed first with a score of 741 and took home $500. Three other Charlevoix bowlers also finished in the top 100 among the 457 bowlers at the tournament. Liz Meadows finished 16th, Mary Nachazel 33rd, and Barb Scully, 78th. The tournament raised approximately $14,000 for various charities.

Dave Hoyt.

Bruce Reinhart of Charlevoix participated in the Greco-Roman State Finals Wrestling Tournament in Fowlerville this past weekend and placed third in the heavyweight division. Reinhart went 2-2 on the day with his losses coming to wrestlers who finished seventh and eighth in the nation last year. Reinhart has been invited to be a part of Team Michigan, a group of Michigan's finest high school wrestlers who will compete against the best wrestlers from other states in a national meet in Fargo, North Dakota. The national meet will take place early in July.

Baseball team drops two

Despite five hits from Ryan Pittman, Charlevoix's varsity baseball team dropped two games at East Jordan Thursday. The Rayders fell 6-3 in game one and 7-1 in game two.

Steve Carland took the loss in game one. Pittman had three hits for the Rayders while Chris Mikulski had a two-run home run.

Justin Gengle got the pitching loss in game two. Charlevoix had just two hits, both of them by Pittman.

The losses dropped Charlevoix's season record to 4-15-1. The Rayders host Petoskey May 24.

Sixth graders check lake's health

Lake Charlevoix Association's first annual Student Lake Days took place May 10 and 11. Sixth grade science classes from the Charlevoix, Boyne City and East Jordan schools received hands-on experience monitoring and recording the factors that determine the health of the Lake Charlevoix ecosystem. The students, in groups of about fifty, were bussed to the Beaver Island Boat Company's docks next to the bridge in Charlevoix, where they boarded the motor vessel South Shore for the trip into Lake Charlevoix.

After a short demonstration of water safety devices, the group was split up into four working parties of 12 or 13 each. These parties would then rotate through four stations on the ship. At the Water chemistry Station students handled electronic meters and probes and charted temperature and oxygen values at different depths. There were several Seechi Dishes to use at the Water Clarity Station. These 8 inch metal dishes with alternating black and white quarters, were lowered into the water until they could not be seen and the disappearing and reappearing depths were recorded. Water sampling was done from the upper deck where water samples were retrieved from various depths and put under microscopes for observation of the tiny organisms that exist in the lake. The Sea Lamprey station rounded out the series with a video presentation followed by a question session about these parasitic predators.

Although the Student Lake Days were organized and funded by the Lake Charlevoix Association, the program could not have succeeded without the cooperation and active involvement from the Tip of the Mitt Watershed Council and the Beaver Island Boat Company.

CHARLEVOIX COUNTY UNIFORM NUMBERING ORDINANCE

ARTICLE 1 TITLE, PURPOSE AND LEGAL CLAUSES

Section 1.1: Title

THERE IS HEREBY CREATED the "Charlevoix County Uniform Numbering Ordinance" and further shall be known in the short form as the "Numbering Ordinance", hereinafter referred to as the "Ordinance."

Section 1.2: Purpose

In order to uniformly assign and maintain house numbers and provide for easy identification of those numbers for the various purposes and to promote the health, safety and welfare of the citizens of the County of Charlevoix, the County of Charlevoix enacts its Uniform Numbering Ordinance.

Section 1.3: Authority and Scope

The address system created and administered by the county pursuant to this ordinance shall be the only address system created, authorized, recognized, administered or used within the unincorporated portions of Charlevoix County. It is the intent of this ordinance and the finding of the County Board of Commissioners that:

1. It is contrary to the pursuit of health, safety or welfare of the county to have more than one address system administered or in use in Charlevoix County.

2. For purposes of efficiency and consistency of the operation and administration of an address system, it is contrary to the pursuit of the health, safety or welfare of the county to have more than one supervisory agency, as provided in Section 5 of this ordinance, be the authority to name roads in the unincorporated portions of the county; and to have more than one supervisory agency be the administrative, coordinative, and address numbering authority.

3. To have a single county-wide address system, and the administration thereof, is necessary to maintain and pursue the health, safety and welfare of the county and this ordinance does not contravene the general laws of this state and does not interfere with the local affairs of a township, city or village within the limits of Charlevoix County.

Section 1.4: Legal Basis

This Ordinance is enacted pursuant to Section 11 of Michigan Public Act 156 of 1851, as amended, being Michigan Compiled Law 46.11 (County Board of Commissioners).

ARTICLE 2 DEFINITIONS

Section 2.1: Purpose

The purpose of Article 2 is to set forth the definitions of certain terms used in the ordinance. When not inconsistent with the context, the present tense includes the future, words used in the singular number include the plural number. The word "shall" is always mandatory and not merely permissive. The word "person" includes a firm, association, organization, partnership, trust, company or corporation, as well as an individual.

Section 2.2: Undefined Words

Any word not defined herein shall be interpreted within its common and approved usage.

Section 2.3: Definitions

ADDRESS means a set of numbers, and a compass designation, if applicable, and a road name used in combination as one statement of location.

ADDRESS NUMBER means a five-digit number assigned to consecutive intervals along a street or road pursuant to the Charlevoix County Grid. (Attachment A)

DIAGONAL ROADS as used herein, are roads whose course does not run in either an approximate North-South or East-West direction.

DISPLAY as used herein means the manner the house number is affixed to a structure, (or otherwise displayed when affixed to a structure is not adequate visibly) so that it is readily identifiable pursuant to provisions of this Ordinance.

INTERVAL means a distance along a roadway covered by this Ordinance of 5.28 feet, there being 1000 intervals per mile (5,280 feet). Intervals of greater or lesser length than 5.28 feet may be determined by dividing the actual distance of the mile section by 1000.

NUMBER ASSIGNMENT FORMULA is defined as follows:

Beginning from the point of origin a house number shall be assigned for each interval, with each interval on the South and East side of the roadway as one leaves the point of origin being assigned an even number, and each interval on the North and West side as one leaves the point of origin being assigned an odd number. The numbers assigned shall increase consecutively by an increment of two (2) for each interval. Intervals shall run North, South, East and West or diagonally from the point of origin.

OWNER means the person(s), corporation, partnership, or other legal entity having an interest in the structure as land contract purchaser, life estate interest, or fee simple interest, individually or jointly, unless said interest is subject to a recorded land contract.

PLAT means a map of and other information about a subdivision of land, which is drawn and information compiled, approved, and recorded in conformity with Michigan Public Act 288 of 1967, as amended, being Michigan Compiled Laws 560.101 et. seq., the Subdivision Control Act.

POINT OF ORIGIN as used herein means the intersection of an East-West base line and a North-South base line from where all intervals begin. The North-South, East-West intersection in Charlevoix County shall be where the line between T32N and T33N intersects the line between R5W and R6W.

RESIDENT or OCCUPANT means the person(s), corporation, partnership, or other legal entity occupying the structure or property upon which the structure is situated pursuant to a tenancy at will, written lease agreement, option to purchase, or other agreement giving the resident or occupant the right to use the structure individually or jointly with others.

ROAD means any road, street, highway, lane, drive, avenue, boulevard, two-track, court, cul-de-sac, circle, way, route, track, artery, and so on which affords a means of travel and ingress or egress to abutting property, whether public or private.

ROAD NAME means that part of an address which is the proper name of a road.

STRUCTURE shall include anything constructed, erected or placed with a fixed location on the ground and includes, but is not limited to: residential building, mobile home, commercial building, industrial building, office building, public building, well, field pump, utility, lighted billboard, lighted outdoor display and storage facility.

SUBDIVISION means an area of land which has been divided by means of filing a plat.

ARTICLE 3 ROAD NAMES

Section 3.1: Not Duplicative

A road shall not be given a road name which duplicates the name of any other road anywhere in the county.

Section 3.2: Subdivision Plats

A road which is constructed within the boundaries of a recorded subdivision shall have the name shown for the dedicated right-of-way on the recorded plat.

A plat shall not be approved by the Road Commission or Plat Board with a road name or road right-of-way name which does not comply with the provisions of this ordinance.

Section 3.3: Highway and Route Numbers

A road shall not be named, for address purposes, by use of both a highway number and county route (road) number such as U.S. 31 or County Road 624. Nothing in this section shall prohibit the use of highway or county routes (road) number to designate county primary routes, or state and federal highway routes.

Section 3.4: Authority to Name Roads

The Township Boards shall have the authority to name roads in the unincorporated areas of the county. It shall be the policy of this ordinance to discourage the practice of changing existing road names.

Section 3.5: Changing Existing Road Names

The existing road name, or the name applied to a right-of-way as shown on an approved preliminary plat, shall not be changed except as provided herein:

A. Only at the Township's option, when road construction has resulted in the extension of a road to another road so that both roads are joined in such a manner that both roads may be considered one road instead of two separate roads. Two roads shall not be considered one road unless both roads have address numbering in a north-south direction or both roads have address numbering in an east-west direction.

1. In the instance of changing a road name, a third name shall not be used. One of the two existing road names shall be applied to the entire road and the other road name shall be discontinued.

2. The Township shall determine which road name is to be used for the entire length of both roads so the road name change results in modification to the fewest number of addresses. In the event the system of modifying the fewest addresses is not applicable, then the road name which is oldest and already applies to the portion of the road which has existed the longest shall be the road name used.

Section 3.6: Notification of Road Names

The Township shall notify the Equalization Department, by providing a copy of the Township Board's resolution, whenever a road is named for the first time and whenever the existing name is changed to another, as provided below.

A. In the case of naming roads or road right-of-ways as part of the process of approving a preliminary plat or final plat, the recording of said plat in the Charlevoix County Register of Deeds Office shall be sufficient notice to all interested parties.

B. In all other cases of naming roads for the first time, the Township Board shall, by resolution, notify the Equalization Department of the road name and the location and extent of the road the road name is applied to.

C. The Equalization Department shall notify the following interested parties, within 30 days, by first class mail or personal delivery, of any new or changed road names:

1. The Road Commission.
2. The respective fire department.
3. The respective ambulance service provider.
4. The Charlevoix County Sheriff's Dept.
5. The U.S. Post Office serving that area.
6. The 9-1-1 Central Dispatch agency.
7. The abutting property owners.

Section 3.7: Master File

The Road Commission and the Equalization Department, or its designee, shall jointly keep a master index of the proper names of each road in Charlevoix County. The proper names, as much as possible, shall be reflected on the certified set of maps filed by the Road Commission with the Michigan Department of Transportation, pursuant to Michigan Public Act 51 of 1951, as amended, being Michigan Compiled Laws 217.651 et. seq. Motor Vehicle Highway Fund Act. If a discrepancy exists between the certified maps and the master index as to the name of a road, its spelling, or punctuation, the master index shall rule. The master index shall be updated from time to time as necessary.

ARTICLE 4 HOUSE NUMBER DISPLAY

Section 4.1: Display

Each primary structure shall display a house number. A house number shall not be displayed containing numbers less than 3 inches (7.62 centimeters) in height. It shall be visible from the roadway named in the address, and all house numbers shall be in Arabic numerals (i.e. Block or Script).

A. The resident, occupant, or owner of a structure shall cause the assigned address number to be displayed on the front of the structure and shall be displayed in such manner as to be plainly visible from road traffic lanes in either direction of approach.

B. Where the numbers on the front of the structure cannot be read from the road, the resident, occupant, or owner of a structure shall cause the assigned address number to be displayed upon a post of suitable strength and construction, adjacent to the driveway or access of the premises. The height of the post shall be not less than six (6) feet above the level of the adjacent road and the assigned address number shall be placed on both sides of the post so as to be plainly visible from road traffic lanes in either direction of approach.

C. Where the display post is located on a road other than the road of the premises as numbered, the display post shall show both the assigned address number and the proper road name of the premises.

Section 4.2: Use

The resident, occupant, owner, utility company, other utility service providers, county offices, municipal governments, police, emergency services and any other persons or entities, shall use the assigned address for purposes of delivery, locating a structure, and legal or recorded address of record to facilitate the use of the same system of identifying a location of a structure by all respective entities in a coordinated and uniform manner.

Section 4.3: Stricter Regulations.

Nothing in this ordinance shall prohibit a municipality or the post service from requiring stricter, more visible display of addresses or address numbers.

ARTICLE 5 HOUSE NUMBERING ADMINISTRATION

SECTION 5.1: Equalization Department

The Equalization Department shall be an agency with exclusive overall administrative and coordinative responsibility to administer the operation and application of this ordinance.

The Equalization Department shall have the authority to draft rules and regulations for the operation of the House-Numbering System. Said rules and regulations shall be approved by the Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners before they take effect.

Section 5.2: City or Village Borders

The County numbering system may be used to number properties along the portions of the roads that border a City or Village regardless of whether the property being numbered is located within the City's or Village's boundaries or within a Township's boundaries. The Equalization Department will coordinate the use of the most feasible grid system for the area and work with the governmental unit involved.

ARTICLE 6 BUILDING PERMITS

Section 6.1: Building permits

A construction code (building) inspector operating and authorized to issue building permits under Michigan Public Act 230 of 1972, as amended, being Michigan Compiled Laws 125.1501 et. sq. State Construction Code Act - regardless which nationally recognized construction code is being enforced - shall not issue a building permit until after an address number has been issued for the proposed structure.

In some instances, it will not be possible for an address to be issued until after the location of the building is clearly marked on the ground. When it is not practical to mark a building location on the ground until after a building permit has been issued, the construction code inspector shall not issue a building permit until after: (1) a written application for an address has been received and (2) approved with a notation the address will be issued at a later date by the Equalization Department.

ARTICLE 7 ENFORCEMENT, PENALTIES, SAVING CLAUSE

Section 7.1: Enforcement

A. A construction code (building) inspector operating and authorized to issue construction permits under Michigan Public Act 230 of 1972, as amended, being Michigan Compiled Laws 125.1501 et. sq. State Construction Code Act - regardless which nationally recognized construction code is being enforced - may not approve a final inspection of a structure or issue an occupancy permit if the address number is not displayed as required in this ordinance.

B. Anyone may file a complaint with the Charlevoix County Sheriff's Department concerning an alleged violation of the requirements of this ordinance. Upon receipt of a complaint, the following procedure for enforcement shall be used:

1. A sheriff's deputy, or the individual designated by the Equalization Department to assign address numbers, shall determine if a violation exists or not, in his or her judgement. If it is found a violation does not exist, the matter shall be dropped.

2. If a violation is thought to exist, the sheriff's deputy, or the individual designated by the Equalization Department to assign address numbers, shall contact the resident, occupant, business or owner of the structure in an attempt to obtain voluntary compliance with this ordinance. If the violation is corrected, the matter shall be dropped.

3. If a violation continues to exist and voluntary compliance is not likely, the sheriff's deputy, or the individual designated by the Equalization Department to assign address numbers, shall notify the owner of the structure, as shown on the latest assessment roll maintained by the Charlevoix County Equalization Department, that a violation exists. Said notice shall explain the violation and cite the appropriate section of this ordinance which is being violated and shall explain how the violation may be corrected. Said notice shall provide for a period of sixty (60) days time in which the violation shall be corrected. Said notice shall be delivered to the owner by first class certified mail, with a return receipt, or by personal delivery by a sheriff's deputy with an affidavit of service.

4. If the violation is still thought to exist, the owner shall be responsible to reimburse the county for all costs incurred by the county or their agents to properly post the property; and, the owner shall be responsible for a civil infraction.

5. A municipal civil infraction citation may be served on the resident, owner or occupant by a sheriff's deputy, building inspector, or individual designated by the Equalization Department to assign address numbers, by personal service, certified mail with return receipt, or by posting a copy of the citation on the structure and mailing a copy by first class mail to the resident, owner or occupant.

C. Nothing in this section shall prevent the sheriff's deputy or construction code building inspector or the individual designated by the Equalization Department to assign address numbers from seeking the assistance or counsel of the Prosecuting Attorney or his designee(s) in pursuit of a remedy to the violation and for the determination if a violation exists.

D. Nothing in this section shall prohibit the United States Postal Service from terminating mail delivery in the case of a violation of this ordinance, or imposing other sanctions allowed under law.

Section 7.2 Penalty
Any violation of this ordinance shall constitute a municipal civil infraction.

Any person violating the provisions of this ordinance shall be responsible for a civil infraction and be ordered by the court to pay a fine of not less than one hundred ($100) dollars or more than ($500) dollars, plus court costs, costs of prosecution and the county's cost to install an address number.

In addition to the imposition of the foregoing fines, penalties and other legal remedies, the Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners may designate an agency of the county to cause the proper posting of numbers, and the cost thereof assessed against the owner of such premises.

Section 7.3: Fees

It shall be the policy of the county to provide the service of issuing addresses without cost except that the County Board of Commissioners may adopt a fee schedule from time to time if they deem it necessary.

Section 7.4: Saving Clause

Vets selling poppies and preparing for parade

"In Flanders Field, the Poppies grow
To mark the crosses, row by row" —

So begins the well known poem written after World War I, when so many American men were killed in the war. It was at this time the poppies became the symbol of those who had given their lives in defense of our country, in all wars and conflicts. The poppies are now hand-made by hospitalized veterans in the veterans hospitals to earn a few cents from each one made. Each American Legion and Veterans of Foreign Wars post, nationwide, buys these poppies from the hospitalized veterans, and then resell them to the public to earn money for local Posts. The proceeds are used for veterans' projects, to aid veterans and their families in need, to sponsor veterans' children and grandchildren in important educational programs, to aid the widows and disabled, the National VFW Children's Home, and the American Legion Villa for elderly veterans, and assist the Veterans' hospitals.

This year, the Charlevoix Veterans of Foreign Wars #1153 and its Auxiliary (V.F.W.) sold Buddy Poppies May 18-20. Their theme "Honor the Dead by Helping the Living" is made possible through these poppy sales. Rosalyn Goldstick and Beverly Plum will co-chair for the Auxiliary, and David Goldstick is the Post Poppy chairman. Poppies and cans may be picked up at Beverly's home, 212 W. Huribut.

The American Legion Leslie T. Shapton Unit #226 and its Auxiliary will sell their poppies Thursday, Friday and Saturday, May 25, 26, and 27. Katie Curtis and Jo Bindi will co-chair the event. Poppies and cans may be picked up at Birdie's Hair Salon.

Members of both Veterans' groups and their Auxiliaries are asked to assist in the selling of the poppies and to contact the chairmen to volunteer. Inasmuch as this year commemorates the 50th anniversary of V-E and V-J Days, the ending of World War II, it is hoped that the public will buy both types of poppies, as each organization has its own relief programs. The local V.F.W. Post was chartered in 1917 and its Auxiliary was chartered in 1945. The local American Legion Unit was chartered in 1920 and its Auxiliary was chartered in 1931. Both have been active through the years in promoting assistance to the community and to all veterans.

Members of both groups will also participate in the Memorial Day Parade. They are asked to assemble on Park Avenue at 9:30 a.m. Monday, May 29. All are asked to assist. All parade participants are invited to the American Legion Hall for refreshments after the parade. The Memorial Day Parade will begin at 10 a.m.

Charlevoix Rod & Gun Club adds sporting clays course

By L. Scott Swanson

Springing teal, flushed pheasant, the rocket, darting woodies and settling greenheads await northern Michigan shotgun shooters at the Charlevoix Rod & Gun Club's new sporting clays course. The course hosts its premier event June 4 with the Becky Bos Memorial Scholarship Fund Shoot.

Sporting clays involves shooting clay pigeons from several stations. Course designers attempt to have each station simulate a shot that hunters might encounter in the field. Names of the 12 stations at the Charlevoix station indicate the type of shot represented: Incoming Doves; Flushed Pheasant; Rapid Rabbit with Flushed Grouse; Springing Teal; Fleeing Woodcock; Rocket; Quail Flurry; High Flying Pheasant; Snipe Hype; Driven Grouse; Settling Greenheads; Darting Woodies.

An East Jordan contingent of shooters joined the Rod and Gun Club and worked with Charlevoix members to construct the course. The Rod and Gun Club board approved construction of the course in April and allocated $4,000 to cover the cost of traps to throw the clay pigeons, wood to construct the stations and the initial batch of pigeons. Mike Bos, Jim Lercel, Mark Lercel, Bob Malpass, Les Petersen, Vane Smith, Mike McKenzie and others participated in work bees during the past month.

"The course is set up to be fairly easy," Bos explained. The course builders made the course easy so that new shooters won't be intimidated.

Charlevoix beautiful for the 14th year

Charlevoix Courier Wednesday, May 31, 1995 - PAGE 3

An estimated 1000 plus turned out to plant petunias in sunny weather last Thursday along the city streets of Charlevoix for the fourteenth consecutive year. Although blossoms were nearly nonexistent due to a cool spring, Dale Boss, originator of the annual event, predicted blossoms will begin to appear by next week.

Ex-mayor Hal Hill served as a block captain for Operation Petunia last Thursday even as he and his wife, Wanda, celebrated their 55th wedding anniversary.

City Councilman Don Meggison also served as a block captain. It was a family affair with wife, Helen, and his brothers and sisters, Fran, Don, Beth, and Faye all taking part in planting petunias.

Pat and Bill Keehn and their eight family members were the largest family contingent helping to plant. Traveling the furthest to plant were Dave and Joan Bucklin of New Brunswick, Canada.

William Sick and his guests will ride in style to the Keep Charlevoix Beautiful Petunia Party Aug. 6 courtesy of Quality Limousine. Sick was the winner of the Early Bird drawing for ticket purchasers for the event which also features an auction by Charlevoix Friends of the Pool. More than one-third of the 200 tickets were sold by the time of the drawing.

Patti Sitzema, community picnic chairperson, said 850 hot dogs were cooked by Rotarians to serve workers who also consumed pizzas and specially baked cookies by Cravings.

Left: 21-month-old Amanda Small took her time figuring out just how she wanted to go about planting petunias, but eventually worked herself up to getting in the dirt.

Letters to the editor

Sympathy and appreciation expressed following accident

Editor,

In sorting my thoughts after the car accident on Pineberry Road Saturday night (May 20), there are some feelings I would like to express.

My heart goes out in sympathy and sorrow to the family of Ann Marie Hufford. My thoughts and prayers are with you in this time of grief.

Also I feel appreciation for the rescue personnel that responded to my call for help. The first to arrive was a fireman who lives in the area.

shortly followed by a Sheriff Officer. The Officer's response time from my call to his arrival was 7 to 7 1/2 minutes. Very shortly thereafter, there were fire trucks from the Charlevoix fire departments, ambulances, a number of sheriff officers, firemen, and EMS people performing their tasks.

To all of you I say a big THANK YOU for your quick, willing response, and for what you did at the scene, and also to all others that had a part to fill.

Sincerely,
Jerry Gerber

Dog bites can be prevented

Editor,

This June 12-17, the Charlevoix County Humane Society, in conjunction with the Humane Society of the United States and the United States Postal Service is introducing the first annual National Dog Bite Prevention Week. The goal of the week is to reduce dog bites in this country by promoting responsible pet ownership.

The HSUS estimates that over 2-3 million dog bites are reported annually. Millions more go unreported. Sixty percent of all dog bite victims are children, and the elderly. Delivery persons, and letter carriers are also affected. Last year, over 2,700 letter carriers were bitten while on the job - an average of 10 attacks daily.

Fortunately, dog bites are a problem we can all help solve. Studies have shown that most dog bites are a result of irresponsible dog ownership. Unsterilized dogs are up to three times as likely to bite than dogs who are spayed and neutered. In addition, dogs who lack proper training and socialization, or who spend long hours chained out in the backyard, are much more likely to develop inappropriate behavior problems such as aggression. These factors remain consistent in dogs who bite while other characteristics, such as breed, change from year to year depending on the popularity of a certain type of dog.

As dog owners, we can prevent dog bites by spaying or neutering our pets, prohibiting our dogs from roaming, training and socializing our dogs, and making them true members of our families. As parents, we can teach our children safety around dogs.

Please join us in reducing dog bites in our community.

Sincerely,
Pamela A. Korth, Shelter Manager, Charlevoix County Humane Society

Meetings offer information about school facility plan

Anyone interested in learning more about proposed plans for building new and renovating old Charlevoix school buildings will have an opportunity to do so next Monday, June 5. There will be two meetings, one from 4 to 5 p.m. and another from 6:30 to 7:30 p.m.

A committee of school personnel and community members spent about two years working with engineers and architects to draft a long-range facility plan for the school. The cornerstone of the $17.7 million plan is a new middle school, but the plan also includes major renovations to the elementary and high schools and construction of an auditorium.

The writer of this editorial served on the facility committee and consequently is quite familiar with the deliberations which went into developing the plan.

The plan is based on establishing optimal rather than minimal-yet-tolerable facilities for the Charlevoix school system. In other words, the committee attempted to develop a plan that would put Charlevoix students and staff in an ideal setting for education. There's room between an ideal setting and an acceptable setting. The plan is now before the community and the community will have to decide what level they wish to have school facilities at - ideal, acceptable or somewhere in-between. The June 5 meetings are going to serve as one of the starting points of that decision process.

During the many committee meetings, several questions that are certain to pop up in the community debate were discussed. Among them: 1. Can the old middle school be renovated? 2. If not, what is to become of the building and property? 3. Would it be better to build a new middle school or to build a new high school and have the present high school serve as a middle school? 4. In building a new middle school, should the grade configuration be fifth through eighth grade or sixth through eighth grade? 5. In constructing a new middle school and making renovations to existing buildings, what provisions need to be made for technology, handicap accessibility and countless other things? (One of the things which wasn't determined by the committee was the precise means of funding the plan. It wasn't that the committee wasn't willing to address that question because it was too tough. Instead, the committee felt that's a decision that should be addressed by the school board and voters.)

The questions listed above were the subjects of lengthy discussions. Space doesn't permit those discussions and the resolutions derived from them to be recounted here, but they will be revisited at the June 5 meetings. Both meetings will take place in the high school study hall.

Become informed and vote

Editor,

Here's a brief notice for folks in the Charlevoix School District, where we have a school board election coming up on June 12th.

Your vote is important. Want to know about the candidates views before you vote? Come and share your concerns and your questions with the rest of us.

The Charlevoix Schools Ambassadors and the Charlevoix Education Association are jointly hosting a forum to introduce our community's new candidates for the school board beat being vacated by Ben Cunningham. All community members are invited, and we are expecting a terrific turnout.

This question-and-answer time will begin at 7 p.m. and is guaranteed to end at 9 p.m. That's just two hours, on Thursday, June 1, at the Charlevoix High School Study Hall.

Pool supporters express gratitude for fund-raising run

Editor,

We would like to express our sincere gratitude for a job well done by the Coast Guard crew of the Acacia and Shore Station and Coast Guard Wives Association who organized the First Annual 5/K Walk Run for the benefit of the Charlevoix Friends of the Pool.

The check for $1,125 presented to CFOP by the Coast Guard is gratefully accepted. Without support like yours, our dream of an indoor swimming pool for the community could never be possible.

A special thank you to the USCG Commander Steven Corporon for his cooperation and to Lt. (j.g.) Ed Sheppard for the many hours he spent organizing the event.

We also thank all the participants who ran or walked in the event and those who donated trophies and prizes.

Sincerely,
Laura M. Smith, Secretary
Charlevoix Friends of the Pool

Area EMTs complete defibrillation course

Nine members of the Banks Township Rescue, Charlevoix City Ambulance and East Jordan Ambulance Service recently completed a course in emergency defibrillation through the Charlevoix County Medical Control Authority under the sponsorship of Charlevoix Area Hospital.

Joining other area EMS providers who are trained to provide this care in a cardiac emergency are: Sherry Fiedorek, Mark Vanniman, Shawn Hodges, Phil Hoffman, Mark Kowalske, Rhonda Imeson, John Fiedorek, Brian Carson, and Jeff Piechocki.

"We congratulate these new providers," says Dave Priest, R.N., Charlevoix Area Hospital supervisor and course instructor. "With these additional members trained to provide this care in a cardiac emergency the availability of rapid treatment is further ensured." Sudden changes in the normal heart rhythm, or pulse, remains a leading cause of death in this country, he says. It can be caused by many different factors, such as a heart attack, but will often respond successfully to prompt and rapid treatment, which may include the use of an ECG/Defibrillator, he says.

Priest points out that some of the things individuals can do to assist emergency medical workers include being aware of the symptoms of a heart attack, learning CPR techniques, and having their residence address clearly marked. Time is a significant factor in the success of a defibrillator program.

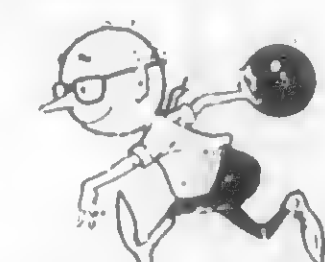

Veterans fired a 21-gun-salute to their fallen comrades during Memorial Day services in East Park Monday morning. Ceremonies took place in East Park this year to avoid the lengthy march from downtown memorial sites to the cemetery. The Odmark Pavilion helped protect speakers from the rain. Speaking at the ceremony were veteran Clem Olach, high school student Debbie Hamilton and U.S. Coast Guard Cutter Acacia Lt. Commander Steve Corporon. More than 200 people braved somewhat dreary weather to witness the parade and ceremony and pay tribute to the men and women who died in battle so that the rest of us might enjoy the many little day-to-day pleasures that are part of life in a free society. Members of the women's auxiliary units of the local veterans' organizations proudly carried our nation's colors during the Memorial Day parade. The local American Legion Post and the Veteran's of Foreign Wars Post are both blessed with active auxiliary units. (Photo by L. Scott Swanson)

Dr. Gilbert Bell Saltonstall

Dr. Gilbert Bell Saltonstall, 87, of Charlevoix, died May 29, 1995, at his home in Charlevoix.

A memorial service will be held at 11:30 a.m. Thursday, June 1, at the First Congregational Church in Charlevoix. The Rev. Philip G. Schairbaum will officiate.

Dr. Saltonstall was born May 7,

1908, in Cheboygan, the son of Brayton and Annie (Bell) Saltonstall. He received a bachelor of science degree in 1931 from the University of Michigan, and graduated from the University of Michigan School of Medicine in 1933.

Dr. Saltonstall completed his internship in 1934 at Grace Hospital in Detroit, and began his medical practice in Charlevoix in August 1934.

On July 2, 1934, he married Charlotte Mathauer in Grosse Pointe, and she survives.

Dr. Saltonstall was president of the Michigan State Medical Society and was a delegate to the American Medical Association. He was one of the founders of Blue Shield and served on the board of Blue Shield of Michigan. He also served on the State Board of Registration. Dr. Saltonstall was president of the Michigan Association of Physicians and a charter member of the Charlevoix Barbershop Singing Quartet. He was manager of the Michigan Marching Band in Ann Arbor and was a member of the Michigan Glee Club. He had been a member of the First Congregational Church of Charlevoix since 1920.

Survivors include his wife, Charlotte Saltonstall; two daughters, Constance A. Harper of San Diego, Calif., and Wendy S. Post of Charlevoix; and by four grandsons. Dr. Saltonstall was preceded in death by his brother, Richard.

The family suggests memorial contributions be made to the Charlevoix Area Hospital, Charlevoix Congregational Church, or to the charity of choice. Envelopes for memorial contributions are available at the Winchester Funeral Home in Charlevoix, where visitation will be 7-9 p.m. Wednesday, May 31.

Food to be distributed June 2

The Commodity Supplemental Food Program will be distributing food for the MIC (Mother's, Infants and Children) program and the Senior Food Program for Antrim, Charlevoix and Emmet counties. The food is available in Charlevoix County June 2 from 10 a.m. - noon at the Boyne City Senior Center, N. Lake St.

Your heart should be stirred when the National Anthem is played. But can your spirit remain totally unmoved when you share, "Our Father, who art in heaven, hallowed be thy name?" You should salute every man and every woman who has donned the uniform of one of our nation's armed services. They have earned your respect. But should there not also be some awe and wonder when you "survey the wondrous cross on which the Prince of glory died?"

Little ones ask why the tears in our eyes? Why the flags? Why the flowers? We should have more than a few reasons to share with them about our nation being so blessed, about people feeling strong enough about the freedoms we enjoy to put their very all on the line. Little ones ask what about our faith? Why is there a struggle over something that seems so important as prayer? We should have more than a few reasons to share with them about why we personally stand up for what we believe. Can we think about "for God so loved the world that He gave His only begotten Son" and realize that there is a sacrifice that everyone of us can look to and find real hope and peace?

It would be very easy to let the cold, chilly damp Memorial Day holiday we had slip quickly into our memories. But if we are to forget anything, let it be the weather and not the spirit of the day. Thank God for all those who sacrificed to make our freedom possible. Thank God for the sacrifice of His Son. That sacrifice assures us that the freedoms we enjoy can only get sweeter and stronger when we remember where they come from.

Road Commission manager resigns

By Laurie Lounsbury

The white flag that Larry Hamlin waved last week was his resignation letter. At the request of county road commissioners, Hamlin resigned from his job as Charlevoix County road manager. "It was handled very unprofessionally. I don't think it was fair," said county commissioner Jim Behling. Behling is the county commissioner liaison to the road commission and one of the only county commissioners who supported Hamlin's efforts. "I think they set the road commission back five years. The road commission was running on a good professional level other than communication problems," Behling said of Hamlin's work.

A battle had been brewing between Hamlin, road employees, and some county commissioners for the last six months.

Hamlin's ally on the road commission board, Bob Herrmann, was ousted by the county commissioners in March. He was replaced by Bill Korthase, a candidate who knew there were communication problems between Hamlin and his employees. Korthase was picked by commission chairman Don Smith for the appointment.

Hamlin left his job with a $30,682 severance package, including five months salary and benefits.

The decision to ask Hamlin to resign was made by the road commissioners behind closed doors. "It was all about personal problems, not his job," Behling said, adding that his resignation will make a couple of county commissioners happy.

Sheriff needs to know who needs help in emergency

Citizens in Charlevoix County, who reside within a 10 mile radius of the Big Rock Point nuclear power plant, and who are of an "invalid status or who would be unable to evacuate in the event of a general emergency because of physical disabilities" are requested to contact the sheriff's department within the next 10 days.

The sheriff's department would like the name, telephone number, location of residence and type of disability of all area residents who would need assistance during an evacuation.

When the information has been compiled, the citizens will be "keyed" on the evacuation plan and arrangements will be made to see that transportation is available to remove invalids from their residence to a proper shelter if necessary.

New beauty shop opens on Lincoln Street

By Laurie Lounsbury
Karla Pease and Susan Left decided it was time to make waves. So Pease left her job at the Head Shop as a hair stylist and started her own business, Pine Lake Waves. Susan Left decided to leave her job of eight years at the Waterfront Salon to join Pease. The two of them will be styling hair and giving manicures at the new location at 106 East Lincoln St.

Pease got the idea of starting her own business when her husband Jerry closed his business, Jerry's Meats, to work for Charlevoix Manufacturing. The couple owned the building on Lincoln Street, so with some help from husband Pease turned the building into a hair salon. White Victorian wicker chairs, styling stations, and new carpeting have erased all traces of the former meat retail business.

Pease and Left each have 14 years of hair styling experience. Coming from different salons in town, they each brought their own fresh ideas to the business. "We're learning from each other, all the little tricks each of us did," Pease said.

Left brought to the business the concept of offering evening appointments to accommodate working people. The shop will be open Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday evenings until eight o'clock. Left will work Tuesdays and Thursdays, and Pease will work Wednesdays and Thursdays. They will also be open all day Saturday. The shop carries Nexus and Matrix hair products.

Meeting to explain school building plans

After a two-year engineering, architectural, and educational study, the Charlevoix Schools Facilities Action Team has made a recommendation to the Charlevoix Board of Education to: 1. Replace the current middle school with a new building. 2. Renovate the present high school. 3. Renovate the present K-5. 4. Construct an auditorium.

Informational meetings are being held on June 5 so that community members and staff can learn more about these proposed projects and voice their opinion. The meetings will be Monday, June 5 from 4 p.m. to 5 p.m. and from 6:30 p.m. to 7:30 p.m.

Both sessions will be in the high school Study Hall. Dwayne Leppke of Kingscott and Associates and Facility Action Team members will be available to answer questions.

The Board of Education and Superintendent are seeking input in order to determine whether to move forward with these projects.

Anyone with questions should contact the central office at 547-3200. Baseball team wins two at Central Lake

Leitner hits two home runs

Charlevoix's varsity baseball team traveled to Central Lake last Thursday and swept two games. The Rayders thumped Central Lake 18-0 in the opener, but had to rally for five runs in the last inning to take a 5-4 win in game two.

Bryan Jarema pitched a complete game in the opener, which was called after five innings due to the 18-run disparity. Gary Leitner singled and homered in the game while Chris Mikulski, Jarema and Mark Boss each had three hits. Boss was only a home run away from hitting for the cycle. Justin Gengle also had two hits.

Brad Williams threw a complete game in picking up the win in game two. Leitner had a two-run homer in that game.

The wins raised the Rayders' season record to 6-15-1. Charlevoix will host Ellsworth Thursday.

British soccer coaches coming to Charlevoix

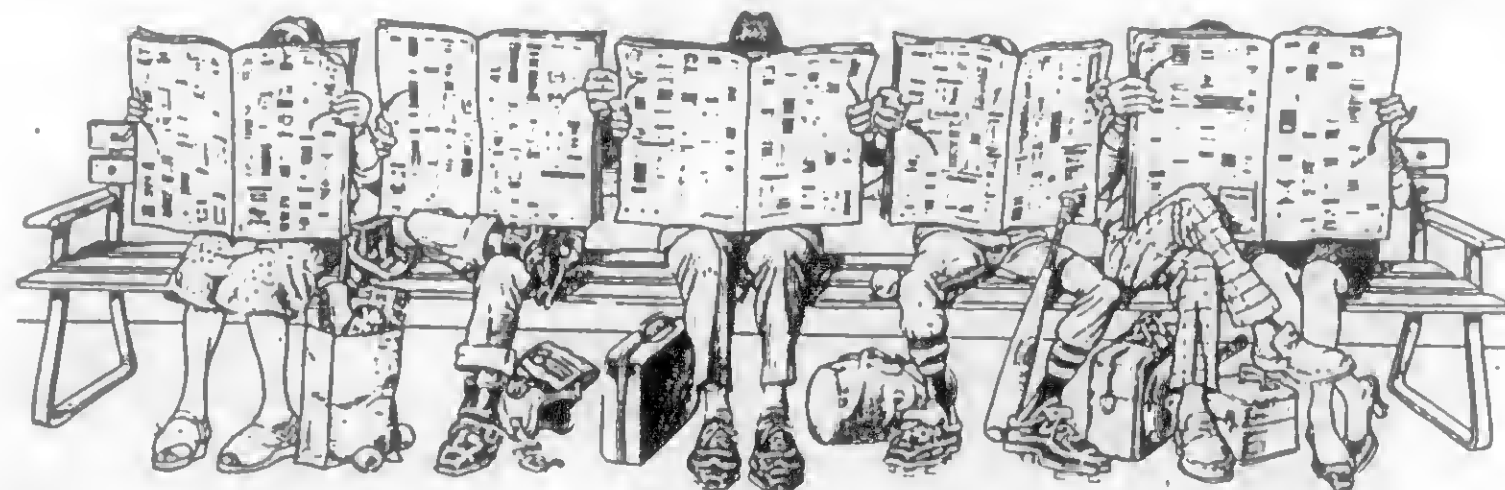

Charlevoix 4-H Soccer Club has invited the British coaches of North American Soccer Camps, Inc. (NASC) to town for a week of soccer camps, June 26 - 30.

Charlevoix chose to sponsor the NASC camp because of the company's commitment to developmental soccer. NASC spends $50,000 annually on the recruitment and training of the top player/coaches the United Kingdom has to offer. The result is a comprehensive curriculum designed to bring out the best in the individual player, from the beginner to the advanced.

Held at the Shanahan Field, the camps are open to boys and girls, ages 5 to 18. Cost is $90 and covers tuition for one week of three hour sessions (morning or afternoon), a camp jersey and a soccer ball. As in past years, scholarships are available to players in need and there are discounts for families with more than one child attending.

For more information or to register for camp, call 547-5507.

Volunteers sought for Paint Blitz

Working with pen and pencil, local artist Jodie Adams is well-known nationally for her black and white drawings of wildlife. What is not so well-known is her fondness for cartoon drawings featuring horses in human activity. "Volunteers to the 1995 Charlevoix-Emmet Housing Coalition Paint Blitz will soon be wearing an original Jodie Adams T-shirt," says Vicki Morgan, Executive Director for the Coalition.

All volunteers to the Paint Blitz will receive one of the T-shirts featuring the Adams cartoon drawing. Adams, better known for her drawings of birds, zebras, cattle and other wildlife, has had several national exhibits including some in Washington, D.C., Texas, Wisconsin, and a solo exhibit at the Dow Chemical headquarters in Midland. Her art work has also won awards throughout the country and her original wildlife art work commands prices from $500 to $5,000.

"When Kathy asked me about designing a shirt for the Paint Blitz, I was happy to agree. I haven't done too many of my horses lately and it was kind of fun to do them again. The Paint Blitz is a good project and I'm happy to be a part of it," says Adams.

Kathy Johnson, Co-Chair for the Paint Blitz says "We are really excited to offer this T-Shirt to our volunteers. Everyone works so hard on this event... but it is a fun event too... and this year's T-Shirt reflects that spirit of fun. This is a great opportunity for a 'limited edition' T-Shirt." Kathy and her husband and Co-Chair, Hal Johnson, are still looking for volunteers to assist with this year's event.

"We have applications from 19 home-owners and there are currently two additional applications pending. If we have paint and volunteers to do all them, we would nearly double the number of houses we did during the first two years," says Mr. Johnson.

Eleven homes were painted during the first Paint Blitz in 1993 and an additional 13 homes were painted in 1994. "While our requests from families has continued to grow, the response from the communities is also growing," says Mr. Johnson. "We've gotten more calls this year from individuals and groups wanting to help."

Mrs. Johnson agrees and adds, "Everyone is beginning to understand that this project doesn't just benefit the low-income elderly or disabled who own the homes we paint, it benefits their neighbors and the entire community. Last year we painted two homes side by side and the difference in the neighborhood was tremendous. This year we are going back to some of those neighborhoods."

"We can still use help from anyone interested in painting... we need to hear from area restaurants who are willing to donate lunches for our volunteers... and we still need donations for paint and sponsorships of the houses," says Mr. Johnson.

Sponsorships to cover the cost of purchasing paint and supplies, doing power washers are needed, and providing the T-shirts for volunteers are still needed. Sponsors are listed in the annual report, follow-up publicity and on a sign in front of the homes. All donations for the Paint Blitz are tax deductible and anyone who would like to have a T-shirt but is unable to paint, will receive one for a donation of $15 or more.

Anyone interested in assisting with the Paint Blitz, either as a donor, volunteer or sponsor, can contact either Kathy or Hal Johnson at 582-2715. Donations to the Paint Blitz should be made out to the Charlevoix-Emmet Housing Coalition and may be mailed to them at 202 South Lake, Suite A, in Boyne City.

Citizens requesting this service should be able to supply the Sheriff's office with the following required information: specific roadway requested for concentrated patrol; nearest cross road; types of violations the citizen has observed; suspects if any (type of cars, etc.); time of day and day of week violations take place.

Requests for this service may be made to Sheriff George Thomas Lasater at 547-4461.

Lake levels remain a bit higher than average

During the month of April precipitation was below average on the Lake Superior and Ontario basins, while it was above average on the Lake Michigan-Huron and Erie basins. For the year to date, precipitation is about 1 percent above average for the entire Great Lakes basin. The net supply of water to each of the Great Lakes in April was below average, except for Lake Erie which was above average.

In comparison to their long-term (1918-1994) averages, the April monthly mean water level of Lakes Superior and Ontario was 3 and 7 inches below average respectively, while Lakes Michigan-Huron, St. Clair and Erie were 2, 6 and 6 inches above average respectively. Shoreline residents are cautioned to be alert whenever adverse weather conditions exist, as these could cause rapid short-term rises in water levels. Should the lakes approach critically high levels, further information and advice will be provided by the Corps of Engineers.

A more detailed summary of Lakes Michigan-Huron water levels follows. All elevations are referenced to International Great Lakes Datum 1985.

Lakes Michigan-Huron at the end of April were at elevation 579.20 feet (179.54 meters) above the mean water level at Rimouski, Quebec, or about 20 inches (54 cm.) above Chart Datum. The April monthly mean level of 579.04 feet (176.49 meters) was about 21 inches (6 cm.) above the long-term average for April. The lakes were about 29 inches (74 cm.) below the all-time high April monthly mean level, which was recorded in 1986. The forecast shows that the May monthly mean level of Lakes Michigan-Huron will be about 4 inches (9 cm.) above what it was at Mid-April. The lakes are expected to complete their seasonal rise in July. The water level in Mid-October 1995 is expected to be about 2 inches (5 cm.) above the long-term average for that month, or about 7 inches (17 cm.) below what it was at the same time in 1994.

"We want the sport to grow. We want to encourage new shooters to come out," Bos said.

Nationwide and worldwide, the growth of sporting clays exceeds that of all other shooting sports. "The reason is the variety," Bos says. "Every course is different. Every station is different." He also noted that in sporting clays nobody needs to feel bad about missing a shot, because nobody goes without missing. "Everybody misses and everybody misses frequently," Bos said.

A round of sporting clay shooting includes either 50 or 100 shots. A dozen different stations, four different types of releases and four different types of clay pigeons combine to present a variety of shots that challenge any shooter. Traps can throw birds straight up, flying toward a shooter or flying straight away or angling away from a shooter or even send a clay disc shooting across the ground like a rabbit. Hunters can shoot singles (one clay bird at a time), following doubles (one bird followed by another released at the trap operator's discretion), report doubles (the second bird released in conjunction with the first shot), and doubles (both birds released at once). Clay pigeons come in a variety of different sizes and weights. Consequently they fly in different manners and at different speeds. Bos says the Charlevoix Rod and Gun Club is starting out with the larger, slower targets to make things easier for beginning shooters.

Most advanced shooters use double-barrel (over and under) or semi-automatic shotguns. However, Bos says people with other types of shotguns, such as slide actions, are also welcome. The Charlevoix Rod and Gun Club strongly emphasizes safety at all times. People using the sporting clays course must have proper hearing and eye protection, must carry their guns with the action open between stations, and must keep guns unloaded unless they are in a station with the weapon pointed down range.

Organizers hope to have about 100 shooters at the Becky Bos Memorial Shoot. The shoot begins at 10 a.m. and will last until about 1 p.m., perhaps slightly longer if there are more shooters. Proceeds from the $20 per person entry fee go into the Becky Bos Scholarship Fund which is administered by the Charlevoix County Community Foundation and provides scholarships to area students. Shooters may preregister by calling 536-2429.

With the course in place, organizers plan to offer league shooting in the spring and fall on Monday or Wednesday nights. In sporting clays, people shoot in four-person teams. Bos emphasizes the word "person" because women are welcome to shoot.

Charlevoix High School
Commencement 2 p.m., Sunday, June 4

Supplement to Charlevoix Courier Wednesday, May 31, 1995

MAY

Nationally known speaker to address 1995 graduates

Joe Clark, principal known for carrying a bullhorn

Nationally known speaker Joe Clark will deliver the commencement address to the Charlevoix High School graduating class of 1995. Commencement exercises will begin at 2 p.m., Sunday, June 4 in the high school gym.

Clark became nationally known when he took over as principal of Eastside High School in New Jersey and showing little patience for excuses, utilized such nontraditional educational tools as a bullhorn and a baseball bat to transform a drug-ridden school from a place where the main emphasis was survival into an institution where people could learn. Among other things, Clark has been the subject of a Time magazine cover story, 60 Minutes segment and a movie titled "Lean On Me." He has also written a book entitled, "Laying Down the Law."

The valedictory address will be delivered by Chris LeButt and the salutatory address will be delivered by Kaylee Manker.

The 1995 graduating class is Charlevoix High School's one hundred and sixth.

Christian LeButt will deliver the valedictory address for the Charlevoix High School Class of 1995. LeButt, the son of Susan LeButt, completed his high school academic career with a grade point average of 3.978. This fall he will be entering the University of Michigan's pre-medicine program.

In addition to his studies, LeButt participated in a wide variety of extra curricular activities during the past four years. He served as National Honor Society secretary, sophomore class secretary and junior class president. LeButt also is an exceptional middle distance and long distance runner. He has been all-state in track and been one of the top runners on Charlevoix's state finals cross country teams. He is an academic letter winner and qualified for the Junior Nationals in cross country skiing.

Kaylee Manker is the salutatorian for the Charlevoix High School Class of 1995. Manker, the daughter of Dave and Chris Manker, completed her high school academic career with a grade point average of 3.958. She will be entering Western Michigan University this fall and intends to study paper engineering.

Manker is a National Honor Society member and won an academic letter as well as athletic letters in cross country and track. In addition to cross country and track, she has been active in performing arts and debate.

The remaining 1995 honor students are as follows:

According to the Charlevoix City Council, Park Avenue resident Dick Georgi can drive over a corner of a city park, he just can't pave it.

At Monday evening's council meeting, council members continued discussion of Georgi's driveway at Park Avenue, near the end of Lake Street. The end of the driveway encroaches more than 30 feet onto city property. According to research done by city police chief Dennis Halverson, the end of the driveway may have been on city property for four decades.

The latest debate over the driveway arose when Georgi tore up the existing pavement and prepared a gravel base to replace the driveway in essentially the same place.

Council member Gabe Campbell

raised the issue at a May council meeting, saying that while the driveway is torn up, it should be moved off city property. The council took no action at the May meeting, choosing to wait while city police chief Dennis Halverson investigated the history of the driveway. There remains a dispute over the length of time the encroachment has existed.

At Monday evening's meeting, Campbell said if the encroachment was a matter of one, two or even 10

Nationally known speaker addresses graduates

Charlevoix's 1995 commencement speaker Joe Clark mentioned that he had a baptist preacher for a grandfather. Judging from his style of delivery at Sunday's commencement, the apple didn't fall too far from the tree.

Clark is the former school principal known for using a bullhorn, ball bat and a lack of patience for excuses to convert a rundown inner city high school into a place of pride and learning. He didn't bring his bullhorn to Charlevoix, but fortunately the microphone had a fair amount of cord. Clark promptly yanked the microphone from the stand and marched back and forth across the stage admonishing the Charlevoix High School Class of '95 to catapult "from the depths of despair to the perfect cadence of success."

School board candidates respond to questions

By L. Scott Swanson
Three candidates for the one open Charlevoix school board seat fielded questions during a June 1 candidate forum sponsored by the Charlevoix School Ambassadors.

School district voters will choose between Paul Richards, Allen Telgenhof and Don Collier at the June 12 school election. The three candidates are competing to fill a seat currently held by Ben Cunningham who is not seeking re-election. Voting will take place from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m. at the Charlevoix Elementary School.

Telgenhof is a local attorney. He has two small children who will soon be entering the Charlevoix school system. Prior to moving to Charlevoix, Telgenhof served on the Clio school board for three years. He also initiated the formation of and served as president of the Clio Area Educational Foundation. School law is one area of law he practices and he is a member of the Michigan Council of School Attorneys.

"I like to think of myself as a person who doesn't sit around and say what I'll do or what needs to be done, but gets in and does," Telgenhof said.

Collier is a social worker with the Department of Social Services. He has two sons in the Charlevoix school system.

"I think that I have a steady nature and will be able to contribute," Collier said.

Richards is a retired teacher, counselor and principal from the Detroit area. He spent parts of 28 years in Harbor Springs and for the past two years has lived in the Charlevoix area. In the past, he has served as treasurer of the Detroit Federation of Teachers and mayor of Harbor Springs as well as working with the Red Cross and a golf course.

"I think school boards have had a very difficult time in the past 20 years...I think school boards try to get into micromanaging - rather than policy making," Richards said.

The three candidates each responded to a list of prepared questions and later responded to written questions submitted by the audience.

Some of those questions and a synopsis of the candidates' answers follow:

1. What is the role of the school board?

Richards: Setting policy and establishing an educational system. The board has to demand accountability from the superintendent and principal and maintain a budget that will work.

Telgenhof: Agreed with Richards that where boards run into most of their problems is when they attempt to go beyond policy. He said boards also need to stress planning and be proactive, rather than reactive. Board members must also serve as a link between the school and the community and be ready to answer questions and correct misinformation.

Collier: Agreed that a board should set policies and goals and be a link to the community. He said he is also interested in having programs that encompass all kids who come to school.

2. What is the importance of community participation in schools?

Telgenhof: He said the first place to develop participation is at the building level to allow and encourage parents to help and be involved in their children's education. He said he also favors the formation of citizen advisory groups so that people see things first hand rather than being told about them.

Collier: Said he favors the establishment of a volunteer program to encourage people to come into the school and help out.

Richards: Said that when some issue flares up, there are always feet it would be one thing, but the encroachment is nearly 40 feet which Campbell said he feels is outrageous.

City attorney James Young said that if the matter were to go to court, one of the critical factors in the judge's decision would be the length of time the encroachment has been allowed to exist. He said one of the critical documents would likely be a 1955 topographical survey which shows some type of driveway in place.

After discussing the matter for approximately half an hour, the council concluded that as a compromise they would continue an existing fence to the edge of the driveway and allow Georgi to continue to drive over the city property at the end of the driveway as long as that property is not repaved.

Georgi is out of town and attorney Dan Barron spoke at the meeting on his behalf. Barron made no public comment on the proposed compromise.

people there. It's the day-to-day involvement that is difficult to get. He said school systems have to go out and meet people, not just invite them to come into the school system.

3. How can we improve the way our schools are run?

Collier: While not pretending to be an expert, one improvement would be to make sure school works for kids who don't really fit in with the rest of the kids.

Richards: Probably the most important thing is accountability. Somebody needs to check to make sure that things are carried through.

A school needs to have a good staff and get rid of bad teachers. In any given school district, three to five percent of teachers are unsatisfactory. In the last school district he was in, Richards marked five teachers unsatisfactory. "And it shook 'em up." In addition to getting rid of bad teachers, schools must hire good people.

Telgenhof: The most important thing is planning and looking to the future. Along with that, we need to inspire and support creativity in schools.

4. What are your thoughts on why Charlevoix enhancement millage proposals have failed?

Richards: When Proposal A passed, everybody felt millage proposals were a thing of the past. Most schools don't do a very good job of selling millage proposals. Parents and teachers have got to push and let people know exactly what enhancement millage is for.

Telgenhof: The problem of failing enhancement millages is something that is occurring statewide, not just in Charlevoix. In Charlevoix, the school told people what the millage was for. The term "enhancement" is part of the problem. People view that as adding to the school system. In Charlevoix, enhancement millage hasn't been a matter of adding to the system, but "Those who are happiest are those who have sought and found ways to serve others," Clark said. He asked the students, "What have you done to make this world just a smidgeon better?"

Clark told the students not to quit and never to give in to the difficulties of life. He advised them that life takes effort. "Don't be an oversensitive crybaby...do for yourself."

"You can't go to a stove and say, 'Stove, give me some heat and I'll give you some wood tomorrow,'" Clark said. You have to put something in before you get something out.

"Don't be afraid of life. Take it on...fear is an illusion," Clark said.

While noting that "some of you are going to miss success, because it comes dressed in overalls and looks like work," Clark also told the students, "You are a child of the universe. That's some inheritance you've got there."

come based education?

Richards: It's like any new system. You have to sell the whole staff by making it attractive rather than forcing it down teachers' throats. It has to be tailored to the community and school.

Telgenhof: It's part of a trend toward looking for something people can get their hands on and measure. However some things can't be measured and are difficult to quantify.

Collier: I'm fairly skeptical about trends and fads in education, although test scores and measurement are important.

8. How do you feel about hiring teachers with less experience who are lower on the pay scale as opposed to hiring more experienced teachers who are higher on the pay scale?

Collier: I like experienced teachers better, but I realize there are realities with the budget.

Richards: You've got to renew yourself and hire young people. Young teachers bring vitality and new ideas.

Telgenhof: I question that as a generality. It depends on the individual. You have to look at the individual and see what that person has to bring to this district.

How do you feel about charter schools?

Collier: I think that private schools have their place. I just don't think their place involves public money.

Richards: There should be no public money spent on private schools.

Telgenhof: The underlying idea of innovation is wonderful, but there are certain economies of scale and that's what lost in the equation. I'm all for innovation, but do it within existing schools, not by going out and creating a competing school.

9. In order to balance the budget, would you consider combining the business manager and superintendent positions?

Telgenhof: I don't have the facts to make that type of decision right now. The underlying question is, is the business manager important to the school district? If you took that position away, you're shifting duties to other people. Let's not be penny-wise and pound-foolish. You'd have to look at the big picture.

Collier: You'd need to look at resources and what proposals come by.

Richards: I probably wouldn't have hired a business manager in the first place. This district just is not that big to pay the money out for a business manager. So many things within the budget are locked in and don't change that much from year to year.

OPINIONS

Editor's notes

Although commencement exercises always have the potential to be one of the most painful local ceremonies to sit through, this year's version was quite tolerable. The speakers were all interesting and kept their speeches fairly short. This year's guest speaker, nationally known former school principal Joc Clark was arguably the most captivating speaker Charlevoix has seen in recent years.

Beyond the speakers, the graduates had fun while still maintaining a sense of dignity, the band played well and the gym, at least at the lower levels, didn't get brutally warm.

All in all, it was a nice ceremony.

L. Scott Swanson

It was a big weekend for Charlevoix High School sports. The boys' track team placed third in Class C at the state finals. The girls' softball team rallied from a five-run deficit to win the district title. The boys' baseball team was the surprise team of the district, upsetting Mancelona to make it to the finals and then staying with East Jordan until the final inning before losing 7-5.

This coming weekend, Charlevoix shifts to a different type of sport. Hundreds of fishermen will be out on Charlevoix area lakes later this week and this weekend competing in the annual Lake Charlevoix Area Trout Tournament. One of the more amusing aspects of the trout tournament is the kids' fish pond. Trout tournament organizers stock the East Park pond with small trout. For a small fee, kids can catch the trout. Poles, bait and hooks are available at the pond. If you enjoy watching little kids get a bit frantic, then you're sure to enjoy the kids' fish pond. On the other hand, if you like watching adults get frantic, then you should probably take a trip down to the boat launching ramp and watch that for a while.

Now here's something interesting. According to the old knee injuries of two local men we may be in for some bad weather. This past Thursday, I was up at the high school taking pictures and ran into Mike Pearsall. We were discussing the aforementioned commencement ceremony and the prospect of rain cooling down the world before it occurred. Pearsall said something is definitely in the works weatherwise because his knee has been paining him something terrible.

But if you want an accurate weather forecast, you can't trust the knee of just one person. It's like a medical diagnosis. If you want to be sure, you've got to get a second opinion.

So Monday afternoon Dave Novotny comes walking into the Courier office. And what does he say? He says something must be going on with the weather because the knee he injured playing football in high school has just been feeling terrible the last few days.

Oddly enough, the weather in Charlevoix has been beautiful in recent days. However there are big storms to the south and west of Michigan. That's probably causing barometric pressure changes which are paining the joints of who knows how many local people. So even though we're not getting rained on, we're aching in the sunshine. It's a strange deal.

Right: Tonia Mathers departs from the stage and from high school with her diploma safely in hand at Sunday's high school graduation.

Letters to the editor

Memorial Day service should have been at cemetery

Editor,

To the citizens of Charlevoix: Memorial Day services in Charlevoix were planned and executed with precision and finesse as usual. The band played well, the flag was lowered and raised, and taps were solemn and sad. Very commendable.

But it was in the wrong place.

Memorial Day is a United States holiday set aside for honoring the dead of the armed forces. The cemetery was beautiful. The city men who care for it worked diligently for days beforehand, trimming, mowing, and placing flags at each hero's stone. I know this, because I saw them. I don't need an invitation to visit the cemetery; I drive through nearly every day. My brother, a bombardier pilot in the U.S. Air Force, killed in the second World War, lies buried there. My father, a physician in Charlevoix for forty years, lies buried beside him; and my mother, a great lady, is with them.

I know that it is difficult, even impossible, for "old-timers" (I am one of them) to walk from town to the cemetery, but I don't know why they should need to walk. Surely transportation could easily be provided. Even golf carts, of which I see a great number up on the golf greens near where I live, could be secured for the short occasion of the parade.

I didn't research this question, but I happened to catch a TV news report of Memorial Day observances in our nation's capital Monday night. They weren't held on the White House lawn, nor at the capital building, nor even by poolside between the Lincoln and Washington Memorials. They were held at Arlington Cemetery, which is some distance from the city. Here the President spoke, the band played, the guns boomed, and taps sounded for the war heroes buried there.

Our war heroes were alone, abandoned. The flowers were beautiful, but the cemetery was dead in more ways than one. Perhaps we should re-think our Memorial Day services for another year.

Charlevoix Christians join in worldwide March for Jesus

Eighty-three Christians representing several local churches and surrounding areas participated in a world-wide demonstration of Christian Oneness. Area pastors preceded by worship dancers lead the May 29 March for Jesus from Captain's Corner Shopping Center to East Park where a Celebration of Praise and a Concert of Prayer was held. The U.S. Flag and the Christian Flag along with many banners and streamers expressed the participants' allegiance to Jesus Christ and Freedom of Religious expression.

Prayer was offered for Spiritual Leaders, leaders of our National, State, and Local governments. Also covered in prayer were school officials and the children and young people of our community.

This year's March was again a manifested expression of the Body of Christ coming together in the common purpose of the Gospel of Jesus Christ and the proclamation of His Lordship. The March was sponsored by Intercessors for Charlevoix, a group of Christians from several area churches, that meets every Wednesday at 7 a.m. at City Hall in Charlevoix.

First Congregational Church recognized as historic site

The First Congregational Church of Charlevoix, has been listed in the State Register of Historic Sites.

The Michigan Historical Commission recently added the church to the state register, which includes more than 2,500 sites worthy of preservation.

"The State Register of Historic Sites calls public attention to the diversity of Michigan's historic resources and the importance of preserving them for future generations," Secretary of State Candice Miller noted. "As Michigan's official historian, I consider it a privilege to be involved in history-related events throughout the state."

The First Congregational Church of Charlevoix was organized by the Reverend N.L. Otis; A.J. Hadley, a summer visitor; and seven others, who adopted a constitution during their first meeting on September 19, 1882, in the Methodist church parlor. A Sunday School, Ladies Aid and Missionary Society were begun almost immediately.

The decision to build a church was made and a lot purchased in 1883 for $800. Members raised funds and provided the labor, stones and gravel to build the church. Store owners donated tools and hardware. Sawmill owners cut and delivered lumber and painters gave their labor and much of the paint.

According to the Charlevoix Courier, the women held "necktie parties, box socials, and religious sings where (they) passed a collection box." The result was a debt of only $800 on the church's 1885 dedication day, which was paid in full with collections taken that day.

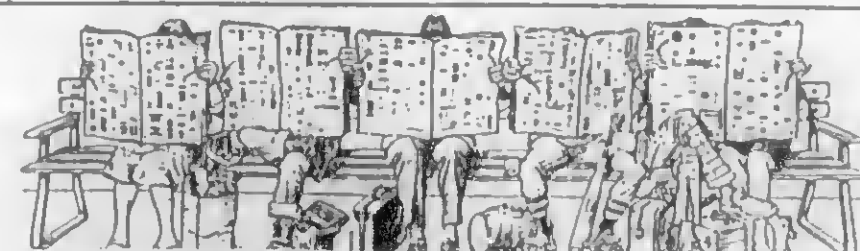

The Michigan Legislature established the State Register of Historic Sites in 1955 to provide official recognition by the Michigan Historical Commission for historic resources in Michigan. Today the program is administered by the State Historic Preservation Office, Michigan Historical Center, Michigan Department of State.

The Department of State is the official state agency responsible for preserving, protecting and interpreting Michigan history. The department's Michigan Historical Center consists of the Michigan Historical Museum and its nine field museums; the State Archives of Michigan; the Office of the State Archaeologist; the State Historic Preservation Office and Michigan History Magazine.

BUSINESS

Somebody has to take care of all these boats

This time of the year is a busy time for local people in the boat storage business. Everybody wants their boat in the water and they want it yesterday.

One of the larger boat storage and repair businesses in Charlevoix is Bergmann Marine. The business has two locations, one on the north side and one on the south side, with combined indoor storage and work space of approximately 40,000 square feet. The northside location is on Raspberry Lane, just off of Boyne City Road. The southside location is the former Charlevoix Boat Shop on Loeb Road.

Bergmann Marine formed last May when Bellinger Marine Service on Round Lake was sold. The three partners in Bergmann Marine are Doug Bergmann, Douglas Bergmann and Charles Bergmann. Doug and Douglas are father and son. Doug and Charles are brothers.

In addition to boat storage, Bergmann Marine is a full-service mechanical, electrical, fiber glass and woodworking operation. The business can do haul-out and storage of power and sailboats up to 46 feet in length. At the Loeb Road location off of Loeb Road.

cation, which the Bergmann's purchased last fall and incorporated into their operation this winter and spring, there is a 20-ton travel lift to unload boats.

The combined boating experience of the staff of Bergmann Marine adds up to several decades. Doug Bergmann has worked on boats for 40 years. Douglas Bergmann has been around them since before he could walk and in the business for 10 years. Charles Bergmann has also been working on boats part-time for years and years. Other staff members at the business are also lifelong boating industry people.

In addition to doing work at the shop, Bergmann Marine also provides on-site service. They work on pretty much any size boat.

Along with working on boats, the Bergmanns have also been involved in a variety of civic organizations over the years. Recently, Douglas has been working with the distance runners on the high school track team and accompanied the team to the state finals.

After 30 years of county employment, Joan Blanchard (left) is retiring as Equalization Director. Taking over on an interim basis is Carla Spencer (right), who has been Blanchard's assistant. Spencer has worked in the equalization department for 29 years.

Blanchard said she would consider running for county commissioner in the future. "They need a woman on the board," Blanchard said. For now, Blanchard will be happy traveling and spending the summer with her children and grandchildren.

Trout tournament creates many a tale and memory

By Laurie Lounsbury

Fishermen will be leaving their warm beds early this weekend to start their ritual preparations for the trout tournament. They will don their lucky hats, choose their favorite lures, and eat a traditional breakfast. In the pre-dawn darkness, they will launch their fishing boats into the flat, calm water of Lake Charlevoix. Fishing lines will be chosen, hooks double checked, and down riggers adjusted one more time. Then, like the lights coming up on a Broadway play, the sun will streak along the horizon, signaling the start of the annual event that hundreds of fishermen dream about all winter long.

"The hunt at sunrise is the experience that can't be duplicated," said Paul Belding, a long time trout tournament fisherman. "It's very invigorating, a very intense experience that satisfies a deep need."

Fishermen agree that the rituals of the trout tournament are what make it so enjoyable. Picking the right fishing spot, choosing the right boat speed, buying special fishing gizmos, is all part of the sport. And when the hunt is over, the fish tales are what remain. It is the stories that keep fishermen on the hook during the long winter months. For every fisherman in the tournament, there is a favorite story. Here are a few of those stories, shared by local fishermen.

Dean Mikulski and his sons go after the wily trout loaded with every contraption known to fishermen. They have fish finders, depth sounders, and a slew of other fishing gadgets. But Dean knows better than most that fishing is also being in the right place at the right time. A few years back Dean's cousin Brian Mikulski and his two young sons Tom and Kirt, were eager to join in on the trout tournament, but had no boat or equipment. Dean loaned him a little 14 foot boat and wished him luck. The group of novices launched the boat at Ferry Beach and stuck close to the launch ramp area, not wanting to get lost on Lake Charlevoix. In fact, they

Hundreds of fishermen will be in town June 9, 10 and 11 to participate in the 11th Annual Lake Charlevoix Area Trout Tournament. The registration deadline is 8 p.m. June 8. Fishermen may register at the Odmark Pavilion in East Park.

...a couple samples of Charlevoix fishing stories

stayed so close to the launch ramp that other boaters had to wait to launch their boats until the trio finished landing their fish. And boy, did they land fish. The cousins managed to catch the prize winning brown trout and a third place winning steelhead. "The only thing close to electronics they had on that boat was a Timex watch," Dean said, chuckling at the memory.

Mikulski's son demonstrated good sportsmanship last year when he gave some friendly advice to a boatload of Canadians last year. The Canadians were new to the trout tournament and had no idea where Lake Michigan was, much less where the fish were biting. Mikulski gave them directions to Big Rock and told them to fish in about 20 feet of water. Of course Mikulski had already been fishing the area and had discovered that nothing of interest was biting.

The Canadians got the last laugh when they came back in two hours with a third place trout. "Just 'cause you know how to fish and you know where to fish doesn't mean you'll come up with a winner. A lot of it is luck," Mikulski said.

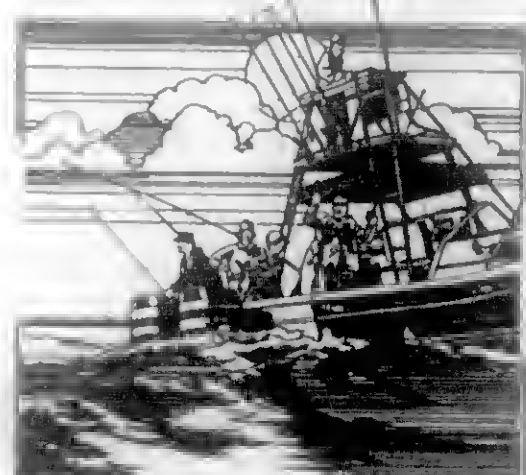

Bud Heise has been fishing Lake Charlevoix with his pals for as long as he can remember. He was fishing in the trout tournament one particularly cold June with a good friend. They were fishing in a typical fishing boat, which is not equipped with indoor plumbing. After a few hours of inaction, Heise's friend leaned over the side of the boat to take care of his call to nature. When Heise looked back, his friend was gone. Heise spotted a pair of sneakers floating in the lake near the boat. Heise circled back and found his friend attached to the floating sneakers, shivering with cold from the icy water. Then, like Venus rising from the sea, the two men spotted a couple of lovely young women paddling out from shore on a raft. The women had seen Heise's friend go overboard, and were terribly concerned about him. He was still in the water, chattering with cold. Heise urged him to get back in the boat, but his friend nonchalantly said he was rather enjoying his swim and would stay in a little longer. He paddled around the boat for a while until the young women left. Then he wasted no time getting back in the boat. On his trip overboard, the man had lost his pants somewhere down around his ankles and refused to reveal his sorry state of affairs to the women.

Heise particularly enjoys some good natured pranks that go along with fishing. A few years back Heise was fishing off the railroad tracks where the old swing bridge used to be. A fancy new fishing boat, heavily laden with all sorts of sonar and fish finding equipment, motored slowly toward him. The men in the boat were downstaters, fishing Lake Charlevoix for the first time. "Where's Lake Michigan?" they asked Heise. He told them they had to follow the lakeshore, go around a point, go under a bridge and along a narrow river to get to Lake Michigan. "Yeah, yeah, we heard about the bridge and the Pine River," the men nodded excitedly. Heise pointed a finger in the direction for them to proceed, and off they went. Heise happened to be pointing towards the south arm instead of Round Lake. Heise never saw the downstaters again.

SPORTS

Softball team claims district title

Rayders rally from five run deficit

After hammering Boyne City in the opening game, Charlevoix struggled a bit in the district softball finals before beating East Jordan 10-6.

The Rayders opened district play with a 14-1 win over Boyne City. Charlevoix's Liz Grunch threw a no-hitter, striking out six and walking one. Jenny Eveleigh drilled two home runs between the outfielders and also had a single. Grunch had two hits.

East Jordan beat Elk Rapids 9-8 to set up the district final showdown. Earlier in the season Charlevoix beat East Jordan handily, but East Jordan has improved dramatically in recent weeks.

The opening inning did not pan out for the Rayders. Angela Buday led off with a bunt single on the first pitch. She then stole second and advanced to third on a sacrifice bunt by Jill Dreyer. Grunch then sent a rocket whistling toward third, but the East Jordan third baseman stabbed it. Christie Kaczynski then fled to left and Buday was left stranded at third.

In the bottom half of the first East Jordan turned one solid hit, a couple of soft hits, aggressive baserunning and some lax Rayder fielding into five runs. The solid hit was a bases loaded triple over the left fielder's head. That was followed by an infield hit and a two-run single. Mixed in among the hits and errors, Grunch struck out the side.

Eveleigh led off the second with a single and stole second, but was left there courtesy of a pop fly to the pitcher and a fly to left. East Jordan went down in order in the second.

Charlevoix got on the board in the third inning when Buday walked and the East Jordan left fielder butchered a Grunch line drive to left field.

East Jordan got that run back in the bottom of the third without getting a hit. Amelia Fleming worked Grunch for a walk after a lengthy at bat to lead off the inning. She took second on a wild pitch. Then, in an odd play, Fleming took third on a foul pop to the catcher. Nobody covered third after the catcher caught the ball so Fleming alertly tagged up and took the base. She later scored on a passed ball.

Charlevoix scored three runs in the top of the fourth with help from some errant East Jordan throws. Eveleigh led off the inning with a bloop single. Freshman Amanda Eaton followed with a single up the middle putting runners on first and second. Jenny Swenor grounded to short, forcing Eveleigh out at third. Eaton came home on a Waja Wujcik single. Wujcik and Swenor took second and third on a fielding error. Kris Blanchard then grounded to second. East Jordan got Blanchard, but then mishandled the ball and allowed both Wujcik and Swenor to score.

East Jordan got their leadoff hitter on due to an error in the bottom of the fourth, but the next hitter lined to Blanchard at second. Blanchard quickly tossed to Kaczynski at first to double the runner who had strayed off the bag.

In the top of the fifth Charlevoix scored five times. It wasn't pretty, but it was enough to win. Freshman Lyndsay Blechel led off with a bloop single to left. Following a Grunch fly ball to left, Kaczynski walked to put runners at first and second. Eveleigh grounded to the pitcher. The pitcher fielded the ball, looked to first, heard someone in the crowd yell "Third base," took a look there and by the time she decided just exactly where to go everybody was safe. The next two hitters, Eaton and Swenor, each grounded to short. Both times the shortstop threw to the plate, but the ball was dropped and the runners were safe. The next hitter, Wujcik, saved the East Jordan shortstop from having to contemplate whether the third time might be a charm. Wujcik hit a fly ball to center which got by the center fielder and cleared the bases. Wujcik later scored on an error.

The two district wins raised Charlevoix's season record to 22-11. The Rayders will play in the regional Saturday at Mesick against the winner of the Lincoln-Alcona district. Wednesday, June 7 the Rayders will play a make-up league double header against Elk Rapids. If the Rayders sweep both games they will share the conference title with Traverse City St. Francis.

Jenny Eveleigh prepares to unleash a pitch last Thursday during a scrimmage between Charlevoix and Petoskey. Both teams were tuning up for district play Saturday. Eveleigh and her Rayder teammates claimed the Class C District title, beating East Jordan 10-6 in the finals. (Photo by L. Scott Swanson)

Tennis team concludes season at state finals

Although the Charlevoix tennis team failed to win a match at the state finals in Battle Creek Saturday, Rayder coach Eric Lundteigen was still quite proud of his team.

"I'm proud of the kids that they made it that far. At the start of the year, I don't think anybody gave us much of a chance to make it," Lundteigen said the team began the year with a lot of work ahead of them, but did the work and improved consistently. He said assistant coach Janet Freidinger helped out a lot with the team.

Despite the losses at state finals, Lundteigen felt it was good for the players, especially the underclassmen, to go to the state finals to get a firsthand look at the caliber of play.

"It was a good experience for them to go down and take part in that," Lundteigen said.

Charlevoix's team was weighted heavily toward underclassmen this year. Six of the top ten players on this year's team will be returning next season.

School foundation to host golf tournament

The Charlevoix Schools Enrichment Foundation will host the Second Annual Alyce L. Lesser Memorial Golf Tournament Friday, June 16 at the Charlevoix Country Club. Tee off time is 2 p.m. The entry fee of $75 for non Country Club members or $45 for members includes 18 holes of golf and dinner. The cost is $20 for those who wish to skip the golf and go straight to the dinner.

The Charlevoix Schools Enrichment Foundation uses revenue derived from invested contributions to fund educational initiatives and activities that enhance the educational foundation provided to Charlevoix Public Schools students. Boys track team takes third at Class C State Finals meet

At the Class C State Finals track meet, do you think they deserve a spot at the top of the award platform for Charlevoix's 3200 meter relay team? Mike Bush, Matt Dickinson, Brian Martinus and Chris LeButt won Charlevoix's fourth straight Class C 3200 meter relay title at Saturday's 1995 track state finals in Bay City. They ran the race in 8:14.99.

As a team, the Rayders finished third in Class C with 37 points.

New Haven won the state title with 70 points while Newago finished second with 52.

In addition to running a leg of the winning 3200 relay, Dickinson placed second in the 1600 meter run and Bush placed second in the 3200 meter run. The top three runners in each race earn all-state honors. The state finals track meet was the finale of exceptional high school distance running careers for both Bush and Dickinson.

Travis Wood placed fifth in the pole vault, clearing 13 feet, seven inches. The winning vaulter went 14-11. Charlevoix's 800 relay team of Dave Manker, Seth Kilander, Jerry Duhart and Wood placed seventh.

In the girls' state finals, Charlevoix's 3200 relay team of Becca Chamberlain, Chelsea Gorkiewicz, Candice Vandergriff and Liz Kelly placed eighth with a time of 10:09.12.

Local golf courses join forces to establish youth golf program

Area golf professionals to teach in program

Golf is the fastest growing sport in America and the Charlevoix area is no exception as to the popularity and growth of the game. As a result, several local enthusiasts have formed a committee to develop a Junior Golf Program (JGP) under the auspices of the Professional Golfers' Association of America and the Ladies Professional Golf Association. The committee has announced plans for the initial year in what will be a full-scope JGP. The intent is to have the program in place this summer for all aspiring Charlevoix county junior golfers between the ages of 7 and 17.

The program will be conducted at three Charlevoix area courses; the Charlevoix Country Club, the Belvedere Golf Course, and the Charlevoix Municipal Course. The resident professional (and assistants at each of these courses: Bruce Schepeler, David Poquette, and Joan Waha will constitute the teaching staff. There will be a weekly participation fee of $5. Scholarships will be available for youngsters from families where the fee may present a hardship.

Registration applications are available at the courses and at the Charlevoix Recreation Department Office, or youngsters may sign up at the first meeting scheduled for June 19 at the Charlevoix Country Club. All seven to eleven-year-olds will meet at 11 a.m. with twelve to 17 year olds meeting at 4 p.m. If possible, please sign up before June 14 as it will aid the committee in program planning.

Plans are for youngsters from East Jordan, Boyne City, Ellsworth, Boyne Falls, and Charlevoix to comprise the first year class of golfers. The committee is finalizing plans to appoint a Golf Administrator to over-see the program. They are also recruiting local volunteers to assist in the program. Additional information may be acquired from the local courses and the Charlevoix Recreation Department who are aiding in the early stages of the organization development.

Rayder baseball team surprises district tournament competition

Lose in final inning on home run

OK sure, when you enter the district baseball tournament with a record of 7-17, chances are you're not going to be considered the tournament favorite. But that doesn't mean you go in, lay down and get stomped on like a door mat. You've got your pride to consider.

Charlevoix's varsity baseball team surprised Mancelona in the opening game of Saturday's district tournament to take a 7-6 win and rallied to tie East Jordan 5-5 going into the last inning of the finals before losing 7-5 on a home run.

Rayder bats which had been essentially decorative far too often for much of the season suddenly found a purpose.

In the opening game against Mancelona, a team which beat Boyne City in a predistrict qualifier, the Rayders trailed 6-4 in the sixth inning when Brad Williams jerked out a two-run homer to tie things up. Jason Terryberry sealed the deal in the seventh inning with the game-winning home run. Mark Boss got the pitching win, throwing a complete game and striking out five, walking two and allowing five hits.

Having so much enjoyed the excitement of a come-from-behind win in the first game, Charlevoix spent the first five innings of the finals building themselves a 5-0 deficit. After giving the Red Devils enough of a lead to make things interesting the Rayders scored five times in the fifth to tie the game. The big hits were a two-run home run by Gary Leitner and a solo shot from Chris Mikulski. Terryberry and Justin Gengle also contributed, each with two hits in the game.

In the top of the sixth, Gengle, a first baseman, made two shining defensive plays to keep the game tied. He leapt to pick a foul pop up off the top of the fence for the first out. Later in the inning with a runner on an East Jordan hitter lined a ball sharply down the right field line. The hit looked like a potential double, but rightfielder Rory McKown got to line quickly and fielded the ball on one hop. McKown got the ball quickly into Gengle who turned and shot a beebee to homeplate. Catcher Joe Grundman took the throw and applied the tag to the runner who was out at the plate.

The Rayders' joy was shortlived. In the top of the seventh East Jordan's Ken Teeple made sure nobody was going to be thrown out at the plate off his hit. He launched a two-run home run to center field.

Williams took the pitching loss. East Jordan will advance to regional play this Saturday at Mesick.

School discusses facility plan

By Laurie Lounsbury

It's going to be a tough sell for the Charlevoix school board to get voters to buy a $17 million school improvement plan. But, like any good sales team, the board wants to have all the answers in hand before they take their plans to the public.

The school facility committee hosted two open meetings before the regular school board meeting Monday. The feedback they're getting from the community is that people want to know exactly how much the total cost of a new school and improvements to the old schools will be, and how much it will add to their annual taxes. The public also wants to know about possible scaled down options.

At this point, options to pare down the original improvement plan haven't been discussed. The facility committee came up with a plan that didn't take budget into consideration. "We came up with what's best for the kids, not what's most likely to pass a millage request. Those are two different things," said middle school principal Dennis VanGuilder.

Rich Kelly, school business manager, was able to show what the $17 million project would cost voters each year, depending on how long the project is financed. With the help of a financial consultant, Kelly offered four different financing plans. For a home worth $100,000, the annual increase in property taxes would range between $183 to $207 a year for the duration of the financing. The length of financing ranged between 29 years and 15 years. The 15-year plan would mean tax payers would pay more each year, but for a fewer number of years.

The school board wants to compile a list of questions and answers that the community would most likely want to know before voting on the school improvement. One recurring question from both community and board members is why the facility committee recommended a new middle school for grades six through eight instead of five through eight or seven through nine. Another question was raised about the possibility of moving middle schoolers to the existing high school and building a new high school.

The board is looking for community input and staff input on the subject. The tentative plan is to resolve the issues in question next fall, then to take the proposal to a vote in the spring of 1996.

Plans made for local charter school

Organizers hope to open in September

by L. Scott Swanson

Plans for a charter school in Charlevoix have quietly, but quickly moved forward. Organizers have received first phase approval for sponsorship from Central Michigan University and are expecting to have second and third phase approval by July. If things fall into place as planned, the school for sixth through twelfth grade students will open in September.

"A lot of key tasks that need to be done are on their way to being accomplished," Sandy Malewitz, one of the school's organizers, says. "What we want to do right now is let everybody know how far along we are."

Currently there are about eight families involved in organizing the school. Malewitz said the school's goal is to have between 50 and 70 students from Charlevoix and the surrounding area. An information meeting for interested parents will be announced in the near future.

The school will be called the Northwest Public Academy of Science and Technology. As the name implies, the school will stress science and technology in education. Organizers are in the process of working out an agreement to have the school located in a vacant building on Mercer Avenue. Malewitz said that in addition to the building, the school would probably also have to use some portable classrooms on a temporary basis.

Retired high school math and computer teacher Ken Bartley is working with the school as director of curriculum. Organizers want to have a teacher to student ratio of somewhere between 1 to 12 and 1 to 15.

As for staffing the school, Malewitz said, "If we can generate some interest in the community, there's a lot of talent we can tap into."

Malewitz said educationally one of the school's primary goals will be allowing each individual student to learn at his or her own pace. School organizers want to utilize computers to make that possible. They are also enthusiastic about students working together on learning assignments in small teams.

Organizers of the Northwest Public Academy of Science and Technology hope that the school can work in harmony with Charlevoix Public Schools.

There will be no tuition fee for the school. As a charter school the academy will receive state funding on a per pupil basis.

"Pretty much everything is in place," Malewitz said. "Now we just need to get the public."

People who would like more information about the school may contact Malewitz at 547-9175.

DDA purchases Park Avenue property

Having agreed to pay nearly $200,000 to purchase property for a parking lot, the Charlevoix Downtown Development Authority (DDA) now must decide exactly what kind of parking lot to create.

At a special meeting May 31, the DDA agreed to purchase a house and lot at 108 Park Avenue for $198,500. The purpose of the purchase is to create a parking lot near the north end of the downtown area. The DDA is scheduled to meet at 5:30 p.m., Wednesday, June 14 to discuss a design for the parking lot. At the June 5 city council meeting city manager Mike Wiesner indicated that approximately 35 to 40 parking spaces can be created in the lot.

At the May 31 meeting DDA members discussed both the need for the lot and the cost.

City police chief Dennis Halverson reported that city police surveys of existing city parking lots indicate that the lots appear to be adequate for the city's parking needs. DDA members questioned the police parking analysis and argued that parking in the area is currently cluttered and that the demand for parking in the Park Avenue area is increasing.

In agreeing to a purchase price of $198,500, the DDA agreed to a price which is approximately three times the market value according to tax assessments. According to Charlevoix County Equalization Department records, the 1995 assessed value of the property is $32,400. For tax purposes a property's assessed value is considered to be fifty percent of theoretical market value. In other words, according to the tax assessor the market value of the property is $64,800.

DDA board members felt the assessed value was too low. Mayor Josh Barnes noted that property in Dixon, Tennessee is going for $7.50 per square foot and he feels Charlevoix has much more to offer in its downtown than Dixon does. The property at 108 Park Avenue has 99 feet on Park Avenue and is 156 feet deep. The $198,500 paid by the city for the property equates to a price of $12.85 per square foot.

A motion by Barnes supported by DDA member Dan Barron received unanimous support from DDA members attending the May 31 meeting.

Wiesner, reporting on the purchase at the June 5 city council meeting, said, "This is the last block (where) we don't have parking behind the businesses."

Council acts to bring policies and contract in line with charter

by L. Scott Swanson

Charlevoix mayor Josh Barnes introduced three correcting resolutions at the June 5 city council meeting to bring council policies in harmony with the city charter. The three policies addressed involved: the election of the city clerk and mayor; the city manager's contract; and the timetable for adopting a city budget.

Council members set a public hearing on the first resolution and passed the other two.

The resolution regarding the city manager's contract makes the contract run for an indefinite period of time, as opposed to the five-year period specified in the charter. The city council in 1991 approved a five-year contract with city manager Mike Wiesner. Barnes says that according to his understanding of the city charter and the advice of two attorneys, that was illegal because according to the charter the city manager's service must be indefinite, i.e. at the will of the city council.

Last September Wiesner sought a revision of the contract with his five primary requests being: a new five-year contract effective April 1, 1994; assurances that the city charter in all cases governs the dismissal of the city manager; an increase in severance pay from the equivalent of four months' wages to the equivalent of six months' wages; a provision that severance pay for the city manager increase from six months' by half a month for each additional year the city manager is employed; severance pay to be granted not just if the city manager is terminated in the middle of the contract, but also if the contract is allowed to expire without being renewed.

At a Sept. 6, 1994 council meeting a motion to grant that request failed by a 3-3 vote. Council members Cheri Hoffman, Bruce Reid and Ted Felter voted in favor of granting the request. Council members Butch Russell, Don Meggison and Jackie Cross voted opposed.

Following the June 5 meeting, the Courier asked Barnes if the correcting resolution in effect grants the first, second and fifth requests on the list above.

Barnes said the resolution does not grant a new five year contract, it just eliminates all reference to a specific term of service. He said he talked to three attorneys who were all in agreement that the city manager's employment does not and cannot automatically terminate. He said there was some disagreement among the attorneys on the issue of severance pay. Wiesner's base salary is more than $60,000, consequently severance pay for four months would exceed $20,000.

Cross and Meggison, who voted in favor of the resolution, were asked by the Courier if they felt that constituted any change in their position since September. They said they didn't feel that was the case. Both said the resolution simply brings the city manager's term of service in line with the city charter.

Barnes said that in regard to the council's ability to dismiss the city manager's employment, the correcting resolution doesn't change the number of council votes it would take. He said that prior to the resolution dismissal would have required a majority vote of four of six council members. That is still the case.

In the past, three council members Russell, Meggison and second ward council member Gabe Campbell have at one time or another expressed interest in dismissing the city manager. Asked if his position on that issue has changed, Meggison said that for the time being it has. "As far as I'm concerned, he's (Wiesner) taken care of a lot of the stuff that I was concerned about," Meggison said. He later added, "In other words, I think Wiesner's straightened himself up to where I can tolerate him."

In regard to the timing of the resolution, Barnes said he introduced it now to avoid a big hassle in April of 1996.

The budgetary resolution sets a time table for adopting a city budget to avoid repeating a problem which arose this past spring. The city's fiscal year runs from April 1 to March 31. This past spring Wiesner and city treasurer Rick

Chews retire from teaching staff

by Laurie Lounsbury

Vince and Mary Ann Chew taught their first classes in Charlevoix in the fellowship hall of the Community Reformed Church. They also taught in the basement of the public library. It was a time when the town had only two school buildings, and classes were farmed out all over the community. Two years after the Chews arrived, the Charlevoix Elementary School was built. Now, 29 years later, the Chews are retiring from the Charlevoix School District.

In the years the Chews have been teaching in Charlevoix, they've seen a lot of changes in schools. Mary Ann remembers a time when the high school library had only 500 books. The elementary school had no library at all. Today the elementary school boasts 15,000 book titles, along with CD laser technology. "Today there are so many nice things to enhance kids' learning," Mary Ann said.

Vince became a school principal at a time when spanking kids was not only allowed, it was expected. "I think school was more violent then. Now, there's a calmer atmosphere. There are more safety valves, with school counselors and teacher's aides. I'm glad it's (spanking) gone," Vince said.

The Chews have been a significant part of Charlevoix education for many years. Mary Ann relentlessly maintained a high standard of expectations for her students. She was instrumental in guiding curriculum changes at the elementary school. "I like every child to be able to do the best they can do, to reach their potential," Mary Ann said. Chew's efforts were recognized when she won the State Educator of the Year Award from the society of women educators.

Vince worked as a teacher and as a principal before ending up in the middle school computer lab. Vince helped guide the schools through the unfamiliar terrain of computer technology.

The Chews will spend their retirement traveling to England, Greece, and to the west coast. Vince wants to do some carpentry and sail on his 25 foot sloop. Mary Ann will continue with her daily running and hiking.

DDA land moves bear watching

The Downtown Development Authority (DDA) is back into the land business again. Given that organization's track record on real estate transactions, this is something that bears watching.

The DDA's most recent land move was agreeing to pay $198,500 for a house and lot at 108 Park Avenue to create a parking lot for about 40 cars. There are two immediate issues here: 1. Is the new parking lot needed? 2. Was the price paid by the DDA too high?

As to the issue of need, there are two arguments. City police chief Dennis Halverson informed the DDA that surveys of other downtown parking lots indicate those lots are adequate to meet downtown needs. On the other hand, DDA board members argue that the other lots may meet the needs in other parts of the downtown area, but that the area near Park Avenue is short of parking. Another facet in the issue of need is that the city just tore down the old water tower and in the past there has been discussion of putting some additional parking at the base of the tower. That land was certainly cheaper than what the DDA just purchased.

The issue of the price paid by the city also raises questions. The assessed value of the property is only $32,400. Assessed value being half of theoretical market value, that means tax assessors figured the property should have sold for about $64,800. The city has agreed to pay approximately three times that amount - nearly $200,000. Now granted, the assessment may well have been somewhat low, but could it have been off by that much? Somewhere there's a problem - either in the assessing process or the purchase price. Another question this raises, since assessments are based on sales of comparable property, how is this purchase going to affect the assessments of other property in that area?

The DDA is also getting into another one of these deals where they've bought property with a building on it and now are trying to decide whether to tear down the building and use the whole lot for parking or keep all or part of the building and either rent or sell it. If this sounds like a familiar scenario, it is. A few years ago, the city purchased a grey house and accompanying property on Clinton Street for parking. After months of arguing and taking and subsequently rejecting bids, they ultimately tore the building down. Then of course there was the Kusina property debacle. The DDA decided to leave that building up and take bids on it. Then when they took bids, they sold the property not to the highest, but to the low bidder, costing city coffers $32,500.

For all but about six weeks out of the year, you can park within spitting distance of the front or back door of any business you care to access. Even during the other six weeks, rarely do you have to park more than a block away. Despite this, the cry has gone up for more parking and the DDA is leading that charge. That being the case, hopefully the park avenue parking lot will be the DDA's last parking venture. And hopefully, they'll just tear the house down and avoid the real estate gymnastics of the Clinton and Antrim Street lots.

Smoking can be done without

Editor,

I am writing to you in regard to smoking in our neighborhood. It's getting worse and worse. People get other people to try. As a non-smoker, I feel that our community should try to do something. People are killing themselves slowly and painfully. I know someone who has been smoking from the age of fourteen, but he stopped when he started getting sick. This man is my grandpa. From smoking, he has had to go in and out of the hospital every two months or so. He is doing OK now, but if he would've stopped sooner, he would not have this problem. He keeps on feeling pain and agony all the time. This past weekend, he came from Central Lake to Ellsworth to watch my dance recital. He didn't feel good, so he had to leave before I could see him. Also, he is on oxygen for life. Are you people getting the message? This is serious! Think before you proceed! Act now! Quit smoking (For you own good!)

Fathers and grandfathers need to realize their importance

Editor,

With Father's Day approaching, I was reminded of the tribute that my daughter, Kirsten, wrote last Fall for her Language Arts class about my Dad. It was very touching to me, but also it was interesting to see how a teenager viewed her relationship with her grandfather. I feel that many dads and grand-dads do not realize how significant their relationship is to young people today. They need to be fully aware, and reminded, that they really are an important part of a teenager's life.

Kirsten, 15, is just completing her sophomore year at Issaquah High School, is a member of the National Honor Society, plays the violin in orchestra, and enjoys playing volleyball, basketball, and softball for Issaquah High School.

I don't know if you can use this in any way to honor Father's Day, but I just felt I had to share it.

Sincerely yours,

Carla L. Trulson-Essenberg

The Orchard

by KIRSTEN ALYSSA ESSENBERG TRULSON

I still remember when I was little, spending the summers at my Grandpa Essenberg's farm in Michigan. The farm's location seems to be among miles and miles of pure country. The small, sleepy town of Atwood is about a fourth of a mile north of Grandpa's farm, and every once and a while you can see a tractor chugging along the main road.

My Grandpa, in some ways, resembled a lumberjack. John L. Essenberg was tall and strong, a hard worker, and he was known for always eating mashed potatoes with gravy, green peas, and roast. In other ways, Grandpa just looked like the stereotype of a farmer. He would wear cherry juice stained old sweatshirts with equally stained pants, and his head was adorned with an old truck driving cap. Grandpa might have come across as being "not all there," but that was certainly not the case. Grandpa Essenberg was a reading machine. Books were his passion, and because of this, he was one of the wisest persons I have ever known.

My Grandpa grew various kinds of cherries, apples, and peaches on that old farmland. When my family would visit in the summer, it was cherry-picking time. Pickers from as far away as Canada and Illinois would drive up the dirt driveway and methodically pick ripe cherries off the trees.

Early every morning, Grandpa would get up and get ready for the eager customers. When they would arrive at dawn, they would always stay about twice as long as they originally planned. This was because my Grandpa would visit with them all. He was very good friends with the people who stopped by to pick his delicious cherries.

"Hey, Johnny! How has this year been for cherries? Down south a ways the weather wasn't too good for them," a few of Grandpa's customers would ask.

"Well, hello! It's good to see you folks again. This year's been pretty good. Why don't you go ahead and take this ladder. There's some nice black cherries at the tops of the trees. Good to see ya."

My Grandpa loved to talk to different kinds of people. If my Grandpa wasn't outside greeting his customers (which was very rare), the pickers would ask inquisitively, "Hey, where's Johnny? I wanted to talk to him for a while." Then my family and I would explain that he was spraying the trees or shaking cherries. And so they would wait until he was free so they could visit.

I remember one time, about two years ago, Grandpa took my brother, Eric, and me on a tractor ride through the orchard. That was a very special time for us because we were spending time together catching each other up on events that happened. Grandpa would ask Eric and me how our sports and school were going. Grandpa was also interested in what was happening in our young lives.

The summers whirled by, and as I grew older, so did he. My Grandpa had always been an energetic, fun-loving guy. That is why one spring morning as I got up to get ready for school, I was shocked to find my parents crying and comforting one another. And that is when I learned of my Grandpa's unexpected heart attack that turned fatal. He had one before, but recovered. Why couldn't he recover now, too? We flew to Michigan that night to be with relatives. The trip was silent. We were in a state of shock and denial.

It was hard to accept what happened, why it happened, but when the plane touched down in Michigan, reality began to sink in. My loving, caring Grandpa was gone in body, but not in spirit. Every summer now, I walk through the orchards, and if you really concentrate hard, you can almost hear Grandpa Essenberg's laughter echoing through the trees, and through the hearts of those touched by his kindness and love.

Not many people voted in Monday's Charlevoix School Board election. But of those who did, most voted for candidate Allen Telgenhof.

Of 5,981 registered voters in the Charlevoix school district, only 456 cast votes Monday. Telgenhof received 288 votes for the one open seat on the school board. Paul Richards finished second with 84 votes and Don Collier placed third with 77 votes.

Telgenhof will fill a seat being vacated by Ben Cunningham who did not seek re-election.

Contacted by the Courier Monday morning, Telgenhof said of his election, "It's a big responsibility. The vote makes it a bigger responsibility. Obviously there are people supporting me and I don't want to disappoint those people."

Prior to moving to Charlevoix last year Telgenhof served on the Clio school board.

Monday, he was out campaigning and talking to people on their way to and from voting.

He said he was out talking to people to let them know who he is, because one of the bigger issues in the campaign was voters not being familiar with the candidates.

Telgenhof said getting out and talking to people on election day was important to him not just from the standpoint of encouraging people to vote for him, but also to introduce himself so that school constituents will be comfortable with him.

Local artist to teach at workshop

Noted artist Janis Glass of Charlevoix will offer a workshop in Drawing at the Community Reformed Church of Charlevoix June 21-23. This workshop is part of a series of summer workshops organized by the Crooked Tree Arts Council of Charlevoix and Emmet Counties.

Emphasizing the pleasure of drawing, each student will learn to go from "looking" to "seeing" and eventually to "draw what is seen." The student's eye and hand will work in concert to create a personal interpretation of form texture and spatial relationship. A variety of drawing tools and types of paper will be introduced.

Glass is very well known locally as a watercolorist, having won several competitions sponsored by the Crooked Tree Arts Council, the Detroit Institute of Arts, and the Botanical Images statewide competition sponsored by the Lansing Art Gallery. Her work is represented in galleries throughout Michigan, New York, and North Carolina.

Cost of the workshop is $60 per person for three days. Please call Glass at 547-2256 to register. Or, students may contact the Crooked Tree Arts Council at 347-4337.

Stone Circle begins summer program

Around a flickering campfire and under a canopy of stars, the Stone Circle will begin its twelfth season June 16 and continue every Friday and Saturday evening through Labor Day weekend. Beginning at about 9 p.m. listeners will hear an ever-changing variety of poetry, storytelling and music woven throughout the evening at this unique outdoor amphitheater.

The Stone Circle, a triple ring of 88 large boulders is reminiscent of a time before radio and television, when hard spun their tales to an enchanted audience. On any night you may hear the poetry of Burns, Chaucer, Service, Whitman or the original work of a visiting poet. Hosting the gatherings will be poet-bard Terry Wooten and folk-performer Louan Leclier. The Stone Circle also features an open forum where anyone may have a chance to participate as long as their material is memorized and recited by heart. Listeners and families are also welcome. You need not perform to attend.

The Stone Circle is located five miles south of Eastport off US 31. Turn left on Stone Circle Dr. and follow to the end. There is a $3 donation for adults. Kids 12 and under are free. Call 264-9467 for further information.

BEACONS

OF BLESSINGS

Pen meets paper while watching the Friday night play off game between the Orlando Magic and the Houston Rockets. It's not that I am a basketball fan. I'm not really. But Orlando is my hometown. I was raised there. I was living there before anybody ever dreamed of a Magic Kingdom just down the road. It is rather amazing to contemplate a world championship of any sport being held in my childhood home.

That's why I'm drawn to the game. I no more understand what a pick and roll is than I do a screen. I know the long distance shots are harder to make. That's why they're worth three points. But it's not the mechanics of the game that make it worth watching. It's Orlando. It's at an arena just down the road from my high school. In a vicarious way, I feel involved.

Shaquille O'Neal, Penny Hardaway, that's my team. They are "my" guys. My heart rises and falls with each play. At this particular moment, we're behind by four points and that's not good.

Have you ever thought about the things that attract our loyalty, the things that we really feel a part of or get excited about? You may not be drawn to sports at all. Did you see the Cruise Night at Burger King? Those folks are devoted to their classic cars. How about square dancing? People travel a longways in order to sashay their partners.

I wish you would give more thought to all the things the Lord has done to merit the same spirit or devotion that you give to some other things in your life. What a time of year it is to take in the signs of God's love for you! Ask the trout fishermen about the thrill of that big one hitting their fly. The silvery beauty of your catch glistening in your net has to touch your heart. Who of us hasn't taken advantage of a lakeshore to walk, think, and drink in the loveliness of a quiet sunset?

The Lord is anything but silent. He reaches out through so many things to stir up your emotions and to remind you whose you are. For you are His child. He has gone to great lengths to show how much faith He has in you and how much He believes in what you can do. He stands by your side ready to work with you in whatever challenge you may face. You need never feel alone even for a moment. He is as close as a prayer away ready to share, laugh, learn, and comfort you through all adventures of our lives.

(Rev. Bruce Hamilton is pastor of the Charlevoix Community Church of God. Beacons of Blessings is provided to the Courier by Hamilton and other members of the Charlevoix Ministerial Association.)

As weather warms, new businesses bloom

by Laurie Lounsbury

New stores have blossomed along Bridge Street like petunias on the roadside. Owners of the new businesses obviously hope they'll take root and become perennial favorites.

Starting on the south side of town, Sweet Sam's Java Joint is in a great new location, next to Bridge Street Book Shop. Owners Denise and Greg White offer fresh coffee from beans they roast themselves. Patrons can pick up the newspaper next door at the book shop and enjoy a variety of coffees and desserts with outdoor seating. During the summer, they'll be open at 7:30 in the morning every day of the week. Browsing for gourmet gifts is also a pleasure at Sweet Sam's.

Across the street, the Parkside underwent a slight name change and a big renovation change. Now called the Parkside Cafe, owners Steve Ager and Terry Left are serving up ice cream, milkshakes, coffee, desserts, and continental breakfasts. The interior is fresh and new, with booths offering ringside seats to watch the action on Round Lake.

The Parkside Cafe has a new ice cream counter and a new look inside. Mike Tilley considers his ice cream options in the store.

More than 800 fishermen participated in the 11th Annual Lake Charlevoix Area Trout Tournament this past weekend. A cool rain messed up the event Saturday afternoon, but Saturday morning, as well as Sunday morning and all of Friday fair weather prevailed.

Lyndsay Blechel nearly loses her hat reaching out to hit this pitch. Blechel and her teammates lost a 10-7 game to Rogers City in the regional semifinals Saturday.

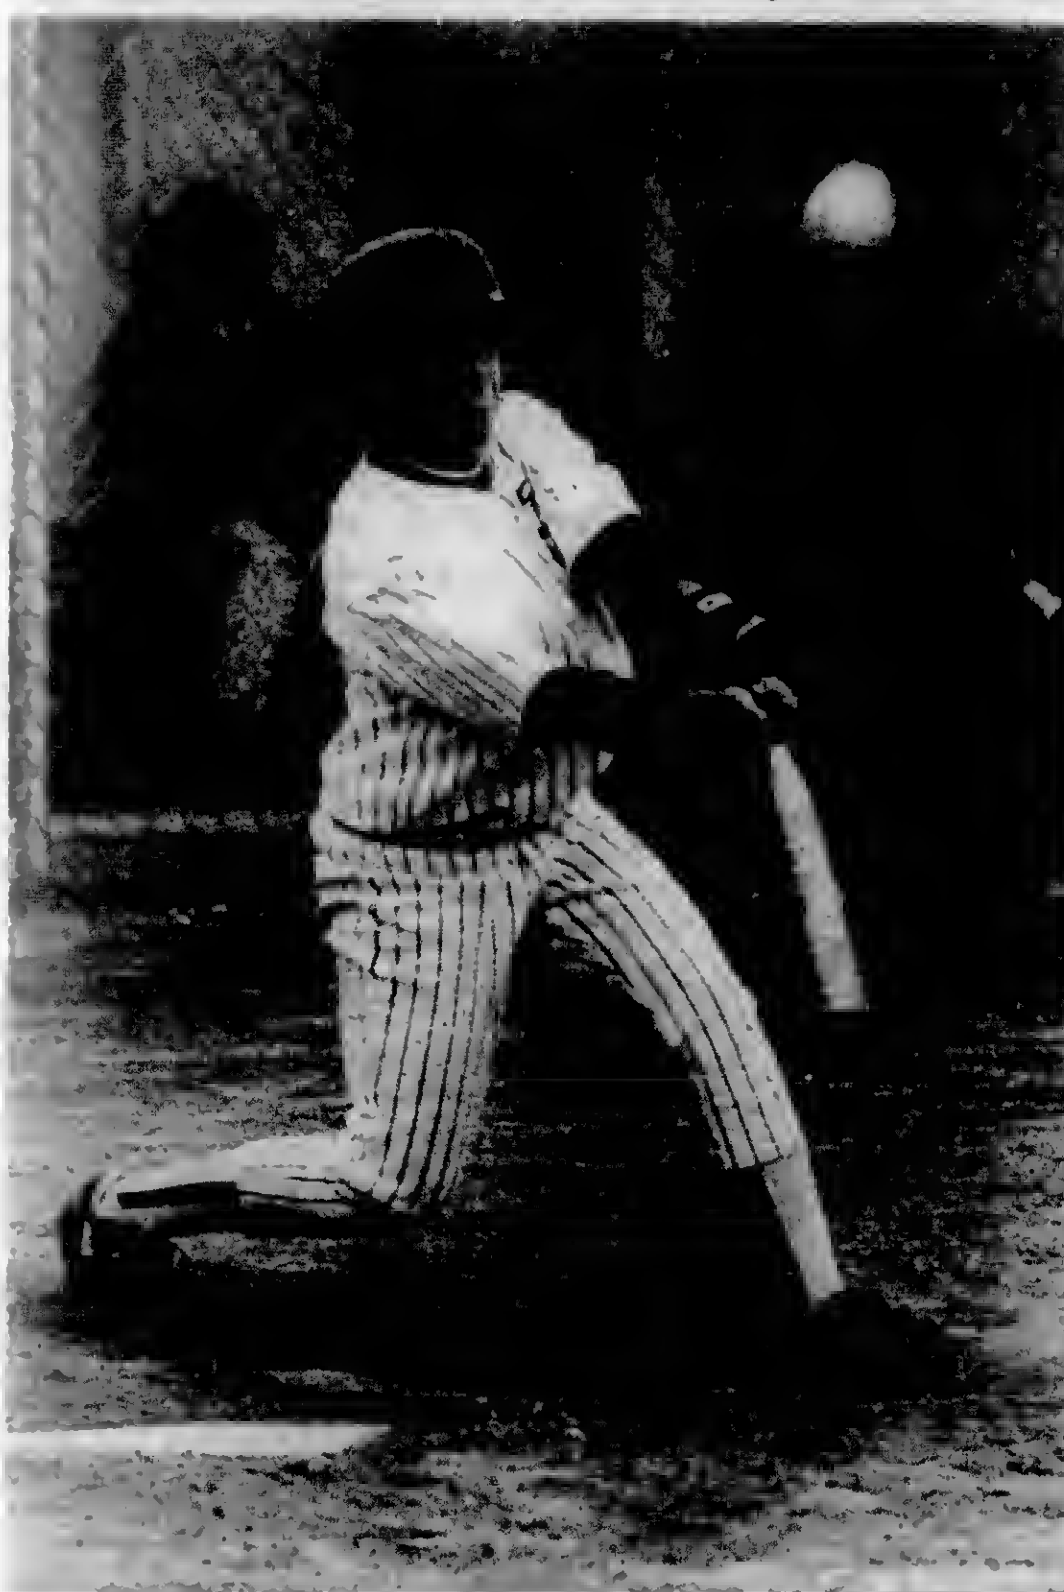

Rayders lose in Regional semifinals

In fastpitch softball even one or two errors are more than enough. But 11...that's just way too many. And 11 errors cost Charlevoix's varsity softball team dearly in a 10-7 loss to Rogers City in the regional semifinals Saturday at Mesick.

The Rayders led 7-5 in the top of the final inning when the defense exploded for six errors allowing Rogers City to score five times.

Senior Liz Grunch played her final game in a Rayder uniform giving up two earned runs on eight hits while allowing three walks and striking out eight.

On offense, the Rayders played well. Grunch had two doubles while sophomore Jenny Eveleigh had two singles. Five Rayders each had one hit. Rogers City lost to Sanford Meridian 7-3 in the regional final.

Amanda Eaton got under this pitch and popped it up as Charlevoix beat Elk Rapids and wrapped up a share of the conference softball title last Wednesday. The Rayders shared the title with Traverse City St. Francis.

Davenport selected as golf director

The Charlevoix County Youth Golf Association has selected Dean Davenport as its director. Davenport served as city of Charlevoix's summer Recreation Director for 18 years, leaving the post when he was appointed Director of Athletics and Recreation at Ferris State University in 1975. He recently retired from FSU and makes his summer home in Charlevoix.

Chairman Brian Brogan, in announcing Davenport's appointment said, "We're pleased to have Dean serve as our programs administrator. He taught golf in Charlevoix and in universities in California, Iowa, and Michigan. He also served as a collegiate golf coach, so he brings great expertise to our program."

Lisa Wheat, a sophomore called up to the varsity team late in the season, takes a hack at a pitch in Charlevoix's win over Elk Rapids.

Lisa Boss got a bad hop on this play, but was able to block the ball and keep it in front of her.

Davenport has three area professional golfers who have agreed to serve as the teaching staff. They include Joan Waha of the Charlevoix Municipal Course, David Poquette from the Belvedere, and Bruce Schepeler from the Charlevoix Country Club.

Lessons will be held for eight Wednesday mornings starting at 9:30 a.m. June 21 at the Belvedere Golf Course. There will be golf fundamentals taught for all youngsters between the ages of 7-17. There is a $5 per lesson fee, and where the fee may provide a family hardship, scholarships are available for all area youngsters. Plans are for participants to come from the entire Charlevoix County area, and is not restricted to the city of Charlevoix residents.

Interested people may register at the Charlevoix Recreation Department, at any of the three courses represented by the teaching staff, or by coming to the first meeting on June 22, 9:30 a.m. at the Belvedere Golf Course.

Davenport announced that adult volunteers will be needed to accompany youth groups as they play after their lessons each Wednesday morning. For more information call him at 547-6433.

Boyne City to host co-ed tournament

Boyne City will be hosting a 20-team co-ed softball tournament June 23-25. The tournament will take place at and benefit Boyne City's Rotary Park. Fees for the tournament are a $75 sponsor fee plus a $5 per player fee. Teams must have five men and five women on the field at all times. Players must be at least 13 years old. The double elimination tournament will begin Friday evening, June 23. For additional information, phone 582-9555 or 582-2433.

New director hopes to get teen center on solid ground

Scott Kelly is carrying his personal motto into his new role at the Club 77 youth center. That motto is "Keep it simple and make it fun."

Kelly has been hired as a part-time activities director and volunteer coordinator at the center located on Lincoln Street. Club 77 was founded four years ago and has had its ups and downs. The club is popular with middle school students but has had difficulty remaining financially viable and finding enough adults to chaperone events.

During the past four years the facility has been closed off and on. This past January, board members considered closing it permanently, but middle school students objected vehemently. A new board of directors has been elected, some fund raising has taken place and Kelly has been hired.

"If the community will support it, the teens will come," Kelly said.

In his first few weeks on the job, much of Kelly's time has been devoted to cleaning the facility up. His next goal is have Club 77 raise approximately $5,000 to get the organization on a stable financial footing. "That would give us some breathing space," he said.

Once that is accomplished, Kelly hopes to secure some grants and other funding sources to provide Club 77 with a continuing source of funding. The facility needs about $1,800 per month to cover all operational costs.

As far as activities go, Kelly says there are plenty of things that can be done with the facility. "Really, everything is wide open," he says. "I'm excited. There's a great deal of potential."

Currently Club 77 is open from 2:30 to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday. Club 77 also hosts dances on Friday evenings from 7 p.m. to 10 p.m. Kelly said one of the things he plans to do with the dances is limit the walk-in time so that young people will arrive between 6:45 and 7:15 and also not allow young people to return to the dance if they leave. What that does is prevents kids from telling their parents they're at the dance, when they're actually out goofing off and getting back to the dance just in time to get picked up by their parents. Kelly says he wants Club 77 to have a controlled environment and establish the trust of parents.

Chaperones are needed for the Friday evening dances. Kelly would like to have local service clubs and organizations volunteer to provide chaperones for at least one dance a year. If that happens, it would quickly start whittling into the 52 or so nights per year that need to be covered.

During the week days, Kelly wants to establish a Life Skills Program which would take place between 4 p.m. and 5 p.m. each day. In that program he would like to have speakers and professionals come in and give a 15 minute presentation and then lead discussions with teens on a variety of topics. Each of the five days of the week would be devoted to a specific theme involving one of five basic human needs: biological; psychological; social; spiritual; and economic.

Brandi didn't complete the proposed budget for council review until mid April. When council members initially rejected the proposed budget, there was little time for debate and modification. Eventually the council had to have a special meeting at noon on a Saturday to adopt a budget prior to the expiration of the fiscal year.

The correcting resolution requires a proposed budget to be submitted to the council at the council's second meeting in January. The council will then meet in a work session within seven days.

The council will prepare a budget and have it available for the public by Feb. 10. A public hearing will take place on or before Feb. 20 and a budget will be adopted by March 2.

The election resolution clarifies the years in which the mayor and clerk run for election and when they take office. The mayor is elected for two year terms and is elected in even numbered years, taking office at the first regular city council meeting following the election. The clerk is also elected for two year terms, but is elected in odd numbered years and takes office at the first meeting in January following the election.

School compromises on proposed budget

by Laurie Lounsbury

Compromise is sometimes a way of saying nobody really gets what they want. The school budget plan for the next five years, which was presented at the last school board meeting, represents a lot of compromise on the part of the teachers, board members, and community members who worked on the plan. But fiscally minded citizens should be happy with the fact that the budget is balanced through the year 2000.

Budget highlights include:

*New carpet for the elementary school, to be installed and paid for over two years.

*Teacher raises have been reduced to 2.5 percent annually after the current contract expires in 1996. Until then, teachers will receive a 3.5 percent raise annually. The raises are all subject to contract negotiations.

*The school district will be prepared to pay an increased amount into the state teacher retirement fund. The school used to pay 5 percent, which jumped to 14 percent last year and could rise to 19.57 percent in future years.

*Any new hires have been budgeted to start with a few years' teaching experience, rather than hiring new teachers for less money.

*The district will maintain fund equity at 10 percent of the previous year's expenditure. The fund equity is currently at $1.2 million.

A budget hearing will be held at the high school June 19.

City Band rehearsals begin

Charlevoix city band will be rehearsing Tuesday nights from 7-9 p.m. in preparation for the '95 summer concert series. June 20 is the next rehearsal, and June 27 is the first in a series of concerts that will run through Aug. 1 each Tuesday. For more information please con-

The group will perform a variety of band literature, including marches, overtures, show tunes, jazz, and classical pieces.

Unless a knight shows up, the castle is lost

By Laurie Lounsbury

To the struggling group of Castle Farms supporters, the sands falling in the hour glass must sound like the castle's fieldstones crashing down around them. Barring a miracle in the next few days, the attempt to purchase the Castle from Art Reibel is about to go down in defeat. By Saturday, June 24, the Castle Farms backers must come up with a payment of $229,500, or they'll lose the property through default. They do not have that money. They are also $60,000 in debt.

"I was really optimistic about them when I sold the place," Reibel said in a recent interview. "But when they lost the support of 4-H, they lost everything."

The castle's executive director, John Porter, is still scrambling to find a way to save the castle. He has a few irons in the fire, but the irons are more like fragile teneacles trying to glom onto any form of salvation. Porter said he approached Harry Niederlander, former owner of the Pine Knob outdoor concert facility. Porter is willing to let Niederlander run concerts at the Castle if Niederlander will take over the yearly payments to Reibel. It's an unlikely way to save the youth-oriented community center. Niederlander hasn't pursued the idea to date.

Porter is also trying to get funding for the castle from the Michigan Natural Resources Trust Fund. The fund is set up to preserve publicly owned parks and historical areas. In order to qualify for funding, the castle must be owned by a governmental unit. Marion Township tentatively agreed to sponsor the castle so they could apply for the funds, but the township has the right to bow out of the deal anytime prior to the actual funding. The castle made it through the first qualifying rounds for the grant, but it's doubtful that the funding will come in time to save the project. On top of that, it's doubtful that Marion Township will agree to take ownership of the castle even if the funding does come through. Township supervisors are all reluctant to obligate the township to becoming castle owners.

Contrary to rumors floating around, Art Reibel is not planning to storm the castle property and look it up the moment the Castle Farms group goes into default. "I'm out of it," Reibel said recently. "It's up to the family board of trustees, what they do with the property. We have a family trust attorney who has complete jurisdiction over the property."

Reibel did say that the family trust attorney would probably exercise the rights to repossess the property upon default. If that happens, Reibel is planning to host outdoor rock concerts, starting on the Fourth of July weekend. "You can say what you want about concerts, but those kids spend money and they're entitled to listen to their music," Reibel said. He added that a lot of area businesses would welcome the return of concerts. Concert goes bolstered the area's fast food businesses, party stores, gas stations, and restaurants.

Reibel Family Trust to resume control Saturday

Terms of the land contract between the Reibel Family Trust and the Castle Farms Community Center state that the Reibels get possession of the property upon default. By June 24, castle supporters must come up with a payment of $229,500 or they will be in default. After that, they have 15 grace days to make the payment. If payment isn't made by July 9, then the group has to come up with the total balance due on the land contract if they want to keep the castle. The balance due is $850,000.

The group has a six month redemption period to get the property back if they can pay the full, $850,000. But redemption and possession are two different things. Executive Director John Porter believes that the castle supporters can maintain possession during the six month redemption period. Art Reibel is convinced that possession will immediately revert to the Reibel family trust upon default. According to Porter, the castle's attorney Joe Hayes Jr. said that Reibel can't repossess the property until he gets a default judgement through the courts. A default judgement could take as long as two months.

The Frey Foundation has agreed to donate $300,000 to the project on a matching basis if castle supporters come up with $600,000 and can qualify for conventional financing.

The estimated price tag on the Bridge Park project has risen again. It is now up to $4.9 million.

City manager Mike Wiesner presented the revised cost estimate to the Downtown Development Authority (DDA) at the DDA's June 14 meeting. Wiesner said he had just received the revised estimate from the engineers earlier in the DDA discusses plans for new parking lot

Should building stay or be torn down for larger lot?

by L. Scott Swanson

Now that the DDA has purchased land for a parking lot, the next decision is how big to make the lot. At a June 14 meeting, DDA members discussed possible designs for the lot which will be located at 108 Park Avenue.

There is a building at the front of the lot. Some DDA members are leaning toward leaving a building at the front of the lot, which would mean a smaller parking lot. Other DDA members lean toward using all of the property for a parking lot.

Mayor Josh Barnes said his initial preference is to leave the building on the lot. DDA member Dan Barron said he's concerned that the condition of the building may not make it suitable for housing a business. Barron noted that he was told other prospective purchasers of the property had planned to tear down the building and put up a new one.

City planner Gerry Harsch said the building may have some historical significance. Barron questioned the historical significance of the property. DDA member Jeannine Wallace said she hates to see the downtown area lose the charm of old houses in the downtown area. She mentioned the Rose Cottage and Harsha House as examples of old homes that have been successfully restored.

Barron said, "My feeling is there's an acute need for parking in that area (Park Avenue)." He questioned the results of city police parking surveys, saying some of the businesses now in that area weren't open last year.

Harsch and city manager Mike Wiesner said the survey results weren't derived from just last year, but from surveys done over several years.

Barnes said the challenge is to provide adequate parking without paving the whole city. Consequently, he would like to see the front of 108 Park Avenue left without pavement, if possible.

"How badly do we need parking in that area?" Barnes asked. He added that he felt a net gain of 14, 16 or 18 spaces would suffice.

Barnes said that there's only one problem at all for about two months out of the year. Barron replied that many downtown businesses do 80 percent of their business during those two months. Barnes said that even with that, the police chief had assured him there's not a zero parking situation except during special events.

Barron said, "I think this is the last piece of the puzzle. I think every block should have an impact parking lot."

Wiesner and other city staff members will be doing more research on the building on the site and possible parking design alternatives and will report back to the DDA.

This old house is located at the front of 108 Park Avenue. The DDA recently purchased the lot for approximately $200,000 in order to build a new parking lot. DDA members are debating whether to remove the house or leave it on the lot. (Photo by L. Scott Swanson) than money available, one of the things the DDA may wish to do is bid the project with the option of deducting certain items from the project.

Mayor Josh Barnes said, "I think we should not get all excited until we get an analysis." He added that he has been involved in construction projects where estimated project costs doubled original estimates and when all was said and done ended up being lower than even the original estimate.

Work on the project is scheduled to begin this fall. Some of the major aspects of the project are removing the old septic treatment building and current boat company building and placing a new building in the embankment in Bridge Park.

County chairman unhappy with study

by Laurie Lounsbury

County commissioners wanted a study that compared department head wages with other counties in Michigan. They got what they asked for, but now they're not happy with it. Chairman Don Smith plans to withhold part of the payment to the Plante & Moran Consulting firm because of the work done by Jim Shrier, the consultant who prepared the study.

"What he (Shrier) said he was going to do, he didn't, and what he never said he would do, he did," Smith said at the last commissioner meeting.

Shrier was not surprised that Smith wasn't happy with the study. In a recent phone interview with Shrier he said, "Smith was the only commissioner who came to visit me on my boat to ask me to change some things in my report." (Shrier keeps a sailboat in Charlevoix.)

Smith was particularly irked by the fact that Shrier recommended the county hire a manager to improve communication and the county's general operations. "We didn't ask for a county manager study. First he told us we're doing an excellent job and then he says we can't keep doing it this way," Smith said.

Smith also contended that a value had never been put on retirement benefits. The Plante & Moran report puts a value of $2,900 on each annual retirement benefit, but Shrier said that value can't be counted as compensation unless the commissioners are willing to pay it out as a cash benefit each year.

Smith's third complaint was that the study compared Charlevoix County to other counties that Smith didn't want in the study. In a letter to the board of commissioners, Shrier explained why he selected additional counties to the ones Smith had chosen for the study. The letter stated, "We believe it is our role as an objective, independent consultant to select the appropriate comparable counties in a compensation survey, to avoid situations where the county commissioners may select a group of comparables substantially different than the employees might select. The credibility of the survey in the eyes of the county employees and/or the commissioners would be damaged if we did not exercise independence in selecting the comparables."

OPINIONS

Editorial

A small parking lot will suffice

Following additional thought, discussion and consideration, an opinion expressed in last week's Courier editorial may not have been completely correct.

"What's this?" the faithful Courier reader asks, the distress clearly evident in his or her voice "A Charlevoix Courier editorial which was anything less than a guided missile right to the heart of a pressing issue of the day? A Charlevoix Courier editorial which was something other than a beacon of light which readers rely upon to set a course through the fog and haze of public policy in our fair community? Is nothing sure and certain in this earthly life? Say it ain't so!"

Yeah, yeah. Relax. It's not as though the whole editorial was horse feathers. It's just one aspect of the opinion that needed some refinement.

Boiled down, last week's editorial: questioned the price the Charlevoix Downtown Development Authority (DDA) paid for a house and lot at 108 Park Avenue to create a parking lot; questioned the need for another parking lot in that area; and pointed out that since the city council, DDA and city manager's track record on property purchases and sales in recent years has been less than stellar, any city land deal merits close public scrutiny.

All that still holds true.

In addition to the aforementioned points, last week's editorial also recommended that the building on the property at 108 Park Avenue be torn down. That aspect of the editorial that needs to be revisited.

The recommendation to tear down the building was based on a desire to avoid problems similar to those that occurred with buildings on other property purchased by the DDA for parking. The theory was that the easiest way to avoid those problems would be to tear down the building.

After further discussion and thought though, the simplest way to avoid the problem might not be the best way. There's a lot to be said for either leaving the existing building or erecting another building at the front of the 108 Park property and putting the parking lot on only the back section of the property.

The two primary advantages of leaving the building are that it would provide another place for business in the downtown area and that it would screen the parking lot from view.

Parking is only needed when there are attractive and well-run businesses attracting patrons. Such businesses need places to be housed. If the building at 108 Park Avenue is torn down, it would be the third downtown building in the past three years to be torn down for increased parking.

Parking lots are not the prettiest things in the world. Dress them up as you may, at heart they are utilitarian. Nobody comes to Charlevoix to look at all of the beautiful parking lots.

The only disadvantage to leaving a building at the front of 108 Park Avenue is that it would mean building a smaller parking lot and consequently adding fewer parking spaces to that section of the downtown area. That's a small disadvantage.

To begin with, it's arguable whether or not we need any additional parking spaces at all in that area. Parking surveys by city police indicate that present parking lots are meeting the city's downtown parking needs. Late this past Saturday afternoon, there were six parking spaces available on Park Avenue between State and Bridge Streets and at least 10 more open on State Street. Late Sunday afternoon there were only two cars parked on Park Avenue between State and Bridge Streets. An argument can be made that the only parking problems in that area are for a two-month period in July and August and those problems could be eliminated if people employed in that section of downtown would park on State Street, or west of State Street.

If indeed the DDA is bound and determined to create another parking lot downtown, they should leave a building at 108 Park Avenue and create a small and visually unobtrusive lot. They might also wish to consider putting the parking lot project on hold for the time-being. They've secured the property. They can always build a parking lot there later. Meanwhile, there are other more important projects in need of funding. Bridge Park cost estimates recently came back higher than anticipated. There are also plans for improvements in East Park. Both of these projects are more important to the community than building a parking lot to meet a parking need which is limited, if indeed it exists at all.

Editor,

Once again, the Sunshine Club Community before and after school program has provided safe, quality, supervised care for Charlevoix kids. This excellent program is available due to the vision, and dedication of the Community Reformed Church. They saw the great need for a latchkey program in Charlevoix and took the initiative and energy to operate one. In addition to the Community Reformed Church, special thanks and appreciation for the success of this program should go to Jan Boss (coordinator), Dick Swenor (Charlevoix Elementary School Principal), Stephanie Carey (teacher whose classroom houses the program) and Kathy Mays (Sunshine Club director and teacher.) I know that there are many others who help to make this program run smoothly — you are appreciated too! I hope that the Sunshine Club will always exist for Charlevoix's kids and Charlevoix's parents.

Sincerely,

Artist to teach watercolor workshop

Noted artist Edee Joppich returns to the Virginia McCune Arts Center for a workshop during the last week of June. "A Compete Watercolor Experience" will focus on Composition, Color and Creativity during the period June 26 - June 30. Joppich offered workshops at the Arts Center for the past four years. Students are urged to register early.

This year's workshop will cover four days, June 26, 27, 28, 29, and possibly June 30, from 9:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. in the Arts Center's Community Room. Cost of this 4-5 day workshop is $175 per student. The Community Rooms will be available for students who wish to work during the evening hours as well.

Joppich introduces artists to techniques and suggestions to help them free up their own styles and originality. A recognized authority on color and composition, she shares her unique color system with students and guides them through a mini-course in design, providing supplementary printed reference materials. Students apply these techniques to paintings they create during the workshop. The final day critique concludes invaluable learning inspiration and joyful painting time.

Boulder Park Terrace, a skilled nursing and rehabilitation center in Charlevoix, needs volunteers to assist residents during recreational programs and/or to be a resident's companion. Volunteers can choose from a wide range of activities - parties, arts and crafts, recreation, exercise, shopping trips to town, ice cream socials, music, even Friday afternoon happy hours.

"With volunteer assistance, the number of residents who participate in certain events could expand," said Boulder Park's Social Services Director Micki Hagen. "For instance, residents really enjoy the cooking group. It gives them a chance to be back in the kitchen, doing something most had done for years at home. Right now only three residents can participate at a time, but with a volunteer, the group could easily include six."

There are also Boulder Park residents who would simply enjoy a friendly visitor once a week. This activity offers special rewards to both residents and volunteers, since it involves establishing a relationship.

Those interested in participating in Boulder Park Terrace's volunteer program, may contact Ruth Gawa, 348-4568. Boulder Park Terrace is affiliated with Northern Michigan Hospital and Charlevoix Area Hospital.

BEACONS

by REV. BRUCE HAMILTON

Greetings from beside a campfire at Mounds State Park in East Central Indiana. It is almost a ritual family pilgrimage for us to come here each year. Our church has its denominational convention nearby and this year, a new twist involves preparing ourselves for our daughter heading off to a university that is located just down the road. But it is being at fireside that brings the written word to fruition on this summer Saturday night.

A raccoon has attracted my attention. Are Michigan raccoons as ingenious as these Hoosier ones seem to be? We stored our food in a thirty gallon plus ice chest and secured it by putting a full five gallon water jug on top, or so I thought.

I was in the camper sleeping but the moment I heard the sound, I not only knew what it was, it brought me fully awake. The scratching, the chattering all broadcast to my sleepy brain that a "masked marvel" was at work on our picnic table. I had hoped just shining a flashlight out the window at him would run him off. Oh, he jumped off the table all right. But the minute, I mean the very minute, I turned the flash light off he was back up on the table and at it again. Before I could get out the door, he had knocked the jug off the top of the cooler, pried the cover loose, and was working in a zip lock bag full of cheese.

I ran off the raccoon, put the cooler in our van, and could have sworn I heard a chuckle from the tent on the site next to ours. Ah, the wisdom that only experience can bring!

Where does this preach? If God can stir up the resourceful creativity within the soul of an animal like that cute furry little nocturnal handit (I can say that with a smile now. It was hard at 3:30 a.m.), how much more can He stir up within those of us who are fully aware of not just the world around us but also the spirit at work within us?

Sitting here by a fire, watching a moon rise, and looking for the first star, I don't have a hard time understanding how the Psalmist could write, "What is man that Thou art mindful of Him? And the Son of man that thou visitest Him?" Oh, in the midst of God's creation, whether it is in the woods or Indiana or at home in our beloved northern Michigan, there is much for us to see, know, and understand about how much God has us in mind and how much the Lord desires to share in all that we are and all that we do.

Reach out beyond yourself. Take in the daily graces the Creator has set before us all and never forget how much He cares. That is what Beacons of Blessing is all about.

(Rev. Bruce Hamilton is pastor of the Charlevoix Community Church of God. Beacons of Blessings is provided to the Courier by Hamilton and other members of the Charlevoix Ministerial Association.)

Sleep Inn hotel is staffed and open

by L. Scott Swanson

The Sleep Inn, a 59-room hotel on Charlevoix's north side is now open for business. Sleep Inn is the only hotel in Charlevoix that is part of a national chain.

"I think it's going to be a great hotel in the summer," said general manager Robbin Moffat. "In the winter, I hope to draw a lot more business people."

Sleep Inn has an electronic key system, speaker phones in each room that are equipped to hook up to a computer modem, and the hotel offers fax and copy services for guests.

Sleep Inn has three floors with either one or two queen size beds in each room. There is also an indoor pool and Jacuzzi. A deluxe continental breakfast is available each morning in a breakfast area with a fire place. Three of the rooms are designed to accommodate handicapped people. Approximately two-thirds of the rooms are non-smoking. Several rooms offer views of either Lake Charlevoix or the Charlevoix Municipal Golf Course.

Sleep Inn is located at the intersection of US 31 and Mercer Boulevard at the former site of the Wayside Motel. Construction on Sleep Inn began last fall and the first guests stayed on the night of June 8.

Moffat and front office manager Julie Waterman said another of Sleep Inn's strengths is the staff. "We've got real good people," Moffat said. "Friendly, hard-working people."

Room rates range from $43 to $116 depending on the season and the room. Moffat said one of the principles Sleep Inn is founded on is providing clean and comfortable rooms without being expensive. She said Sleep Inn room rates are right in line with rates at other motels and hotels in the area.

Moffat said the initial response since the hotel opened has been good, but what really has been a pleasant surprise is the number of phone calls the hotel has been getting from people who are planning to come to Charlevoix either later this summer or next summer.

Names in business

Charlie Elzinga, local agent for Farm Bureau Insurance, has received the 1995 Seal of Excellence for the high quality of his insurance business. Elzinga earned the Seal of Excellence in farm insurance. The award grants him special underwriting authority and other privileges to expedite service to his clients.

BUSINESS

Two new members appointed to Community Foundation board

Two area residents have been appointed to serve as trustees of the Charlevoix County Community Foundation.

Nancy Porter, a civic leader and experienced volunteer from Charlevoix, will serve a three-year term on the Board. Jean VanDam, Boyne City activist and a principal in the VanDam Marine Company, will fill a vacancy created by the resignation of Gen Varnum, also a resident of Boyne City.

The new trustees join a Board composed of representatives from throughout Charlevoix county who oversee fund development, investment, and grantmaking activities for the Foundation.

In announcing the appointments, Foundation President Vel Kammermann noted the experience and dedication Porter and VanDam bring to their positions. "Our new trustees have a history of service to their communities," Kammermann said. "They're both committed, hard-working women who know how to tackle issues and get things done. We welcome their leadership and look forward to working together."

One of the first assignments facing the new trustees will be to review grant applications from a variety of area nonprofit organizations and decide which ones to help fund this summer. The Community Foundation, which currently has assets of $1.8 million, distributes grants each year and has given out more than $100,000 since starting in 1992.

Like other similar foundations throughout the country, the Charlevoix County Community Foundation receives charitable donations from individuals and groups; invests and manages the income on behalf of the community in a permanent endowment; and gives back the earned investment income, in the form of grants, to meet local needs. More information about the Foundation is available by calling 536-2440.

After more than two decades, local umpire calls it a game

by Laurie Lounsbury

Bill Joy has spent two decades watching, gimlet-eyed, as ballplayers slide into bases. "You're outta here!" he's hollered, game after game, year after year. Now, he's the one who's outta here. Joy is retiring from umpiring in the Charlevoix recreational softball league.

"It was fun doing it, it kept me close to the game after I couldn't play," Joy said. Joy will miss the game, but umpiring three nights a week all summer long left him little time to do anything else. "There comes a time when you decide you want to do other things," he explained.

"I played or umpired with the fathers and mothers of the people playing today. Now I see the grandkids coming along, playing in the adult league. When I saw the grandchildren coming, I decided it's time to hang it up."

Bill Joy, retiring from umpiring Charlevoix softball for nearly a quarter century.

After umpiring hundreds of softball games over the past 24 years, Bill Joy is calling it a career and retiring from umpiring in the Charlevoix City Softball League.

Joy went to the National Umpires School after he hurt his back playing basketball. His softball playing days were over, but his love of the game hadn't ended. He started out umpiring at a time when the extra money the job brought in was something he needed. "The last ten years I've been umpiring purely for the love of the game. I don't need the extra money anymore," Joy said. Joy was president of the Northern Michigan Umpires Association for many years. Umpires in the association worked games all over the north. Today, each city is responsible for hiring their own umpires.

Joy has umpired at Little League games, tee ball games, and children's softball games. The Charlevoix adult recreational league was his favorite league for umpiring. "I played or umpired with the fathers and mothers of the people playing today. Now I see the grandkids coming along, playing in the adult league. When I saw the grandchildren coming, I decided it's time to hang it up," Joy said.

Sailing lessons begin on Lake Charlevoix

Summer sailing lessons on Lake Charlevoix will begin July 3. Youth lessons will be taking place from July 3 through Aug. 11 with young people between the ages of 8 and 18 participating on a weekly basis for as many weeks as they wish. The cost is $45 per week with morning lessons from 10 a.m. to 12:45 p.m. and afternoon lessons from 1:15 p.m. to 4 p.m. The program takes place at Depot Beach. Students sail in JY 15 boats which have been purchased with financial assistance from several area businesses.

The program is under the direction of Charlevoix County 4-H and is taught by certified sailing instructors Kelly Copeland and Justin Acker. "We try to give the kids a basic understanding of everything about sailing," Copeland said.

Copeland said the skill levels of students coming into the course range from novice to fairly advanced. In addition to the instruction, in recent years the sailing school has been setting up races between the Charlevoix County program and a similar program operating out of Harbor Springs.

In addition to the classes for young people, there is also a program for adults who want to learn to sail. That program takes place on Tuesday and Thursday evenings from 6 p.m. to 8 p.m. in July. The cost is $40 for a four-session program.

For additional information about the Lake Charlevoix sailing program, phone the Charlevoix County 4-H office at 582-6232.

Golf tournament raises $4,000

The second annual Alyce Lesser Memorial Golf Tournament took place this past Thursday at the Charlevoix Country Club and raised approximately $4,000 for the Charlevoix School Enrichment Foundation.

Fifty-four golfers participated in the tournament and 101 people attended a post-tournament dinner.

Two teams tied for the best score in the tournament. Members of one team were Gary Grundman, Dennis VanGuilder, Dick Swenor and Rich Kelly. Members of the other top team were Sandy Sheridan, Mitts Lee, John Murray and John Yaroch.

The late Alyce Lesser was an avid golfer and an active member of the Charlevoix community who served for several years on the Charlevoix Schools Enrichment Foundation Board. The foundation accepts donations and invests the money, then uses the investment return to provide grants that fund school programs above and beyond normal curriculum offerings.

Retrospective

A look back at some interesting aspects of life in the early days of this area.

by Nancy Ritsema, Norwood Area Historical Society

Among church folk there is an old saying that ministers come and go but the people are here to stay. Except for four local pioneers who served as organizers and lay leaders of the Norwood Methodist Church, Joseph Harwood, John Jolliffe, Christopher Empey, and A. Greenman, Circuit preachers sent to Norwood changed every year or two.

The preacher's job was rigorous and not always pleasant. Reverend Grey came to Norwood in 1868 and soon left after some settler disfigured his horse. A good horse was essential for the trips to churches which often met in a log school house until a church building could be built. The drive to Bay View east of present-day Eastport every other week was a long and a hard one; in winter. When snow was higher than the fences, the preacher had to get out of his cutter and walk his horse quite a distance. He and his wife would stay at a settler's for several days before continuing home.

In the midst of these continually changing faces in the church parsonage, one constant brought a sense of community and service to Norwood: the Ladies Aid. So named because of their financial assistance to meager pastor's salaries and to church and parsonage building projects, the Ladies Aid became central to social life in this small lakeside community.

Store and lumber mill owners' wives, prominent summer residents from Chicago, and local farmers' wives all belonged to the Aid. Weekly Aid meetings included working on a "comfortable" for Mrs. Ferguson and planning and paying for improvements for the parsonage. This included wallpaper for $2.85, window shades for $4.50 and painting for $12 paid to H. Stafford.

By 1900 monthly socials were scheduled for the new Township Hall or for the Van Pelt's lawn. Included were a Sugar Social in April (maple syrup time) and an Election Dinner in November with a charge of ten cents a person. A Graphophone Concert, Baked Beans and Brown Bread Social, Corn and Match Social, Oyster Supper, Quilting Supper, and Blue Jay Social filled up the months.

The ladies sold and served food for the gala picnics by the Lake Michigan shore south of the sawmill. This event drew hundreds from surrounding areas each year. In 1900, a gathering of nearly 1,000 people were entertained with singing, ball games, political speeches, races and a Grand Ball in the evening which climaxed the day. This big money-maker for the Aid brought in as much as $82.42!

Life was hard in pioneer communities, but thanks to the creative planning of Norwood's women, community life was varied, and fun.

School board adopts new budget

by Laurie Lounsbury

The Charlevoix School District finished the 1994-95 school year in the black, with $98,000 extra dollars. But the approved budget for next year leaves the district in the red by $264,250. "It's important to point out that's a one year situation, that over five years recoups to a black number," said board member Sulane Hamilton.

Next year's budget includes the hiring of three new teachers, new carpet at the elementary school, and an increased contribution to teacher retirement benefits. As experienced teachers retire over the next five years, the budget will balance itself out. The fund equity will actually grow by the year 2000. Hamilton also pointed out that anticipated revenues were conservatively estimated, while projected expenditures were estimated at the maximum amount. "If there are any changes in revenues and expenditures, it will improve our budget," Hamilton said, adding, "In the long run, we're doing the right thing."

One right thing the budget committee did was to plan to pay more into teacher retirement benefits. On the day of the school board meeting, school business manager Rich Kelly got the word from Lansing that our state aid would be cut by $116,022. The budget committee anticipated this, and budgeted $120,000 for teacher retirement payments. "I think we called that one just right," Kelly said. There's a chance that the state will send a check at some later date to reduce this cost, but the odds of that happening are slim.

The board adopted both the 1995-96 budget as well as the 1995-2000 budget assumptions.

In other business, teachers Dixie Ashton, Joe Woods, and Joe Powers were granted tenure. Marcie Murdock was hired as the new first grade teacher, and John Hahn was hired as a part time fifth grade teacher. Cindy Whitley was hired to work part time with a deaf girl who will be entering kindergarten next year.

Bartlett's Home Interiors was awarded the bid to install new carpeting in the elementary school. The total cost will be $113,680.

The carpet selected is a woven carpet similar to the carpet that has lasted in that building for 26 years. The carpet will be installed and paid for over a two year time period.

WEED WARS

Petunia beds become botanical battleground

by L. Scott Swanson

An ugly group of invaders is attempting to take over Charlevoix and their first strike has hit us right where we live - square in the petunias. Weeds have sprouted in Charlevoix's petunia beds, worse than ever.

"The weeds this year are about the worst I've seen," Operation Petunia chairman Dale Boss was quoted as saying in a Keep Charlevoix Beautiful news release.

While the hot dry weather may be making grass in other parts of town turn brown, it's flourishing in the petunia beds. Boss and his wife Marilyn have been watering the beds every morning. While the watering is seeing the flowers through the heat, it's also been received well by grass.

"It's mostly crabgrass," KCB President Bruce MacArthur says of the weeds. "It's been a real headache."

The weeds have been bad all over, but at the moment are at their worst on the north side, near the city limits.

This is the fourteenth year petunias have been planted from one end of Charlevoix to the other and over the years KCB has mustered troops from a wide variety of forces to fight the weeds.

In recent years prison crews from Camp Pellston pulled weeds. That worked out well, but last year and this year the crews have been needed for other projects.

Last year as a consequence of welfare reform in the state of Michigan, a crew of unemployed people receiving state financial aid helped weed petunia beds. KCB hired a manager to oversee the social services crew and they went right to town. MacArthur said that crew did a wonderful job and the program worked great.

This year KCB hoped to have the unemployed people from social services do some more weeding. No such luck. There weren't enough unemployed people receiving social service assistance to form a crew.

Welfare reform worked. The people had jobs in the private sector.

This year petunia weeders have come from a variety of sources. KCB has hired several people on a part-time basis. They've also received some assistance from prisoners at the county jail. Wells Landscaping has been hired to help with the northside. A spray weed poison is going to be tried on an experimental basis near the golf course.

MacArthur said the people who have been pulling the weeds have been working hard and doing all they can, but there are a lot of weeds and it's a tough job.

At one time MacArthur said he feared this year's petunias might be overwhelmed and weeded to death, but Monday he said, "I'm encouraged now that we might win the battle."

Kent Seymour has been hired by KCB to oversee weeding efforts. Property owners who wish to help fight the weeds or donate money to the weed-fighting cause may contact him at 547-8468.

Group preserving Norwood history

Ice cream social to take place July 2

by L. Scott Swanson

At one time, approximately 100 years ago, Norwood was a hopping place. The town included a hotel, a doctor's office and a post office. Boats traveling the Great Lakes stopped in Norwood to take on wood to burn in their steam engines. The Norwood saw mill provided thousands of feet of lumber to help rebuild Chicago following the great fire. In 1900 a picnic down by the lakeshore drew 1,000 people.

These days Norwood is smaller and quieter. Asked how many people now live in Norwood, Helen Kuhn of the recently formed Norwood Historical Society, replied, "I counted them one time." Then after pausing a moment, estimated that about 150 people live in Norwood today.

The Norwood Area Historical Society was formed last fall as a commission under the township board. Although the group hasn't been around that long, they've been pretty active. About 15 people attend the meetings on a fairly regular basis. In a town of 150, that's 10 percent of the population, so that's pretty good.

Currently the group is making plans for a big ice cream social. In conjunction with the ice cream there will be tours of the village on a horse-drawn wagon and the township hall and church will be open with pictures, artifacts and quilts and artwork on display. The cost is a $3 donation.

The school house will also be open. At one time there were four schools in the Norwood District.

They were the Norwood, Hilton, McGhee and Clark schools.

Among the more active members of the Historical Society are Nancy Ritsema, Helen Kuhn, Bob Kuhn and Cathy Lord. Lord's maiden name is Richardson. Her family was one of the first families to settle in the Norwood area. "My grandparents were the first people to be married here in the 1870s," Lord says with pride.

One of the artifacts to be displayed at the ice cream social is her father, William Richardson's, band uniform that he wore in the Norwood City Band in 1893. The city band used to play by a windmill which furnished water for a household that had a swimming pool. In addition to a city band, Norwood also used to have its own basketball team.

Lord says one of the reasons she wanted to see the historical society established is to preserve the unique history of Norwood.

Helen Kuhn says that beyond the historical significance, "we're doing it for fun." She adds, "We're hoping the young people who are moving in here will become interested too."

Ritsema says she finds the historical information the group is turning up to be fascinating. One person the group has researched is Ding Darling. Darling, a famous cartoonist for the Des Moines Register, spent several years in Norwood and credited the community for playing a very important role in molding his outlook on life.

The Norwood Area Historical Society meets on the second Tuesday of the month at the township hall. Quite a bit of time is spent looking at and identifying old photos and artifacts. The group has also sent letters to Norwood families in order to gather information for a family history album. New members are welcome.

Cathy Lord (left) is shown with her father's Norwood City Band uniform from 1893. Looking over the uniform with Lord are fellow Norwood Area Historical Society members Helen and Bob Kuhn. The society formed last fall as a commission under the Norwood Township Board. The group has been meeting once a month to compile historical information on the Norwood area. The Historical Society will host an Ice Cream Social, Sunday, July 2 at the Township Hall. The hall and the church will be open and will contain historical exhibits. In the 1870s, 1880s and 1890s, Norwood was a bustling community with a hotel, lumber mill and other businesses. (Photo by L. Scott Swanson)

County United Ways plan to join forces

The Board of Directors of the Charlevoix/East Jordan United Way has voted to merge with Boyne City and Emmet County United Ways. All members (donors) are invited to view the merger plan and vote on this merger, since the Charlevoix and East Jordan United Way is a member organization. The public meeting will be Wednesday, Aug. 2, at 6:30 p.m. at the Charlevoix City Hall. The merger plan is available by calling Board President Ellen Zienert at 547-0279 or the Emmet County United Way office, 347-0115.

All three boards believe that, by merging, the United Way can better support local human service organizations in our area. Currently the three United Ways support 13 of the same agencies which accounts for about 80 percent of their combined $165,000 budget. A merger committee is developing methods to ensure that local organizations such as the Alano Club and the Boyne City Swim Program are well provided for, not just the larger agencies such as the Women's Resource Center and CHIP Counseling.

"This merger will allow us to more effectively serve our communities, donors and agencies," says Zienert, "by combining our efforts in the use of campaign volunteers, agency applications and administration. Each United Way brings a unique perspective and its own strengths. I believe that this blend will result in a stronger United Way for us all."

The CharEm United Way is slated to go into effect on January 1, 1996. Until that time each organization will manage its own resources. A joint campaign will be held this year to pave the way for the merged organization.

Editorial

Feds need to address casino gambling

According to national press reports, the federal government is finally taking a look at regulating the Indian tribal gambling industry. It's an action which is long overdue.

The whole Indian tribal gambling industry is founded on an ill-conceived premise. In effect, what the federal government has done is grant Indian tribes a monopoly franchise to the gambling industry in several states. As it would be discriminatory and wrong for the federal government to allow everyone except Indian tribes to engage in a particular industry (in this case casino gambling), it is just as discriminatory and wrong for the federal government to allow only Indian tribes to engage in a particular industry. The position the federal government has taken to this point, in addition to spitting in the face of many of the values this country was founded on, puts states and local units of government in a difficult position.

Other than when dealing with Indian tribes, states and local units of government have traditionally been able to determine for themselves whether or not to legalize gambling. With tribal casino gambling, the federal government has up to now decided they would take no jurisdiction over gambling on reservations, nor would they allow states and local units of government to have any jurisdiction. The end result has been that the question of whether or not there is to be casino gambling in Michigan is no longer for Michigan to decide. By choosing not to address casino gambling on reservations, the federal government has for all intents and purposes legalized casino gambling in Michigan.

Beyond that, what's now happening is that Indian casino operators, like any other business people who see an opportunity for their business to grow, want to expand their operations. They are buying property off reservations and want to build and operate casinos there. Michigan Governor John Engler, to his credit, has at least made an effort to have Michigan analyze the pros and cons before jumping in head first. He's done this in spite of some local government people who are blinded by dollar signs and in spite of a federal government which has been unwilling to act on good days and downright adversarial all too often.

Michigan is not alone in facing problems with the Indian gambling industry. Other states are having similar problems. People are also realizing that the source of these problems is the federal government. Consequently Congress is now beginning to field complaints.

Ultimately, there's really only one choice in addressing the gambling problem. Ideally, the federal government will finally screw up the nerve to tell the tribes they're going to have to abide by the same laws everyone else does. Such a decision is certain to trigger a rash of wailing from tribes currently benefitting from preferential treatment. The federal government should ignore that wailing and do the right thing in spite of it. The other possibility, which is less desirable than the first, is just to flat out legalize casino gambling. If the government isn't willing to regulate Indian tribal gambling, why regulate it for anybody? Put everybody who wants in on gambling industry action on a level playing field and let the chips fall where they may.

Letters to the editor

Pool supporters address questions concerning pool project

Editor,

May we, Charlevoix Friends of the Pool, answer some questions about the new Community Pool by way of this letter?

Question: How's the pool coming along and how is it being paid for?

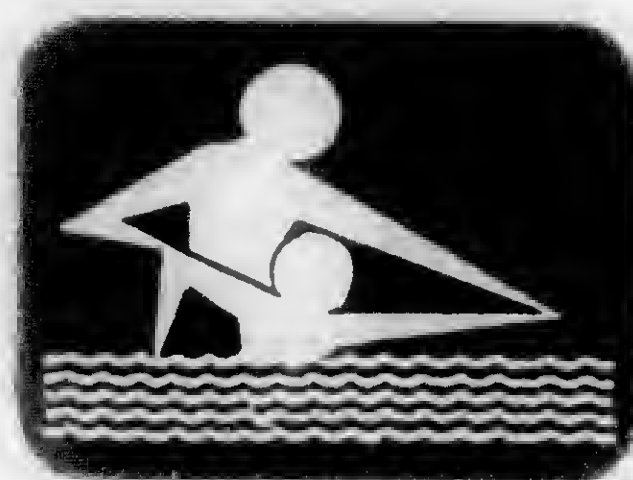

Answer: Ground-breaking was April 22 and pool is expected to open in February, 1996. All site preparation work to date has been done with in-kind services valued at $100,000 from local engineering and construction firms. Other services and materials have been promised and a summer capital campaign has begun to seek the balance, about $400,000, of the $800,000 needed for completion.

Question: I've heard this pool is different from other pools in the region. In what way?

Answer: Pool design is geared to special needs of various groups. Wheelchair users and seniors will have easy access to the pool via a ramp with a handrail. The ramp doubles as a shallow instructional area for small children with seating for youngsters taking swimming lessons. The deep end, 9 feet, will accommodate training needs of emergency rescue personnel such as the Coast Guard, scuba divers, and firemen. However, there will be no diving board. Other special features are a whirlpool/therapy spa for people with arthritis and injuries and other. Another special feature is a mini-locker room equipped for use by the handicapped and as a private family changing area.

Question: Will there be competitive swimming?

Answer: In the interests of having a pool the size our area can afford to build and operate, the pool measures 60 feet by 42 feet, smaller than the more standard 75 feet. (Shorter but wider than the East Jordan pool.) A survey taken several years ago indicated that competitive swimming ranked far below the number one concern, i.e. water safety training.

Question: I understand land for the pool site was donated by the Charlevoix Country Club. I'm not a member. Does that mean I can't use the pool?

Answer: The pool will be open to the public. Small children will be admitted free with an adult and there will be consideration for seniors, students and families. Rates will be the same for residents and non-residents since the pool is not being built with tax dollars. We're one of only a half dozen citizen groups in the US building a public pool.

Please support the annual pool auction which will be held Sunday, Aug. 6 from 5 to 8 p.m. during the Potunia Party at the new Charlevoix Country Club. For tickets and other information, call the pool office at 547-0982.

Sincerely,
Barbara MacArthur

Northern Michigan is starting another summer season. Hopefully, this season will be filled with many beautiful days and water related activities. These activities can be accident free and pleasurable if we all put effort into water safety.

District Health Department No. 3 has recognized the cost of preventable accidents. These costs are financial as well as emotional. Three of the key elements in reducing preventable accidents on the water are supervision education and use of appropriate safety equipment.

According to the American Water Ski Association (A.W.S.A.), this water related activity attracts nearly 17 million Americans each year. The number of recreational swimmers, people enjoying power and sailboats, and those individuals that enjoy fishing pushes the total number of people using the water millions higher.

Recent revisions in Michigan boating laws require mandatory wearing of a personal flotation device (P.F.D.) by children under 6 years of age. Federal law has been changed to require type I, II, or III P.F.D.s on vessels under 16 feet in length, in place of type IV (throwables) P.F.D.s. Type I and II P.F.D. (life jackets) are designed to turn an unconscious person face up in the water. The type III, sometimes called a ski vest, provides flotation but won't turn a disabled person onto his or her back.

Most boating fatalities are the result of capsizing or falling overboard. Eighty percent of drowning victims are not wearing P.F.D.s. Most boating accidents are sudden and unexpected. There is little if any time to reach for a P.F.D., which is why you and other boat passengers should wear one all the time while on or around the water.

According to the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission, in a comprehensive study of drowning and submersion incidents involving children under 5 years old at the time of the submersion incident, most victims were being supervised by one or both parents. It is best to have one person with their full attention directed to safety in charge of supervising children on or near the water. When more than one person has the responsibility, it is too easy to be distracted if even for a short time feeling that someone else will be watching the child.

P.F.D.s should also be used by anyone who is around or using docks. Children or adults can fall in between boats or docks and not be noticed. The use of the proper P.F.D. can help to keep anyone alive if an accident occurs.

Many local law enforcement agencies and the U.S. Coast Guard have marine personnel who offer courses on water safety. In Michigan the operator is responsible for the legal requirements and safe operation of a boat even if they don't own the boat.

The misuse of alcohol while boating is just as dangerous as it is when driving a motor vehicle. It is also just as illegal. The same basic laws that cover motor vehicles apply to boating. It is illegal to operate a boat under the influence or impaired.

Take time to learn the proper safety rules for your water-related activity. Be prepared with the right equipment and training. Know the location of anyone that is enjoying the water with you. By being safety conscious, this can be a safe and fun summer for everyone.

Big Rock makes contributions

Contributions totaling $2,450 have been made to five area organizations by Consumers Power Company's Big Rock Point nuclear plant and the Consumers Power Foundation.

Camp Daggett received a grant of $1,000, payable over two years. The money will be used to retire the debt on the new bathroom facility at the Walloon Lake camp. Camp Daggett board member Kirby Dipert accepted the first payment of $500. Dipert said the facility is about $3,000 short of its $50,000 fundraising goal.

A $500 grant was approved for the Charlevoix Senior Center to support operation of the facility. Operated by a non-profit organization, the center provides a location for local senior citizens to gather and perform volunteer work.

In addition to the above contributions, Big Rock Point also approved a grant of $200 to support the Charlevoix High School senior party. The annual event offers graduates an evening of entertainment without drugs or alcohol. The money was used to purchase gifts for the celebration.

The Women's Resource Center received a Volunteer Investment Program (VIP) grant of $400 in behalf of Big Rock Point human resources administration specialist Carolyn Moeggenberg. Moeggenberg, who volunteers time at the center, said the money would be used to support operations.

The Charlevoix Little League received a VIP grant of $350. Human resources administrative assistant Colleen Wilcinski, who applied for the grant on behalf of numerous plant employees who volunteer time to the league, said the money would be used to purchase supplies and uniforms.

The Consumers Power Foundation, the philanthropic arm of Consumers Power Company, sponsors the Volunteer Investment Program to recognize employees who give their time and talent to non-profit organizations and to encourage greater levels of volunteerism by employees.

Foundation qualifies for thousands in challenge grants

Programs and projects that benefit area residents will come out big winners if the Charlevoix County Community Foundation can step up to the challenge and raise enough local dollars.

The Community Foundation has been given an opportunity to receive matching funds from two of the state's premier private foundations: The Frey Foundation of Grand Rapids, and the W.K. Kellogg Foundation, based in Battle Creek. Both foundations have issued a "challenge grant" — an incentive designed to encourage support for the Community Foundation by providing matching money for each local dollar given to the charitable organization.

All funds received will go into the Community Foundation's permanent endowment, where the money is invested and the earned interest is given out each year to support a variety of worthy projects in education, health, social services, recreation, or economic development.

The Frey Foundation has offered two challenges. One would match every four dollars raised for permanent endowment with an additional dollar, up to $50,000; the other matches every two dollars given in support of the Community Foundation's administration and operating expenses with one more dollar, up to $37,500. Community Foundation officials say the organization has until December 31, 1995 to qualify for the matching funds. The Frey Foundation has also given the local Community Foundation an additional $10,000 - with no matching restrictions - to help underwrite grantmaking to area nonprofit organizations.

The Frey Foundation is a private family foundation with assets of approximately $90 million. Each year, Frey grants $3 to $4 million to nonprofit organizations serving Kent, Emmet, and Charlevoix counties. Programs chosen for funding are those designed to enhance the lives of children and their families, protect natural resources, or strengthen the nonprofit and volunteer sectors.

The Kellogg Foundation's offer is part of a continuing challenge to raise funds in support of youth programming. In a one-for-two match, Kellogg would give the Charlevoix County Community Foundation one dollar for every two dollars raised for either unrestricted endowment, or a "field-of-interest" fund that's established to address certain kinds of issues — the environment or eldercare, for example.

All Kellogg money becomes part of the Community Foundation's special Youth Project Fund, a permanent trust set aside to support programs that benefit children and teens. To date, the local Community Foundation has qualified for $400,000 in Kellogg donations; the new challenge provides for an additional $300,000 if $600,000 can be raised by March 31, 1996.

The W.K. Kellogg Foundation was established in 1930 to "help people to help themselves." As a private grantmaking organization it provides seed money to organizations and institutions that have identified problems and designed constructive action programs aimed at solutions.

Commenting on the challenge grants, Vel Kammermann, president of the Community Foundation, said, "This is an extraordinary opportunity for us to increase our capacity to improve our communities. It's as if each dollar is doubled and can do twice the good work."

During its start-up phase, the Frey and Kellogg Foundations helped build and strengthen the Community Foundation, putting the local organization on solid financial ground. Robert Tambellini, CCCF executive director, credits both foundations with helping to establish credibility and a healthy asset base. "They've been a big part of our growth," he explains. "In two years, we've built an endowment of $1.8 million, and we're now able to grant over $80,000 for scholarships and worthy projects each year. That amount of money can have a significant impact in a county the size of ours."

Lake levels still a bit high

During the month of May precipitation was above average on the Lake Superior, Michigan-Huron and Erie basins, while it was below average on the Lake Ontario basin. For the year to date, precipitation is about 2 percent above average for the entire Great Lakes basin. The net supply of water to each of the Great Lakes in May was below average, except for Lake Erie which was above average.

In comparison to their long-term (1918-1994) averages, the May monthly mean water level of Lakes Superior and Ontario was 5 and 8 inches below average respectively, while Lakes Michigan-Huron, St. Clair and Erie were 2, 6 and 6 inches above average respectively. Shoreline residents are cautioned to be alert whenever adverse weather conditions exist, as these could cause rapid short-term rises in water levels. Should the lakes approach critically high levels, further information and advice will be provided by the Corps of Engineers.

Lakes Michigan-Huron at the end of May were at elevation 579.53 feet (176.64 meters) above the mean water level at Rimouski, Quebec, or about 24 inches (64 cm.) above Chart Datum. The May monthly mean level of 579.33 feet (176.58 meters) was about 2 inches (5 cm.) above the long-term average for May. The lakes were about 28 inches (70 cm.) below the all-time high May monthly mean level, which was recorded in 1986.

Barnard Church to celebrate 100 years

by Laurie Lounsbury

Mary Warner and Dorothy Stael get nostalgic when they talk about the Barnard Church centennial party. With good reason. The two sisters have been entwined with Barnard church activities for a good portion of the church's hundred years. Born in the early 1900s, Warner and Stael grew up next door to the church. Now the women are recreating the early days of the church with an old fashioned, Fourth of July picnic. The centennial picnic won't be exactly the same as the picnics at the turn of the century. The old Sunday school band won't be playing. And the church field can't accommodate a rousing game of baseball. But those old time activities will come back to life through storytelling and reminiscing at the picnic.

Everyone is welcome to bring their own picnic basket to the field next to the church for an outdoor dinner at 12:30 on the Fourth of July. After the picnic, the last hundred years of the church's history will come back to life, sparked by a little ice cream and Cracker Jack popcorn. Warner and Stael remember the church picnics in the 1920s when kids could buy ice cream and Cracker Jack for five cents at the picnics.

Warner's fondest Barnard Church memories are of the Sunday school band, which was led by George Block. Block was a hog farmer in the area, who had a deep love of music. He used to take his hogs to Chicago to the livestock market, and with the money he made selling his pigs, he bought used musical instruments. Block loaned or gave away instruments to the church kids who couldn't afford them. The Barnard band became well known in the area. They toured around the north, playing at other churches. Block's only rule was that band members had to attend Sunday school. The band training was invaluable. Quite a few of Block's students went on to play in city and college bands. Carl Beatty landed a place in the United States Navy Band. Even a clipping in the Charlevoix Courier noted that, "Favorable mention of the Barnard Sunday school band has been made in the state dailies."

Dorothy Stael has plunged into the church's history by going through old Charlevoix Courier newspapers. Her mother, Vera Smith, was the rural correspondent to the Courier for 40 years. Smith covered one Barnard Ladies Aid meeting that touched on a hot topic of the times. In the year 1919, Mrs.

William Shapton urged women to "Use your right to vote." Shapton's letter to the church ladies supported the women's suffrage movement. The 1908 Michigan constitution gave women the right to vote on bond issues or expenditures of public funds only if they owned property. In 1920, the law changed, allowing women to vote without restriction. The Barnard ladies were right on top of the issue.

Warner is hoping some of the old members of the church's Epworth youth group will show up for the picnic. She remembers cook-outs, camping trips, and ice cream socials that were all a part of the church's youth activities. The tradition of supporting the youth has grown and evolved over the years. "There is strong support for church camps in the Barnard Church. We help young campers go to camp. I think that's extremely important," said Stael. "It's still a very busy and growing church," added Warner.

The official centennial birthday party for the church will be on August 20 at the 10:15 church service.

The Barnard Church is celebrating its 100th anniversary this year. As part of the celebration there will be an old fashioned Fourth of July picnic beginning at 12:30 p.m. on July 4. The official 100th birthday party for the church will be Aug. 10 at the morning service.

Grant approved for Parkside demolition

Charlevoix has qualified for a federal grant of up to $403,044 to purchase and tear down the former Parkside restaurant building. The grant is part of a federal Transportation Enhancement Authority program administered by the Michigan Department of Transportation (MDOT). The purpose of the program is to create view corridors from state highways.

Charlevoix applied for the grant in February and received word late last week that the application has been approved.

Charlevoix mayor Josh Barnes said that representatives from State Representative Bev Bodem and State Senator Walter North's offices told him the grant was well written and well-suited to the program.

The former Parkside building is located on the southeast corner of the Bridge and Mason Street intersection. It is adjacent to a park and between Round Lake and Bridge Street. Removing the building will open up a broader view of the harbor.

The city began acquiring downtown park property back in 1919 and acquired additional parcels in the '20s, '30s and '40s.

The federal money will be matched by up to $100,000 in local funds. The price of the building has not yet been determined, pending an appraisal.

Barnes said the city hopes to begin the project this fall and have the view opened up by next spring.

Barnes said of the project, "This is one I'm really enthused about."

A variety of Charlevoix homes showcased

The perennially popular Charlevoix Kappa Sigma Annual Home Tour will be Wednesday, July 12, from 1 to 5 p.m. This year's tour features old, cottage style homes along with spectacular new homes on Lake Charlevoix. Refreshments will be served on the rooftop deck of Don Berlage's downtown condominium, which offers a panoramic view of Round Lake and the channel.

Proceeds from the home tour are donated to the Charlevoix Area Hospital. The sorority will also donate a portion of the profits to Castle Farm, the Raven Hill Discovery Center, the Charlevoix Enrichment Fund, and Camp Quality.

Tickets are $13 each and are available at The Apple Tree, Shop of the Gulls, The Clothing Company, Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce, and Widum's of Charlevoix.

Home tour guests should park on the main streets only and remove shoes at all houses. No bare feet are allowed in the homes.

Some of Charlevoix's most beautiful homes will be opening their doors July 12 for the annual Charlevoix Kappa Sigma Home Tour. Proceeds from the tour are donated to charitable community projects. (Photo by Laurie Lounsbury)

Driveway debate continues, litigation threatened

by L. Scott Swanson

The city's dispute with property owner Dick Georgi over a driveway on Park Avenue continued at a special city council meeting June 28.

In that latest installment, Georgi presented a topographical map showing that the encroachment onto city property is only a small triangular shaped piece of property about 14 feet by 20 feet by 24 feet. Councilmembers toured the property, then returned to city hall and by a 4-2 vote turned down a motion to allow Georgi to pave the triangle along with the rest of the property.

At the conclusion of the council meeting, an obviously peeved Georgi told councilmembers, "The driveway's been there a hundred years. If you want to stop me, you get a court order. It'll take a court order to stop me down there. If you get a court order, I'm going to sue you."

Georgi argued that his only objective in attempting to repave the driveway is to make the property look better. Councilmembers have maintained that while the driveway is torn up, it should be moved so that it doesn't encroach on city property.

The argument over the driveway has now gone on for more than a month. Various surveys and maps have been presented. At one point the encroachment was thought to be a strip of nearly 40 feet. The latest maps show the small triangle.

Earlier in the debate councilmembers voted to allow Georgi to drive over the corner of city property for his driveway, but not to allow him to pave it.

At the latest meeting, after the amount of property in question was reduced to the triangle, council members Bruce Reid and Cheri Hoffman made a motion to allow Georgi to pave the disputed property provided there was a survey and an agreement that Georgi would make no claim of ownership of the property. That motion failed 4-2 when council members Butch Russell, Don Meggison, Jackie Cross and Gabe Campbell voted in opposition.

Hoffman said the encroachment is minimal and not a lot of council time should be wasted on it.

Cross said that when the driveway is being repaved, the encroachment should be removed and that moving the driveway over a little bit isn't going to hurt anything.

Georgi has argued that moving the driveway over will require him to take out the end of a stone retaining wall as well as some bushes and a small tree.

Reid said that if there was evidence of Georgi knowingly encroaching or widening the driveway, he might view the matter differently, but he hasn't seen any such evidence. Cross said nobody's ever accused Georgi of that.

The property is currently for sale. Meggison noted that if Georgi sells the house, then somebody else is going to take over the encroachment problem.

At the conclusion of the meeting, Georgi told council members, "That driveway's been there longer than you've been alive."

Charlevoix City Council members took their meeting on the road last Wednesday to tour a driveway belonging to Dick Georgi on Park Avenue. The driveway encroaches on city property. According to old topographical maps the area of encroachment is much smaller than originally thought. After the tour, the council voted 4-2 against a motion to allow Georgi to repave the area of city property in the existing driveway. (Photo by L. Scott Swanson)

Civil rights and liberties take three hits from Washington

Civil rights and civil liberties have taken three hits in recent weeks - one apiece from the U.S. Supreme Court, Senate and House of Representatives.

The U.S. Supreme Court ruled that high school athletes can be subjected to random drug tests. The U.S. Senate passed a telecommunications bill which would make certain types of speech illegal on the internet. The House of Representatives Judiciary Committee approved a constitutional amendment to make flag burning illegal.

All three laws are the result of good intentions gone awry. In all three cases, the laws passed on good intentions have ramifications which result in the laws doing American society far more harm than good.

The Supreme Court ruling is in regard to an Oregon state law allowing high school athletes to be subjected to random drug testing. Fortunately, in Michigan we have no such law and, according to some legal types, the State Constitution would take a dim view of any similar law in this state.

Obviously, the intention of the Oregon law is to keep high school athletes off of drugs. Granted, that's a noble intention. But the damages done by this law are twofold.

First there is the issue of infringement of the high school athletes' right to privacy and right not to be subjected to unreasonable searches. As long as there is no evidence of wrong-doing, high school athletes, like all other members of American society, should be allowed to go about the business of life without having to worry about someone, on a whim, demanding that they take a drug test. Participation in high school athletics should not carry with it an expectation of diminution of a person's rights as a human being.

Random drug testing of high school athletes also sends young people a message that unfortunately is sent to them all too often. That is the message that all young people are somehow suspect and more often than not up to no good. That message usually results from older people who have all too quickly forgotten their youth and who for one reason or another are not often provided with an opportunity to interact with young people.

While, like some adults, some young people are a pain, that is in no way true of the vast majority, particularly in our own community. As with adults, most young people you meet in Charlevoix are good people. Their presence is not to be feared. It is to be enjoyed. The message they need to be sent is not that they are inherently suspect. The message society needs to send young people is the same message that other people need to receive. Treat your fellow man with respect and compassion and more often than not you will be treated accordingly.

Beyond the moral issues, there is the practical value, or lack of value, of random drug testing of high school athletes. Assuming a student is doing drugs, it would be simple to avoid being caught through random testing by just not participating in athletics. If the goal of random drug testing is to reduce student drug use and there's any shred of truth to what advocates of high school athletics say about the value of participation, then chasing students out of athletics is probably counterproductive to the goal. That's not to say that you do nothing within the confines of high school athletics to discourage drug use. The reality is that for most sports drug use diminishes performance. When performance diminishes, an athlete should be sent to the bench or home, not to the bathroom.

The Senate's passage of the Exon Amendment within the telecommunications bill is another example of an effort to protect youth gone astray. The amendment's aim is to protect children from exposure to pornography via computer networks. Again, the goal, in and of itself is OK. The problem is the means being used in an attempt to achieve it.

What the amendment does is attempt to make some types of communication, ostensibly indecent communication, via computer networks illegal.

From a moral perspective, in a country valuing free speech the amendment is absurd. People are lining up to challenge the constitutionality of the federal government attempting to limit what people can say to one another, be it via computer or any other form of communication. And that should be challenged. When government puts restraints on speech, it puts restraints on ideas and thoughts. That is clearly not the role of government in a free society.

From a practical standpoint, the amendment is ill-conceived. To begin with, you shouldn't believe all you hear and read about pornography and obscenity on computer networks. Sure, it's there if you want to go looking for it, but you have to go looking for it and it is not nearly as prevalent as media attention given the problem has caused many people to believe. Computer networks are a wonderful technological advance for society. They offer the potential for information exchange which can help society in countless ways. The presence of pornography and obscenity are like a small black spot on a new bulb shedding new light on society.

Parental monitoring of what children are doing on the computer, programs limiting what areas of computer networks children can access and other measures equate to cleaning the spot from the bulb. The Exon Amendment equates to attempting to remove the spot by hitting the light bulb with a hammer.

Fortunately, some leaders of the House of Representatives have recognized the amendment as ill-conceived and say they will attempt to either delete it or change it before the telecommunications act becomes law.

While the House of Representatives has done well on the Exon Amendment, they've had problems of their own in the civil rights area. The Judiciary Committee is pushing a constitutional amendment to ban flag burning.

This is a strange issue because it is freighted with hypocrisy on both sides. People who burn flags are exercising their right to free speech, but they are doing so by burning something which is a symbol of that right and many others. It's the equivalent of a school homecoming celebration where the player burned in effigy is from the home team. The only social statement flag burning makes is that the person doing it is neither patriotic nor intelligent. But rather than taking the sensible approach and denying flag burners the attention they crave by ignoring them or quietly labeling them morons and going about business, the House of Representatives is attempting to counter one stupid move with another. Congressmen propose to protect one of America's greatest symbols of freedom by restricting and infringing upon one of those freedoms. Now that's odd.

Letters to the editor

Jimmy Bogart: familiar character who will be missed

Editor,

I was saddened today when I read of the death of Jimmy Bogart at the age of 81. In my mind we have lost two Charlevoix landmarks in 1995, the water tower and Jimmy Bogart.

When I was growing up in Charlevoix in the '40s, '50s & '60s, there wasn't an event in town that Jimmy Bogart wasn't there. Every football, basketball, track or city happening, you'd look around and there was Jimmy. Every out of town sporting event, Jimmy was there. If the game was out of town and Jimmy didn't have a ride, he would stand by the bridge if the game was north and somebody would pick him up. If it was south he would wander down south bridge street 'til somebody picked him up there.

You'd be walking downtown and you'd hear the "thump, thump, thump" coming behind you and it would be Jimmy running to the bank for some merchant. It might be Schroeder's Drug Store, Ken Celler, Oscar Ward or the Harbor Barber. He stopped in every downtown store almost every day when Johnny Cross didn't have him putting up fish nets.

One thing you did not do was speak to Jimmy first. He would never say "hi" to you if you spoke to him first. You'd always let him say "hi" first. He had lots of nicknames too. Most people called him Jim or Jimmy, but a few friends called him Bogey or Bogart. Don Meggison called him "Sputnik" after the Russian space launch. I think he picked up the name "Annie" at the pool room also.

I'll always have fond memories of my youth in Charlevoix. Jimmy was one of them.

So long Bogey, Jimmy, Bogart, Annie,

Foundation awards youth program grants

Students who serve on the Charlevoix County Community Foundation's Youth Advisory Committee spent part of the year surveying their peers and teachers to learn more about area needs. Now, they're applying what they learned and doing what they can to make things better for Charlevoix County's children and families.

The youth group recently voted to give $6,700 in grants to various organizations and programs that benefit area kids. The money comes from a special Community Foundation endowment targeted to fund youth projects.

Programs chosen for funding, and their grant amounts, are:

- The Exceptional Riders Program, $1,500 to purchase saddles for use by physically and mentally challenged children and adults who participate in the horseback riding project.

- Planned Parenthood, $1,500 to help fund TROUPE Teen Theater, a highly acclaimed educational program that teaches young people how to resist peer pressure and say "No."

- Raven Hill Discovery Center, $1,000 to support summer internships for college students and expand the Center's educational programs to young children.

- East Jordan Public Schools, $1,000 to be used for Sci-Tech Camp, a summer program geared to elementary and middle school students.

- Michigan State University Extension/4-H, $700 to purchase goal nets for the Boyne City's popular soccer program.

- Women's Resource Center, $500 to help fund a special rape and assault prevention workshop for 11th grade girls in Charlevoix County.

- Boyne City Nursery, $500 toward a challenge grant to help purchase and build playground equipment for the nonprofit center.

Senator logs on to the internet

Sen. Carl Levin, D-Mich., has unveiled a home page on the World Wide Web, joining 16 other U.S. senators now online with a Web site.

"I'm happy to be able to bring this service to Michigan. This is a great way to share information and receive feedback about what I'm doing in Washington, D.C. with people back home and across the country," said Levin. "We're ready to bring news and information to Michigan Internet users, whose numbers are growing more each day."

Levin's Web site is located at: <ftp://ftp.senate.gov/member/mi/levin/general/levin.html>

Levin's E-mail address is: senator@levin.senate.gov

The Levin Home Page provides the latest information on legislation before Congress, speeches Levin has delivered on the Senate floor, and current press releases. Also available in its permanent directory are Levin's biography and his office locations throughout Michigan.

In addition, the Levin Home Page will offer users access to countless local, state and federal Internet resources. Michiganians and non-Michiganians alike can connect to other pages containing information on anything from Michigan tourism guides to federal small business loan listings. This function is particularly important to individuals in rural areas whose access to conventional libraries and research centers is limited.

The World Wide Web expands Internet communication beyond text alone to image-based documents. The Web interconnects and cross-references home pages, allowing the user to jump from document to document and site to site with user-friendly ease.

Internet is currently used by approximately 30 million people worldwide - at businesses, homes, government offices, and almost 40 percent of American schools. It is estimated that 35 percent of American families have a computer in the home, and the number of Internet users grows as much as 10 percent each month.

The bride carried a bouquet of white and pale pink roses, white carnations, freesia, ivy, white tulle, ribbon, and pearls.

Cheryl Sterling was the pianist for the ceremony. Soloists were Reverend Jim Simonsen, Cindy Strickler, and Aaron Asmus. Other vocalists were Susan Simonsen, Rick and Pam Henchar.

CMU theater group begins summer season

A recovering alcoholic, a bitter college professor and a pair of divorced mystery writers are the subjects of three plays to be presented during the Central Michigan University summer theater season in Petoskey.

"The Gingerbread Lady" will be performed July 5, 8, 14 and 20. "Wrong Turn at Lungfish" will be presented July 6, 12, 15 and 21. "Marriage is Murder" is set for July 7, 13, 19 and 22.

All shows begin at 8 p.m. in the Virginia M. McCune Community Arts Center. Tickets are $7 for the general public and $5 for students and senior citizens.

The subject of Neil Simon's "The Gingerbread Lady" is Evy Meara, a popular singer who has spent 10 weeks drying out in a sanitarium. She returns home to find that her teenage daughter has decided to move in with her.

"Evy's not-always-successful struggle to rebuild her life while coping with the sometimes unusual lives of her friends and family result in a play that is both humorous and touching," according to Timothy Connors, coordinator of the CMU summer theater program.

"The Gingerbread lady" is the first Petoskey production for the play's director, CMU faculty member Scott Dillard.

"Wrong Turn at Lungfish," a "funny and poignant play" by Garry Marshall and Lowell Ganz, focuses on Anita Merendino, who volunteers to read to blind hospital patients, and Peter Ravenswaal, the bitter college professor she reads to.

"Their clash of intellect and wit propels the action," said Connors. "As Anita and Peter learn to deal with each other, they also learn about themselves - their fears and regrets and, most importantly, their hopes," he said.

Steven Berglund, who has directed CMU Theater productions in Petoskey every summer since 1987, directs.

Connors, who also is a veteran of Petoskey theater productions, directs "Marriage is Murder," a comedy written by Nick Hall.

The play centers on Paul and Polly Butler, a divorced couple who co-wrote mysteries while married. Then they decide to collaborate again, the plot "twists and turns as Paul and Polly try to outdo each other until Paul finally is forced to ask, 'Are we rehearsing a murder or re-staging our marriage?'"

Eleven students are participating in CMU's ninth summer theater season. Costume designer Doris Ramsey and scene designer Bill Valle add their professional talents to the shows.

New rabbi joins area temple

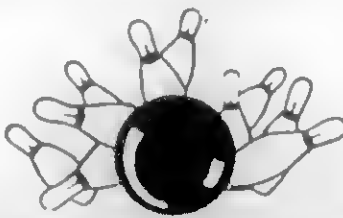

Temple B'Nai Israel is pleased to welcome their new Rabbinic Intern Yael Splansky who will serve the congregation through the summer and will hold regular Shabbat (Sabbath) services each Friday evening at 8 p.m. with greeting time at 7:45 p.m. An Oneg (social hour) will follow the services each week. Yael will also continue to serve B'Nai Israel on a monthly weekend through the winter months.

Yael comes to Petoskey from Hebrew Union College, Cincinnati, where she is a third year student in the Rabbinic graduate program. Prior to this, in May, 1993, she received a B.A. in Jewish Studies and Anthropology at Indiana University, Bloomington, IN. Her impressive list of credits includes spending the 1991-92 season at Hebrew University, Jerusalem, in the Junior Year Abroad Program. Her pulpit prior to B'Nai Israel was at Congregation Beth Shalom, College Station, Texas, where she was responsible for monthly visits, including Shabbat morning and evening services, Torah study, Adult and Family Education, Religious School, Bar/Bat Mitzvah Classes, Conversion Class, Holiday celebrations, and all counseling needs.

Miss Splansky will be ordained in 1998 as a fourth generation Reform Rabbi. She has heard a great deal about Temple B'Nai Israel, and the Petoskey area and looks forward to being here. Members may issue invitations to Yael Splansky for social activities, lunch, dinner, visitations, counseling, etc. by calling her at 347-8740 or at 348-3920. The Board of Directors has planned many interesting religious, social, and educational programs for the summer.

The public is invited to all programs and services at the Temple, which is located at the corner of Michigan and Waukazoo. For further information, please call 347-8740, 347-8003, or 647-2636.

BEACONS

OF BLESSINGS

by REV. BRUCE HAMILTON

In our church tradition, we occasionally set aside a portion of the worship service for people who want special prayer for healing. It is based on a section of the book of James that reads, "Is any one of you sick? He should call the elders of the church to pray over him and anoint him with oil in the name of the Lord..."

We were at a camp meeting where pastors from all over the region were in attendance and the senior minister present felt that just such a service of prayer would be appropriate. After caring for a number of folks, one last woman made her way to the altar. Her name was Jean. You could tell from her face that whatever it was had really discouraged her. I cried on the inside when she shared that the doctor had just told her she had developed Alzheimer's disease.

Can you imagine how you would feel? Think of it. Your mind would gradually slip away from you and there would be nothing you could do about it. People you had been close to and who had loved you for decades would not even be a memory. I don't know about you. I think I would be scared, frightened, and maybe even a little bit angry.

But Jean looked at us and told us Jesus had healed her before and she believed He could do it again. She asked us to pray and we did. I wish I could tell you that a miracle happened, but I can't. Then again, maybe I can. For to me, a miracle does happen when you realize that you need not face even the most difficult circumstances of life alone. A miracle does happen when you reach out in faith and grab hold of the Author and Finisher of life itself and place your life in His control. It won't be easy for Jean, but it will be easier than it could have been because she is beginning her fight by putting her hands in God's.

What about you? Have you thought about who you have to hold on to lately? We smile when we see young children clinging to security blankets or teddy bears. Who says just because we are adults that we don't need something to hold on to as well? Another Bible passage speaks of a woman who suffered with bleeding in her body for twelve years. All the doctors and all the medicines she tried did not work. When she heard about Jesus, she felt in her heart if she could just reach out and take hold of his cloak, she would be healed. She did. She was. And Jesus made sure she knew everything would be OK.

What about you? You don't have to fight your way through a crowd. You don't have to wish, hope or wonder if God cares. If you will make your way towards the Lord, He is more than willing to make His way towards you. You can have someone to hold on to through anything you might face. He's as close as the mention of His name.

Several local people to sell products in craft fair

by Laurie Lounsbury

The Charlevoix Craft Show on July 8 will give hundreds of crafters a place to display their hand made work. Crafters will set up booths through all the downtown parks, from Bridge Park to East Park. Quilts, woodworking items, furniture, paintings, and area photos will be for sale. Charlevoix crafters and artisans will be well represented at the show. Some local artists will be returning after years of craft show exhibits, and some are jumping into the show for their first time.

New to the craft show this year is Linda Boss. Boss hand paints children's clothes, hats, and T shirts with tulips, fish, and boats. It was Boss's friends and relatives who encouraged her to enter the show. She's been making hand painted clothes for her nieces and nephews for ten years. Her work was so popular with friends and family that she decided to go public with it. Boss creates her own designs and applies the styles to a variety of pieces. Tote bags match children's rompers and adult shirts.

Boss also makes hand-painted bird houses and mail boxes, which she can barely keep in stock. "Every time I get started on a mail box, someone sees it and wants to buy it before I can get it done," Boss said. The price of Boss's work ranges from $5 for a decorated baby bottle to $25 for clothing and $75 for mail boxes.

Florence Peterson is an award winning quilter who specializes in recycling denim. Choosing the best pieces from old jeans, Peterson makes elaborate denim quilts, pillow shams, and ever popular denim bags. Peterson has been on the art show circuit since 1970. A more recent edition to Peterson's line are water color wall quilts and color washed, geometric quilts. Peterson works with tiny, two inch squares and creates a large design from the many tiny floral designs.

The denim quilt products are popular with youngsters. "Kids like it. They walk through art shows and finally find something they like," Peterson said. A favorite item for busy moms are Peterson's toy totes. Made of a fabric with a small town map pattern on it, the large round tote can be thrown on the floor, where kids can drive match-box cars on the streets. When play-time is over, a rope that circles the border is drawn, catching all the toys in the inside, and the whole thing pulls up into a tote bag.

Sue Kennedy is entering the craft show for her second time. "I'm really excited about it, rain or shine. I love seeing the crowds of people in the park," she said. Kennedy works with painted wood items, creating her own brand of folk art. This year she'll feature tall, stand up Santas with whimsical mop beards. Kennedy also has hand-painted, wood watermelon slices that were popular last year, along with a variety of other hand painted folk items. Two of Kennedy's children, Sherry has led numerous workshops in several States on spiritual & metaphysical subjects. Clairvoyant from early childhood, and having worked for a Medical Doctor, in his office, as a "Sensitive", she is well known for her down to earth and gently humorous approach to esoteric subjects. Her story is told in the instructional and inspirational Avalon video production "How To Meet Your Angels". Over a thousand people have used these simple techniques to change their lives. A guest on radio and television, she is also the author of several books, workbooks & meditation tapes.

The focus of her workshops is on SPIRITUAL, rather than psychic, development. This is the "middle path", the path of balance and self-responsibility. An interesting and fascinating experience is promised. (Some scholarships available.)

Tom and Amy, get in on the act by helping their mother. Tom cuts the shapes out of wood for his mom, while Amy makes her own puff animals out of pom poms. Kennedy's work sells for under $40.

Lu Ann Allport is another newcomer to the craft show. Allport is reviving an art that dates back 200 years to the colonial women in our country. Allport makes handpainted floor coverings out of sail canvas. Centuries ago, the colonial women used old canvas sails, to put down over their hard wood floors to protect the flooring. They tried to improve the appearance of the old sail material by stenciling and painting designs on them.

Allport's floor coverings sport bold sunflower designs on some, hand painted leaves on others, and sponged-on bricks. The faux brick floor coverings often come with a tromp l'oeil surprise. Allport painted a small raw egg on some, as if spilled there, and car keys on another, as if dropped by accident. "The trompe l'oeil is one of my favorite things. I'd like to do more of that," Allport said. Allport's work varies in price from $65 to $150.

Property owners receive bigger tax bills than expected

Property tax bills are normally higher than property owners want them to be. But in the case of bills which were mailed to taxpayers Friday, the bills are also higher than many taxpayers expected them to be.

The reason for bills being higher than some people expected is that all school tax millage is now being levied on the summer tax bill. In the past, half of the school taxes were levied on the summer bill and half on the winter bill. So while school property taxes will be higher in the summer, they will be lower in the winter.

Property taxpayers in the Charlevoix school district are paying either six mills in school tax or 24 mills. The six mills applies to property which is a person's primary residence. The 24 mills applies to non-homestead property. People paying the 24 mill figure are the ones who will see the radical difference between summer and winter tax figures.

Even the term "mill" has changed. In the past a mill was $1 for every $1,000 of a property's assessed value, with assessed market value being half of theoretical market value. Now, a mill is $1 for every $1,000 of a property's taxable value (the "TV" figure you'll see on your tax bill). Taxable value reflects the ceiling of 5 percent or inflation (whichever is less) that Proposal A placed on property value increases for tax purposes.

Tax bills for city taxpayers went in the mail this past Friday with taxpayers receiving the bills Saturday or Monday.

New restaurant opens on harbor

by Laurie Lounsbury

Keep a very close eye on the former Bridge Club bar. It is changing its colors, size, and shape. Steve Ager and Bob Foster, Harbor Vista owners, are back in their location at 218 Bridge Street. This time they're back for good. They're also bigger than ever, with the business now occupying all of the Bridge Street building.

The restaurant should be open for breakfast, lunch, and dinner sometime this week.

Harbor Vista will open with all the favorite items back on the menu. Rotisserie broasted chicken, traditional pot roast, quesadillas and burritos are all crowd pleasers for less than ten dollars. Kids' meals are priced under four dollars. "We're going to try really hard to make it affordable for the family," Ager said.

The restaurant will undergo a gradual metamorphosis through the winter months. The bar will move into the back room overlooking Round Lake, with a sunken bar giving patrons a clear view of the lake. The old movie theater next door will become the restaurant, with dinner seating for 200 in the theater building. On the street side of the theater building, new restrooms are going to be installed. The former Bridge Street bar will become a deli, selling fresh foods prepared by Bob Foster. "If we don't make it here, we won't sell it here," Foster said of his fresh food.

Bob Foster and Steve Ager take a quick break from the task at hand. The two are working hard to get Harbor Vista re-opened for business. The restaurant at 218 Bridge St. should be open any day. (Photo by Laurie Lounsbury)

Senator commended for attendance record

State Senator Walter North (R-St. Ignace) recorded a perfect attendance record during his first six months in the state senate.

North, elected to his first term in the senate last November, attended all 57 sessions days and answered 98.6 percent of the 424 record roll call votes taken from January first until the legislature adjourned last week.

Senate Majority Leader Dick Posthumus (R-Alto) praised North for his perfect attendance and outstanding voting record.

"Only 13 members were in attendance for every session during the first six months of this term," Posthumus said. "This is an education of the solid commitment Walt takes toward his obligation to represent the citizens of the 37th district. His is a strong voice for the voters of his district and they can be proud of their senator for this outstanding accomplishment."

North noted it is not easy to attend every session with the many competing interests for every moment of his time at the Capitol and in the district.

"The citizens of my district expect me to carry their opinions to my colleagues on the senate floor and vote on the issues brought before us," North said. "I will continue to push hard for the issues important to my district. The best way to do this is to be there to vote."

Health Partnership formed

In a precedent setting move, health care providers from throughout northern Michigan have formed a Community Health Partnership to improve the health status of communities in the counties of Antrim, Charlevoix, Emmet and Otsego. The Partnership will lead efforts to assess the current health status of the community and its residents, set priorities and address health needs within each community.

Partnership goals emphasize collaboration and co-operation with all segments of the community to gather and analyze information and set priorities. The group plans to rely heavily on local task forces in each of the four counties to accomplish their goals. These task forces are now being formed and the Partnership is seeking volunteers to participate on the task forces.

This is an opportunity for community residents in the four counties to become involved in a grass roots effort to influence how our health care system may be made more responsive to community needs and priorities.

It is expected that these groups will discuss a wide range of issues relating to health. Topics such as access to health care, access to preventive services, adequate prenatal care, transportation, cost, health insurance or lack of health insurance, children's health and nutrition and the needs of special populations may be included in the work of the task forces.

"Local task forces are key to the success of this entire project," said Gerry Chase, Administrator of District Health Department #3.

Interested citizens can contact any member of the Partnership for more information or to volunteer to serve on a local county task force.

Partnership members are: Charlevoix Area Hospital, Chip Counseling Centers, East Jordan Family Health Center, District Health Department #3, Munson Healthcare, Northern Michigan Community Mental Health, Northern Michigan Hospital/Burns Clinic Foundation and Otsego Memorial Hospital.

English woman teaches soccer to local Yanks

Linda Veryard didn't start playing soccer in her home country of England until she was 20 years old. Many of her students in a Charlevoix summer soccer camp this past week were less than half that age.

Veryard is from Manchester, England. In England, she plays soccer for the Leyton Orient soccer team. It is a women's team affiliated with one of the men's professional teams. For the past five years, Veryard has coached at soccer camps affiliated with the North American Soccer Camps program. Up until this year she had coached at camps in the eastern United States. This year she wanted to see a different part of the country and ended up in the Midwest, in Charlevoix.

The North American Soccer Camps program has been in existence for more than a quarter of a century. Last year approximately 230 coaches worked with about 30,000 kids. There are only about a dozen women coaches in the program and Veryard is one of them. She says the number of women coaching soccer is "really lacking because women haven't got role models."

Of her own experience with soccer, Veryard said she didn't start playing until age 20 because up until that time men in England frowned upon women playing the game and consequently there were few opportunities to play. Until she was able to play soccer, Veryard played several other sports such as field hockey and an English version of basketball.

Veryard has been working with six to 10-year-old children in the morning and 11 to 14-year-old children in the afternoon.

"The enthusiasm of the kids for the game is amazing," she said.

Veryard said the North American Soccer Camps program is designed to combine fun with a learning experience. Last week one of the drills the players did was kind of like a game of tag where six players were trying to kick soccer balls so that they would strike one of six other players in the legs.

Rather than having children leap into the game headfirst playing full squad, full-field games, Veryard encourages bringing children into the game slowly. She likes to start children at about age six playing with three players to a team and no goals.

After finishing up the Charlevoix soccer camp, Veryard planned to spend a few days in Michigan before going back to New England where she will coach camps until leaving for her homeland in October.

Of northern Michigan, she said, "I can't believe how nice it is. I'd certainly like to come back."

Webster makes hole-in-one at Cheboygan Club

Dick Webster of Charlevoix shot a hole in one recently at the Cheboygan Country Club. Webster sank the hole in one with a 129 yard drive on the ninth hole. He was playing with Glen Taylor, Howard Struthers, and Bill Kury, all of Charlevoix.

Charlevoix - numerically speaking

What computer data tells us about our town

By L. Scott Swanson

Even Charlevoix has not escaped the eye of technology. Computer systems of the world have locked on to even us small town folk here in the northern Michigan hinterlands.

Just ask Veronica (an Internet system used to search computer data bases) and she'll tell you that computer systems of the world know things about us here in Charlevoix - lots of things. They know how many of us live here. They know that racially there are a whole lot of white people and scant few Aleuts. And even though many speak of Charlevoix as "up north," according to computer files the Eskimos here are few and far between.

When asked to look up the word "Charlevoix," Veronica sits back, scratches her processing chip for a minute and then spits out a list with 18 separate categories. Thirteen of the listings are for townships in Charlevoix County. Yes, even Chandler Township where mushrooms outnumber people 10 to 1 is its own little rest area on the information superhighway.

"Charlevoix city" is third down on the list, right behind "Charlevoix-county" and "Charlevoix-Municipal-well."

Opening the Charlevoix city file brings up another list divided into four categories: population data; social characteristics; income and poverty data; and summary housing data. The information contained in these categories is voluminous. (That means there's a lot of it.)

The information is derived from the 1990 census, which given that this is 1995 means that most of the information is at least five years old. But still, in a small town like this, how much significant change really occurs in five years. Ok, ok,

County looks at purchasing Antrim house

By Laurie Lounsbury

Harold Black has a big decision to make in the next few months. He'll have to decide just how much he likes living in his house on Antrim Street. His home at 207, Antrim sits next to the county annex building. The county would like to buy the house and tear it down to create more parking spaces. The new county building addition will expand into the existing county parking lot, creating a need for more parking. The county plans to tear down the white home on Mason Street that houses the department of building inspection. That home site, combined with the Black home site, could create a large, rectangular parking lot.

"It's a big decision. We're sitting right here close to everything: the county building, the grocery store, the post office. They'd have to make me a very good offer," Black said. Black has been living in his Antrim Street home since 1962.

County commissioners are hoping to get help from the Charlevoix

Castle remains a community center until December

By Laurie Lounsbury

It's business as usual at Castle Farms - at least for the rest of the summer. The Castle Farms group was unable to come up with their annual payment of $229,500, owed to Art Reibel's family trust. The Reibel family trust attorney has served Castle Farms with a notice of default. But since the wheels of justice grind slowly, the Reibel family won't be able to reclaim possession of the property before the summer is over.

Art Reibel is content with the arrangement. "They (the Castle Farms supporters) can have the property for their summer programs," Reibel said.

Reibel also said that booking concerts at the castle this summer was an impossibility. "The concert season isn't going to happen this summer because of time elements. Promoters need at least two months to promote concerts," Reibel explained.

Castle summer programs consist of the children's story tree on Wednesdays, a music and drama camp, and entertainment on Thursday evenings.

Reibel's daughter Kim will organize and host the Castle Art Fair in August.

But when the summer ends, what happens? "I imagine in the course of events, the castle will be turned over to the trust, probably after their summer activities," Reibel said.

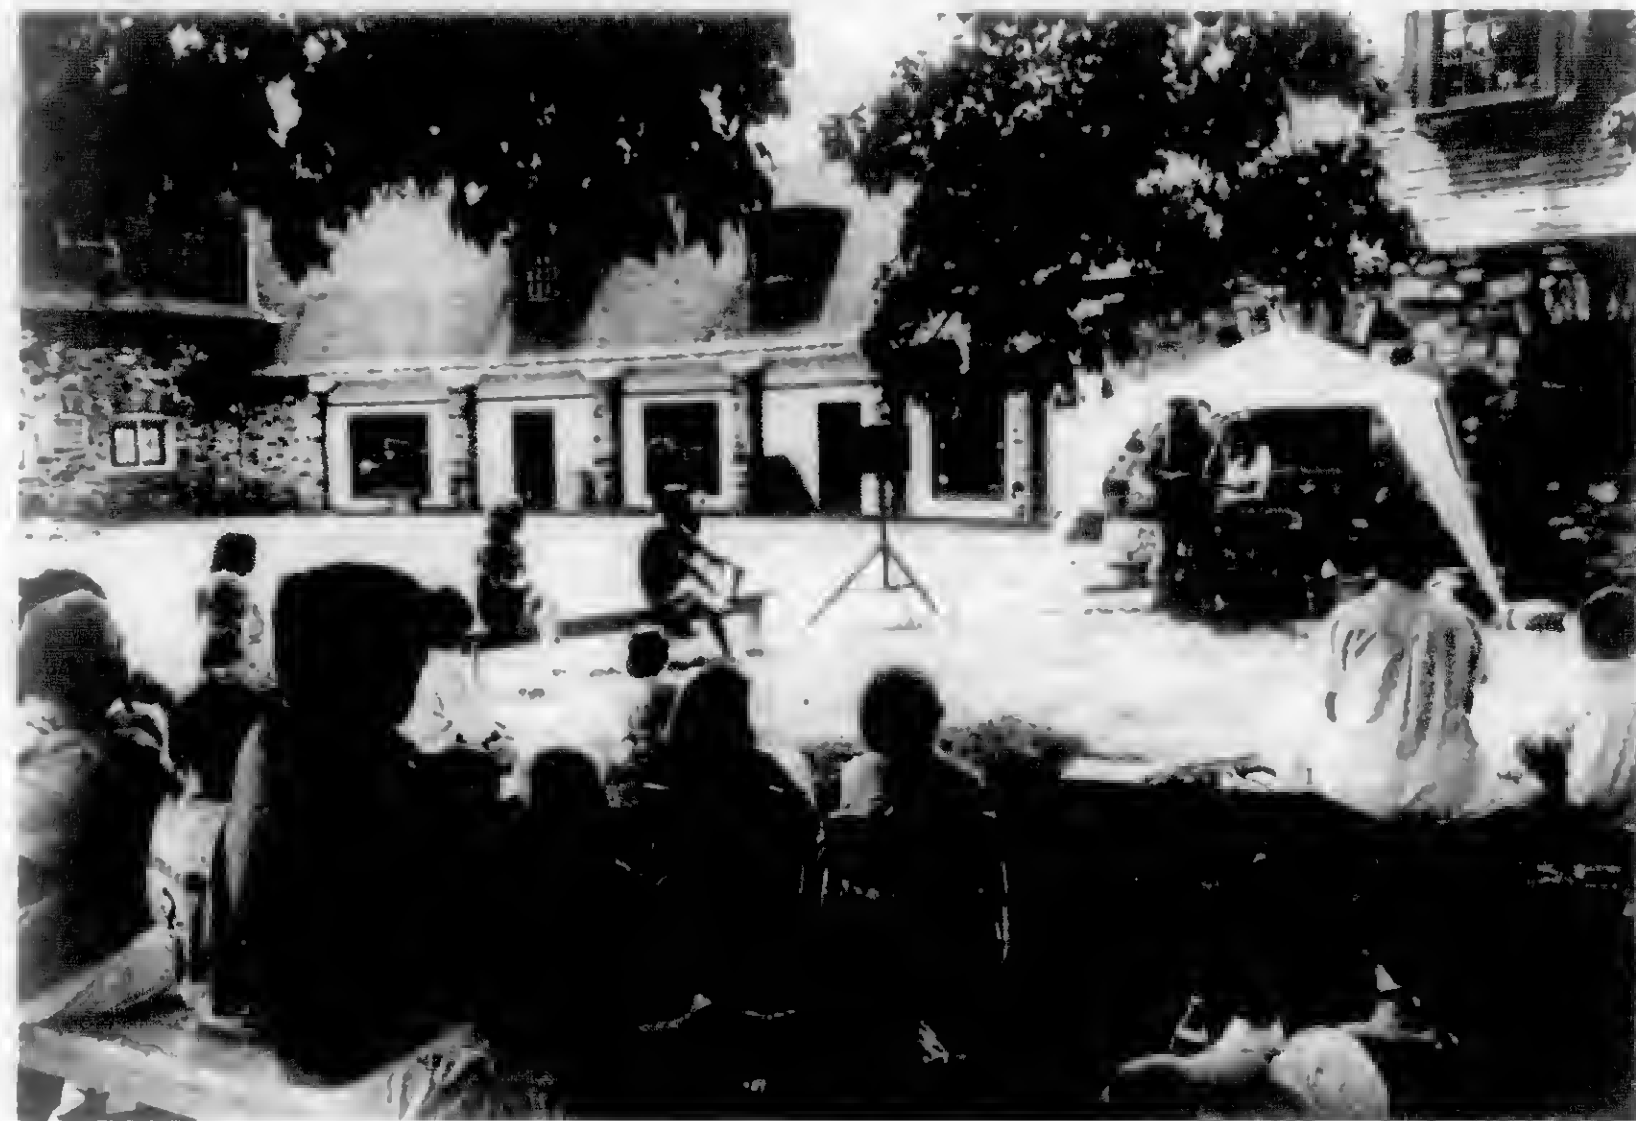

The Castle's executive director John Porter is running out of hope for salvation. "The board of directors is so tired of struggling it's pathetic," Porter said. The group has run out of funds to pay their one full time employee, Gail Phillips. Phillips is now working for free.

Former board member Lou Hollow is sorry to see the castle project sinking slowly under a burden of debt. "In retrospect, we did so many things at the beginning. We went in too many directions. The reality was, we should have been thinking. We've got to raise the money now, we've got to make that payment." It would take an angel of mercy flying in now to save it," Hollow said.

Downtown Development Authority to purchase the Black home. "It's only right that the DDA supports us on this, since one of their goals is downtown parking," said commissioner Rieh Gillespie. Gillespie's district includes the city of Charlevoix. Gillespie said that the board is getting an independent appraisal of the home so they can make a fair offer. Don Smith, chairman of the county commissioners, has been authorized by the board to handle negotiations. Smith refused to comment on the issue, saying he won't discuss the matter until it comes up at a public meeting.

DDA chairman Hugh Mason isn't opposed to helping the county with the purchase. "I'm not against it, but there has to be some negotiations," Mason said. A portion of the cost might be reimbursed to the county at a later date. "We will have money down the road, but until we get Bridge Park done, we're not going to do much of anything else," Mason said.

...what the numbers say about Charlevoix

we tore down the old water tower. But does that make the whole U.S. Census invalid?

This is all raw data (as opposed to boiled or fried data). That means you can look it over and make of it what you may. As you start going through the data, be advised that often raw data raises more questions than it answers.

According to the data, there are 3,116 persons in the city of Charlevoix. That must be kind of an average. Shoot, on a busy summer evening there are darn near that many people hanging out downtown on Bridge Street.

Of the 3,116 persons there are 1,401 male persons and 1,715 female persons. That would mean there are 314 lonely women in this town and that can probably be taken as good news for you if you're a single man.

Speaking of marital status, there are a fair amount of never married people over 15 years of age in this town. (Why did they choose the age of 15 as the cut off point? In this area, 17 or 18 probably would have been more realistic. But it's a U.S. Census and they probably had to factor in some of the hinterlands of Appalachia.) The data says there are 291 never married males and 292 females. Single women, be advised - according to the census, marriage in Charlevoix is like a game of musical chairs. One woman in this town who is bound and determined that she will have "Mr. Right" and not just "Mr. You'll Have To Do" is going to end up left out.

Here's an odd thing. In the category that tells whether the 3,116 persons in Charlevoix are urban or rural, the census is unwilling to take a stand. Under the category "Urban and Rural Universe," the data lists all 3,116 of us not as "Inside urbanized area" or "Outside urbanized area" or "Rural," but as "Not defined for this file." This can only mean one thing. We persons of Charlevoix are living in a universe unto ourselves.

A lot of us, 2,752, speak English. A few of us speak a bit of German or Spanish. Nearly 50 of us speak French or French Creole. Ten of us speak "other and unspecified languages." It does not say whether profanity is an unspecified language. If it is, the number ten is low. Most of us travel to work in less than 10 minutes. As to means of transportation, we drive alone in cars, trucks and vans. None of us take the subway.

Most of us, both male and female aged 16 and over, work 35 hours per week or more for 50 to 52 weeks a year. For this, we are paid (in 1989 figures) somewhere between $5,000 and $50,000. There is no category titled "Work Too Much - Paid Too Little." Such a category would have covered a lot of ground and allowed the list to be shortened significantly.

We have houses, 1,917 of them, and most of our houses have complete kitchens, 1,899, and plumbing facilities. Were you to expand your research to Charlevoix County, the plumbing picture is not so rosy. On a county-wide basis there are plumbing listings for sewer, septic and other. It's that "other" listing that you've got to wonder about.

The numbers tell us both everything and nothing about Charlevoix. They tell our "Aggregate Household Income In 1989 By Tenure And Mortgage Status," but they do not tell us whether or not we are a happy little town. Perhaps that information is in another file.

Author to sign book about Great Lakes shoreline

By Laurie Lounsbury

Mary Blocksma learned that in 1978, federal legislation gave a name to the 5,000 miles of shoreline along the Great Lakes. The legal maritime name is the Fourth Coast. It was an interesting tidbit of information Blocksma picked up when a map fell out of a National Geographic magazine she was perusing at a garage sale.

That map led Blocksma on a summer long expedition of the Fourth Coast. In 1990, Blocksma traveled 50 miles a day along the United States' side of the Great Lakes. The journey is chronicled in her newest book, aptly named "The Fourth Coast." Blocksma will be signing her new book at the Charlevoix Bookshop next to the bridge on Friday, July 14, from 3 to 5 p.m.

Blocksma's journey also led her to a permanent roosting spot on Beaver Island. Blocksma has lived all over the United States, mostly at the water's edge. Lakefront property taxes kept driving her to a new, less expensive stretch of waterfront. Now residing on Beaver Island, Blocksma has finally found what she needs.

"I finally found a place where I can settle in, go out to work, and always come home to," Blocksma said. The island appeal encompassed more than a pristine shoreline. Blocksma likes the intimate friendliness of the islanders. "As a writer, working at home, I got isolated. Here, there's always someone to talk to. I rarely get those lonely isolation blues," Blocksma said.

Blocksma has been a free lance writer for the last 20 years. She has written many children's books. Before writing "The Fourth Coast," Blocksma wrote "Naming Nature," a guide to nature in the Great Lakes area. "The Fourth Coast" is her 21st book.

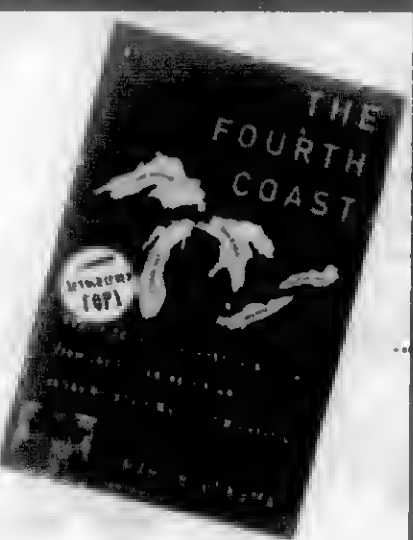

Steve Bennett (right) brings out freshly baked muffins to some of the people who have been helping to weed the petunia beds. The three volunteers are (from left) Katie Fletcher, Jason Kelly and Jason's grandfather, Robert E. Kelly. The battle for the petunia beds is ongoing, but the enemy weeds have been beaten back from many of the strongholds they had established just a few short weeks ago. Half the fun of shows is talking to people

While the crafts and cars involved in the annual craft show and car show are interesting, they're only half the fun. The other half, and perhaps the better half, is chatting with the craftspeople and car nuts who bring projects they've spent hundreds of hours on to sell or display in Charlevoix. If you fail to strike up at least one or two conversations at these events, you're really missing an opportunity.

Among the more eye-catching exhibits at Saturday's craft fair were a guy from Harbor Springs who made wooden fountain pens and a lady from somewhere in the middle of the state (Clare, I believe) who made pictures of barns out of lath.

It's not difficult to strike up a conversation at the craft show. Just look over some stuff, show you're interested and ask a leading question or two.

The ink pens were made of a variety of beautiful woods. The guy said he purchases inserts for the guts of the pens and turns the wooden exteriors on a lathe. Many of the woods he uses aren't native to northern Michigan. He gets his raw material either through mail order catalogues or at a downstate lumber mill. The end results of his labors make a cheap ballpoint look pretty sorry.

The lady who made barns in a media which she describes as "lath art" is another interesting story. She was positioned in a booth near the intersection of Bridge and Clinton. She had taken old pieces of lath, you know the thin wooden strips that you find, among other places, smothered in plaster in old houses, and turned it into art. Her art looked like paintings of barns, but instead of paint she used pieces of lath to depict her old barns.

According to the lady, she got into lath art when her brother, who was working on some job that involved survey stakes, brought home a bunch of lath that had been used for stakes. She figured there had to be some use for the stuff so she put some of it on the table and configured it into a picture of a barn. She used nails to hold her first barn in place, but the nails were too long and she ended up with her model barn nailed right to the table.

The lady worked in a restaurant and she gave one of the first barns she made to her boss. The restaurant owner hung the thing on a wall and the first thing you know several patrons wanted to buy the thing from him.

Well, the lady decided that maybe there was a market for her barns. She made a bunch of them and took them to a craft show last October. Now, she doesn't work at the restaurant any more. She sells lath art barns at craft shows.

People who attended this past weekend's car show may recall a little red car off toward the eastern end of the parking lot about halfway back in one of the rows. The information with the car described it as a "Street Fighter." What's a Street Fighter? Well, it's not a production model vehicle. She's one of a kind.

The Street Fighter was made by a fellow from Traverse City. The car is heavy on remote control. More than one person was surprised when the empty car they were looking at either beeped at them or began raising its hatch. It did that because the chuckling owner was standing a few feet away playing with buttons on a small remote control unit hidden in the palm of his hand.

The owner is a guy who works in the air conditioning business. He's also into martial arts. He decided he wanted a car that wasn't like any other. So he and a friend built one. He bought the chassis and molded the body himself out of Fiberglass. He and his friend spent at least 500 hours shaping, finishing and painting the car body. On the interior the guy also manufactured his own seats and panels.

The car is elaborately wired. Almost everything can be controlled using buttons on the shift stick. As far as speed, there are faster cars, but the Street Fighter pops up to about 95 miles per hour.

Major car dealers often brag about their joint venture. Well, you want to talk joint venture in an automobile - the Street Fighter has components from 27 different car models. Now, there's a joint venture.

Asked how much money he's got into the car, the guy laughed. He said he talks to other people at car shows and they talk about the tens of thousands of dollars they have invested in their cars. This guy invested about $7,600 in his car. And the return was good. He's getting a world of fun and satisfaction out of it.

Letters to the editor

City didn't do justice to Fourth of July

Editor,

Fourth of July celebration has come and gone. Where were all the American flags that used to fly so proudly all over the down-town area and both sides of the street?

Did the City Administrators decide it was "old hat" to display Old Glory on the birthday of our great nation?

Are they all busy figuring how to spend $4 million plus on parks and docks? Is proposing to spend over $100,000 to raze a perfectly good building and take it off the tax rolls so much more important than keeping with the old traditions?

We hear and read more than enough about how to burn and destroy American flags. Why can't the down-town district show us people how to display and preserve them?

The tax payers go to great expense to have a big Christmas tree, lights and the whole nine yards of trappings, Santas, fire engines, parades and that's fine. We have many displays and great parades for Venetian week-end, sidewalks sales where we block off the walks and take to the streets, arts and crafts expositions and whatever else that comes along to turn a profit. We have flower plantings accompanied by parties, eats, camaraderie and the life, but when it comes to honoring the symbol of the greatest country on the face of the earth, we find it way, way down on the priority list.

Betsy Ross would starve to death in our little town, huh President Washington?

Several changes have taken place in the past decade

(Editor's note: This letter was originally published in the Courier 10 years ago. The writer asked us to republish it, noting that many of the objectives in the letter have been accomplished.)

Editor,

May I do a Judd Arnett and play "Under My Government" via your newspaper?

Here goes. Under my government I'd make as my first order of business keeping "the beautiful" in Charlevoix the Beautiful.

To this end, under my government, I'd copycat Atlanta's tree ordinance - replace trees, plant additional trees, etc. We would make Bridge-St. the same leafy bower as Dixon-St., to name one pleasant residential street.

Under my government I'd speak gently to each businessman to ask him if he has or is doing all he can to beautify Charlevoix. Wouldn't he rather have the French theme advocated by the Chamber of commerce than a neon sign with 68 colors?

Under my government I'd lose no time ordering a dozen metal mesh litter baskets to attach to poles along Bridge. There's no place for strollers to stash their trash - and it shows.

Under my government I'd hurry also to make a greensward again in front of the Beaver Island dock - add a few blossoms too.

Under my government, I'd declare Route 31 between here and Petoskey a scenic drive not to be despoiled by billboards and poor development.

Under my government I'd say to everyone I met - visit a city council meeting just once in your lifetime. If they come I'll set facing them and talk into a microphone so they'll all know what I propose to do Under my government.

Thanks for letting me play the game!

Big Brothers & Sisters seek volunteers

"One child waiting is too many," said Kay Vandervort, Executive Director of Big Brothers/Big Sisters of Northwestern Michigan. On Charlevoix County, 13 boys and girls are waiting for someone to spend a few hours a month with them.

The children are between the ages of 6 and 12 when they enter the program, but may remain in the program until they graduate from high school. They come from a variety of socio-economic, racial, cultural and religious backgrounds. Most come from single parent and low income households. All have an identifiable need which can be impacted by adding a stable adult influence to the child's life.

A Big Brother or Sister acts as a mentor and role model. By being a friend, he or she shows the child that no matter how tough things get, there's always someone special, in addition to the parent, who is there for them. The Big Brother or Sister is there to listen with an uncritical ear, and to help the child put things back in perspective.

A Big Brother or Sister is not a substitute parent, nor a babysitter, but a friend. The activities they do together are those that friends share. There are work projects, learning activities, recreational and fun activities. "What's important," said Vandervort, "is the being there. Bicycling in the park, a picnic, fishing, or just sitting and talking is all it takes. The child's self-esteem increases through the knowledge that a non-related adult genuinely cares."

The possibilities for the child's future are broadened by someone who can be a role model, who knows the obstacles, and knows how to work to overcome them. The Big Brother or Big Sister, by spending a few hours at a time, can make the difference in whether or not the child develops into a confident, hopeful adult.

The volunteer benefits through the chance to reconnect with youth, to share good times and to make a good life even better. The feelings of growing and learning are shared by both the child and the volunteer.

As one volunteer put it, "I joined to make a difference in a child's life, but I'm finding it has enriched my life as well."

"The first step to become a Big Brother or Sister is to call," said Vandervort. "Most people when they finally make that call, say they've been thinking about it for years. I think there's a fear we'll talk them into something they're uncomfortable with or that it's too tough to volunteer. Neither is the case. We talk about the program, then the individual decides if it's something they want to do or not."

There is a screening process for both children and volunteers. That process consists of a background check, an interview and a home visit. The screening process aids in finding a match between the volunteer's skills and the child's need, the mutual preferences of all parties, and the mutual interests between the adult and child.

For information about Big Brothers/Sisters, or to volunteer for the program, call 348-7510.

Beaver Island to celebrate history week

The Beaver Island Historical Society will host its 16th annual Museum Week July 17 - 22 this year. Started back in 1979 as a showcase for the Island's two museums: the Mormon Print Shop and the Marine Museum, Museum Week has now become a week long celebration of the Island's history, music, nature, and diverse cultures.

Once again, "Music on the Porch" will inaugurate the week at 8 p.m. Monday evening. The "Porch" is the porch of the Mormon Print Shop where Island musicians, including internationally acclaimed singer and composer Claudia Schmidt, will perform. The Print Shop is on the main street of Beaver Island, which will be partially blocked off for the concert.

Tuesday, Dennis Clarkson, proprietor of both Clarkson Provisions and the Shamrock Bar, will present the history and coming preservation of the Dockside Market, one of the island's oldest buildings still standing, at 2 p.m. at the Beaver Island Community School. Tuesday evening at 8 p.m. at the school, David Gladish, writer and newspaper columnist, will tell the sad tale of the "Marold" explosion, a tragedy which took the lives of five islanders.

A favorite Museum Week event has been the Children's Nature Walk by Dr. Jim Gillingham, head of the CMU Biological Station on the island. This year Dr. Gilling-ham will lead two Children's Nature Walks and by popular demand, two for adults. The Adult Nature Walks will both be held Wednesday morning at 9 a.m. starting from the CMU station on Sand Bay. Those for children will be Thursday and Friday mornings at 9 a.m. from Sand Bay. Pre-registration at the Print Shop Museum is required.

Wednesday afternoon, Clare Adkin, author of "Brother Benjamin; a History of the Israelite House of David" and lecturer, will give a talk and slide show on "High Island" where the House of David had a colony for 20 years at 2 p.m. at the Community School. In the evening, at 8 p.m. at the school, Shirley Gladish, curator of the Beaver Island Museums, will tell of the Mormons who came to the island with King James Strang and how they lived here and what became of them. Once again the house of Proctor, the island's fabled herbalist, will be open Tuesday and Wednesday afternoons from 1 to 3 p.m. Antje Price, Protar historian, will be in attendance.

Thursday's programs will be of special interest to children with the morning nature walk and the afternoon's Real Live Reptile Show, starring real, live reptiles to touch and feel. Sharing the billing and introducing his friends is the "Snake Back by popular request Thursday evening, will be Raymond and Carole Rewold presenting their interpretation of the Voyagers - the French explorers and traders who roamed the Great Lakes in the 17th and 18th centuries. The Rewolds appear in costume and re-enact the daily lives and customs of the Voyagers at their encampment at Whiskey Point at 8 p.m.

Friday morning and afternoon are again oriented with a nature walk in the a.m. and a Pet Show for real and/or imaginary pets at 2 p.m. at the Print Shop.

Friday evening, George Anthony of Traverse City and a descendant of Beaver Island's first settlers, the Ojibwa and Odawa, will tell us of his findings and relate the island's history as his ancestors experienced it at 8 p.m. at the Community School.

A first this year will be a Saturday afternoon program: "From New York State to the Michigan Territory in the 1800s: Prairie Pete and Sister Sarah, a.k.a. Wil and Sarah Reding, will demonstrate through period costume, customs and storytelling the lives and struggles of the early white settlers in Northern Michigan. This program will be at Whiskey Point at 2 p.m.

Laura Smith, Charlevoix Friends of the Pool secretary, adds another ripple to the pool campaign thermometer indicating that pool funds and assets have nearly reached the halfway mark of the $800,000 goal. Man killed while working on car

A 43-year-old Boyne City man was killed Saturday when a vehicle he was working under rolled backwards and ended up on top of him so he could not breathe. Timothy Seelye of Crozier Road, off of the Boyne City-East Jordan Road was pronounced dead at his home. He was found under the car by family members when they returned from a trip to town. Boyne City Ambulance and Fire Department members were called to the scene, but were unable to revive Seelye. The Charlevoix County Sheriff's Department has investigated and determined the death to be an accident. Seelye worked at Pat McKee Ford in Charlevoix.

One of my favorite images of the Lord is when the little children came to Him and just kind of overwhelmed Him. I can just envision them climbing up into His lap, pulling on His robe, and just taking in His wondrous love. The disciples thought the kids were being just a bother and tried to shoo them away. Jesus stopped them saying that they were the heart of what the kingdom was all about.

Think about your own children or grandchildren. They love you unconditionally and they trust you for everything. You are God's child; His son or daughter. Deep down within that grown up body, there is still the faith of a child just waiting to come out. What's on your mind? What's on your heart? Is there something, no matter how small it might seem to you, that you've been just dying to bring to God's attention. Chances are He already knows about it. He's just been waiting on you to ask Him. How else will you know that God answers prayer if you don't give it a try?

BEACONS

OF BLESSINGS

by REV. BRUCE HAMILTON

Somewhere, someone once said, "Be careful what you wish for. You might just get it!" I don't know about wishes. I do know something about prayers. I was serving as associate pastor in my very first church. The senior minister had been called out of town and it fell to me to follow up on any hospitalizations that occurred in the parish while he was gone. An elderly woman had sent word of her admission and her desire for "that new young fella" to come visit her.

Not having much experience back then, I was just learning that fine art of encouraging someone ill. Her biggest concern wasn't her sickness. She knew she was going to recover. She had lost her glasses since she had been in the hospital and felt totally unnerved without them. I didn't really know what else to say except "Why don't we pray?" So I asked the Lord to help her find her glasses and then left.

I had not been back in my office more than a half an hour when the phone rang and this dear lady's excited voice came ringing in my ear. "Pastor, you prayed and I found them! I found them! Isn't it wonderful how God answers prayer?"

Oh, I know. Some of you are reading this and saying that she just simply remembered where she put them. That may have been true but how do you think the recall got back into her mind? God is attuned to even the smallest things that concern His children. Too many folks have robbed themselves of some special blessings by locking their thinking into the Lord only being there for the major crises or catastrophes in our lives. He is indeed more than willing to assist us in those heart wrenching times but He is anxious to be involved in so much more.

One of my favorite images of the Lord is when the little children came to Him and just kind of overwhelmed Him. I can just envision them climbing up into His lap, pulling on His robe, and just taking in His wondrous love. The disciples thought the kids were being just a bother and tried to shoo them away. Saturday. The cost is $60 per couple with proceeds going to Camp Quality.

In the evening, weather permitting there will be tethered hot air balloon rides in downtown Boyne City for a $5 donation.

New youth golf program draws 94 young golf students

The new venture for young golfers, the Charlevoix County Junior Golf Association, has proven to be more popular than organizers had dared believe. Director Dean Davenport has 94 seven to seventeen year olds registered in the program. "We were thinking we'd have 30, hoped for 50 with our special promotion, but 94 is beyond our wildest imagination, Davenport said.

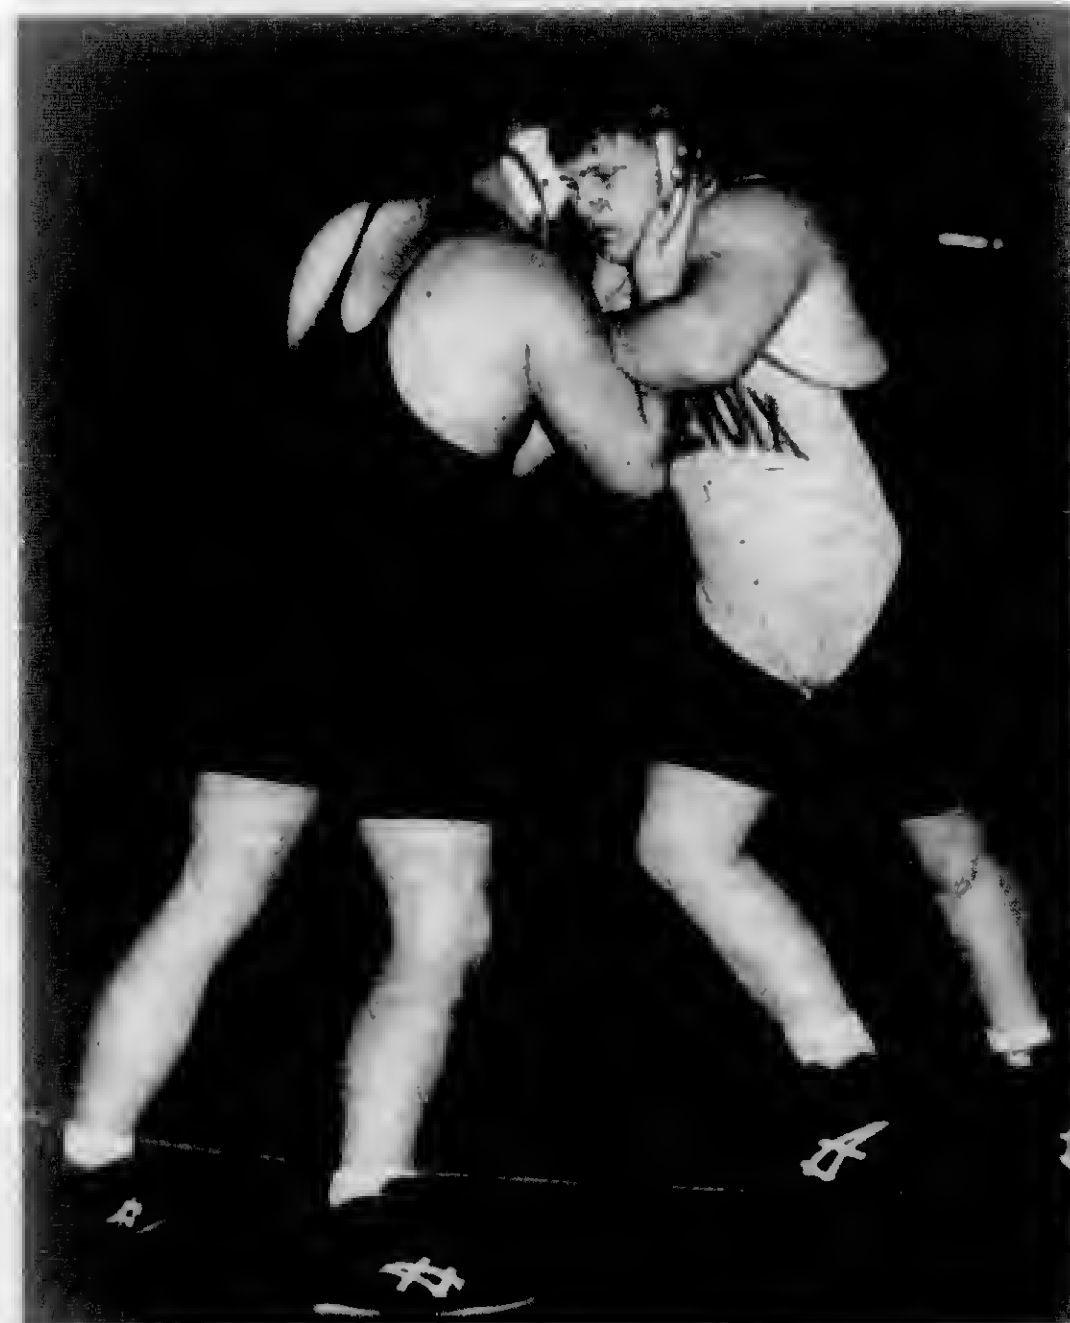

The instructional program has just concluded two Wednesday sessions at the Belvedere Golf Course and will now rotate on Wednesday mornings between the Municipal Course and the Charlevoix Country Club. "Apparently there was a need for organized golf for our area youngsters, because the response is far beyond our projections. I personally believe the excellent teaching staff of professionals we have in the program: Joan Waha of the Municipal Course, David Poquette from the Belvedere, Bruce Schepler from the Charlevoix Country Club, and Steve Braun from Dunmaglas Golf Course is the real attraction. The message is out that youngsters can receive excellent instruction and then actually play several holes of supervised play."

Davenport noted that many people have contributed in order to enable the program to get off to a great start.

Davenport concluded, "It's been a team effort and the results are obvious."

Charlevoix high school wrestler Bruce Reinhart (right) will leave Sunday to compete with Team Michigan against top wrestlers from other states in Greco-Roman and Freestyle wrestling. The Charlevoix Knights of Columbus and several other local people and businesses contributed funds to finance the trip. Reinhart will initially train at Central Michigan University and then compete in North Dakota. He has spent countless hours this summer training for the event under the instruction of Phil Christ.

Summer Slam street basketball tournament scheduled Sunday

The Third Annual Summer Slam 3-on-3 Charity Basketball Tournament will be Sunday, July 16. The one-day, double-elimination basketball tournament is hosted by St. Mary's School of Charlevoix. Competition begins at 11 a.m., and will be held at the school's playground on Robinson Street. "Last year, over 40 teams enjoyed a spectacular day in the sun, with the community attending in full force to witness basketball at its finest," states Doug Buday, tournament organizer. "this year we expect close to one hundred teams to compete."

To enter the tournament, each participating team must contribute a $40 donation to St. Mary's School. Teams may consist of up to four players. All players, male and female, ages 9 and up, are encouraged to join the action. Each registered player will receive a Super Slam T-shirt. Individual trophies will be awarded to winning teams.

The sounds of Maynard Wade playing a dulcimer carried through East Park during Saturday's craft show. Wade and his wife Gloria came to the Charlevoix craft show from their home in Warsaw, Indiana.

Darcie Dobson exhibited some of the most creative work in the craft show. Dobson, who is from Clare, makes her artistic barns out of old pieces of lath. Dobson gave one of her barns to a restaurant owner. After several people tried to buy it from the restaurant owner, Dobson began making more barns and selling them at craft shows.

Deloris Bonasse of Swartz Creek sold painted wood sculptures which show Charlevoix's Bridge Street.

Lyle Jamieson was one of the members of the Northwestern Michigan Woodturners who set up a lathe in the park Saturday and demonstrated how the machine can be used by a craftsman.

Conservancy offering outdoor environmental education programs

The Little Traverse Conservancy is offering environmental education activities to children of all ages this summer, and invites interested groups to contact them to schedule a program of field trips.

The Little Traverse Conservancy's environmental education program provides opportunities for children to explore and enjoy the natural world, in addition to learning about the importance of the environment. The Conservancy has provided programs for school students for many years, but last summer was the first time the Conservancy was able to offer environmental education programs to many of those children who visit northern Michigan in the summer, but spend the school year elsewhere. More than twenty programs involving 450 children, were presented to lake and community associations, recreation programs, and summer schools.

These children, ranging in age from three to fourteen, participated in art and science oriented programs. Programs last year were presented at the Chicago Club in Charlevoix, Harbor Point, Wequetonsing, and L'Arbre Croche in Harbor Springs, the Littlefield Summer School and the Petoskey Day Camp program at the Winter Sports Park.

The Little Traverse Conservancy looks forward to providing fun and educational summer programs again this year! If your group is interested in having the Conservancy conduct a program, please call the Conservancy at 347-0991.

Clinic scheduled for soccer referees

There will be a soccer referee clinic beginning at 6 p.m., July 11 at Shanahan Field for anyone interested in officiating youth soccer games this coming fall. For additional information, phone Jamie Oppermann at 547-9893.

Local wrestler completes rigorous training camp

Ron Haggard, a senior wrestler at Charlevoix High School, recently completed a two-week Dan Gable Summer Training Camp at the University of Iowa. Iowa Head Coach Dan Gable has coached 12 NCAA Championship teams as well as the 1984 Olympic Champion Team. The camp teaches training during the off season as well as how to peak for in season training. The staff of the camp was comprised of former Iowa National Champions and All-Americans. Haggard was 34-5 overall in the 1995 season and 22-2 in this 160 lb. class and is 71-30 for his three years in high school. He is hoping to participate in the state finals in 1996.

Country Club facilities are up and running

By Laurie Lounsbury

Rik Loberherz hopes the business community will use the Charlevoix Country Club for community events. "I want the country club to be used for community functions and fund raisers, like the Keep Charlevoix Beautiful auction and Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce events," Loberherz said recently. Judging by the turn-out at the last chamber of commerce function, hosted at the country club, the business community is happy to oblige. A record-breaking number of people attended the country club's Business After Hours cocktail party June 29.

It's been a long time since Loberherz first put drawings of his country club dream on paper. Now those watercolor sketches are vividly alive, with rich, jewel tones in the clubhouse, smooth, green bentgrass fairways, and shimmering blue ponds. The player-friendly course is properly manicured, the clubhouse is serving gourmet food to the patrons, the pro shop is completely outfitted, and the swimming pool will be ready for members in the next couple of weeks. Tennis courts are in future plans.

...Country Club events are drawing crowds

Physically, the country club is complete. All that's missing is a full roster of members. Loberherz reported that the membership drive is going well, with about a third of the full memberships and corporate memberships sold. The club's by-laws limit the number of members to 350 full memberships and ten corporate memberships. Social memberships are also available. There is no limit on the number of social memberships. "Social memberships are self-policing. We need social memberships to support the dining room and the clubhouse," Loberherz said.

Corporate memberships cost $25,000. The corporation may designate three of its officers or employees as members. Full memberships for families or individuals cost $9,500. That cost will rise to $12,000 as soon as the club has 150 members. The club has 120 full members now. Social memberships sell for $3,000.

After buying a membership, annual dues are collected from members. Social members pay $400 a year for a family and $300 for an individual. Full membership dues run $1,200 for a family and $800 for an individual. The full membership dues cover golf fees. Loberherz expects dues to rise with the rate of inflation. The good news is that the club's by-laws don't allow the club to levy assessments on the members.

Full members maintain equity in their membership. This means they can sell their membership back to the club for 80 percent of the market value anytime in the future. Members are also permitted to will their membership to their heirs. The member equity doesn't apply to social memberships.

Loberherz said that the members so far are an equal blend of Charlevoix local residents and part time, resort residents. "We get a nice interaction with the locals and resorters," Loberherz said. Most members join the country club for social reasons. "We've created a clubhouse that is not surpassed by any others in this part of the state," Loberherz said.

With only a third of the memberships sold, the clubhouse and golf course have plenty of room for public sampling. Tee times are fairly easy to get, as are gourmet meals in Mahogany's, the clubhouse restaurant. Bruce Shepler, former golf pro at the Bloomfield Hills Country Club, is on hand for golf lessons. Kevin Dunn, a graduate of the Culinary Institute of America, is head chef at the club. Dunn was formerly the executive chef at the Picadilly Grill in Battle Creek.

Beautiful cars always draw a big crowd

Above: Jared Niswander (left) and his brother Jason had seen this car even before they went to this weekend's Street Legend's car show. The car belongs to their uncle, Bill Niswander.

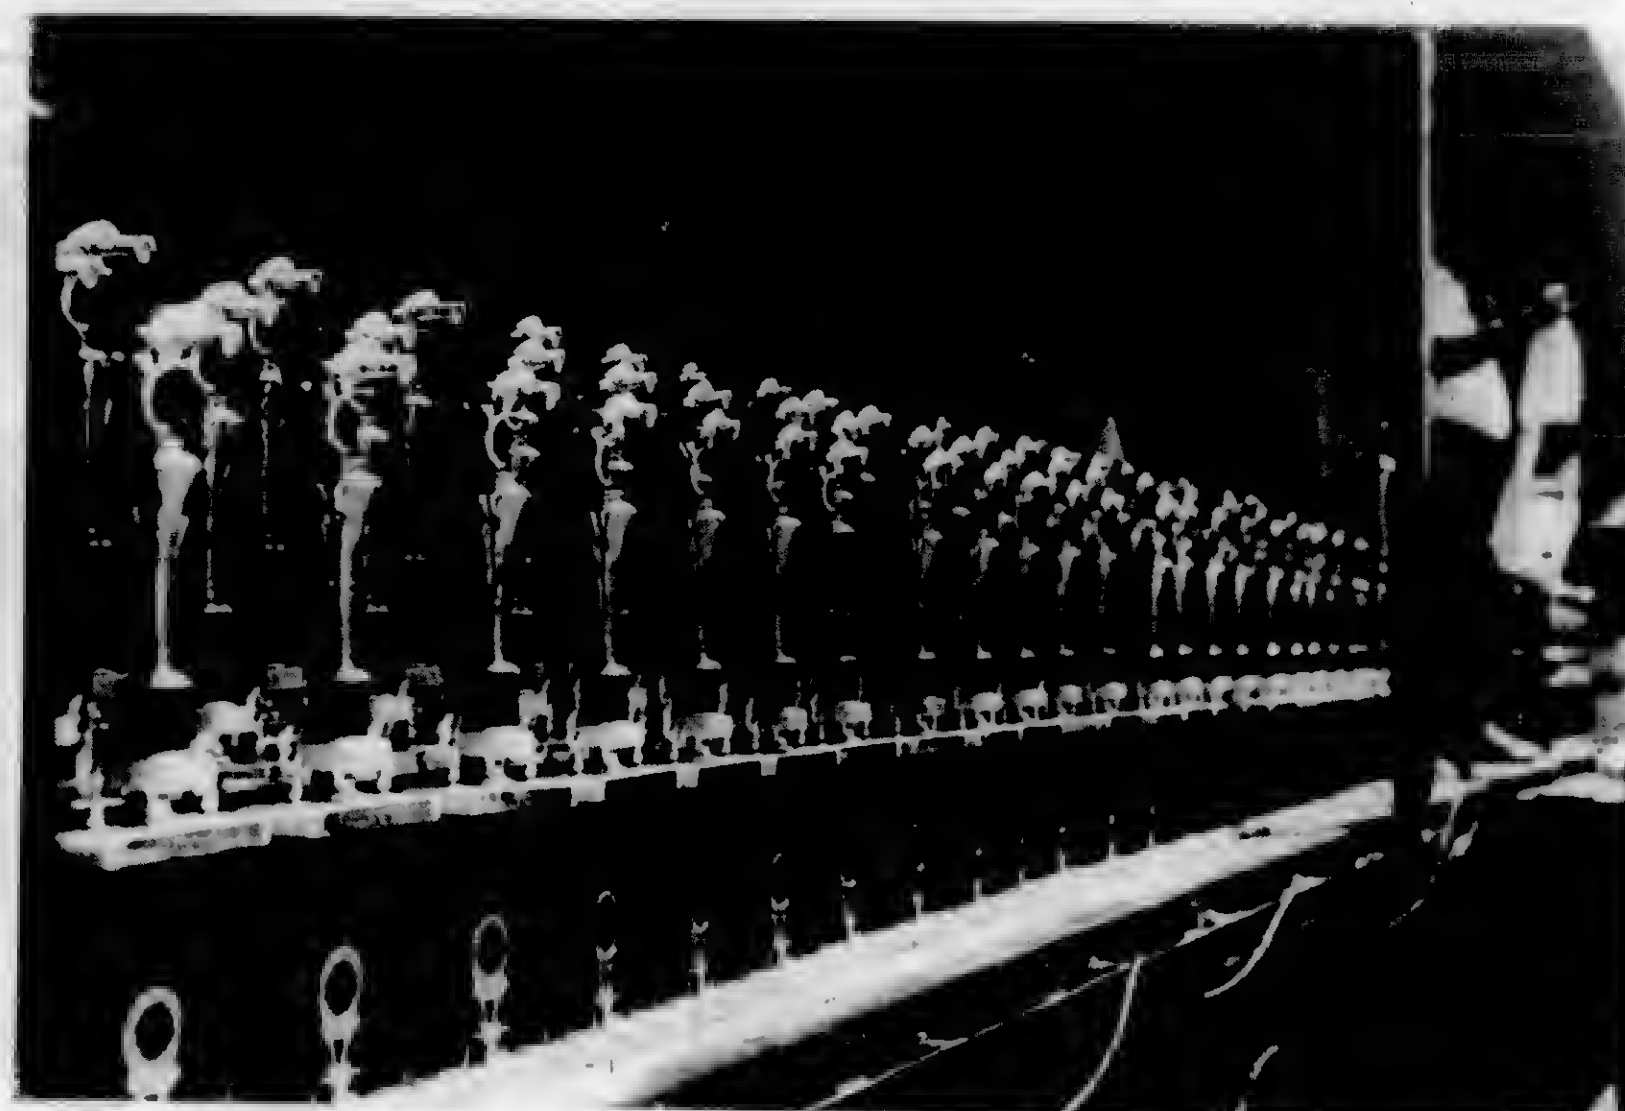

Left: Sure, the exterior of the car is fun to look at, but for many car enthusiasts the acid test of a car is what it's got under the hood.

Below: There was no shortage of trophies to be handed out at this week's car show. The trophies were the only thing at the show that could come close to glistening like the cars.

1941 was a big year for patriotic fervor and even 54 years later this 1941 still captures that patriotic feeling.

Ding's tie with the community. With the organizing of the Norwood Historical Society, Cappie hopes that someday there might be a statue of him, or perhaps a plaque on the Friendship Hall, or a roadside marker, which Michigan is fond of dotting along its highways.

As a teen-ager, Ding came to know and live nature, the land, and its users — and despoilers — at his Uncle John Darling's farm near Albion, where he fished a small stream and learned to hunt. Lend writes that Ding found it a "shattering experience" when he returned to the farm for his uncle's funeral years later, to find the timber gone, topsoil ripped away, pastures eroded, the stream reduced to a muddy trickle unfit for game fish, the well dry, and the orchard a tangle of dead limbs and tree stumps.

Darling later wrote: "This was my first conscious realization of what could happen to land, what could happen to clear running streams, what could happen to bird life and human life when the common laws of Mother Nature were disregarded."

This storybook town, which sits on a bluff overlooking Lake Michigan, looks like a Norman Rockwell Saturday Evening Post cover, so tidy and well-kept is it. The community was named, simply, for its location in what used to be the north woods, before the Nineteenth Century lumbering industry leveled the forests.

It is a startling contrast to Florida's 4,975-acre Darling refuge, which was established in 1945, and renamed in honor of Norwood's unknown son in 1967. Darling was a winter resident of Sanibel and Captiva Islands. It's the most popular refuge in the wildlife service's refuge system.

Whether Florida and Iowa will someday have to share Ding — Michigan's hidden treasure — will depend on Norwood staking its rightful claim to Ding's beginnings, at best an iffy proposition. It's easy to take Ding to heart, but who today has time for the past? No one chooses where he or she is born, which means that a birthplace can be either of little or of great significance, depending on what one accomplishes in life. History knows, but often says little about where we start and where we end up, even for those of achievement. Fame is not only fickle; it's also forgetful.

Keep Charlevoix Beautiful elects officers and board

Keep Charlevoix Beautiful elected Bruce M. MacArthur as president for the 1995-96 year at its recent annual meeting at Charlevoix Country Club.

Former mayor Ralph McRae was named honorary vice president in recognition of his contributions to the organization and to the community over the years. He is the first person to achieve honorary status on the board.

The slate of officers includes: Joanne Curtis, first vice president; Patty Sitzema, second vice president; Robert B. Hoffman, treasurer; and Rita A. McAvoy, secretary. Serving with them on the executive committee are Dr. David Strawbridge and Jackie Kruttsch.

Former Operation Petunia block captains Kris Balasz, Tom Heid and Dianna Phillips are new board members. Alternates are Salle Stead, Jean Spagnuolo and Andrea Gerring.

Local teen center looking for angels

Charlevoix's Teen Center, Club 77, recently hosted an open house at the center. Youth served tea and lemonade and gave tours of the center to the guests. The purpose of the meeting was to introduce the new Youth Director, Scott Kelly, and to give the community an opportunity to contribute to the future planning of the center. Teens proudly showed how they had painted walls, helped install doorways and worked to make the center a better place. They expressed their disappointment over the loss of pool tables and games when the center had encountered hard times more than a year ago.

Kelly announced that the Charlevoix Teen Center was now open five days a week, from 2:30 - 5:30 p.m. on week days. Youth have been involved in maintenance projects, helping out on the computer, making plans, and working on puzzles and games. Teen dances are held every Friday night from 7 - 10 p.m. Kelly spoke about opportunities to bring community resources to youth and for youth to communicate their needs and to help create programs. "We know that the way to be successful is for the community to be involved, and this community cares about it's teens. We're asking for a thousand Guardian Angels to contribute $25 to help us create a quality environment and quality programming for our teens. We're working to keep it simple and make it fun. We're a TEAM. Together Everyone Achieves More."

Studio tour provides chance to see area artists while they work

A tour of artist's studios, featuring fourteen Charlevoix and Antrim county artists, is being sponsored by Jordan River Arts Council Wednesday, July 19. Grange Hall Studios outside of Charlevoix, a combined artists' studio and showroom showcasing items produced by the Sue and Russell Bolt family, will have demonstrations on printmaking; painting and ceramics in process throughout the day.

Participants will have an opportunity to see all the artists at work and talk to them about their aesthetic pursuits from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. The studios tour is the art council's major 1995 fund-raiser, co-chaired by Fran Pletz and Nancy Carey, both JRAC board members.

Other artists participating are Cara B. Hochhalter with watercolors and graphite images; Glen McCune with nature and outdoor art; June and David Otis with hand-thrown and wood-fired pottery; Ron Abfalter with one-of-kind furniture of exotic hardwoods; Peggy and Walter Midener with fantasy boxes and sculptures. The Mideners will also share their gardens, which are works of art on their own.

Also participating are Lori Bolt, with silk screening and handpainting of fabrics; Jerry and Linda Beers Aydlott with hand-crafted jewelry and Maggie Matthews with weaving of fine linens, rugs and wall hangings.

Arts council docents will be on hand at all studios to greet participants and answer questions about the artists' work.

An exhibit featuring works by all of the artists will be on display at the Jordan River Arts Center, 301 Main Street, where refreshments will be served throughout the day. Tickets, which cost $10, are available with a map of the studio tour at Koucky Galleries.

Perch may not be especially plentiful these days, but many years ago there were plenty of large lake perch to be caught in the Charlevoix area. As this old Courier file photo shows, in the old days perch weren't just little bait stealers. It only took a few nice big perch for a man to have himself a fine meal.

World famous cartoonist had roots in this area

by DAVID W. HACKER retired Detroit Free Press up north correspondent

Curiosity is the traveler's greatest asset. I've concluded after a lifetime of poking my nose into strange and unlikely out-of-the-way places, where the oddity or finding out a little-known fact often is the big payoff and makes a trip memorable and exciting.

In another life, I would have chosen to be a newspaper cartoonist, and given my druthers, I would have been a long-ago fellow named Jay Norwood Darling, for 38 years the Page One cartoonist for the Des Moines (IA) Register. His signature name was Ding, a contraction of his last name (minus the apostrophe), and as Ding he won two Pulitzer Prizes.

Darling also was one of the nation's leading conservationists, and fought all of his life (born 1876, died 1962) against humankind's assault on rivers, lands, and wildlife.

On a vacation trip to Naples, Fla., many years ago, I discovered a biography of Darling: "Ding: The Life of Jay Norwood Darling," by David Lendt. Though dead these three decades, Ding lives on at the 4,975-acre J.N. "Ding" Darling National Wildlife Refuge on Florida's Sanibel Island.

Most people who go to Sanibel now do so to collect shells and beach comb. But nearly 800,000 each year also take a few hours to visit the Darling refuge with its 350 species of birds, 50 types of reptiles (including the American crocodile), and 32 kinds of mammals. There, they also learn about one of the nation's most amazing and versatile creative minds, and see his recreative office.

This spring, I paid a long-delayed visit to Ding's wildlife paradise, and in doing so I finally got around to researching a story I had been itching to do for years: To tell the world that Florida and Iowa, where Ding spent most of his newspaper career, must share his fame and glory with Michigan, where he was born.

Like most Michiganders and visitors to this Great Lakes state, I had driven up and down U.S. 31 countless times, paying little attention to the roadside sign just south of Charlevoix that pointed two miles off to the west.

You guessed it. This is where Ding was born and got his middle name, on Oct. 21, 1876, a fact that probably no more a handful of persons anywhere today know. Indeed, most of the several dozen residents left in this old Nineteenth Century logging village aren't even aware of their community's celebrity son, the man who once was the world's most famous cartoonist, the first chief of what today is the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, and the driving force behind the creation of the National Wildlife Federation.

This may soon change. On July 2, Norwood resumed its ice-cream social, after dropping it years ago, and much of the talk this day may be that it's time to take note of Ding's birthplace. Catherine "Cappie" Lord, who turned 77 on June 15, will be the only living link that day to Norwood's most-famous son.

"I'll bet that's where my mother got her middle name," mused Cappie Lord. Her mother, born in 1879, was Kate Darling Van Dusen. Ding's father was the Rev. Marcus Darling, who apparently made a strong impression during his one year as Methodist Minister here. By 1877, the Darlings had left the church in Cambria in Hillsdale County. Cappie said that even she had long since forgotten the Ding Darling connection, until I stopped to see her one day this May.

Darling's Michigan birthplace is so little known that even a brochure distributed at the Darling refuge on Sanibel Island says, "...he was from Iowa..."

How famous was he? In the opening sentence of his biography, Lendt writes: "Jay Norwood Darling was born October 21, 1876. Thirty-five years later he was so famous the New York Globe facetiously suggested that 'the Centennial at Philadelphia was laid down in the year 1876 in order to coincide with the birth of J.N.D.'"

Ding's lifelong battle for conservation ended with his death in 1962 and silenced the satirical drawings that brought chuckles to readers of the 100 newspapers that carried his daily musings on Iowa life and the foibles of national politics. No one nor any institution in the land was safe from Ding's commentary and clever little characters, drawn in fine line, with biting and explosive force. Every cartoon was like uncorking a bottle of champagne after it has been shaken. His style was unique. To some, today's Herblock of The Washington Post is the only cartoonist since who approaches Ding's talent and originality.

He drew the first duck stamp, which became one of this country's most famous wildlife illustrations. Its sale has raised funds to establish 200 national wildlife refuges on 4 million acres.

Says Lendt: Ding "earned a reputation as the best friend a duck ever had."

In the back-cover blurb, Ding's biography says of him: "His name was a household word. He cavorted with Herbert Hoover (a fellow Iowan, born in West Branch). He knew Will Rogers, Henry Ford, Edna Ferber, Bernard Baruch, Robert Ripley, Ring Lardner."

Except for Cappie, wherever one goes on any of Norwood's half-dozen streets, there's not a hint of

by L. Scott Swanson

If you went to the Venetian Festival and Don Meggison wasn't roasting chicken with the Lions Club, would life in Charlevoix be right? Not hardly.

And if you want to talk religion and faith, what would a Venetian Festival be if you couldn't trot down to East Park and buy a caramel apple from an Episcopalian?

And it would be a bleak day for America if a person couldn't go to the Venetian Festival and buy a foot-long hot dog from the Methodists with the option of going all out and having that hot dog covered with Marguerite Ikens' Coney Island sauce.

Even as it is, we're having to put up with some measure of change. This year the Rod and Gun Club won't be in their traditional big white booth. Oh, they'll still be there cooking burgers and dogs near the corner of Clinton and Bridge, but instead of a booth, they'll be working out of a snazzy little trailer Les Petersen and Bob Sharrow refurbished.

The food booths at the Venetian Festival are a tradition that might be overlooked or taken for granted, but if one of them came up missing you'd know something wasn't right.

Booth spaces are assigned by the Chamber of Commerce to churches and other nonprofit organizations from Charlevoix County. The booths provide a source of food for the thousands of people in town for Venetian and provide a source of revenue for the organizations.

Vane Smith of the Rod and Gun Club says the pop, coffee, burgers and hot dogs sold by the Rod and Gun Club usually bring in somewhere between $1,400 and $1,800 which is enough money to pay the club's property taxes. He says he's not sure how many years the booth has been in operation. He only knows that when he moved back to Charlevoix in 1966, the Rod and Gun Club had the booth then. Clare Staley and Max Novak were always instrumental in setting the booth up. Rod and Gun Club members traditionally get the booth out on Wednesday night and tear down on Sunday morning.

Smith says working the booth on the corner during Venetian has its advantages. "It's (the Venetian Festival) like homecoming for Charlevoix. Stand on that corner and anybody who's in town, you see."

Vane Smith, describing what it's like to work in the Rod and Gun Club Venetian booth.

This will be the first year that the Rod and Gun Club has used a trailer. The idea behind the trailer is to make the club's food service effort more mobile so the club can also work other events during the course of the year.

Many Charlevoix homes will be getting new addresses

Between now and the end of the year many people living in the city of Charlevoix may experience a change of address even though they will still be living or working in the same place.

For approximately the past year, the city has been working on bringing some semblance of rhyme and reason to the way buildings and lots are numbered. That hasn't been easy.

Police chief Dennis Halverson and Lisa Blanchard, who works on special projects for the city, have been working on the numbering system for several months. The current system of numbers was put in place more than 100 years ago. During the past century, fires, lot splits and a variety of other activities have left city addresses all goofed up. In some cases the plat book for the city has even been found to be inaccurate.

"Some of the data we thought was reliable turned out not to be," Halverson said. That has made the project more difficult.

Enabling emergency services to be provided efficiently is the driving force behind getting the house and business numbers in order.

For example, currently it's conceivable that an ambulance dispatched to Sheridan Street could turn south off of Antrim to get onto Sheridan Street and still have to make two more turns, a left on Garfield and a right back onto Sheridan, to get to the address in question. If the ambulance didn't

...food booths part of Venetian tradition

Tom Carey says the Episcopal Church caramel apple booth got its start in 1955. The women of the church had been selling pies and lemonade at the Venetian Festival and the men of the church were looking for something to do. They came up with the idea of caramel apples. They got a recipe from Gerry Murdock who was also kind enough to loan them some equipment. Later, they bought their own equipment.

Carey worked the booth for 37 years, until it got to be difficult for him to do so much standing. He said he used to take a day or two off work before and after the festival to help get the booth set up and put away.

Over the years, the Episcopal men got apples from various places. One year they had to get them from Grand Rapids because the apple crop in this area just didn't materialize. Winesap apples work best because they have a tough skin that can take the heat. The caramel is heated to 244 degrees.

The booth sells between 2,000 and 3,000 apples during the course of the weekend. Profit varies from year to year with the cost of the apples. In addition to the apples, the booth uses about 200 pounds of sugar.

The apple booth is fairly labor intensive. "It takes about eight to a crew to do the job right," Carey says.

In recent years the booth has added cotton candy and nachos. The project is no longer just a men's project. The women are now involved too.

Rev. Dale Ostema from the Methodist Church says he's not sure how far back the church's Venetian Festival booth goes. All he knows is that when he arrived it was an accepted thing and a church tradition.

On a good year the church booth sells more than 2,000 foot-long hot dogs and makes $2,000 to $2,500.

Ostema says a sign-up sheet is passed around and people volunteer for two-hour slots.

"It's never a problem getting people," he said. "They seem to love to do it."

Ostema said the people have fun working the booth and there's a demand for the product. "Our last crew is supposed to work 'til 10, but inevitably there are people buying hot dogs at 11 at night."

Meggison says the Lions Club used to cook chickens on into the night, but over the years they've cut that back to just a daytime project.

"We started out when we had 24 men in the club, we did 1,200 halves of chicken," Meggison said. These days they do about half that number.

The Lions started grilling chicken in 1962 on grills they borrowed from the old Leonard Oil refinery. Meggison said the grills were set up on two rows of cement blocks and the Lions nearly roasted themselves right along with the chickens.

The next year, in 1963, Meggison and Jess Penn built four grills measuring 36 inches by 42 inches. Each grill would hold 50 halves of chicken.

In the early years the chickens were cooked in a vacant lot which is now the site of the J. Phillips store. These days they're cooked down near the foot of Clinton Street.

Meggison says he can't remember missing out on cooking chicken for even one year since 1962. But he can remember some years when rain made the project a challenge. He says you've got to keep the water off because you can't boil them.

"I take pride in my work in that kind of stuff," he says. "I take a rest a little more. I've got to get off my feet. But we can still put chicken out."

Meggison plans on manning the grill Saturday. "I've done her many, many times. I enjoy it and I always like to make sure everybody gets a piece of done chicken. There's nothing worse than raw fish or raw chicken."

"I've done her many, many times. I enjoy it and I always like to make sure everybody gets a piece of done chicken. There's nothing worse than raw fish or raw chicken."

Don Meggison, who will be cooking chicken for the 33rd consecutive year at the Venetian Festival.

Pool effort receives $250,000 boost

A gift of $250,000 from William E. and Ellen Schuiling to the Charlevoix Friends of the Pool has been announced by David J. Strawbridge, president. It is the single largest gift received by the organization during their 12 year quest to build an indoor community pool for the Charlevoix area. The money will be used to help defray pool operation costs.

"This is a very timely and welcome gift," said Strawbridge. "As we approach other potential donors to the pool we can assure them the pool will be ongoing and that their gift is a good investment for the community."

There are no strings attached to the gift other than the pool must be completed by November, 1996 for the pledge to take effect, Strawbridge explained.

The Schuilings retired to Charlevoix a year ago from Fairfax, Virginia. Schuiling is a native of Grand Rapids and founder of Mid-Atlantic Cars, Inc., based in Fairfax.

Friends of the Pool Vice-president Bruce M. MacArthur said the capital campaign is going well. A number of large and small gifts have been received in recent days totaling approximately $42,000. The group's goal of $800,000 for construction is approaching the midway point.

Construction is expected to begin in early August on the building. The group plans to take out a construction loan with CB North while the campaign is being completed, said Strawbridge.

County to require visible house numbers

By Laurie Lounsbury

If you're going to call 911 in Charlevoix County, you're going to have to do better than telling the dispatch officer that you live in a white house with a big maple in front.

County commissioners have passed a numbering ordinance that requires all homes in the county to display their proper number addresses on mailboxes or on a post by the road.

The ordinance went into effect July 10. Folks who don't comply with the ordinance could be fined up to $500.

Commissioners agree that they want to give people plenty of time to comply with the ordinance. At the commissioners' most recent meeting, chairman Don Smith said he just wants the numbers properly displayed by the time 911 is operational. The 911 system should be working after the first of the year. The sheriff's department will give residents a warning with 60 days to correct the problem if people are violating the ordinance.

Government critic Karl Waldner spoke up in protest of the ordinance. Waldner said the ordinance isn't democratic, and it isn't fair to impose a punishment fee on citizens if they don't post their addresses. In some cases, people in the county have been issued new addresses two or three times over the past few years. Some people may not like their new address, or would prefer to continue using an older, more familiar address. Commissioners stood firm on wanting total compliance with the ordinance. "You'll want those numbers, if you're sitting there gasping for breath and you call 911," commissioner Phil Johnson said to Waldner.

The ordinance requires that address numbers be at least three inches high and visible from the road. If the home is not visible from the road, then the numbers must be displayed on a mailbox or on a post.

make the left-right jog, it would end up on Norwood Road out by the softball field.

As another example, if someone asked where the Clark gas station is, anyone familiar with Charlevoix would probably say that it's at the corner of US 31 and M-66. Well, according to its address it is located at 943 State Street.

Another oddity is people who all live on the same street - be that Petoskey, Michigan or Bridge depending on what stretch of the street you're talking about. You could also call that same street US 31 if you wanted to use its highway name.

Correcting the discrepancies will require changing several house numbers and in some cases street names. And it won't be just a few houses that have their numbers changed: "We estimate at this point it could be over half. It's conceivable," Halverson said.

The new system will be based on a graph type system with the zero point of the x and y axis being the bridge. After determining what numbers and streets need to be changed, Halverson will go to the city council for approval.

Getting the address problems corrected will assist in the implementation of the 9-1-1 telephone emergency dispatch system which should come on-line near the first of the year.

Some important things that this town does well

A boy at an area campground this past Saturday obviously had plans for a softball game. He stood on the back bumper of a Blazer, reaching in through the window and pitching out softball equipment. There were nearly enough gloves rattling around in the back of the vehicle to field a full team; let alone a campground game with the family. The kid comes from a pretty big family and there were a lot of people camping together with them.

Later in the evening, that same little guy sat around the campfire with his family and their friends. There were three families around that campfire, two from Charlevoix and one from Ellsworth (suburban Charlevoix). Their party totaled 14 people. At the next camp site another family from Charlevoix also sat around a campfire. That party totaled 10 people. Little children scurried about, skewering marshmallows and holding them in the fire, flaming them for uncles and aunts.

Sunday, many of the same people joined with hundreds of others milling around the basketball games at the St. Mary's Parish Festival. People playing in the tournament ranged from elementary school age to adult. People hanging around the tournament and associated events had an even greater age range. One mother had an elementary age son playing on a side court, a high school daughter playing on one of the main courts and a four-year-old playing in a mud puddle.

This Saturday evening countless families will gather in East Park to watch the Venetian fireworks together. Little children will sit in the laps of their parents, looking skyward and having their faces light up together at the fireworks display.

Family and community activities are something this town does well. We have recreational activities and social events that are conducive to entire families participating together.

Granted, this area is not immune to social problems such as crime and delinquency, but those things are much more limited here than in many other areas. Part of that can be attributed to corrective efforts such as law enforcement. But a much greater reason for the limited social problems of this community is the time that people spend with each other in family and community activities. In this community, you don't have to look far to find examples of both children and adults who have something to do, someone to do things with and family and community members who care about them and support them in what they're doing. That type of environment isn't conducive to social problems. It's conducive to a happy and pleasant community. We have that here. We need to recognize that, be thankful for it and make sure it continues.

Letters to the editor

Flowers stolen from cemetery

Editor,
Why would anyone steal flowers? If you're hungry you can't eat them. If you're cold they won't keep you warm. Why would anyone make a thief of himself to steal flowers from a cemetery?

Perhaps these thieves who steal from a cemetery forget to remember that in the very nature of things they will soon be residents, dwellers there themselves. I don't know who you are, but you do. I realize this letter is an exercise in futility. Those who read it don't steal flowers. Those who do steal flowers from a cemetery probably can't read.

I sign this.
Lyla Arvilla on behalf of All the Victims of the Cemetery Thieves

Reprinted letter clarified

Editor,

While rummaging through my attic recently I came across a letter I wrote to the editor of the Courier originally published in 1972, some years prior to our move to Charlevoix. My husband thought it interesting that many of the things mentioned in the letter have since happened and appreciates your response to his request to reprint it. (It appeared in the July 12 Courier.)

In the 23 years since, Charlevoix-the-Beautiful has been fortunate to have citizens who had the vision to see what more could be done to improve our town. It's a long list but as I recall Jeannine Wallace, Jack Begrow, John Campbell, Tom Pointner, Pearl Rowe, Lou Mettler, and Linda Mason were among those who first stimulated interest in planting trees, flowers, and polishing the image of the downtown area.

Before that, I understand, Robert Bridge developed the idea of a park along the downtown waterfront.

Bodem to visit

State Rep. Beverly A. Bodem, R-106th District, will conduct local office hours for Charlevoix County constituents July 21.

Each month, Bodem is available at two locations to discuss issues or solve problems. Her schedule for Friday is as follows:

• 9 a.m. - 11:30 a.m. in the law library at the Charlevoix County Building, Charlevoix.

• 11:30 a.m. - 1 p.m. at City Hall, 319 N. Lake St., Boyne City.

Anyone needing additional information can contact the lawmaker by calling the toll-free number, 1-800-29-BODEM.

What a boon to Charlevoix that has been!

More recently there's been Dale Boss who teamed up with Bruce MacArthur and Keep Charlevoix Beautiful to realize his dream of planting petunias from one end of town to the other.

Others should be recognized here but obviously your space is limited so I will close and beg forgiveness for omissions.

Sincerely,
Barbara G. MacArthur
Member KCB Beautification Committee

County building renovation begins

By Laurie Lounsbury

The county building renovation project began last Thursday when a large back hoe tore up the parking lot behind the building. The nearly $1.8 million job was awarded to Comstock Construction with the low bid of $1,785,000.

The first step of the project will be to tear out the parking lot and remove the oil tanks beneath. Over the next nine months, a two story addition will be built across the northern end of the county building, turning and connecting with the county annex building. The old white home on Mason Street that housed the Department of Building Inspection will be torn down Friday.

The renovation project is shaking up the daily routine of some county departments. The Department of Building Inspection will be homeless until the renovation project is completed. During the process, the building department will move into the basement of city hall. Commissioner Jim Behling was opposed to the move, since the basement of city hall isn't handicapped accessible. "We expect them to follow ADA rules, (American Disabilities Act) then we move them in a basement that's not handicapped accessible," Behling said. Behling favored moving the building department to Boyne City, where handicapped accessible space was available in a public building. Other commissioners favored keeping the building department physically close to the other county departments.

A vote by the commissioners to put the department of building inspection in city hall's basement passed 4-2, with Behling and Phil Johnson opposed to it. Both Behling and Johnson live in Boyne City. The county will pay the city $750 a month rent, including utilities, for the space.

Openings still available in Venetian boat parade

The Grand Electrical Boat Parade goes to the roots of the Charlevoix Venetian Festival. The festival began more than 60 years ago as a power boat race. Later, the race evolved into a parade with boats lit by lanterns. For the past several years the boats have been illuminated by electric lights. They're easier to see and they're safer.

Boats in the parade assemble in Lake Charlevoix and then enter the harbor and pass in front of East Park.

Over the years, the number and quality of entries in the parade has had its peaks and valleys. In recent years the parade has had a real revitalization. This year's parade is expected to have nearly thirty entries.

If you wish to participate in the 1995 Grand Electrical Boat Parade please contact the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce at 547-2101. The staff will assist you in obtaining lights to decorate your boat. Further by participating in the boat parade you will have a front row boat slip on Round Lake Harbor to view one of the most spectacular fireworks displays in northern Michigan.

County buildings have an interesting history

The new county building renovation project is another change to an ever changing system. From 1921 to 1971, the current county annex building served as the county jail. Middle school students used to wander by the building on their way home from school and peer at prisoners through the bar-covered windows on the north side of the building. The space that once housed county crooks and now houses the county commissioners' meeting room.

A new county jail was erected in 1971 on Grant Street. The county prosecutor and county clerk moved their operations into the annex building. The District Health Department also occupied space in the building during some of those years.

The main county building was completed in 1958.

The 1.8 million dollar renovation project will connect the two buildings and provide more space for county business. Apparently county government has grown considerably over the last half a century. A 1940 inventory sheet of the county jail shows that the entire contents of the building added up to a value of about $3,000. Sheriff George

Lasater unearthed the old inventory sheet. Back then, the sheriff's department owned a Harley-Davidson motorcycle, valued at $375, and a restrainer for insane persons, valued at $15. Six pillow cases, worth $3, and four sheets, worth $3.20, were enough to cover the prisoners' beds. One belt for transferring prisoners was worth $5, but probably worth a lot more to the officers doing the transferring. The most expensive item on the inventory list was an Oldsmobile car, worth $1,100. Straw tick mattresses were carefully inventoried too, six of them, worth $3 - total.

Pre-school children recruited

by REV. BRUCE HAMILTON

Among my summer school students at North Central Michigan College is a 31-year-old ex-Marine. I do not know all that happened in this young man's service career. I do know that he has come out of his uniform an ultra-conservative, second amendment proponent of the militia. He is very zealous about his beliefs and very anxious to share the rightness of them. Sometimes, his enthusiasm has made for lively discussion. Other times, a firm but loving reminder of our purpose as a class has been in order. Just about the time the rest of the class and I thought we had him figured out, he threw us a twist.

His father is dying in Saginaw of kidney failure. He is only 57 years old. The doctors asked all the family members to come to the hospital to be tested about the possibility of donating one of their healthy kidneys to save their father. Of all the children in the family, our ardent ex-Marine was the only one who was compatible. He was not only willing, but anxious to help his Dad. But his Dad wouldn't let him and he cried in front of us all.

Even though I don't agree with all his positions, I have to admire this young man's commitment. I mean if you are going to believe in something, don't believe half way. Throw your heart and soul into whatever you do and let folks know that they can count on you.

There are a lot of beliefs in this world that inspire devotion from their followers. Chicago Cub fans believe every spring that this will be the year their team will finally make it to the World Series. When the brisk winds of autumn finally descend on Wrigley Field without the arrival of the great American classic, they always say wait 'til next year. Fruit growers look upon their orchards with loving care and the confidence that they will bear a bounty each season. To some of us, none of today's so called bands will ever hold a candle, to John, Paul, George and Ringo. I have no doubt that you can come up with a few more examples of your own.

But there is only one place where you can park your hopes and dreams and know that they really matter. There is only one place that you can throw all your heart, soul, mind, and strength into and realize eternal dividends on your spiritual investment. There is only one person worthy of such loyalty and total affection because He has proven time and again that He has always had your best interests at heart.

God is worthy of your passion. He is gentle enough to dry your tears. He is strong enough to face your fears. He is loving enough to ease your pain. He is close enough to hear even a whispered plea. He has more than enough faith in you to help you be the best you can be. Of all the people and places in life there are that merit your deepest commitment, no one or nothing will ever serve you better than giving your all to the Lord Most High.

West Michigan Merchants swept through four straight games to win the Charlevoix Men's Fast Pitch Invitational this past weekend. In the finals the Merchants scored twice in the bottom of the sixth inning to break a 2-2 tie with Great Lakes Softball of Cheboygan. Playing for the Merchants were: (front from left) John McEldowney, Gabby Rivard, Dan Wingard, Wally King, Steve Mathers, (standing) former Charlevoix resident Jim Buchanan, Ed Dantuma, Mark Thomas, Hugh Harris, Terry Buetsma and Tracy Buetsma. King was named the tournament's top outfielder, Mathers the top pitcher and Terry Buetsma the most valuable player. (Photo courtesy Charlevoix Recreation Department)

Charlevoix hosts a busy sports weekend

Beth Owens drives to the basket against Emily Hughes in the finals of one of the girls' divisions in Sunday's street basketball tournament. Hughes hit a two-point basket near the end of the game to rally her team from behind for the win. In the background are Megan Vogel (wincing) and Lyndsey Carland. Vogel and Carland provided one of the more entertaining match-ups of the tournament with Carland attempting to contain Vogel's height and agility with strength and positioning. (Photo by L. Lutherans host special service

In anticipation of the many visitors to the Charlevoix area for the Venetian Festival, Bethany Lutheran Church is planning an outdoor worship service for Sunday, July 23 at 9:30 a.m.

This worship service will be offered in the tent which will be set up on the church lawn, 1407 Bridge Street. The message will be given by Rev. Merle Wellhausen and the choir will sing contemporary music, directed by Lynette Stewart.

If you would like to enjoy a relevant and meaningful message in a contemporary setting, please plan to join in this special service and experience a new approach to Christian faith.

Island hosts benefit concert

The Beaver Island Historical Society has always had only one fund raiser per year - Museum Week. This year, however, due to some special circumstances, the Society is sponsoring another fund raiser to benefit both the historical museums and Mary Jane Martin.

Mary Jane is the daughter of Ernie Martin, Sr. (a member of the Board of Directors of the Beaver Island Historical Society) and his wife Jackie. Mary Jane, 22, is a lovely lass who was diagnosed with Hodgkin's Disease, a form of cancer. "A Gift for Mary Jane" was started this spring to help the Martins with their rising medical and transportation costs.

August 5, 1995 the Beaver Island Historical Society is sponsoring a concert featuring the Irish fold group "Arranmore." This concert is for the benefit of both Mary Jane Martin and the Historical Society. The concert will be at the Holy Cross Parish Hall beginning at 9 p.m. Tickets are $15 each. There will be a cash bar.

"Arranmore" began as an Irish folk group in the Chicago area and quickly attracted a loyal following. Over the last few years they have broadened their style and appeal so that now they would probably be best described as a contemporary folk group.

Their repertoire includes a variety of traditional folk-based songs, original compositions, and contemporary songs. Their recordings have been featured on radio shows throughout the United States, Canada and Europe.

Beaver Island can be reached by ferry boat two or three times daily from Charlevoix or by plane from Charlevoix, Traverse City, and Pellston. Call the Beaver Island Chamber of Commerce for more information on travel and housing accommodations at 616-448-2505.

Plagge ordained

A special service of ordination for Peter Plagge took place Sunday July 16, at the First Congregational United Church of Christ Church, 101 State St., Charlevoix.

Plagge will become an associate minister at the First Parish Congregational Church UCC in Yarmouth, Maine. In order to receive full ministerial standing in the United Church of Christ, it is traditional that he return to his home church for the ordination service.

Plagge is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Merle Plagge of Charlevoix. He was born Jan. 7, 1967 in Pontiac, MI and moved to Charlevoix at the age of seven. He graduated from Charlevoix High School in 1985. He then studied at Albion College, graduating in 1989 with a degree in Religious Studies with honors.

During a year's leave from his studies, Plagge took a three month bicycle trip from Edmonton, Canada to Phoenix, Arizona. He then attended the University of Chicago Divinity School, where he graduated in August of 1993 with a Masters of Divinity.

Plagge then moved to Connecticut where he married Erin Mooney. In Connecticut he worked as a director for a private provider for two autistic men.

Carriage rides add charm to Charlevoix

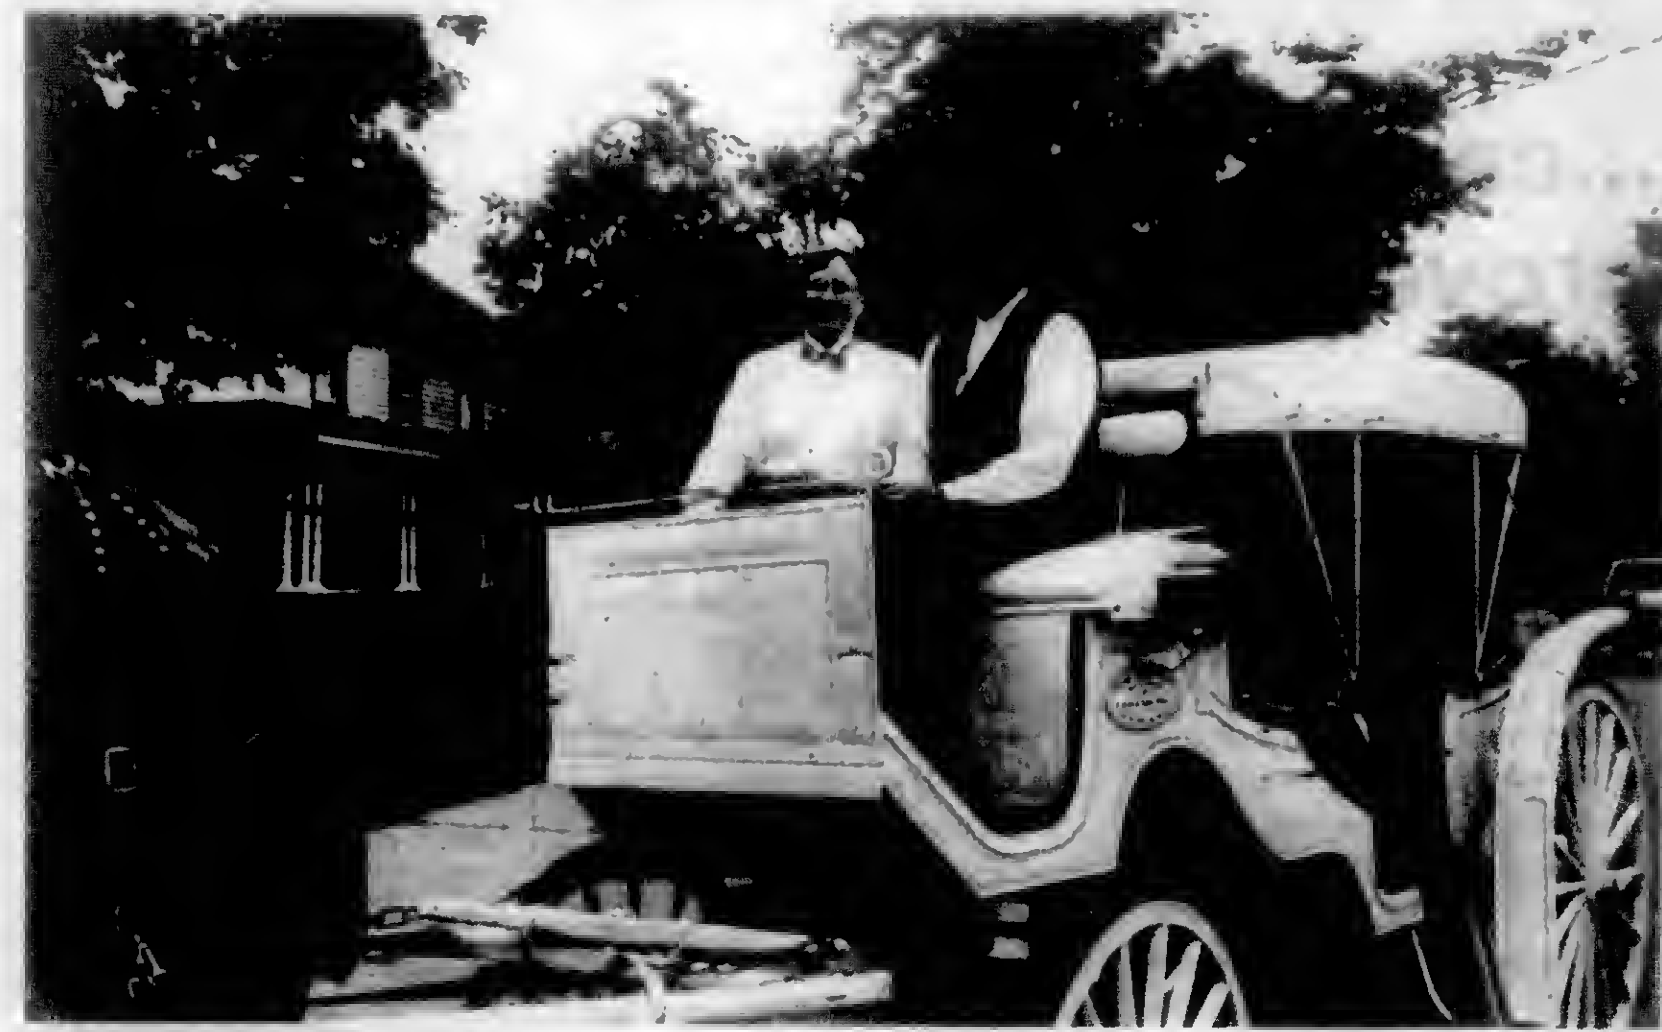

by Laurie Lounsbury

A bit of prom night fun led to a new business venture for Vicki Wheat. On her daughter's prom night two years ago, Wheat dressed up in a tuxedo and chauffeured her daughter and date around town. "I had so much fun, my husband told me maybe I should find a way to make money chauffeuring people around town all the time," Wheat said.

And so she did. Wheat and her husband Jerry, smartly dressed in crisp tuxedos, offer horse-drawn carriage rides through the streets of Charlevoix. The carriage rides tour past the Earl Young homes on Park Avenue and along Lake Michigan. The half hour ride continues down Park Avenue past the hospital and into Boulder Park.

Jerry Wheat does most of the driving, although Vicki is also qualified to drive. She attended a horse driving school in Indiana to learn the trade. "There's quite a bit of difference between riding and driving a horse," Vicki said. Jerry learned to drive when he bought

...carriage rides prove to be popular

Charlevoix. The Wheats were fortunate to find a home in front of the Treasure Chest store on Park Avenue, owned by Carol and Dave Couture. Carriage rides originate at the store. A 15 to 20 minute ride costs $7 per person or $21 for up to six passengers. A 30 minute ride costs $31 for six passengers. Rides are available Monday through Saturday, both afternoons and evenings, weather permitting. The Wheats also offer private carriage rides for weddings. Call for reservations at 547-7352, or show up at 106 Park Avenue.

and raised a draft horse. "They kind of learned together," Vicki said.

The couple bought a six-year-old gelding draft horse named Prince for the carriage rides. Prince used to be a show horse, working with a harnessed, six horse team. "He's an ex-show horse that's adapting very well to being lazy," Jerry said. Prince's slow, easy going manner might not have been desirable for the peppy show pace, but it's ideal, suited to gentle rides through

Convenience store site plan approved

A site plan allowing Woodland Oil to expand their facility on US 31 north to include a gas station, convenience store and small Taco Bell restaurant received approval from the Charlevoix City Council Monday evening.

The plan came to the council with a recommendation for approval from the city planning commission. The only reservation expressed about the plan concerned whether increased traffic would make it desirable to have a left turn lane added near the entrance to the facility. The gas station and store are located near the entrance to the industrial park.

At both the planning commission and city council meetings it was noted that whether or not a left turn lane is installed is not up to the city, but is a matter for the Michigan Department of Transportation to decide since US 31 is a state highway.

In other action the council approved an estoppel agreement with Park Avenue property owner Richard Georgi. In recent months the city and Georgi had quarreled over a small triangular piece of city property which Georgi's driveway crosses. The agreement allows the property to be paved and allows Georgi or subsequent property owners to cross the property, but the city can take away the right to cross if there is ever an attempt to expand the portion of the driveway on city property.

The city also approved a proposal to rent basement space in city hall to the county building department for the next several months while the county building is undergoing renovation. The county will pay $750 per month in rent. The majority of the money will be used by the city to help fund planned city hall renovations.

During public comments, second ward resident Billie Smith asked why flags were not up on Bridge Street during the Fourth of July. City manager Mike Wiesner said that as far as he knows the flags were installed as usual in the morning and taken down in the evening, same as they have been every year. He said he would check into the matter.

CHARLEVOIX COUNTY ORDINANCE NO. 4 FIRE AND BURGLAR ALARM ORDINANCE AN ORDINANCE REGULATING AND LICENSING AUTOMATIC TELEPHONE, FIRE AND BURGLAR ALARM SYSTEMS

PREAMBLE

The Board of Commissioners of the County of Charlevoix have determined that the health, safety and welfare of the inhabitants of the county would be better served by establishing regulations for the installation and use of telephone, fire, and burglar alarms.

Section 1. It shall be unlawful for any person to install, operate, use or maintain any automatic telephone burglar, fire or alarm system programmed to dial any number regularly listed under COUNTY OF CHARLEVOIX, without having first applied for and been granted, a permit for such system by the Charlevoix County Building Inspection Department.

Section 2. It shall be unlawful for any person to permit or cause any such telephone system to call or connect to any COUNTY OF CHARLEVOIX, listed or unlisted, telephone numbers other than those telephone numbers duly authorized and designated by the Charlevoix County Building Inspection Department, as shown on the permit.

Section 3. A) Application for a permit shall be accompanied by the payment of an initial permit fee of One Hundred ($100.00) Dollars.
B) The annual renewal fee for said permit shall be Fifty ($50.00) Dollars.

Section 4. All vendors and/or installers of such automatic telephone alarm systems shall, each January first, submit to the Charlevoix County Building Inspection Department, a complete and accurate report detailing all systems presently being used within the County of Charlevoix. This report shall designate: owner's name and address, name and address of equipment operator and instructions for locating the system if activated.

Section 5. At the discretion of the Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners, authorized and designated telephone numbers servicing automatic telephone systems may be changed from time to time as circumstances warrant. In the event of such change, due notice shall be provided to persons holding permits. After the effective date of such change, only the newly authorized telephone numbers shall be used by automatic telephone systems within the County of Charlevoix.

Section 6. A) The alarm user shall be required to pay to the County of Charlevoix, the sum of One Hundred ($100.00) Dollars for every false alarm generated by the user's system(s). A false alarm shall be defined as any alarm condition which is registered with the Sheriff's Department, other police or fire agencies, or the 911 dispatch authority, not resulting from criminal activity for which the alarm was intended. Fifty ($50.00) dollars shall go to the County's General Fund and Fifty ($50.00) dollars to the responding agency.
B) In addition any alarm user whose system generates a false alarm shall be liable for the expenses incurred by a responding agency. When a police department responds, the expense shall be charged at the hourly rate of the police personnel responding. When a fire department responds the expense shall be the average fire run cost of the department for personnel and equipment.

C) If an alarm is accidentally set off by the user or his designee, said owner or designee shall have three (3) minutes to notify the Sheriff's Department, or the 911 dispatch authority, to avoid the false alarm fee.

D) Storm conditions setting off the alarm shall be considered extenuating circumstance and shall negate the false alarm fee.

Section 7. All responding agencies shall provide the County Clerk with a statement of costs within fourteen (14) days of the false alarm. False alarm invoices shall be processed through the Charlevoix County Clerk's Office. A false alarm invoice overdue more than ninety (90) days after mailing shall result in termination of the alarm service agreement between the user and the County of Charlevoix, and the alarm user shall be in violation of this ordinance. The Clerk's invoice shall include a notice to the user of their appeal rights.

Section 8. Alarm systems employing audible signals shall be equipped with an automatic shut-off device which will silence the audible signal after fifteen (15) minutes.

Section 9. User appeals for relief from provisions of this Ordinance shall be forwarded to and heard by the Public Safety Committee of the Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners. To appeal an invoice the user must notify the County Clerk in writing, within thirty (30) days after the invoice is mailed, requesting a hearing before the Public Safety Committee. The Public Safety Committee shall schedule the matter for hearing at their next regularly scheduled meeting, which hearing may be continued or adjourned by the Committee for good cause.

Section 10. All system users must complete and file the Law Enforcement and Emergency Alarm Subscriber Information form available at the Charlevoix County Building Inspection Department.

Section 11. Sections of this Ordinance shall be deemed to be severable. Should any section or provision of this Ordinance be declared unconstitutional or invalid, the same may be stricken without affecting the validity of the Ordinance as a whole or any part thereof not declared to be unconstitutional or invalid.

Section 12. Violation of any provision of this Ordinance shall be a misdemeanor and may be punishable by a fine of Five Hundred ($500.00) Dollars or ninety (90) days confinement in jail or both, plus court costs, costs of prosecution, plus fees and expenses set forth in this Ordinance.

Section 13. This Ordinance shall take effect immediately upon publication.

AMEND NUMBERING ORDINANCE RESOLUTION

WHEREAS, the Charlevoix County Uniform Numbering Ordinance was adopted on May 10, 1995 by the Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners; and

WHEREAS, the ordinance was reviewed by the C.C.E. Central Dispatch Authority Board of Directors; and

WHEREAS, the only area that needed addressing is the height of the post used for displaying the address; and

WHEREAS, it was the consensus of the Board of Directors to recommend that the Charlevoix County Numbering Ordinance, Section 4.1 (B), be changed from: Where the numbers on the front of the structure cannot be read from the road, the resident, occupant, or owner of a structure shall cause the assigned address number to be displayed upon a post of suitable strength and construction, adjacent to the driveway or access of the premises. The height of the post shall be not less than six (6) feet above the level of the adjacent road and the assigned address number shall be placed on both sides of the post so as to be plainly visible from road traffic lanes in either direction of approach; and

WHEREAS, To read: Where the numbers on the front of the structure cannot be read from the road, the resident, occupant, or owner of a structure shall cause the assigned address number to be displayed upon a post of suitable strength and construction, adjacent to the driveway or access of the premises. The post must be an unobstructed 5-foot height numbered post to identify a residence. The number posted must be visible from the roadway. Another option would be to have the numbers posted on a mailbox. It does not need to be posted on both a post and the mailbox. The mailbox needs to be adjacent to the proper driveway. The assigned address number shall be placed on both sides of the post or mailbox so as to be plainly visible from road traffic lanes in either direction of approach;

NOW THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED, that the County Board of Commissioners hereby adopts the above outlined amendment and requests that the amendment be published as required by law.

May appointed district judge

Charlevoix County Prosecutor Richard May will soon be moving to the other side of the judicial bench. This past Friday, Governor John Engler appointed May to serve as the judge for 90th District Court in Charlevoix and Emmet Counties. May fills a vacancy created by the retirement of Judge Harvey C. Varnum.

In a press release issued Monday, May said, "I would like to thank Governor Engler, and the individuals in the community who supported my candidacy for the 90th District Court Judgeship, for their confidence in my ability to serve our community as judge."

"Governor Engler called me at 10:30 Friday morning asking if I would accept the appointment. He indicated that I had been appointed because of my conservative judicial philosophy, balance of legal experience, past involvement in community concerns and broad base of community support."

May said he felt the community supported his efforts to become judge due to his follow through on promises made during his campaign for prosecutor. Among the issues he has stressed as prosecutor have been victim rights and restitution and aggressively prosecuting drunk drivers.

"As the new 90th District Court Judge," May said, "I will continue to emphasize hard work, team work and communication with other agencies, training and consistent application of the law to protect the public. As the judge, my primary function will be to seek the truth, the prompt and timely resolution of disputes, protection of individual's and victim's rights, and then the imposition of sentences designed to hold offenders accountable and deter them and others from committing crimes."

May received a bachelor's degree in Aerospace Engineering from the University of Michigan in 1968 and a Juris Doctor degree from Wayne State University Law School in 1973. After receiving his law degree, May joined the Ingham County Prosecutor's Office as an assistant prosecutor. He is a past president of the Boyne City School Board, the Boyne City Chamber of Commerce and the Charlevoix County Hospice.

His appointment as judge extends through Dec. 31, 1996. He will be up for election to a six-year term in November 1996.

A firm timetable for May's transition from prosecutor to judge has yet to be established. After May officially resigns as prosecutor, chief assistant prosecutor Mary Beth Kur will fill in as interim prosecutor pending the appointment of a permanent replacement by Circuit Court Judge Richard Pajias.

A woman's place is in the race

By Laurie Lounsbury

When Janie Roth agreed to race in her first Chicago to Mackinac yacht race, she knew what she would be doing on the 333 mile trip. She chose to stay below deck, cooking and doing dishes on the family's 64-foot sailing yacht, Micjay. "I wasn't going to do something I'm not used to doing and endanger everyone else," Janie explained. Her 26 year old daughter Julee, on the other hand, took up a very different position on the boat.

"I could hear the kids on the foredeck, scrambling around. How would you like to be a mother and know your kids are out there in 50 mile an hour winds? I was scared."

Janie Roth, describing being below deck during a storm in the Chicago to Mackinac race.

She was the crew's tactician, plotting the best race course from Chicago to Mackinac Island.

"The two women had the most important jobs on the boat," said James Hynes, the Roth's full time skipper. "Food is very, very important," Hynes added, grinning at Janie.

Janie ran a hand across the curved teak along the boat's countertop and said, "I do like cooking on the boat. I like my kitchen."

Janie and daughter Julie look at sailing from opposite sides of a feminist chasm. Janie has spent decades waving from the docks to her husband Michael when he raced sailboats in the Port Huron and Chicago to Mackinac races. Janie has stood on Mackinac Island with hundreds of other wives, all waiting for their men to cross the finish line. Janie's the one who does 18 loads of laundry when the crew gets back to home port. And Janie tends to the little details. "My dishes match the spinnaker," Janie said with bemusement.

Daughter Julie would have none of that. Julie and her brothers Jared, 24, and Jaimie, 22, grew up sailing on their father's boats. They took sailing lessons year after year at the Great Lakes Yacht Club in Detroit. Julie now runs the yacht club's sailing program. In her spare time, she does ocean racing in the Caribbean.

The whole Roth family participated in this year's Chicago to Mackinac race. It was Julie's dream to do the race with the whole family on board. Janie reported that Julie and her father don't always see eye to eye on sailing techniques, but Julie stands her ground. "My daughter is very good, but the men are chauvinistic. Julie has had to fight every step of the way to get where she is," Janie said, adding, "Julie and I have taken a very different approach to sailing. I guess it shows how women of two different generations react to the same situation."

So when Micjay crossed the starting line in Chicago, Julie was studying storm fronts off the Wisconsin shoreline while Jane was whipping up hors d'oeuvres. And when Micjay sailed into the storm near Waukegon, Wisconsin, Janie was below deck, standing almost sideways as the boat heeled over in 50 mile an hour winds. She was washing dishes. "I could hear the kids on the foredeck, scrambling around. How would you like to be a mother and know your kids are out there in 50 mile an hour winds? I was scared," Janie said.

Janie had good reason to be scared. The storm was cruel to several other boats in the race. Sixteen boats dropped out, mostly due to storm damage. Stripes blew out its main sail, and the perennial favorite, Pied Piper, lost its mast. Micjay suffered only minor damage.

When Micjay sailed out of the storm, they were well ahead of most of the fleet. The boat then headed east to the Michigan shoreline and followed the shore up to Mackinac Island. Micjay was the seventh boat to cross the finish line, in a field of 252 boats. After adjusting for handicaps, Micjay finished 17th overall. Julie did her job as tactician extremely well. Janie was doing her job even as the boat sailed past the Mackinac Island lighthouse. "I was cooking apple pancakes when we crossed the finish line. I can't believe I was still down below, cooking, when we finished the race," Janie said.

Micjay headed back for its home port of Charlevoix shortly after they finished the race. By 7:30 Monday evening, Micjay was sailing into Round Lake, where the Roths live in the summer months. At last, Janie was above board. Nature rewarded her with a huge, double rainbow as the rain clouds gave way to sunlight. "It was really spiritual," Janie said. "That's what sailing is about - being one with nature. I'm glad my kids have grown up to enjoy that."

Venetian was a bash enjoyed by all

How many people attended the 1995 Venetian Festival? Who knows exactly. There were a load of 'em. Maybe even a Joad and a hall.

As Jacqueline Merta, Executive Director of the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce, notes people throw out the figure of 20,000, but it could be more. There's really no way of telling. It's not like we put up turnstiles at the edge of town.

From Thursday evening through Saturday night Charlevoix was abuzz with activity. During those three days there almost always is something going on and more often than not several things.

Thursday evening six young women interviewed with judges for the Miss Charlevoix title. Erin McNamara-Wright was crowned Friday evening at the drum and bugle corps championship and rode atop the Charlevoix float in Saturday's street parade.

Saturday's street parade under the direction of chairman Joe Trojanek featured 70 entries, among them a band of Charlevoix High School alumni musicians. The band was kind of tossed together at the last minute, but had fun and sounded great. In recent years the parade has attempted to emphasize quality rather than quantity, holding the number of entries to around 70 so that the parade doesn't last much more than an hour.

"I had people tell me that it was the best (Venetian) street parade that they'd seen," Merta said.

Friday evening the Charlevoix City Recreation Department hosted a new Venetian Festival event, a dance with a live band at the Ferry Beach pavilion. Nearly 300 people turned out for the event.

People who preferred a mellow form of music attended the drum and bugle corps championship Friday evening which was won by the Saginawers from Saginaw.

Ten teams competed in the FMB/KLT Venetian Festival beach volleyball tournament at Lake Michigan beach. The tournament, in its second year, grew from six to 10 teams and featured some excellent play. A team made up primarily of college students from Lake Superior State University won the tournament.

Nearly 400 runners competed in the Drenth Memorial Foot Race Saturday morning on the north side. Charlevoix runners swept the 5K race as Mary Plude won the women's race and Matt Smith edged Bill Crook in the men's race.

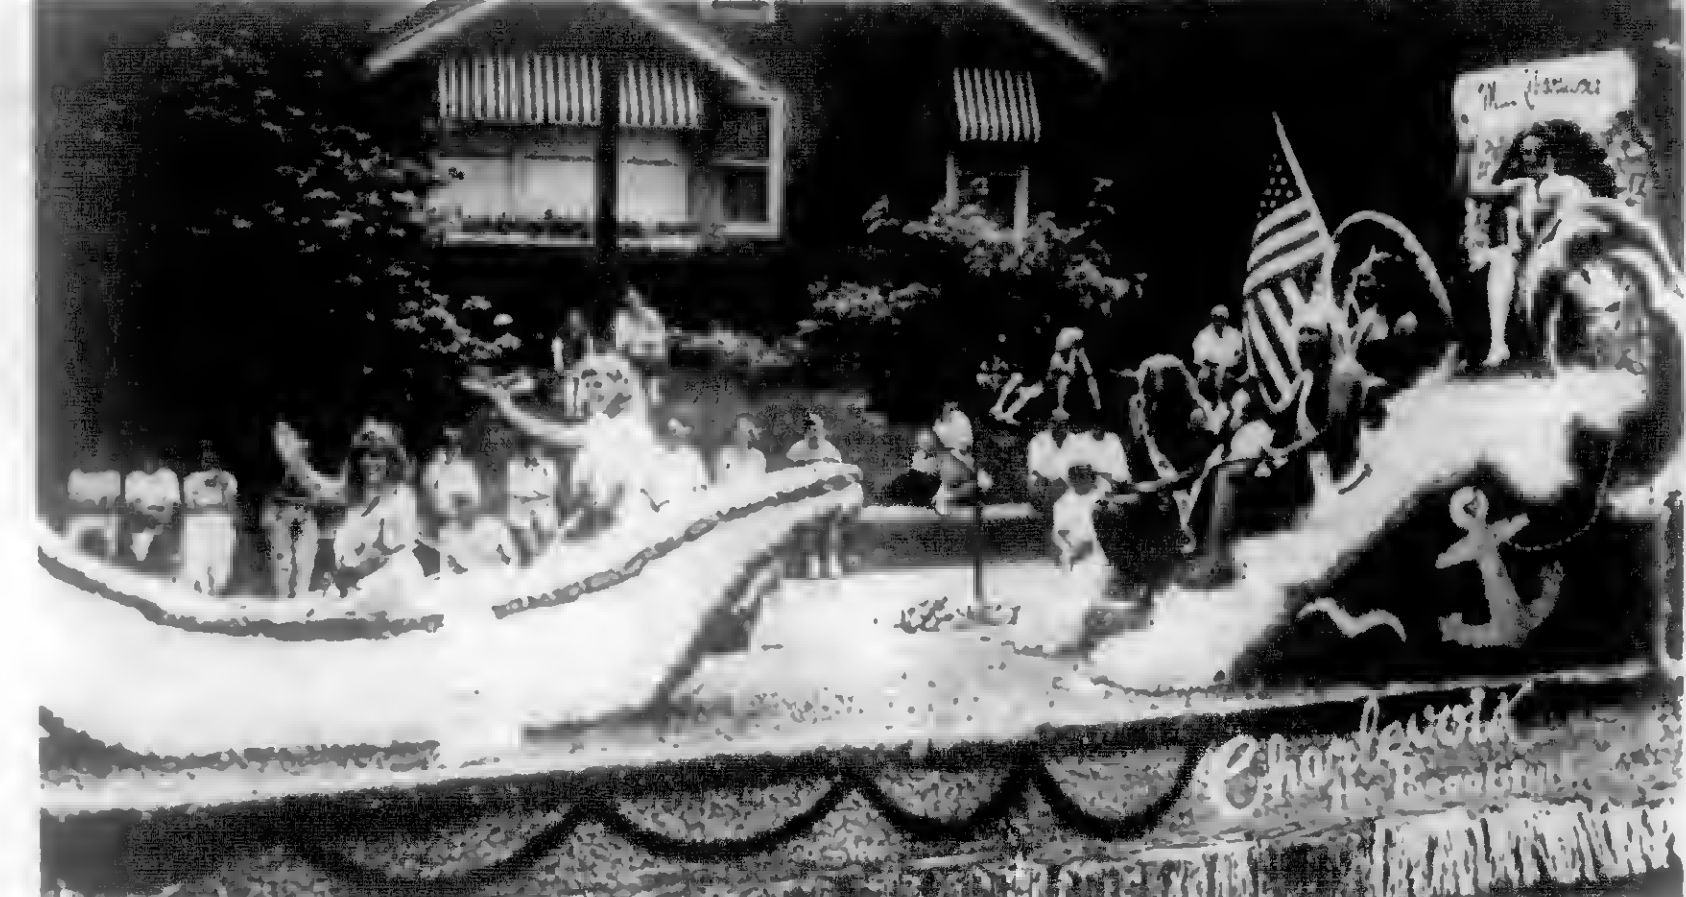

Twenty boats participated in the 1995 Grand Electrical Boat Parade. The top prize went to Trojanek and his boat "Delivery." The boat was decorated to the theme "Moon Over Ironton."

The fireworks began at approximately 10:15 Saturday night, featuring more large fireworks than in past years. The weather threatened, sprinkling just a touch prior to the fireworks, but the rain held off until just after the fireworks concluded.

The 1995 Venetian Festival marked John Taylor's final year as overall chairman. Taylor has been chairman of the festival for the past four years.

"But he's not going away," Merta said emphatically. "We're gonna keep him. He's consented to be chairman of the boat parade."

"From the people that I talked to and the comments I received, I believe it was the best Venetian Festival to date," Merta said of this year's festival.

Venetian organization is rewarding

For thousands upon thousands of people who merely attend Venetian Festival events the events are nothing but a good time. However, for the many people involved in organizing the festival, the events are not only a good time, they're also a fair amount of work.

A small core group of people put in what must total hundreds, if not thousands, of hours of advance planning and preparation for each year's Venetian Festival. These are the people in the trenches, the people who do the hands-on, take-care-of-the-details, get-things-lined-up tasks that make the festival go smoothly.

Here at the Courier, we get a chance to talk to many of these people, hear about their plans, serve as a sounding board and relay information both to the community and back to the event organizers from the community.

For many of the events there's kind of a story behind the story as to how the organizers got involved and what kind of rewards they get from having their event be a success.

For example, Gary Stutzman works on coordinating festival music. He chairs the drum and bugle competition and works with Fran Tollas on the Tribute to Odie Music Festival in East Park. Stutzman was a student of the late Charlevoix band director Clarence Odmak and you only have to talk to him for a few minutes and it becomes obvious that Odmak was one of the people who nurtured in Stutzman an incredible appreciation for music. After graduating from college, Stutzman put in a stint as Charlevoix band director back in the '70s. This past Saturday, he and many of his former students put together a Charlevoix High School alumni band and played in the Venetian street parade. They had a good time and they sounded great. There have been formally proclaimed tributes to Clarence Odmak prior to his death and a tribute to his wife, Jan Odmak, during this year's Venetian Festival. That's all well and good, but when that alumni band went by in Saturday's parade you were probably seeing a much greater tribute. You saw musicians playing well, having fun together and entertaining thousands. As a tribute to Odie's musical inspiration, that's one that spans generations and wasn't stopped by the grave. Could there be a greater tribute than that?

Another interesting story of Venetian Festival involvement is Paul Gelderblom and the Drenth Memorial Foot Race which helps support the high school cross country program. Gelderblom is an assistant coach with the Charlevoix High School Cross Country program - a model high school athletic program if ever there was one. If you want to judge how well a high school program is doing, ask yourself the following three questions: As a parent, are you comfortable having your kid in the program? Is every kid, not just the prime time players, pushed and encouraged to maximize their potential? Is the program having some level of success and winning more often than losing? (An explanation of the rationale behind this criteria can be offered, but that's another editorial.) The Charlevoix cross country program meets those criteria. One of the things Gelderblom, head coach Ken Plude and others who work with the cross country athletes stress is that every runner on the team is important, works hard and has a role to play. And that concept doesn't just apply to the runners. It extends to everybody involved with the program. Gelderblom, in addition to being a good runner and motivator, is good at organizing stuff. By Saturday evening, less than 12 hours after the last runner crossed the finish line, he had race results available on a computer disk. It is quite likely that sometime within the next couple of years the Charlevoix girls' cross country team will win its first Class C State championship. Although it won't be in too many minds at the time, Gelderblom's time at the computer keyboard or time on the phone ordering T-shirts or trophies will be among many factors leading to that title. Everybody plays a role.

Joe Trojanek chairs the street parade. He also operates a local business and, like many other people in town, his summer would be plenty busy without taking time to organize a parade. But, also like many other people, he has a sense of community and wants to see Charlevoix be a place where people not only prosper financially, but enjoy themselves. So he finds or makes the time to do the parade. There's no tangible reward for running the Venetian parade. The only reward is riding down Bridge Street and seeing thousands and thousands of people, young and old, having a good time with friends and family. That's not the kind of reward you pocket and spend later. It's the kind of reward you put away and keep forever.

The examples above are just a few of many people who could be listed. Many other people have labored quietly and will remain essentially anonymous. But that doesn't mean their efforts are unappreciated. If those who work on the Venetian Festival ever doubt that, they need only stand on Bridge Street on a Venetian Friday evening and watch two old friends who haven't seen each other for a while exchange a warm greeting. Or they can sit in the park Saturday night and look at the smiling face of a child illuminated by fireworks on a summer night.

(Editor's note: Fr. Francis C. Partridge sent this letter to Castle Farm and asked to have it reprinted in the Courier.)

Editor,

Dear Mr. Porter,

Thank you for your reminder. I am paying off my pledge. You need the money now and I certainly don't want to see the Castle Farm revert back to the former owner. With all the resort money in Charlevoix, it would be a tragedy if you don't meet your goal.

Keep the need and drive on the front page of the Charlevoix Courier every week.

God bless you,

Local Fourth of July program proposed

Editor,

In separate conversations with Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce executive director and board of directors president, concerning the omission of listing the non profit Jordan River Sportsman's club gun show, for two years in succession, as an activity during the Venetian Festival, another interesting fact came to light.

Many people, including me, have been under the impression that since there is no Fourth of July celebration in Charlevoix on the Fourth, the Venetian Festival was a combined boat and Fourth of July celebration, which takes place about two weeks after the fourth. I was emphatically informed by both Chamber principals that the 65 years the Venetian Festival has no ties whatsoever to the Fourth of July! Isn't this interesting?

This same group of people proposed to take over the Veteran's Park, two years ago, and use it to expand the Chamber of Commerce facilities.

As captain of the Color Guard of VFW Post 1153, Charlevoix, I have withdrawn the Color Guard from the Venetian Parade, as it is now simply stated, a commercial venture. I have recommended that the VFW Auxiliary also withdraw. As an active member of American Legion Post 226, Charlevoix, I have recommended that they and their Auxiliary also withdraw from the parade.

It is obvious that the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce has very little empathy for the most important date in this nation's history or its veterans.

Therefore, I have proposed to my VFW Post that we join with the American Legion Post in a united Fourth of July program, beginning next year, just as we do on Memorial Day. All veterans and veteran organizations and their auxiliaries will be welcome to join us.

We vets take our responsibilities, and those handed down by our forefathers, very seriously when it comes to the birth of our nation and its continued recognition.

The Gun Show has been canceled due to the attitude of the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce; most of the dealers in the show are veterans of either military service or law enforcement agencies.

Sincerely,

Charles H. Butcher, Jr.
Adjutant, VFW Post 1153

Restaurant welcomed class reunion

Editor,

On behalf of the graduating class of 1950 - Charlevoix High School - We have been having class reunions every five years since 1960. We have found it very difficult to have our gathering in a restaurant because of the time of year (Venetian weekend). It seems that having a large gathering at that time causes loss of revenue for the eating establishments!

Well, this year, Pam Monroe of Alexander's was contacted. She did not hesitate to extend her hospitality at once. Saturday night, July 22, we had our reunion at Alexander's. The food was superb, the service also. We were welcomed with warmth and graciousness. Our 45th reunion was a wonderful memory to add to our numerous happy memories of life in Charlevoix.

A sincere thank you, Pam.

Historical exhibit features Charlevoix's old hotels

The Beach, The Belvedere, The Inn. The names of these hotels evoke one of the golden ages in Charlevoix's history. "Society" traveled from all over the Midwest to enjoy Charlevoix's natural bounty, bringing the city alive each summer with their sports, dances, and socializing.

The Charlevoix Historical Society is planning an exhibit to commemorate this colorful and important part of Charlevoix history. The exhibit will tell the story of the summer visitors who stayed in the hotels and the people who worked for them. It will also feature early hotels like the Fountain City House and the "in-town" hotels.

The exhibit will include photographs and artifacts from the era. It will be open to the public at 8 p.m. Aug. 1, at the Railroad Depot. Refreshments will be provided. Admission is $2.

Supplementing the exhibit will be a round table discussion of the hotels. The Historical Society is looking for people who worked, stayed in, or remember the great hotels and who wish to take part in the discussion or undertake oral history interviews. The interviews will be used to supplement the exhibit and to provide a permanent record of the experience of working in or visiting the hotels. The Historical Society is also searching for artifacts or items from the hotels to incorporate into the exhibit. If you have any such items you would like to lend or donate to the Society, or experienced the hotels and would like to take part in the discussion or interviews, please contact Betsy Reynolds or Russ Carpenter at the Harsha House. Hospital discusses progress and challenges

"This hospital is not standing still," Charlevoix Area Hospital Board Chairman Mary Jason said at the hospital's annual meeting Tuesday (July 18) evening.

"It (the hospital) is reaching out to determine needs and then implementing programs and services to meet those needs," she said.

Jason pointed to new surgical procedures, equipment updates, and a new physical therapy clinic in Boyne City as advances Charlevoix Area Hospital has made in patient care during the past year.

Board Vice Chairman John Buick reported the hospital is doing well financially. Total operating revenue, he said, was $10,021,068 versus $8,774,501 in 1994. Total operating expenses were up about 10 percent at $10,008,586 leaving net operating income of $12,482 for the year. Other non-operating income brought a net profit of $122,593.

BEACONS

OF BLESSINGS

by REV. BRUCE HAMILTON

Two members of our church family were patients in the hospital and checking up on them is what had me there Friday morning. After visiting my parishioners, I happened to meet someone in the hall that I knew, Judge Varnum's wife from Boyne City. Harvey had been in for 12 days of chemotherapy and was getting ready to go home. Would I have time to say hello? Of course!

I have been a party to cases in Judge Varnum's court. I have had fun with Harvey as a fellow Rotarian. But I have never valued or appreciated him more than in the times I have been together with him and his wife. They just celebrated their fiftieth anniversary last month. That in itself is an achievement in my book. What is even more precious to me is the clear and obvious fact that they are still very much in love with each other. They have fun together even now in the midst of this little health battle.

Mrs. V. had brought him some yogurt to eat and that's where our day's conversation began. I've never eaten yogurt, yogurt. I've had the frozen stuff, but never the real thing, and I asked Harvey about eating it. She jumps in and talks about all the little enzymes and cultures in it and he laughs and says, "Oh, those little buggers really keep my stomach going." I marveled at the fun, at the love they had committed to one another all those years, that so clearly is their strength.

With the divorce rate hovering at the fifty percent rate, I find myself wondering what we understand about the commitments we are asked to make in our lives. Teachers are committed to the education of their students. Police officers are committed to the protection of the citizens that they serve. Doctors are committed to the well being of their patients. Why shouldn't husbands and wives be committed to each other?

In the book of Ephesians, Paul writes about wives being submissive to their husbands. I know a lot of men over the years who have trumpeted that verse. If you examine the whole passage, it starts out saying that husbands and wives should be submissive to each other. It also lays a heavy load on the men. It says that they should "love their wives as Christ loved the church and gave himself for her." If you think about it, that is a real commitment, a full time commitment.

When was the last time you told your spouse that you loved them? Don't assume that they know it! Tell them. When was the last time that you did something special for them without there being a cause or "ulterior motive" behind what you were doing? "Just because" blessings can mean more than those you do for a reason. God was so committed to you that He gave His only son. Jesus in turn challenged us to "love one another as I have loved you." Don't you think it's time to renew your commitment to the one you love? It makes a difference.

(Rev. Bruce Hamilton is pastor of the Charlevoix Community Church of God. Beacons of Blessings is provided to the Courier by Hamilton and other members of the Charlevoix Ministerial Association.)

Charlevoix Estates to host open house

The need for affordable housing in Charlevoix often receives lip service, but one of the few tangible examples is the Charlevoix Estates manufactured home complex on M-66. The complex was founded in 1990. Of the 189 available sites, 90 have been filled. Cheri Hughes, who recently began managing sales at the complex, feels the remaining sites could be sold within a year.

Charlevoix Estates will host an open house July 29 and 30. Hughes says the event will be like a new grand opening. The open house will offer refreshments, drawings for prizes, model homes available for tours and an appearance by Detroit TV and radio personality Sonny Eliot. Open house hours will be 11 a.m. to 8 p.m. Saturday and Sunday with Eliot visiting from 11:30 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Charlevoix Estates is owned by Highland Properties Co. out of Southfield. The complex has a clubhouse, heated pool, tennis court, exercise room, Jacuzzi spa, nature area and is putting in a children's play area. In recent months, Highland Properties has done some additional landscaping at the complex and installed a fence between the complex's northern perimeter and M-66.

"A lot of people are watching the park. They see it's not going downhill," Hughes said.

Charlevoix Estates has expanded its manufactured home sales efforts and will be hosting an open house this weekend. Showing the Fleetwood and Redmond homes will be (from left) Jean Feterl, Myrna Angelucci, Wade Lyall, Cheri Hughes, Karen Mackey and George S. Mackey.

About half of the residents of the park are senior citizens. The other half are younger people, some with children and some without. Hughes says manufactured housing in a complex like Charlevoix Estates is ideal for seasonal residents. About a dozen of the park's current homeowners are seasonal.

People buy manufactured homes and pay a lot fee to have the homes in the park. The lot fee is $199 per month.

Charlevoix Estates has sold manufactured homes at the park since opening in 1990, but now plan to dramatically expand and improve that aspect of the operation.

"We've had models on site all along," Hughes explained, adding that sometimes there were two models and sometimes four available for people to tour. "Now, we will have at least eight models for people to go through," she says. One of the models is designed especially to accommodate handicap access needs.

Hughes and her sales staff will be selling Fleetwood and Redmond manufactured homes. Those are the top two brands in the manufactured home industry. Hughes said the homes range in size from 1,100 to 1,500 square feet with most of them being around 1,400 square feet.

Charlevoix Estates sells homes both for location in the park as well as for location in other places.

Hall receives Lake Charlevoix Association volunteer award

Dr. John W. Hall was named volunteer of the year by the Lake Charlevoix Association at the group's annual meeting earlier this summer. The meeting took place at One Water Street and was attended by 59 members.

Hall received the award due to his many years of work toward the betterment of Lake Charlevoix. Hall was chairman of the group that developed the Lake Charlevoix Management Plan and presented it to local governmental units.

In other items at the annual meeting, David V. Johnson developer of the Bay Harbor resort detailed progress at the development and explained future plans. Merle Vandenberg of the Kiwanis Club explained how the new 9-1-1 emergency phone system will work once it goes into operation. Ann Baughman from the Tip of the Mitt Watershed Council discussed the Lake Charlevoix Association school educational project.

Membership in the the Lake Charlevoix Association is open to anyone interested in the quality of the lake.

Naturalist to provide canoe tour of area lakes and streams

Saturday, July 29, nature enthusiasts will have an opportunity to take a guided canoe tour of the Sinclair River. The Grass River Natural Area organization is sponsoring a series of tours of the Elk River Watershed, with the St. Clair Lake - Six Mile Lake Natural Area tour being one of them. Participants will meet at 9 a.m. Saturday at GRNA headquarters, then leave to spend the day paddling the Sinclair River and hiking on the protected preserves of the Natural Area. There is a sign-up fee of $15 per person. You can use your own canoe or one can be provided by GRNA.

Canoeing instructions will be available. Call the GRNA at 616-

533-8314 for a reservation. Bring a sack lunch and participate in the 12:30 p.m. dedication of the kiosk (a beautiful educational and seasonal information sign) at the South Arm Township Preserve. Those who are not in the tour may still come to be dedication. Call JoAnne Beemon at 547-4820 for details.

...hospital looks to future

Krueger expressed concern for the cuts in Medicare and Medicaid proposed by Congress. "Our calculations project that our hospital would lose about $440,000 in payments by the year 2002 for Medicare alone," he said. "If these forecasts come true, we would have real difficulty maintaining all of our services and our quality."

Krueger pointed out that the health system is being reformed in ways which move it from a sickness to a wellness industry. "The emphasis will be changing from treatment of illness to prevention of illness," he said.

"For the first time in my experience, hospitals and local health departments are working together to assess the health care needs of the community," Krueger said. "They are finding out what health problems are of concern in our area, and what are the difficulties encountered in getting those health problems treated."

Ed McGee, guild president, reported that Guild membership has reached 212 with 144 members who are active in hospital service. "Over 9,000 hours were donated last year saving the hospital $70,000," he said. Last year the Guild contributed $7,500 to the hospital to help satisfy its $25,000 building campaign pledge.

McGee said the pledge should be fully paid by year-end.

Two new board members were elected: Thomas Carey and Mark Eckhardt. Carey returns to the board after serving 18 years from 1973 to 1991. Eckhardt is a Central Lake resident employed as superintendent of Char-Em Intermediate Schools.

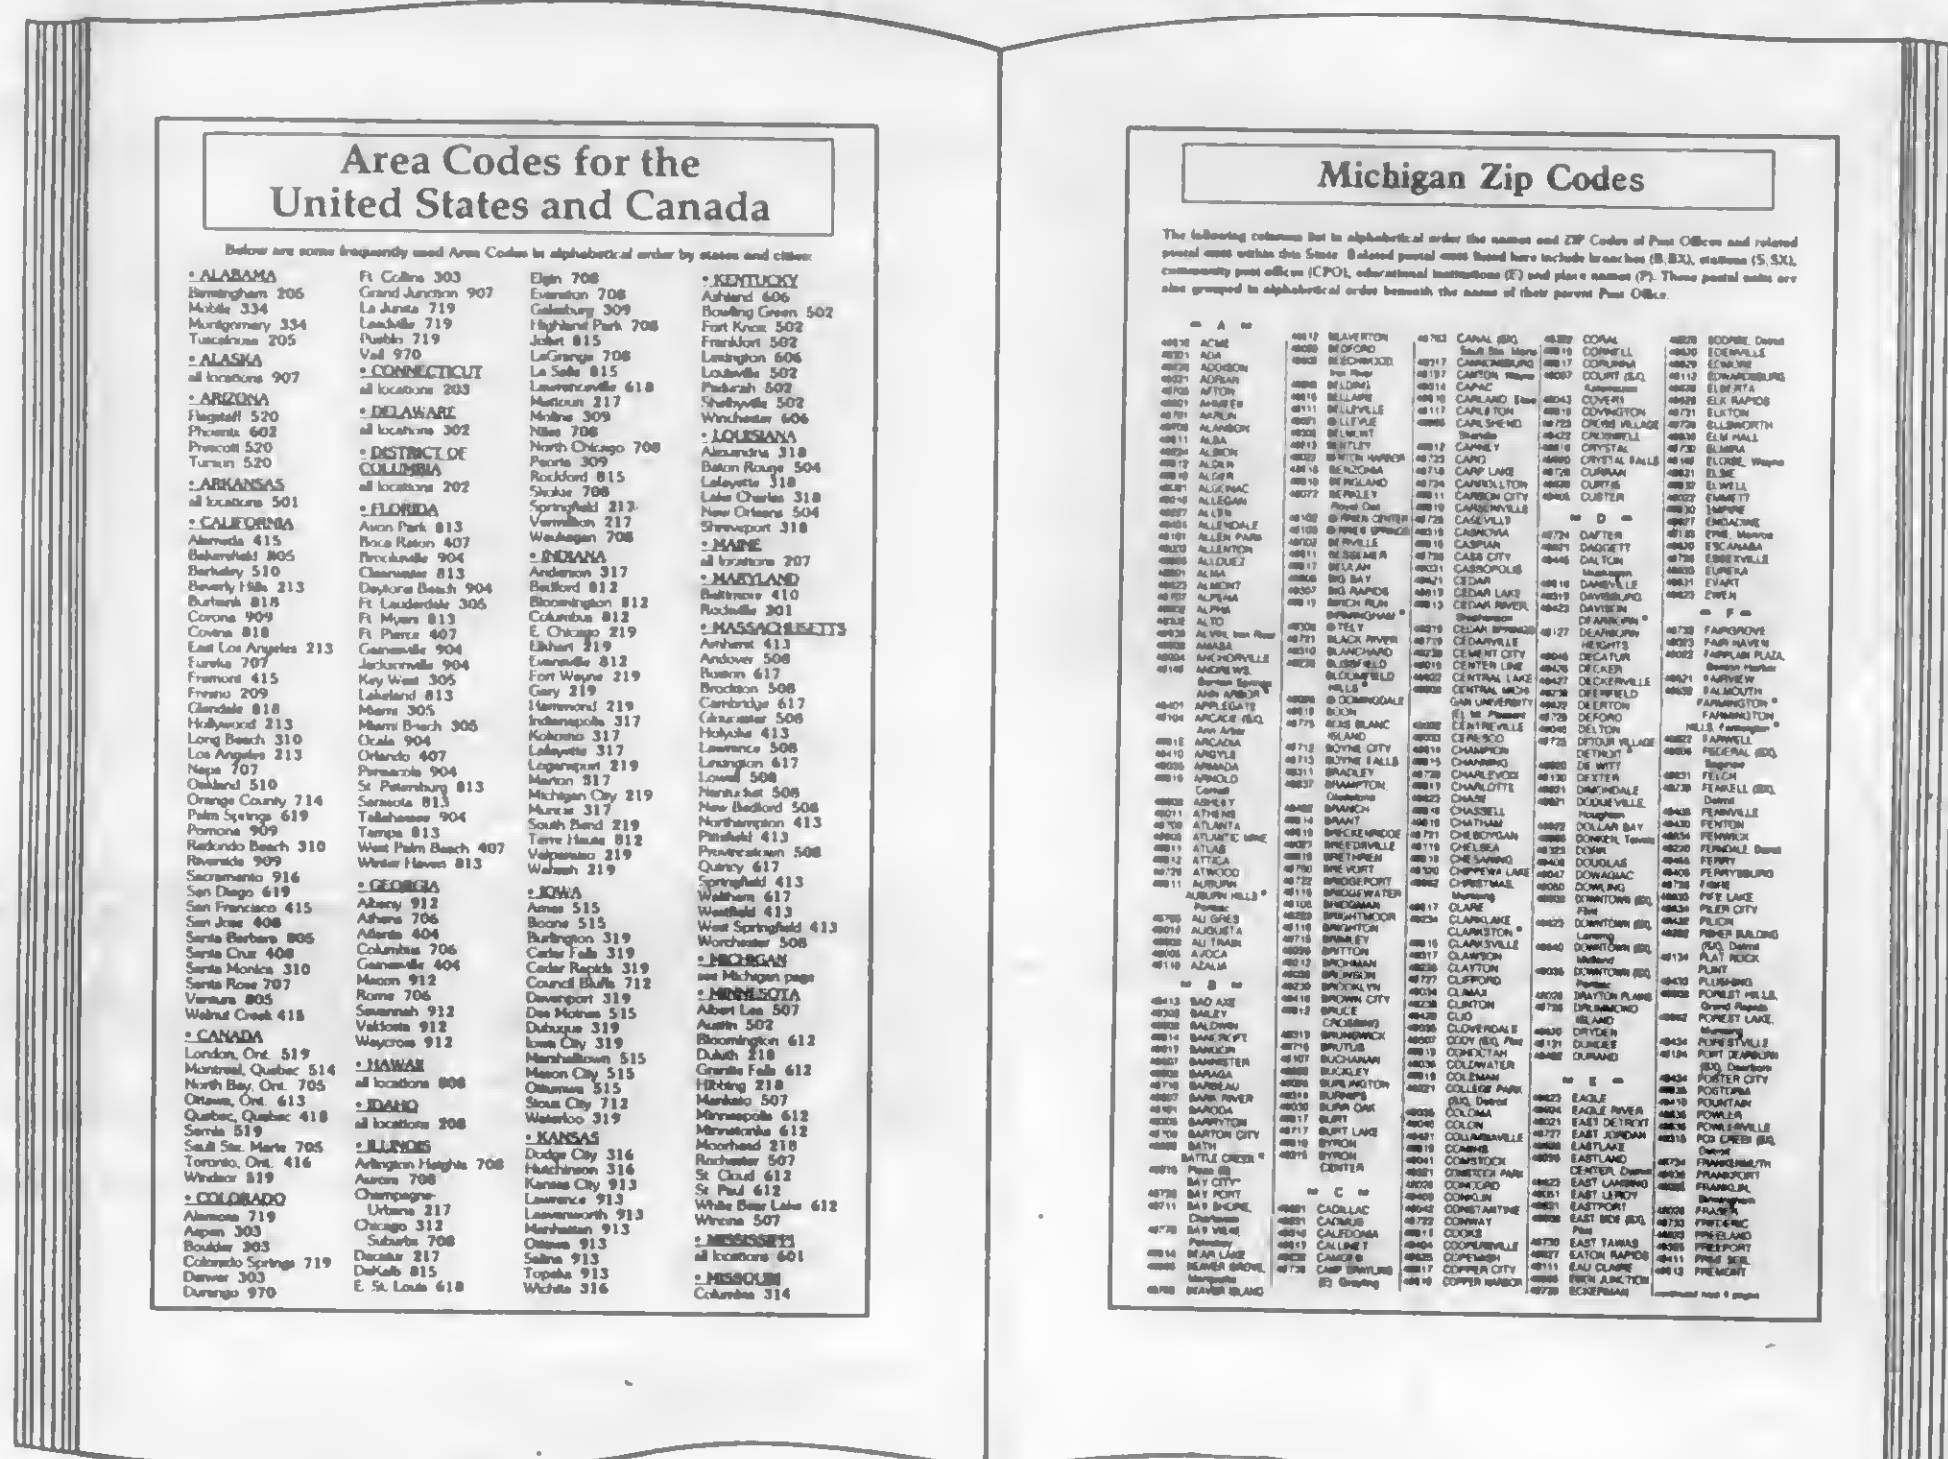

Merle Plagge, M.D., and Alan Weston were re-elected for three-year terms. Jeannine Wallace is retiring from the board after serving 15 years. Ray Wood is also stepping down from the board after serving for 6 years. Both retiring members were given plaques by Chairman Jason expressing appreciation for their dedication, support and insight.

Prior to the annual meeting approximately 100 members of the Charlevoix Area Hospital Lighthouse Club attended a reception in their honor. The Lighthouse Club is made up of nearly 600 businesses and individuals who donate $100 or more annually to the hospital.

PUBLIC NOTICE

The City of Charlevoix City Planning Commission will hold a public hearing on Monday, August 14, 1995 at 7:00 p.m. at City Hall, 210 State Street, Charlevoix, MI to discuss a proposed amendment to Chapter 51, Zoning and Planning of the City Code, Section 5.243, Project Staking and Inspections. The amendment is as follows:

5.243 PROJECT STAKING AND INSPECTIONS

The following project site staking and inspections shall be required:

- (1) Prior to the issuance of a Zoning Permit, the applicant or its representative shall accurately stake the location of the parcel property lines and the location of the proposed construction such that the Zoning Administrator may, by use of a tape measure and horizontal measurements, confirm that the construction as staked is as represented on the applicant's site plan which accompanies its application. On sloping sites, the lowest finished grade level shall be established on a grade stake which is offset from the construction such that it remains undisturbed during the course of the construction and may be used to check the final grade by the Zoning Administrator by means of a string line level.
- (2) After issuing a zoning permit, the Zoning Administrator shall from time to time conduct inspections of construction, for which a permit has been issued, as may be required to determine compliance with the permit.
- (3) Prior to commencing any construction of improvements which are a part of a project approved with a special use permit such improvements shall be staked both horizontally and vertically such that the Zoning Administrator may verify that the improvements are located as shown on the approved site development plan.

At a minimum, the following inspections shall be required:

- (1) Prior to issuance of a zoning permit.
- (2) Prior to commencement of construction of any site improvements which are a part of a special use permit.
- (3) After site preparation, but prior to construction of any foundation system.

It shall be the duty of the applicant or its agent to notify the Zoning Administrator when work is ready for inspection. Such inspection shall be made within a reasonable time following notification giving due consideration to the Zoning Administrator's work schedule and work load. Required inspections shall be deemed a requirement of a zoning permit or a special use permit even though the inspection requirement is not listed on the permit document.

In the event the Zoning Administrator is unable to determine if parcel boundaries are accurately located or that proposed or actual construction is properly located on a parcel, the Administrator may require that the applicant have prepared, at its cost, by a Registered Land Surveyor, a survey of the parcel or proposed or actual work. Such survey shall be submitted to the Zoning Administrator for review and as part of the applicant's zoning file.

Inspections on the part of the Zoning Administrator shall in no way absolve the applicant of responsibility for properly locating and undertaking construction in a manner which meets the requirements of this ordinance or any permit issued in accord with this ordinance nor making any corrections to the construction which are necessary to meet the requirements of this ordinance.

A complete copy of the proposed ordinance is available for review at the City Manager's Office, 210 State Street, Charlevoix, MI 49720. Written comments may be sent to the City Manager's Office, 210 State Street, Charlevoix, MI or may be presented at the City Council meeting.

May and Kur sworn into office

Law enforcement in Charlevoix County took on a new look this week as Richard May was sworn in as 90th District Court Judge Monday and Mary Beth Kur was sworn in as Charlevoix County Prosecutor Tuesday.

Neither May nor Kur are new to Charlevoix legal circles. May has been Charlevoix County Prosecutor for the past two and a-half years. Prior to being elected prosecutor, he was an attorney in Boyne City for several years. Kur has been assistant prosecutor for the past two years. Prior to coming to Charlevoix, she served as an assistant prosecutor in Genesee County.

Approximately 125 people attended May's swearing in Monday afternoon in the Charlevoix County courtroom. The 90th District Court encompasses both Charlevoix and Emmet Counties. Law enforcement officers and the court staffs from both counties attended.

Earlier in July, Governor John Engler appointed May to replace former judge Harvey Varnum who retired earlier this year. After May stepped down as prosecutor, Circuit Court Judge Richard Pajtas appointed Kur to take his place.

Prior to May taking the oath of office, several local law enforcement and court officials spoke and offered words of congratulations, advice and encouragement.

Charlevoix County Sheriff George Lasater said that in the past two and a-half years while working with May as sheriff and prosecutor, he observed three traits which he feels will serve May well as a judge. Lasater said that as a prosecutor May was always well prepared for every case, whether it was a barking dog or a murder. He said May also was always approachable and made people feel comfortable talking to him about his role in the judicial system. Lasater also said that May was a good communicator, willing to explain to crime victims and law enforcement officers what was taking place in court and the rationale behind his positions and actions.

In a brief speech following his oath of office, May returned the praise to Charlevoix law enforcement officers. He said much of the success of the prosecutor's office during the past two years has been due to maintaining a close working relationship with area law enforcement officers. May presented plaques of appreciation to Lt. Charles McCord, Commander of the Michigan State Police Post in Petoskey, Dennis Halverson, Charlevoix City Police Chief, Jerry

...new judge and prosecutor take office

Alward, East Jordan City Police Chief, Randy Howard, Boyne City Police Chief and Lasater.

Prior to administering the oath of office, Pajtas spoke. He opened by acknowledging the dedication and dignity exhibited by Varnum during more than two decades of service to the Charlevoix County judicial system, first as prosecutor and later as 90th District Court Judge. Varnum was unable to attend Monday's ceremony due to health problems.

Pajtas noted some of May's accomplishments as prosecutor, specifically, the establishment of a victim's assistance program and a domestic violence task force.

Of his new role as district court judge, Pajtas told May, "Richard, you inherit a very busy court, a court where more people come in contact with the judicial system than in any other court."

Charlevoix Hospice elects new officers

At its annual board meeting, the Charlevoix County Hospice re-elected Dr. Reed Freidinger and elected James White and Lisa Winchester for three year terms. Leaving the board after years of dedicated service are Jan Fish and Dianna Walls. Officers of the board, elected for one year terms, are President Mary Ellen Bake, Vice President Beverly Loewe, Secretary Mark Muniak, Treasurer Ann Weglinski, and Fund-raising director Bernadette Peterson. Also serving are David Beek, Eleanor Freedman, Margaret Martin and Joan Strawbridge. Spiritual Advisor is Rev. Buzz Walls and Executive Director is Margaret Lasater.

During the past year, the 90th District Court handled more than 10,600 cases.

Emmet County Circuit Court Judge Charles Johnson offered May some words of advice for his new position as a judge. Johnson said the position of judge carries with it a great deal of power and responsibility, but a judge must always be aware that the judicial system is for the benefit of the litigants and the public, not for the judiciary. He added that a judge must also remember that the power of the robe comes from the public either through election or appointment, "not from the All Mighty."

After taking the oath of office, May thanked all of the people who had supported him both as prosecutor and in seeking the appointment as judge. He said that during the whole process he "felt a real sense of community."

Grants help Island students learn leadership

Two high school students at Beaver Island Community School are developing their leadership skills and learning more about democracy this week, thanks to a grant from the E. Darrell Dinwiddie Memorial Fund.

Kendra Wojan and Lindsay McDonough each received a $300 scholarship to participate in the Michigan Association of Student Councils' High School Leadership Workshop at Aquinas College in Grand Rapids. The scholarships were awarded through the Charlevoix County Community Foundation, which holds the Dinwiddie Fund.

Wojan and McDonough were selected for the honor on the basis of their academic performance, extra-curricular activities, and community involvement. They join students from throughout Michigan who gather each year to develop and practice the lifelong skills necessary for enthusiastic, effective leadership. The workshop is designed to prepare student leaders to assume responsibilities in school councils, classes, and clubs — and later, within their communities.

The two students are the first to be awarded scholarships from the E. Darrell Dinwiddie Memorial fund. The special fund was established last year to honor Dinwiddie, a respected accountant who gave generously of his time to advise many area businesses and individuals. At the time of his death, friends created the fund within the Charlevoix County Community Foundation as a way to continue his good deeds and provide young Islanders with enrichment opportunities.

Only interest income from the fund will be used for scholarships and grants, so the endowment is a permanent tribute that can grow and give for many years to come. Gifts to the Dinwiddie Memorial Fund are tax deductible and qualify for a Michigan tax credit as well.

OPINIONS

Editor's notes

Monday afternoon's swearing in ceremony for new 90th District Court Judge Richard May was an interesting event. It was appropriately dignified, yet still had a sense of warmth, humor and general humanity about it.

About 125 people filled the courtroom. There were three judges (Well, two to begin with and three by the time all was said and done.), a handful of press people, several friends, family members and court workers and so many lawyers and cops that you couldn't be too careful of what you said or did for fear of inciting either an arrest or litigation.

As the people filed in, the atmosphere in the courtroom brought to mind the atmosphere of a church just prior to a wedding. People filed in and looked around to find an empty seat in the midst of whatever group of people they belonged with. Charlevoix Police Chief Dennis Halverson walked in and said hello as he scouted for a seat. I told him, "You'll be sitting in the police chiefs' section. It's on the left, toward the front." He chuckled, said he was happy to have a row "A ticket," and went over and took a seat next to East Jordan Police Chief Jerry Alward and Boyne City Police Chief Randy Howard.

Prior to May taking the oath of office, several people spoke, among them Emmet County Circuit Court Judge Charles Johnson. In offering May some advice about filling the position of judge, Johnson pointed out that a judge should always keep in mind that the power of the robe comes from the public and "not from the All Mighty." May led the laughter prompted by that comment.

As he stepped forward to take the oath, May received the assistance of his mother in putting on the judicial robe. It was a nice warm moment.

A law enforcement and judicial system has to have a serious, dispassionate and dignified side to it, but it also has to have a human side with warmth and humor. Monday's swearing-in ceremony had that. More importantly, the ceremony reflects the character and humanity of many of the people within the Charlevoix judicial system. Several examples can be cited. Harvey Varum, whom May replaced, not only served as a prosecutor and judge for more than two decades, he also led many a song at the Charlevoix and Boyne City Rotary Clubs and moved a lot of merchandise as an auctioneer at charity auctions. Prior to being elected prosecutor, May was involved in several areas of public service, among them serving as president of the Boyne City School Board, Circuit Court Judge Richard Pajtas is a familiar face at Charlevoix High School wrestling and cross country meets and also pretty good at swapping deer hunting stories. Mary Beth Kur, who is replacing May as prosecutor, spent part of a Saturday afternoon this past spring standing in East Park, one of many proud mommies and daddies watching their children swarm like locusts on plastic eggs scattered on the grass for an Easter egg hunt.

There's nothing particularly extraordinary about members of the Charlevoix judicial system doing normal people and parent things. In fact, that's very normal. But it's also very healthy. A key role of the judicial system is to help establish and enforce community standards. In order for the people within the judicial system to understand those standards, it helps if they are an active part of the community. In Charlevoix County we're very fortunate to have people in our judicial system who take part in community activities rather than shying away from them.

On another note, I attended a Detroit Tiger baseball game last Thursday afternoon. Major league baseball is in a sad state of affairs. Generally speaking, I'm still mad about last summer's strike and, with last week's game as an exception, I'm boycotting baseball this summer. I put my grudge on hold for a day Thursday because I was in Detroit while my wife attended a computer seminar and I had some time to kill. I also wanted to see Alan Trammell and Lou Whitaker play once in what is probably their final year with the Tigers.

Major league baseball has simply lost the passion of the fans. In the early 1980s, I went to some Tiger games and had fun. People were hollering, doing the wave - the games were exciting. Thursday's game just wasn't that much fun. It was hot and the fans tried to keep cool by drinking $2.25 lemonade or $3.75 beer. The players went through the motions. The only time any player showed much emotion was when Kirk Gibson got himself heaved from the game arguing with an umpire who called him out on strikes. According to the scoreboard, there were 18,000 and some people at the game. I don't know if that's accurate. I know there were a lot of empty seats. And in a way that was fortunate. It diminished the odds of any fans getting injured by those rockets the Oakland A's hitters were swatting into the stands.

The next ball game I go to probably won't be major league. I'm going to go up to city softball field and take in a tee ball game. The players enjoy themselves and go all out and the fans holler and cheer, taking pride in the players' accomplishments as if those players were the fans' own children.

That's the way a ball game should be.

Letters to the editor

Charlevoix remaining beautiful is no accident

Editor,

As one of the legions of Charlevoixians who somehow never get their compliments beyond the spoken word - may I take this opportunity to honor the nameless, faceless volunteers and professionals who are constantly nurturing our natural setting and fine tuning it into the jewel of this north coast. There is not a community within 50 latitudes of us more deserving to tack the work Beautiful onto its name, and this is by no accident. It is accomplished by the tireless efforts of image protectors who apparently pitched their tents in our woods - lucky for us! Case in point - fresh from enjoying another excellent Venetian Celebration, I met the sunrise across Round Lake early Sunday morning and was also greeted by the Fire and Street Departments engaged in a cooperative effort of hosing & cleaning the downtown area back into spic & span status for the late risers - behind the scene players in a continuous production. It is this community spirit that has established our town - best harbor on the great lakes - in any weather!

Sincerely,
R.E. Beaumont

Oh Boix

A collection of praises, awards and accomplishments involving Charlevoix area people.

Jeralyn Goss of Charlevoix recently accepted a position with the city of Bothell, Washington, as an engineering technician II. Goss was selected out of a field of 200 applicants. Goss received her B.A. in engineering from the University of Alaska. She is a 1978 graduate of Charlevoix High School.

Goss' new position deals with storm and surface water management issues for the city of Bothell. Goss is the daughter of Lorene Goss and the late Gerald Goss of Charlevoix.

Several Charlevoix people are among the 1995 summer graduates at Michigan State University. Their names and the degrees they will be receiving are: Sarah Haselschwardt, master of arts in curriculum and teaching; Deborah McDowell, master of arts in curriculum and teaching; Shelly Novotny, master of arts in curriculum and teaching; Cindy Rowell, master of arts in curriculum and teaching; Daniel Terryberry, bachelor of arts in education.

James L. Zeidler of Charlevoix recently received a bachelor of science degree in civil engineering with an emphasis in transportation from Michigan Technological University. He graduated magna cum laude with a grade point average of 3.7 on a 4 point scale. He plans to continue his education, working toward a master's degree while teaching part-time.

The name of a former Charlevoix woman has been entered into the Congressional Record. U.S. Rep. Bart Stupak D-Menominee, recently read into the record a tribute to Marilu (Verwys) Ikens, the co-founder and executive director of the Huron Shores Writing Institute. Ikens founded the institute in her present hometown of Rogers City in 1985. The institute has grown and has participated in exchanges with Russia and now includes workshops in Muhlhausen, Germany. Ikens is the daughter of Polle Verwys of Charlevoix.

More doe permits to be issued this year

Department of Natural Resources application forms and guides for antlerless deer hunting licenses will be available in early August at more than 1,500 license dealers throughout Michigan.

In order to be entered in the computer drawing for these licenses, applications must be submitted by September 24.

An antlerless deer hunting license allows a hunter to take a deer without antlers, or with antlers less than three inches in length, during the regular firearm deer hunting season, November 15-30.

"Michigan's abundant whitetail deer resource has allowed us to again provide an increased level of participation in the antlerless hunt," DNR Director Roland Harnes said. "Over the years the antlerless deer permits have allowed biologists to more finely tune deer herd management across the state."

Antlerless deer licenses not used during the regular firearm season will be valid for use in designated deer management units during the December 1-10 muzzleloading season in the Upper Peninsula, the December 8-15 muzzleloading season in the Lower Peninsula, or the December 1, 1995, to January 1, 1996, portion of the bowhunting season.

There are some deer management units, like 215 in southern Menominee County, where all applicants will probably be successful in the drawing. In other units, like 079 in Missaukee County, less than 1 in 10 applicants may be successful. An applicant's chance of receiving a license depends on the number of licenses available in a unit as well as the number of hunters applying. This year, the DNR has published a table in the antlerless deer hunting guide that estimates the odds of receiving a license.

FAMILY

Gleason - Glass

A nautical setting on Hilton Head Island provided the backdrop for the wedding of Lori Cheryl Gleason and Joshua William Glass. The bride is the daughter of Sharleen and Gary Gleason of Windmill Harbour, South Carolina, and formerly of Charlevoix. The groom is the son of Sally and Bob Page of Harbor Springs and William Glass of Cross Village.

The bride and groom were married June 24 at the South Carolina Yacht Club, overlooking Windmill Harbour. Seventy sailors were in attendance for the double ring ceremony, performed by Sandy Milne, a Merchant Marine Lieutenant Commander who wore dress whites for the occasion.

The bride was given in marriage by her father, Gary Gleason. She wore a Victorian, ivory lace, tea length gown with a handkerchief hem and pearl trim on the bodice. Her short ivory veil was trimmed with silk roses and seed pearls. She carried a summer bouquet of yellow roses, daisies, and violet wildflowers.

Lavon Stevens, vocalist and keyboard artist, provided the music at the ceremony.

Maid of honor was Valerie Barnes, friend of the bride. The bridesmaid was Elizabeth Glass, sister of the groom, and junior bridesmaid was Colleen Gleason, sister of the bride. The bridesmaids wore light yellow, sleeveless linen dresses with wide silk georgette sailor collars. They carried yellow and violet summer bouquets. The junior bridesmaid wore a sleeveless, white lace, flared tea length dress with a georgette neckline.

Hospital social worker retires after 23 years

Camille Greene, Charlevoix Area Hospital social worker, is retired August 1 after 23 years of employment.

Greene started at the hospital as "IBM clerk" in 1971. In 1978 she became patient representative and one year later was licensed as a social worker.

She will be remembered by many whom she gave comfort and support through difficult times. During her 16 years as social worker at the hospital, she helped many families contend with problems such as nursing home placement for a loved one; securing home health care; and finding necessary equipment for the handicapped and ill. In her position she has worked with a great many agencies and health care organizations around the area and state. She is active in the Charlevoix County Hospice.

Greene received her bachelor's degree in Education from Aquinas College and taught English, Spanish and History prior to joining the hospital staff. She did postgraduate study in social work at Michigan State University. She raised six children in Charlevoix.

A dinner in her honor took place July 26. A reception was held for well-wishers July 27.

Take me out to the ball game

Visitors driving through Charlevoix might get the mistaken impression that every car in town is parked within the three block downtown area. But a trip down Carpenter Street would show them that, on any given summer evening, hundreds of cars are parked at the Charlevoix softball fields. That's because hundreds of Charlevoixians, from ages five to some very high number, are out playing ball on nice summer evenings.

The Charlevoix Recreation Department, headed by Ike Boss, has consistently done a fine job organizing multitudes of softball leagues in Charlevoix. Starting with Tee ball for the tots, both boys and girls can play in a softball league until they finally decide they've had enough ball. Of course, they might be pushing 50 before they come to that conclusion.

Photos and story by Laurie Lounsbury

It was a close play at second during a Senior Peanut League game, but the runner was safe. Waiting for the throw is Josh Chamberlain, with Ben Van Guilder backing him up.

Linda Ciuk lofts a good pitch into the air, then watches it fly.

Last minute tips from coach Dale Meredith leave his assistant coach scratching his head.

Fans get into the game in Charlevoix, as demonstrated here. Hal and Mary Ann Evans root for their son, along with Dennis VanGuilder and other loyal followers.

by REV. BRUCE HAMILTON

While there are times that I wonder about the benefits of cable television, there are also times that I enjoy some of the things it brings. I have spent the last few Friday evenings being delightfully diverted by reruns of "Welcome Back Kotter," a show from the seventies about a high school teacher and a strange class of students.

If you know the hero Gabe, you know that he has a million uncles and stories to match. He told about his Uncle Thrifty Kotter. It seems Uncle Thrifty and a couple of friends were talking about the money they give to the Lord. One friend drew a line down the middle of his room and threw all his money up in the air. Everything that came down on the left side he gave to God and everything that landed on the right, he kept for himself.

The second friend said his system wasn't quite as complicated. He threw his money up in the air and everything that came down heads he gave to God and tails went in his pot.

Well Uncle Thrifty laughed at all this and said his system was the easiest of all. He throws his money up in the air and whatever doesn't come down God is more than welcome to keep.

What does it do to your own heart to smile, to be encouraged, to know that maybe life is in better shape than you expected it to be? Oh, I know that there are days when things seem hard and everything you do has been known to turn to mush. But friend, God is still in charge and do you think everything He ever hoped for worked out the way He thought it would? Look at who He has to work with. You!

We took sixteen teenagers canoeing on the Jordan River Sunday. Not one quarter mile from where we put in the water, my wife, son, and I saw our canoe suddenly turn over. It's interesting to be bobbing down a river when you least expect it. Sunglasses, hats, and any semblance of dignity disappeared with that tumble. Things took an unexpected twist that made it all turn out right though.

We were blessed to have some couples along to help chaperone the trip that were more experienced than we were. Little did they know they would need to chaperone us! Dumping our canoe out, settling our nerves, and piloting our family down the river became a labor of love for them. I worried more about my wife and son than I did myself. But within minutes, our rescuers had us laughing and smiling and having the fun that I had hoped the trip would be. It was even fun to pass under Roger's Bridge and have the waiting youth group members "shower" their pastor from above.

Every once in awhile you need a reminder that life is good. For that matter God is good (all the time)! By the way, my wife and I have decided that we don't want to canoe again!

(Rev. Bruce Hamilton is pastor of the Charlevoix Community Church of God. Beacons of Blessings is provided to the Courier by Hamilton and other members of the Charlevoix Ministerial Association.)

Classes are an owner's manual for horses

By Laurie Lounsbury

Paula Pace likes kids. She likes horses, too. But she knows what can happen when you put the two of them together without proper training and knowledge. Pace has driven through the countryside and seen too many neglected animals that probably ended up that way because a kid once asked, innocently enough, "Hey mom, dad, can I have a horse?"

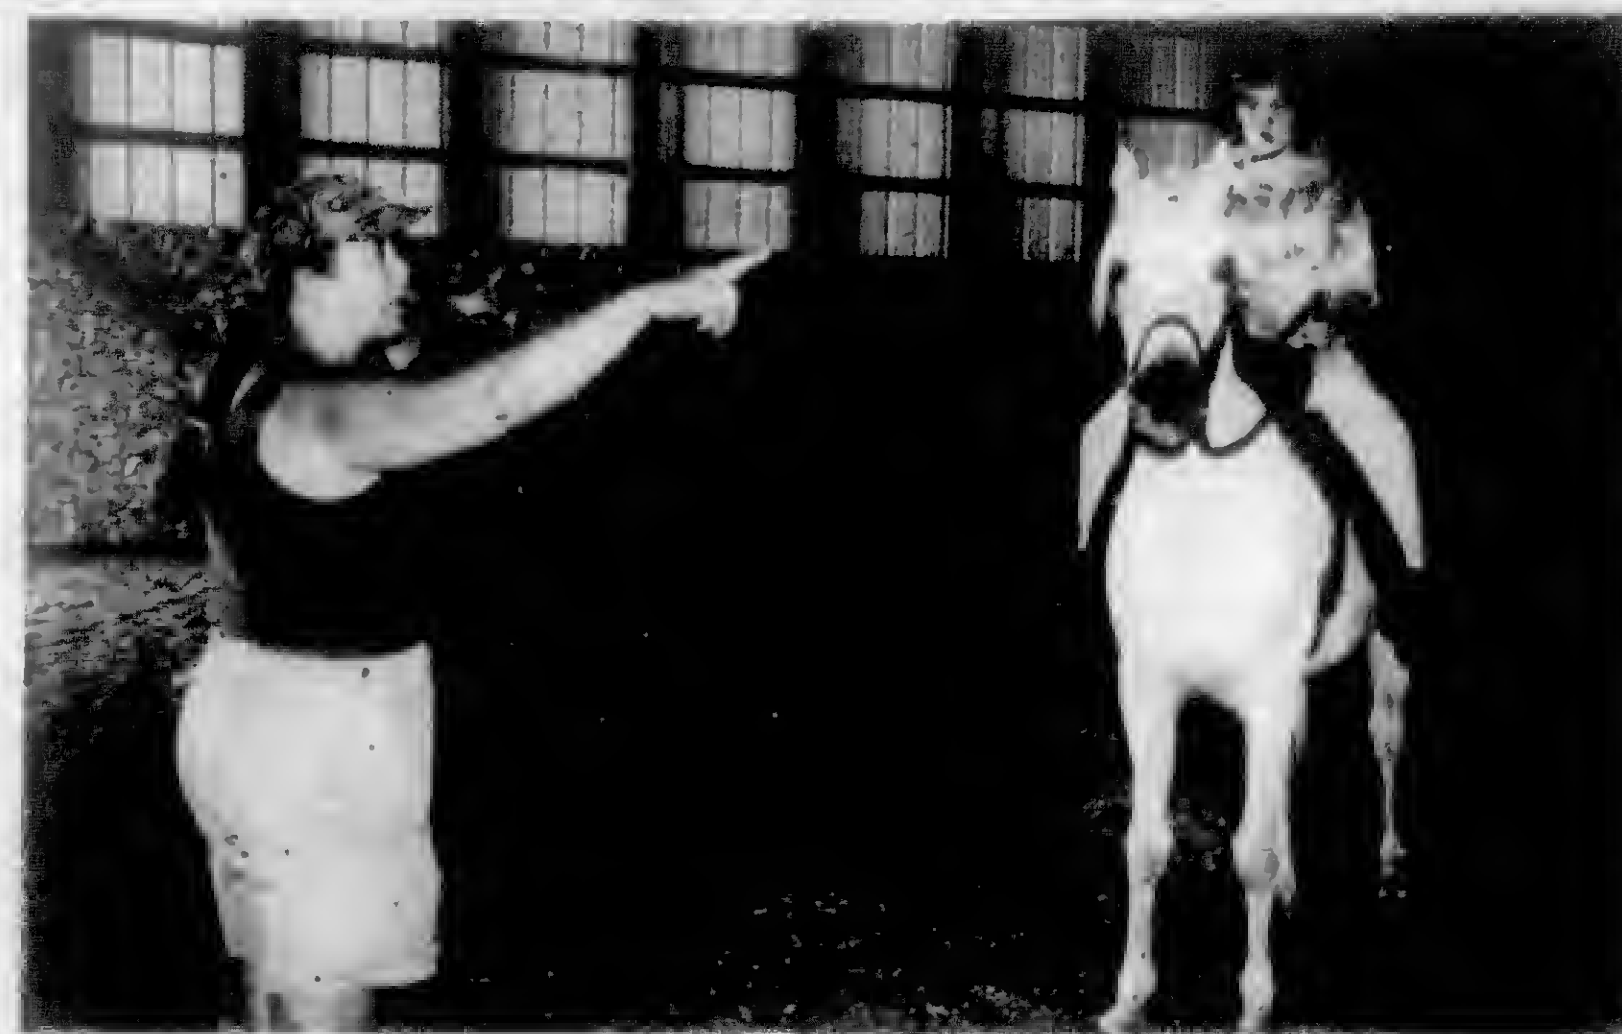

So Pace started her own business at Pacesetter Farms. She teaches riding to small groups of children all year long. But Pace teaches more than riding in her classes. She teaches her students how to groom a horse, clean out stalls, even give shots and look for signs of illness. "I want the kids to walk away from here knowing the responsibility of owning a horse," Pace said. "My mission is to save as many abused animals as I can. I've got to teach the next generation of animal owners while they're still kids."

Pace gets a lot of help from qualified sources. She has a veterinarian cousin who works with her on horse maintenance. Pace has been riding since she was a child. She strayed away from horses during the years she worked at Northern Michigan Hospital in the mental health field, but came back and took a few brush-up courses from Black Forest Academy before starting her own riding program.

Pace believes in getting up close and personal with her students. That's why she limits the number of kids in her camp sessions to four kids each week. The weekly sessions cost $165, and last from 8:30 in the morning to 1:30 in the afternoon, Monday through Friday.

Pace has an immaculate indoor riding ring used to teach the fundamentals of riding to students. After kids master the basics, Pace takes them outdoors on trail rides.

During the fall and winter, Pace offers six week programs with one hour classes held one day a week. The six week program costs $65.

Pacesetter Farms is on the corner of Marion Center Road and Klooster Road. For more information, call 547-1356.

Book signing to benefit Camp Quality

Author M. Teri Daunter, Ph.D. will be signing copies of her book "The Spiritual Dance of Life: Where Two Worlds Meet" from 1 p.m. to 3 p.m., Saturday, Aug. 5 at the Charlevoix Bookshop. Proceeds from books sold at the signing will benefit Camp Quality, a summer camp for children with life-threatening illnesses. Daunter is a clinical psychologist and serves as the clinical advisor for the camp.

In the book, Daunter discusses utilizing meditation as a way of overcoming negative aspects of life. She discusses the need for people to find quiet and solitude, taking the time to think things out for themselves as opposed to leading a robot-like existence.

New artists join Waterfront Art Fair in its 37th year

For one extraordinary Saturday every August, downtown Charlevoix is transformed into a brilliant outdoor art gallery, as some of the finest talents in painting, sculpture, photography, jewelry design, and ceramics gather in the park fronting Round Lake Harbor.

Celebrating its 37th year on Saturday, August 12, the annual Charlevoix Waterfront Art Fair, will host the largest contingent of artists in its history.

"We juried in 176 artists this year," announced Suzi Reis of the Charlevoix Council for the Arts, the governing body for the Waterfront Art Fair. "We have brought back a lot of outstanding artists and we're introducing the works of a number of emerging younger artists."

Lars-Birger Sponberg, a native of Sweden now living in Deerfield, Illinois, has exhibited his oil paintings at Charlevoix for more than 30 years. This year, he is bringing a new series of distinctive landscapes inspired by midwestern America.

Sponberg says, "This is a good show because it is always changing and constantly improving."

This year's show will also be the debut of the dazzling sculpted and painted ceramics of Kelly Heck and John Kubelka.

A painter of large brilliant canvases, Heck, 20, a Charlevoix native won the 1993 Waterfront Art Fair Scholarship as a senior in high school. Kubelka, 21, a ceramicist known for his unusually well thrown large pieces, invited Heck to design paintings for his pots.

"This is what this fair is meant to be," observes Reis, "a bringing together of well know artists and a launching ground for exciting new faces and their works."

"In the mid '70s Lori Bolt won the scholarship to help with studies at the Cleveland Institute of Art," Reis said. "Today Lori's work is in galleries around the country. And she exhibits her fine painted fabric designs in the art fair."

With a reputation as a place to discover works of up and coming young artists as well as see new works by established artists, The Waterfront Art Fair draws collectors and gallery owners from across the midwest.

Other new works to watch for are those of sculptor Sharon Sommers. A wildlife artist, Sommers's African series has been exhibited by such galleries at the National Sculpture Society in New York, the Society of Animal Artists in Cleveland and the North American Sculpture Exhibition in Golden, Colorado.

Beth Ward Donahue, a colored pencil artist, returns to Charlevoix

"We have brought back a lot of outstanding artists and we're introducing the works of a number of emerging younger artists."

with a new series of wildflowers. Layering colors to achieve depth, Donahue has had her detailed studies of fish and fishing flies selected as covers for such prestigious magazines as The Fly Fisher and for international exhibit by The Colored Pencil Society of America.

Her paintings of a tarpon fly was acquired by Former President George Bush who invited Donahue to a special reception at the White House.

Reis noted that a select group of previously juried artists receive invitations to return to Charlevoix. Among them are: painter Henry Benson; jewelry sculptor Robert Trisko; painters, ceramicists and sculptors Russ and Sue Bolt; ceramicist Barb Godwin; enamel sculptor Norman Brumm; and watercolorists Dee Knott.

The art fair's impact on the community has been deep. Along with an annual scholarship to encourage young artists, fees from the fair help underwrite symphonies, ballets, professional theatre troupes and artist-in-residence programs in Charlevoix schools.

Since its founding 37 years ago, The Waterfront Art Fair has attracted a growing number of artists to northern Michigan. Studios opened as artists took up permanent residence and Charlevoix has developed a reputation as an artistic community.

"The art fair has been a catalyst to the atmosphere in Charlevoix," observes Nancy Koucky co-owner of galleries in Charlevoix and Naples, Florida.

Waterfront Art Fair develops students' appreciation for art

Something organizers of Charlevoix's Waterfront Art Fair have always emphasized is developing an appreciation of art in Charlevoix area young people. In recent years, proceeds from the art fair have been used by the Charlevoix Council for the Arts to fund appearances by artistic groups in area schools. This past March the Council for the Arts, funded a performance of "The Water Tree" by the Arm of the Sea Theater. (Courier file photos)

Young artists combine pottery and painting talents

1995 ART FAIR, Wednesday, August 2, 1995 - PAGE 5

When art fair day dawns, Saturday Aug. 12, and Kelly Heck and John Kubelka set up their first-ever art fair display of their unusual hand-painted large thrown ceramics, the two young artists admit they will be rather nervous.

Heck and Kubelka wonder how their collaborative work will be received.

Cityscapes and finely detailed people live in vibrant colors across and around pots standing up to three feet tall. People swirl, faces peer out, and scenes merge with a three-dimensional feeling across the rounded surfaces.

"We have to admit that we've really never seen anything else like this," laughed Kubelka. "We have no idea what people will think," he said.

A painter at heart, Heck, a Charlevoix native, and former winner of the Waterfront Art Fair Scholarship, began collaborating with Kubelka on ceramics when both were students at the Interlochen Arts Academy. Now, college students, Heck at the University of Michigan, Kubelka in California, they took this spring semester off to devote themselves to their work.

The result is a stunning collection of large, beautifully thrown and masterly painted pots, which observers say are unlike anything on the current scene.

The two artists worked intensely throughout the spring in a studio in southern California, moving their work to northern Michigan for the summer.

Kubelka explained that while much of their California work is quite large they are creating a series of smaller, possibly functional, pieces for the art fair.

All the pieces are thrown by Kubelka. Heck works directly on the pieces, "treating them as paintings, but working circular," she explained.

Many of the largest pieces were "raku" fired, which involved bringing them up to red hot stage and then setting them on fire by burning them with straw or wood to create a blackened surface.

That gave Heck the "canvas" on which she applied her vivid and provocative paintings.

"John throws and I look at the shape," Heck said describing their pieces for the art fair.

collaborative process. "Then I go into the piece letting the shape help me design the painting."

Kubelka pointed out that the process works both ways. "Sometimes, I look at her sketches for inspiration for the shape."

Heck said her drawings are inspired by her interest in the figure and different environments.

"I think about extremes, different people, and am fascinated by the city," she offered.

Since returning to northern Michigan, Kubelka has been teaching ceramics at the McCune Art Center in Petoskey as well as creating a series of traditionally hot kiln fired pieces which can be functional but which the artists intend as sculpted pieces.

Heck, who also worked as a summer assistant to Russ and Sue Bolt, ceramicists of Charlevoix, finished this series with intensely colored character studies in interior-exterior settings.

Speaking for the art fair jury, Suzi Reis said of these young artists' work, "It is beautifully and maturely executed. But, more importantly, it is creative. These two young artists are exploring new territory. This is what brings excitement to the art fair."

Protection orders plugging up courts

By Laurie Lounsbury

These days, you can buy a whole lot of justice for $20. And you can buy it in a hurry. That's good if you're a woman with a husband who's beating you and you need protection. It's good if your former boyfriend is threatening to burn down your home. But the new law that provides this speedy protection is not without flaws. For every person with a legitimate need for protection, there's another person with a petty gripe and a thirst for vengeance, clogging up court time and detaining the circuit court judge from the more important cases at hand.

forms, eliminating the need for a costly attorney. Within hours of filling out the paperwork, Charlevoix Circuit Court Judge Richard Pajtas will either grant or deny the PPO request. If the request is granted, the PPO will be in the hands of the police agencies in short order. It's a case of justice at its swiftest. But it's only just if there's a legitimate need for protection.

The legislation allowing PPO's went into effect last April. Since then, the county clerk's office has had about 40 requests for PPO's. That's more than two requests a week.

Melinda Morgan, court administrator, said of the easy, do-it-yourself PPO system, "We used to be totally inaccessible. Now we are too easily accessible. It's been a huge pendulum swing."

Some requests for PPO's are legitimate. An elderly lady was being tormented by her brother. He yelled at her through her windows, pounded on the sides of her trailer home. She couldn't sleep at night. Her request for a PPO was granted. The brother violated the terms of the PPO and found himself in jail.

But what about the new wife who doesn't like her husband's ex-wife? She filed for a PPO to keep the ex-wife off the property. It wasn't a very practical solution, since the ex-wife had to bring the kids over for visits with their father.

One woman filed for a PPO against her neighbor's wife. She felt her husband was having an affair with the neighbor's wife, and she wanted to put an end to it. There was no abuse or violence involved.

Council revisits encroachment issue

By L. Scott Swanson

An issue which had appeared to be laid to rest resurfaced briefly at Monday evening's city council meeting.

During the past several months the council had been quarreling with Park Avenue resident Dick Georgi over the location of his driveway. A portion of the driveway encroaches on adjacent city park property. Earlier this summer the city and Georgi reached an agreement which would allow a small encroachment. However when the driveway was repaved, the apron area adjacent to the street was made larger than the city anticipated.

At Monday evening's council meeting, second ward council member Gabe Campbell made a motion to have a portion of the apron pavement removed. Campbell's motion also addressed a flower garden which Georgi constructed on city property, but abandoned in a previous agreement with the city.

Campbell's motion, which was approved by all council members present, contained four provisions: the additional apron encroachment will be limited to a point eight feet west of a power pole at the site; the flower garden will be removed; a boulder and plaque will replace the flower garden; any further encroachment will be immediately removed at the direction of the city manager.

Campbell said he hoped the action would put the matter to rest once and for all so that it wouldn't have to be discussed again at future council meetings.

Earlier in the meeting, the council discussed the possibility of adopting an encroachment ordinance. After discussing the matter, the council chose to table the mat-

People are practically tripping over themselves in their rush to get a PPO. No longer do neighbors or couples try to work out their differences among themselves. Charlevoix Police Chief Dennis Halverson deals with the problem every day. "In today's society, nobody wants to take responsibility for their own problems. People are extremely reluctant to go face to face to talk to someone when they have a conflict," Halverson said.

Both Halverson and Sheriff George Lasater say that their officers are on the hot seat when called to a domestic dispute. They try to put out fires between people without making arrests or dragging the court system into the picture. They also recommend PPOs when, in their judgement, it's appropriate. "Most of us are people pleasers," Lasater said. "We're motivated to give options to people who need help. One of those options is a PPO," Lasater explained.

If a person files for a PPO, Judge Pajtas finds himself in the difficult position of sorting out the validity of the claim. When the judge sees a request for a PPO, he sees only one side of the story. Based on that information, he must decide if the person truly is in need of protection. Because he sees only one side of the story, Pajtas usually grants the PPO. If Pajtas denies a PPO, he has to prepare a written statement citing the facts and the rationale behind his denial. "The judge is really under the gun to sign these things," said George Ebenhoe, friend of the court. Of course, once a person finds out he has a PPO against him, he often wants, and is entitled to, his day in court. A person objecting to a PPO may schedule a hearing. The judge will hear both sides of the story at the hearing and determine the validity of the PPO.

"In today's society, nobody wants to take responsibility for their own problems. People are extremely reluctant to go face to face to talk to someone when they have a conflict."

Charlevoix City Police Chief Dennis Halverson discussing why more disputes end up involving police and courts.

Everyone in the legal system seems to agree that the intent behind PPOs was good. "They help a lot of people, and people who have legitimate problems ought to be able to get help without hiring an expensive lawyer," said Pajtas.

But good intentions are not enough to solve the whirlwind of problems that go with the PPO's. Lasater summed up the problem when he said, "What makes our legal system work are the checks and balances. In this instance, there aren't enough checks and balances."

Who gets protection orders

Do you legitimately need a PPO? Protective orders fall into two categories-domestic violence injunctions and stalking injunctions. Here are the legal definitions of those who may file for a personal protection order.

- 1) If you are married but have not filed for divorce, annulment, or separate maintenance with the court.
- 2) You are not married but live together or have lived together.
- 3) You and the person you want restrained have a child in common.
- 4) You and the person you want restrained have or had a dating relationship.
- 5) You want an order to restrain another person from stalking you but items 1 through 4 do not apply to you.

...council discusses Bridge Park costs

ter until the next meeting when they will consider passing an encroachment resolution rather than an ordinance.

In other matters, Campbell expressed concern about the disparity between cost estimates for the Bridge Park project and money available. Cost estimates from engineers have been as high as $4.5 to nearly $5 million. City voters approved a $3.5 million bond proposal to fund the project. In response to Campbell's question, mayor Josh Barnes said that even though the estimates are high, until bids are opened Sept. 12 the city won't have a firm handle on cost figures. Barnes said he feels city officials should wait until the city gets bids and has more time to review and understand the reason for the estimates increasing.

The council also discussed a proposal from city manager Mike Wiesner to change the city's policy regarding the repair of sewer laterals between main lines and households. Currently, repair of the lateral lines is the responsibility of the homeowner. What Wiesner is proposing is that homeowners continue to be responsible for keeping lines unplugged and repairs outside of the right of way. However the city would repair problems, other than plugs, within the right of way. Rogers City has a similar policy. Council members expressed interest in the concept and Wiesner will put it in writing and bring it to a later meeting.

BCC BLANCHARD CONSTRUCTION CO.
TRAVERSE CITY, MICHIGAN 49685-1942

DDA approves schedule for Bridge Park bids

At an Aug. 2 meeting, the Downtown Development Authority (DDA) adopted a proposed timetable for the bid process on the Bridge Park project. The project currently has an estimated price tag between $4.5 million and $5 million. The schedule for bidding will be: advertise for bids Aug. 12-19; have final bid specifications ready to be sent out Aug. 21; receive bids Sept. 12; award bids Sept. 18.

DDA members and city manager Mike Wiesner indicated the schedule is somewhat later than they would prefer it to be and consequently project construction is likely to carry into the summer months of 1996.

"It seems that we might have to continue into next summer to finish parking lots and things of that nature," Wiesner said. He noted that the project is more involved than any project he's worked on in the past.

Mayor Josh Barnes said, "This is a hell of a time to get started. Ideally, we should start the day after Labor Day."

DDA chairman Hugh Mason commented, "For us to think we're not going to be inconvenienced is ridiculous anyway. It's a big project."

DDA members said that even if construction carries into the summer months, they want to be sure that enough is done so the Beaver Island Ferry and U.S. Coast Guard Cutter Acacia can operate.

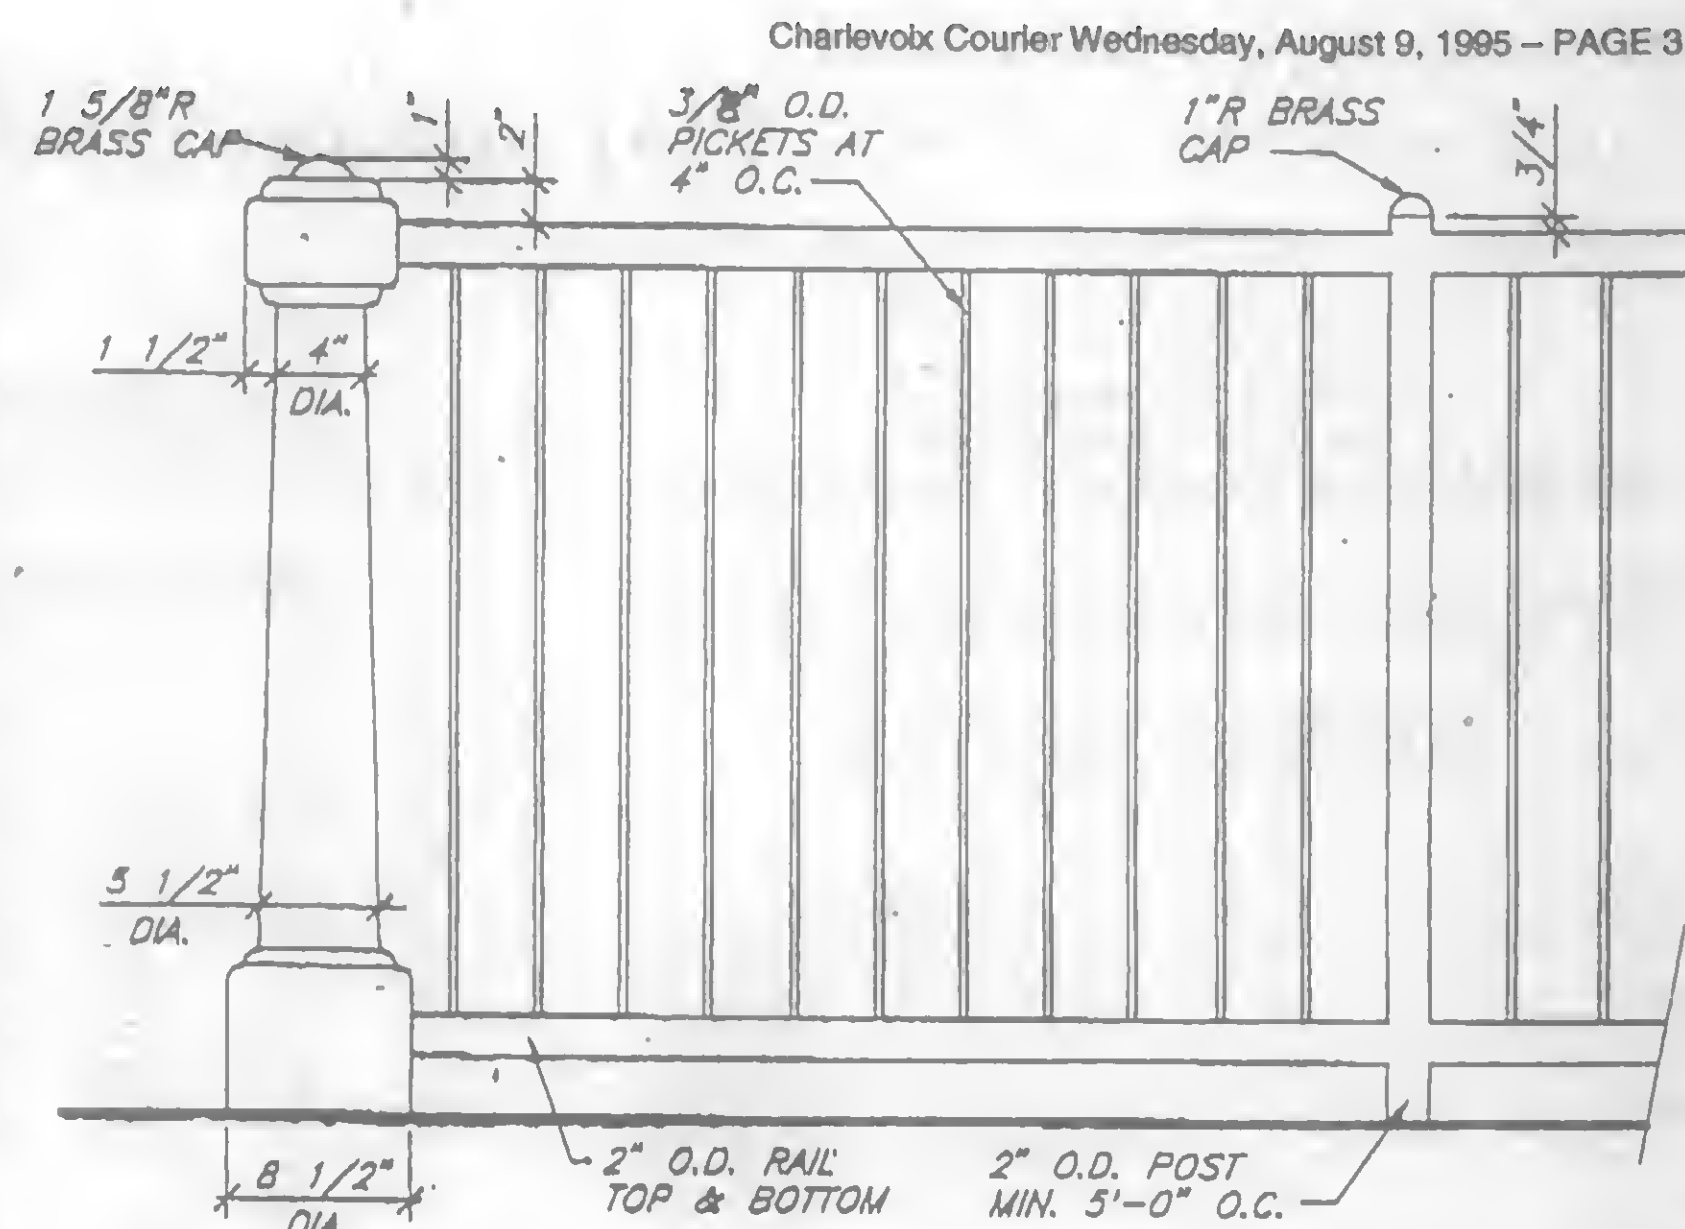

The Bridge Park project is something the DDA has been working on for the past several years. Over the years the cost estimates of the project have risen several times. Estimates started out at less than $2 million, but now have grown to nearly $5 million. Up to this point, the estimates have all been just that - estimates. When bids are opened Sept. 12, the city will have a much firmer price figure on the project.

At the Aug. 2 meeting the DDA board also discussed three other aspects of the project. The city is still working on purchasing a portion of Bridge Park from the state. The appraised price of the property is $536,000. The city has been working with the Michigan Department of Transportation, state legislators and legislative staff members to see if that cost can be reduced. City officials say they've received a lot of cooperation from all of those parties, however it appears provisions of the state constitution may prohibit the state from selling the property at a lower price.

The DDA approved a proposed design for a railing that will go on the roof of the Bridge Park building. The railing will be green with 3/8th inch vertical pickets. Posts will have ornamental brass caps. The total height of the rail will be 42 inches. In earlier discussions, acrylic glass and cable-picket designs had been considered and rejected. The acrylic glass railing would have been subject to damage and graffiti. City planner Gerry Harsch said the cables would have been difficult to work with.

One of the main design objectives of the rail was to minimize blocking the view of the harbor. Harsch said of the final design, "I think this will work well. I think it will give us the highest level of opacity we're going to get."

DDA members also approved including a 13 yard trash compactor in the project, rather than dumpsters. Merchants in the Bridge Park area would be able to get a key card for the compactor and then would pay on a per load basis. The compactor has a 4 to 1 compaction ratio, a collection system for liquids and a key card system to prevent unauthorized use.

The design shown above has been approved by the Downtown Development Authority (DDA) for the roof of the building in Bridge Park. The railing will be green with decorative brass caps. It was designed to minimize blockage of the view of the harbor.

This fall, going to college is more convenient than ever.

Engler splitting DNR makes sense

Although some special interest groups are squawking, Michigan Governor John Engler's decision to separate environmental responsibilities from the Michigan Department of Natural Resources (DNR) is probably a good move.

Under an executive order recently issued by Engler, the DNR will remain in charge of things most people traditionally associate with the DNR — things such as hunting, fishing, camping and snowmobiling. A new agency, the Department of Environmental Quality, will be in charge of environmental laws and things such as contamination investigations, wetland violations and building permits.

Special interest organizations, among them the Michigan United Conservation Clubs, argue that environmental issues and outdoor recreation issues are inextricably linked. That may be true in some cases, but certainly not in all. For example, here in Charlevoix an environmental issue the DNR was involved in concerned groundwater contamination and the need for a new city water plant. There was simply no link between that and outdoor recreation.

Granted, there are issues where environmental problems and outdoor recreation are linked. An example of that would be a couple of years ago when a fuel oil leak occurred at the municipal docks. But even in a situation such as that, there's no need for environmental and outdoor recreation personnel to be in the same department. Matters which affect both the environment and outdoor recreation will simply require interdepartmental cooperation. In the example cited, the city, DNR and Coast Guard all cooperated and the problem was handled quite effectively.

Separating responsibilities as Engler is doing will turn the DNR into two smaller organizations, each with a sharper focus and each easier to deal with than the current large bureaucracy. Outdoorsmen will find a department better able to deal with their particular concerns and less distracted by other issues. The same will be true of people seeking permits from the new Department of Environmental Quality.

Engler deserves credit for this decision. It is the latest among a series of bold decisions he has made as governor. Among the past decisions were reforming welfare, reducing the size of state government, educational reform and limiting off reservation gambling. He's received criticism for all of those decisions, but for the most part each of them has been beneficial. Splitting the DNR will also, in the long run, prove to be a good decision.

Jet skis are a nuisance

Editor,

That new plaything, the jet ski, has become an intolerable nuisance and danger. The tranquil Lake Michigan beaches now suffer under the nerve-shattering whine of a hundred leaf blowers.

Little understanding can be expected from the ill-mannered operators of these high decibel machines. Of course jet skis are exciting and fun, but the users are oblivious to the comfort, safety and peace of those on the beach or even of people on their porches or yards a full block from the beach.

I am not familiar with the Michigan statutory or case law on nuisance, but this clearly presents a situation where the rights of two very different groups are in conflict. The safety factor certainly adds to the seriousness of the problem. Swimmers are threatened. In 1994 jet ski accidents outnumbered all other boating accidents by 5 to 1 and jet ski caused deaths outnumbered all other boating deaths by 3 to 1 ("The Michigan Riparian," Feb. 1995). Most jet skiers are in total ignorance of "the Rules of the Road."

Can this problem be resolved by new legislation, regulation, or by enforcement of regulations now on the books? I urge the various authorities — City Council, Sheriff's Department, Coast Guard, etc. to address this nuisance involving extreme noise and this danger to swimmers — especially children.

Very Truly Yours,
Jeff Miller

Pool auction raises $70,000

Petunia party brings in $12,000

More than $70,000 for construction of an indoor community pool was raised by Charlevoix Friends of the Pool at its auction Sunday at Charlevoix Country Club. According to CFOP president David Strawbridge the group is now halfway to its goal of $800,000.

Preceding the auction was the Keep Charlevoix Beautiful petunia dinner party which was successful in raising approximately $12,000. About 200 persons attended the dual event.

The largest single bid, according to auction chairperson Joanne Curtis, was $25,000 for a cruise for 40 persons on the schooner Appledore plus food service by Whitney's Oyster Bar of Charlevoix.

Two more sponsors at $5,000 each were announced at the auction and a check for $1,500 was presented by the Charlevoix Country Club.

Kathy Boss (left), vice president of professional services at Charlevoix Area Hospital, accepts the gift of a specially equipped van given by long-time Charlevoix summer resident Dorothy Rothschild (right). The van was used by A. Frank Rothschild, Dorothy Rothschild's late husband, who suffered from multiple sclerosis. It will be used by the hospital to transport patients and equipment.

Van donated to hospital

Dorothy B. Rothschild visited Charlevoix Area Hospital recently to formally transfer ownership of a specially equipped van used by her late husband A. Frank Rothschild.

Mr. Rothschild, a long-time Charlevoix summer resident and Chicago financier, died in February following a long and debilitating illness. "Mr. and Mrs. Rothschild have always been wonderful supporters of Charlevoix Area Hospital and we certainly appreciate this gift," said Richard L. Krueger, Charlevoix Area Hospital president.

The van, which is equipped with a wheelchair lift, will probably be used by the hospital to transfer patients to and from other health care facilities and to other hospitals for diagnostic tests.

A collection of praises, awards and accomplishments involving Charlevoix area people.

Several Charlevoix students were among the North Central Michigan College students named to the winter semester dean's list. Named to the list were: Elizabeth Browe, Joshua Dhaseleer, Michelle Lebutt, Christina Lindstrom, Liane Rae McGhee, Phillip Pittman, Kathie Schoenholt, Kim Solomon, Ron Stoneham and Melissa Williamson.

Jason Pajtas of Charlevoix is one of 13 Michigan State University School of Engineering students completing a semester of study in Germany. Pajtas, a senior, is a computer engineering major with a concentration in electrical engineering. While in Germany, in addition to taking several engineering courses, he studied the German language. After completing his studies, he will spend the next six weeks traveling around Europe. He has visited London, Paris, Amsterdam, Prague and Budapest, as well as much of Switzerland, Italy and Germany. Before returning home, he will spend a week in Spain with the host family he met while on his high school Spanish class trip.

Last week while traveling to Hungary on an overnight train, Pajtas awoke to find he was being robbed. A former all-state wrestler, Pajtas attempted to corral the thief and put him in an ill-gotten gains extrication hold, applied to inflict a fair amount of pain and misery in the process. But the thief would have none of it. He ran off with Pajtas chasing him through the train car screaming and hollering. Eventually the thief met up with three of his cohorts and one of them produced a knife. Upon seeing the knife, Pajtas concluded that he'd chased the thief far enough. The thieves escaped, but not before dropping all the goods they'd stolen from various passengers. A grateful woman who regained possession of her purse later treated Pajtas to lunch in Budapest.

Pajtas is the son of Dick and Dana Pajtas of Charlevoix.

James Wayne Young of Charlevoix was among the students named to the University of Michigan College of Engineering's winter term dean's list. To be named to the list, a student must have a grade point average of 3.5 or better on a 4-point grading scale. Young is the son of Skip and Pauline Young of Charlevoix.

Emily Heck of Charlevoix recently attended an Interlochen Arts Camp summer program to study dance. Heck is the daughter of Eileen and Deney Heck of Charlevoix.

Maribeth Knight of Charlevoix has received the Doctor of Osteopathy degree from Michigan State University.

The class of 1995 was honored with hooding and commencement ceremonies held by MSU's college of Osteopathic Medicine on Friday, May 5, in East Lansing.

Knight, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Richard Knight of Charlevoix, will begin postgraduate training at Botsford General Hospital in Farmington Hills. She received the B.A. degree in psychology from the University of Michigan in 1991 and is a 1987 graduate of Mercy High School in Farmington Hills.

BEACONS

by REV. BRUCE HAMILTON

No one can say that Charlevoix has not enjoyed a "real summer" this year. The temperatures and the humidity have been very similar to places way down south. Our congregation took advantage of the warmth to have its annual all church picnic Sunday night. Part of the joy of this August tradition is holding a baptismal service for those who want to follow the Lord in this public declaration of their faith.

Once the burgers were suitably char-broiled and the dogs received their own special black brand, we started down to the lakeshore. A dear lady, whose name I wish I knew, had been peacefully sitting on the beach reading her book when slowly but surely, our crew of folks began to surround her. Now how would you feel if you had geared yourself for a little solitary reflection and suddenly you were anything but alone?

Whoever this sweet woman was, she was not taken aback by the sudden flock that had swept her up. If anything, she watched with interest and a smile as each person waded out to join their pastor, was prayed for and then immersed neath the "brisk refreshing waters" of Lake Charlevoix. Though my eyes were drawn to this person we had kind of drawn in to our midst, I could not help but notice that other folks came down to the fringes of the crowd and observed what was going on.

Seven people symbolically bid their old life good bye and welcomed the new life they had already received when they opened their lives to Christ. It was an important step for them and, I think, an important thing for my "silent saint" and any others who happened to watch what had unfolded before their eyes.

In case you are wondering, we do not have a baptismal pool in our church which is why we come to the lakeshore. But I'm kind of glad God gave us a beautiful day for another reason. All you have to do is catch the headlines, be it in the paper or on television, and you are greeted with words on the latest tragedies and problems that the world has had to come to grips with in the course of the preceding twenty-four hours. I don't know about you, but there are times where that gets old and maybe a touch discouraging.

For a few brief moments on the shore of Lake Charlevoix, a precious lady put down her book for a little while and passers by saw something that perhaps they had never seen in their lives. They saw that God was still blessing. They saw that God is still working in the hearts of men and women. They saw folks publicly stand up and be counted for what they believe and it made them smile.

When was the last time you let someone else know where the hope in your heart comes from? They need to see it. They need to hear about it. They need to know from someone just like them that God is still very much in control.

(Rev. Bruce Hamilton is pastor of the Charlevoix Community Church of God. Beacons of Blessings is provided to the Courier by Hamilton and other members of the Charlevoix Ministerial Association.)

Local actors perform in "Three Musketeers"

Three Charlevoix actors will perform in a new version of "The Three Musketeers" that will open at East Jordan High School at 7 p.m. Thursday, Aug. 10. Based on an episode from Alexander Dumas' famous novel, the play deals with the dissension between the Royal Musketeers and the Cardinal's guards during the reign of King Louis XIII in France.

Jerry Borths portrays the villainous Cardinal Richelieu, and York Smith is one of his guards. Laura Borths plays the part of Milady DeWinter, also one of the play's villains.

They are among a cast of 27 Jordan River Players in the production, which is the second of Jordan River Arts Council's fourth annual Children's Theatre Festival, which presents new and unpublished plays. Written by Kalamazoo playwright Bryan Zocher, with music by Jon Reeves, the play premiered in February at Kalamazoo Civic Youth Theatre.

Director is Deb Saygers Hobbs, with Molly Porter as assistant director and Amy Porter as production manager. Steve Hobbs is in charge of set construction and lights.

Performances will also be at 7 p.m. Saturday, Aug. 12, and 2 p.m. Sunday, Aug. 13, at East Jordan High School, and the playwright will attend these performances and welcome audience comments. Tickets, available at the door 30 minutes prior to curtain, are $3.50 for adults and $1.50 for children.

The productions are partially funded by grants from Michigan Council for the Arts and Cultural Affairs, Cheboygan Area Arts Council, Charlevoix County Community Foundation and Malpass Family Fund.

Three Charlevoix performers will fill roles in the Jordan River Arts Council's production of "The Three Musketeers." Jerry Borths, (seated) plays the part of the Cardinal. Conservancy studying bald eagles

Bald Eagles, the national symbol of peace and freedom, have been sighted soaring the clear skies of Northern Michigan. With the help of local citizens, the Little Traverse Conservancy is hoping to make their comeback a permanent success.

The Little Traverse Conservancy is beginning an ongoing Bald Eagle monitoring program in which the public is urged to participate. By recording local sightings, the Conservancy is creating a database which will identify what areas are important for the long term success of the Bald Eagle. The program will be used to increase public awareness and interest in the Bald Eagle, other threatened species, and local conservation programs. Nancy Dammann, a summer intern for the Little Traverse Conservancy, is coordinating the project. Dammann comments, "It's really exciting to know these birds are flying around here. Hopefully that thrill will carry over, and the people will take more notice and interest in local conservation."

The conservancy asks that citizens who see a Bald Eagle send a postcard to the Little Traverse Conservancy (3264 Powell Road, Harbor Springs, MI 49740) with the time, date, location, and a description of the bird, its surroundings, and activity.

Because of its large size and distinctive markings, the Bald Eagle is easily recognizable. The adult is dark brown with a white head and tail, and golden beak and feet. It weighs up to sixteen pounds and has a wingspan of up to seven and a half feet. Eagles rarely flap their wings in flight, and have been referred to as a "flying two-by-four" because of their plant-like appearance. Sub-adults, or immature birds

(1-4 years old) have brown or mottled white heads and tails. Bald Eagle young, though rarely seen, are a downy grey.

The adults and sub-adults can be seen along lake shores or broad open rivers. They prefer to land on tall trees which provide good look-outs for hunting and fishing. The eagle will eat a variety of foods, small mammals, waterfowl, other birds, and dead animals, but they prefer fish. Recent sightings include eagles fishing and flying over, Munro, Burt, Round, Carp, and Crooked Lakes as well as in the Jordan and Sturgeon River valleys.

The Bald Eagles' cone shaped nests, which have diameters of up to six feet, are impressive. Nests are found in the tops of large trees, on cliff edges, or on nesting platforms and are used year after year by the same pair. Eagles, however, are very sensitive to intruders, especially human, and will permanently abandon both a nest and any young in it if they get nervous. As a result, it is important that nests are left alone, and observed from no closer than 1/4 mile.

Bald Eagles once graced the skies of every county in Michigan. In pre-settlement days, the birds could be seen along every river and lake which provided enough food, but as European settlement increased, the Bald Eagle population declined. Hunting of the Eagles was encouraged because it was believed they ate farmers livestock. In the mid '50s, however, the Bald Eagle population crashed. By the mid 1970s, there were only nine breeding pairs in Michigan, none in the Lower Peninsula. This dramatic decrease was caused by the build up of chemicals such as DDT. These chemicals collect in animals' fats, becoming more concentrated at each link in the food chain until reaching toxic concentrations in Bald Eagles.

Since its listing as an endangered species in 1967 and the banning of DDT in 1972, the Bald Eagle has begun to come back. In fact, due to this limited success, the Bald Eagle was recently moved from the endangered to threatened list. Continued efforts, however, are needed to insure the Bald Eagles' long term success.

Volunteers and contributions renovate soccer field

By L. Scott Swanson

Charlevoix's new soccer fields have turned into kind of a community do-it-yourself project.

For years, the soccer field has had drainage problems. When it rained, water formed ponds and stayed there. Last year the Charlevoix Soccer Club formulated plans to rework the two fields. Then they went out and sought bids for construction. The lowest bid received carried a price tag of $62,500 to renovate one field - way more than the club could afford.

But instead of scrapping the project, they decided to tackle it in a different manner. They sought contributions of labor and material and now, nearly a year later, the new fields are getting close to completion and should be ready for play in early October.

Tom Conlan, one of the key players in the project, says that instead of $62,500 for one field, the end cost is going to be between $20,000 and $30,000 for two.

Help for the project has come from a number of sources. The soccer club raised $5,000. The Charlevoix County Community Foundation provided a $3,000 grant. The City of Charlevoix's compost program provided hundreds of yards of black dirt. Swanson's K&D brought in thousands of yards of sand dirt cheap. The Belvedere Golf Club provided equipment and allowed golf course manager Riek Grunch and his staff time to work on the project. Charlevoix Township provided not only the site, but equipment and any other assistance they could.

Grunch has provided the expertise on the project. The first thing he did was take soil core samples every 40 feet on the field. From those samples, he created a soil chart showing the different types of soil in different areas of the field.

Conlan says he was amazed at what Grunch was able to tell from the soil samples. Based on the soil samples, Grunch speculated that at one time there must have been a clay hill at the north end of the field which was knocked down and spread across the end of the field. Grunch told Conlan about his theory and Conlan asked township supervisor Oscar Stroud about the history of the property. Stroud confirmed that at one time there had indeed been a hill near the end of the field and the hill had been leveled off.

Unfortunately, spreading the clay hill across the end of the field might have helped level off the field, but it also caused problems. Given all of the clay, when it rained the field held ponds and when the weather was dry, the field was hard as a rock.

One of the first steps in the project was to cultivate the field and break up the clay. That also had a side effect. The soil in the area is rocky and when the soil was disturbed all of the rocks came to the surface. For a while, the soccer field looked like a lunar landscape.

In order to assure that the new field drains properly and grows grass, between 700 and 800 yards of top soil were hauled in along with 3,500 yards of sand. (A normal dump truck load is between eight and ten yards.)

Currently, an irrigation system is being installed. That's a fairly large project in itself. The field is being divided into eight zones with most of the zones containing 10 sprinkler heads. Trenches are being dug. The trenches contain drain tile, pea gravel and the sprinkler pipes. Volunteers are needed to help install the sprinkler system. Work is taking place from daylight to dark. No special equipment or expertise is needed - just manpower. There are people at the site who will show you what to do. If you can lend a hand, call Conlan at 547-2512 or 547-2510 and he will get you set up.

After the sprinkler system is installed, more stones will be removed and the field will be graded and seeded. Grunch says he's got a mixture of grasses planned - some rye grasses because they're durable and some blue grasses because they fill in gaps well.

Until early October, when the new fields are ready for play, soccer games will be played on make-shift fields in the outfield of the softball field. More than 350 local young people participate in the Charlevoix youth soccer league.

Big Rock makes contributions to area organizations

A last-minute contribution of $1,000 by Consumers Power Company's Big Rock Point nuclear plant helped push the Raven Hill Discovery Center over the top in its pursuit of a matching grant from the Frey Foundation.

The East Jordan-based science and technology center was awarded a 3-to-1 matching grant in 1993 by the Frey Foundation of Grand Rapids. In order to receive the $30,000 grant, the center needed to raise $90,000 by June 30, 1995. The Big Rock Point Community Partnership Team approved the $1,000 contribution June 29, helping Raven Hill meet their goal of $90,000.

"Community support of our facility has been overwhelming," said Cheri Leach, Raven Hill director. "To raise $90,000 reflects the kind of people we have living in our area, and I believe, the value of the Discovery Center."

Leach said the money will be used to build and furnish class rooms, more museum space and a greenhouse. Future plans at Raven Hill include a theater/planetarium, an arts and crafts studio, and a historical village.

Big Rock Point and the Consumers Power Foundation also approved seven other contributions totaling $2,750.

Big Rock Point approved a grant of $1,000 to the American Cancer Society. The money will be used to support the annual fund raising walk held in Charlevoix County. Money raised during the event funds breast cancer research. The walk will be Sept. 30. Please call 616-549-2205 for more information.

The Charlevoix Alano Club received a Volunteer Investment Program (VIP) grant of $400 in behalf of Big Rock Point technical analyst Don Kelly. Kelly volunteers time at the center, which assists those seeking an alcohol and drug-free life. The money will be used to support operations.

The Safe Harbor Youth Group received $300 in behalf of health physics technician Milford Sliger. The organization prepares children to deal with life's challenges through coaching sessions and outings. The money will be used to enable more children to participate in outings.

The volunteer work of senior engineer Kevin Shields and several other plant employees resulted in a $300 grant for the local MathCounts program. MathCounts volunteers organize local youth math proficiency competitions. Top performing teams and individuals advance to compete in state and national competitions. The money will be used to fund prizes and travel expenses for the children.

The Petoskey Little League and Harbor Springs Baseball Commission each received $200. Nuclear control operator Maurice Field is a coach in Petoskey while senior engineer Jacob Toskey is commissioner of the Harbor Springs league. The money will be used to purchase equipment.

Petoskey Troop 7 of the Boy Scouts of America received $300 in behalf of general engineer Bruce Waggoner. The money will be used to buy a trailer.

The Consumers Power Foundation, the philanthropic arm of the Consumers Power company, sponsors the Volunteer Investment Program to recognize employees who give their time and talent to non-profit organizations and to encourage greater levels of volunteerism by employees.

Charlevoix featured in USA Today story

Charlevoix and other Little Traverse Bay communities found themselves in the spotlight of a USA Today newspaper story this past week. In the Friday, Aug. 4 edition of the nationwide newspaper, a story in the travel section of the newspaper extolled the virtues of the Little Traverse Bay area of Michigan.

The story and accompanying photos occupied an entire page of the paper. One photo showed summer residents Gail Schaefer, Patrick Malone and Sheila Malone out for a stroll in Boulder Park and another photo showed boats anchored in the harbor. The story also included quotes from Jane Sooy, Charles Eisendrath and Jeffrey Pedersen.

USA Today travel writer Cathy Lynn Grossman wrote, "Just as New Yorkers have the Hamptons and Seattlites flock to the San Juan Islands for the summer, so do generations of Midwesterners make pilgrimages to Charlevoix, Petoskey, Bay View and Harbor Springs, strung like beads on a 50-mile necklace along the bay." She wrote that, "Harbor Springs and Charlevoix have been summer havens for the business and social elite for a century."

The St. Clair Lake - Six Mile Lake Natural Area's new kiosk was recently unveiled. The kiosk is located at the South Arm preserve, near Ellsworth.

VFW Auxiliary celebrates 50 years

The Ladies Auxiliary to Veterans of Foreign Wars Post #1153, Charlevoix, recently was honored with a plaque and citation from the Department of Michigan and National V.F.W. Auxiliaries to honor their 50th anniversary. In 1917, the Veterans of Foreign Wars, Charlevoix Post #1153 was chartered. Following World War II, the Charlevoix Auxiliary was then chartered in June, 1945, with 30 women joining to assist the veterans in their charitable and rehabilitation work for veterans. The first president was Mrs. Sam (Eva) King. The only Charter members, with continuous service, still living are Mrs. Albert (Pauline) Russell and Mrs. Shirley Ashdon. The V.F.W. and Auxiliary are international in scope, and the National V.F.W. Auxiliary will hold its 82nd National Convention in Denver, in September.

For this momentous occasion, and to celebrate and commemorate the ending of World War II 50 years ago, the Auxiliary will host a picnic at Ferry Avenue Beach Sunday, Aug. 20, at 3 p.m. All members of the V.F.W. Post, the American Legion Posts and their Auxiliaries and families are urged to attend. Any visiting members and families are also invited. Please bring a dish to pass, your own table service, and non-alcoholic beverage. For more information, please call 547-6338.

Girl Scouts identified

A couple of former Brownie Girl Scouts called the Courier to identify the girls in a Scrapbook picture that ran in the July 26 Courier. One of the callers, Marcia (Whitley) Zeitler, was one of the people in the picture. The other caller, Andy Brown who now lives in California, was at the camp, but not in the picture. The picture was taken sometime around 1969 or 1970 and shows a group of local girls at the Girl Scout camp on the Ellsworth Road. Shown in the photo are: (front) Connie Left, (second row from left) Wendy Zeitler, Sherri Moll, leader Ann Puffpaff, ?, Marcia Zeitler, Becky Allard. South Carolina artist Jack Southern's brightly colored cloth containers usually center around one of three themes: either seaside; Charleston; or animals and nature as shown in the pieces above. Southern will be at the Castle Farm Art Festival in Charlevoix this coming Saturday and Sunday. (Photo courtesy Castle Farm Arts Festival)

Among the artists appearing at this year's art festival will be Shell Anderson of Traverse City. Anderson combines water color painting and jewelry to make brightly colored paper jewelry. Castle Farm Art Festival celebrates its sixth year

Approximately 100 artists will be exhibiting their work at the Sixth Annual Castle Farms Art Festival, Saturday and Sunday, Aug. 12&13. In addition to the artistic display, there will also be entertainment, food and something new this year - 15 minute massages for $10 by professional massage therapists.

Among the artists appearing at this year's art festival will be Shell Anderson of Traverse City. Anderson combines water color painting and jewelry to make brightly colored paper jewelry. After graduating from the University of Michigan in 1989, she began exhibiting her work at art shows and has been supporting herself with her artwork and jewelry ever since. Anderson exhibits her work in approximately 30 shows a year and has a studio in Traverse City.

Anderson says, "People love to wear my paper jewelry partly because they are so light and comfortable. Some of my larger designs, out of any other medium, would be too heavy."

South Carolina artist Jack Southern has exhibited his cloth-based art at shows throughout the nation during the past two decades. He separates his work into two general categories - wearables (jackets, quilted coats and kimonos) and quilted containers (boxes).

For the wearables, Southern uses brightly colored cotton clothes in what he describes as "a contemporary geometric manner - a patchwork approach the exact form of which is allowed to proceed in a cultivated happenstance manner once the color groupings are chosen (or 'convened')."

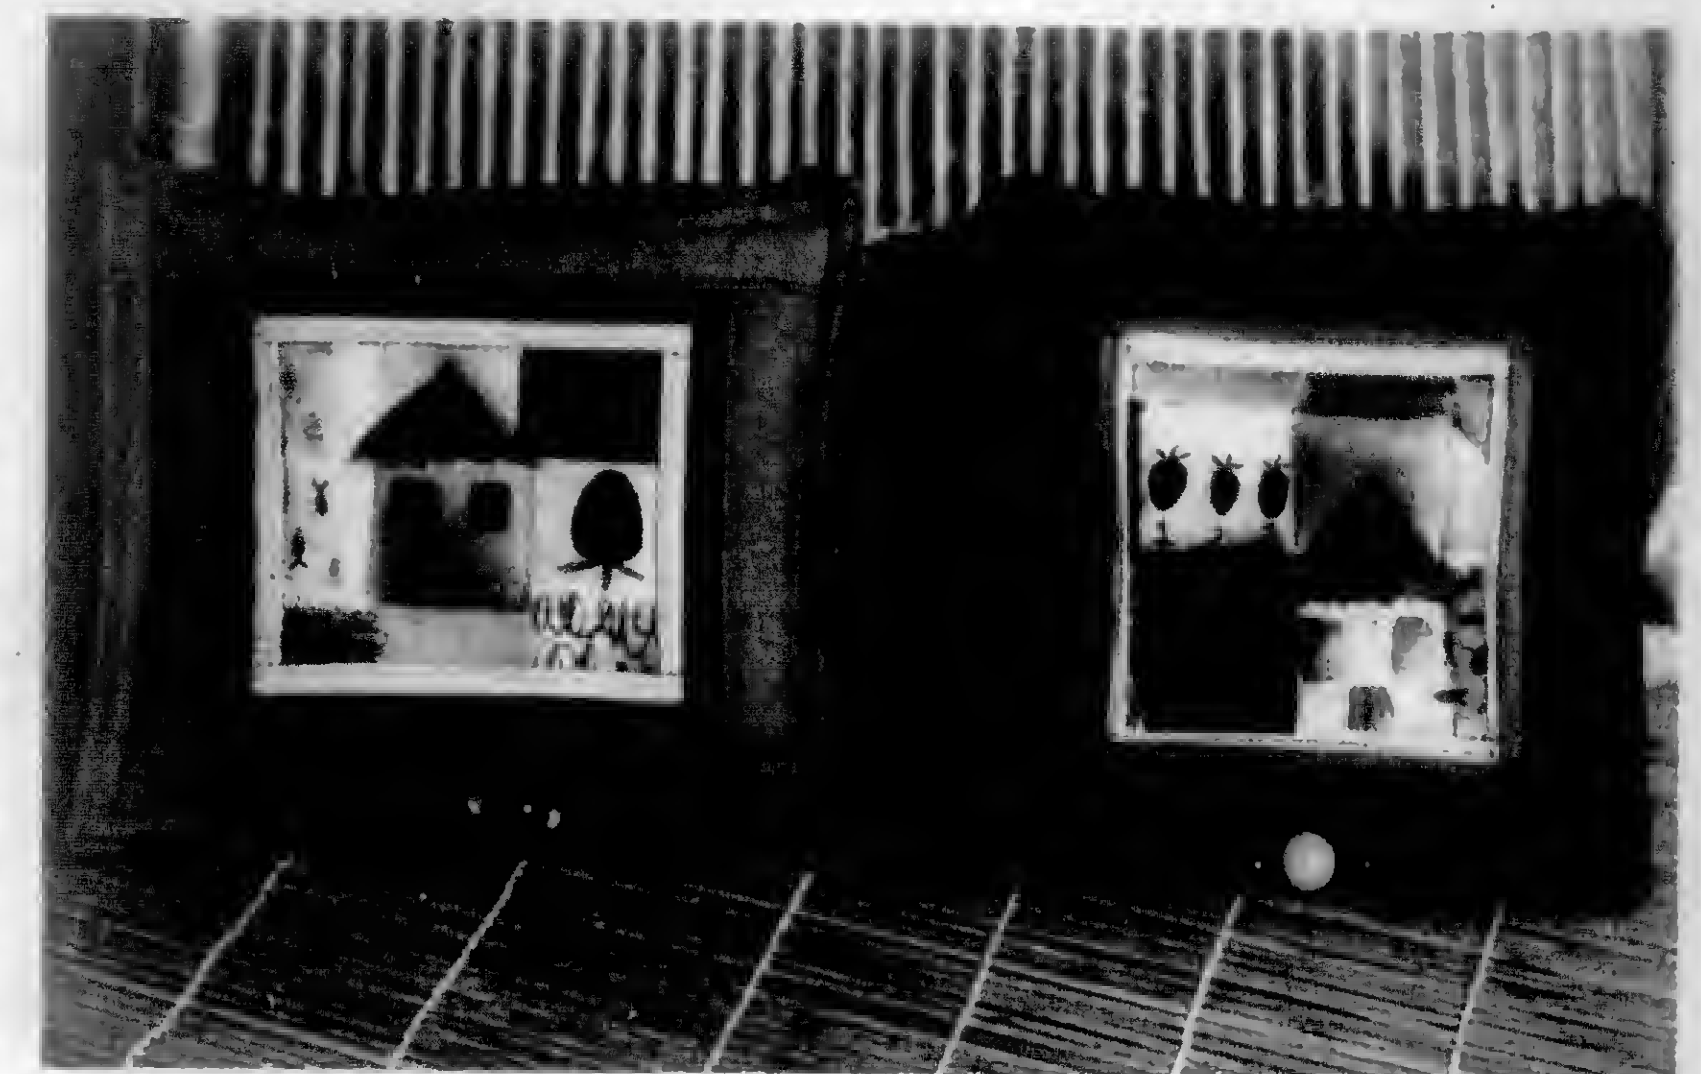

Southern's containers usually center around one of three themes. Some are brightly colored and geometric, similar to the coats. Others have original hand-colored ceilings on the lids - many featuring either Charleston, South Carolina or seaside scenes. Still others have animal or nature themes that are either top-stitched or collaged.

Southern notes that, "As with many artists, the approach has evolved through experiment and about 20 years of exhibiting at shows." Southern takes his work to about 40 shows a year, mostly in the upper Midwest during the summer and in Florida during the winter.

Wildlife photographers Carl R. Samms II and Jean F. Stoick have been regulars at the Art Festival and are among the most popular exhibitors. Based in Milford, Michigan Sams and Stoick are among the top wildlife photographers in the United States and perhaps the world. Their pictures have appeared in top wildlife magazines in the United States, France and Italy. Sams' fighting egrets photograph, which was in the Audubon Wild Bird Calendar in 1993, took first place in the behavior category for all the images published in calendars in 1993.

Of particular interest to many northern Michigan outdoor lovers will be the pictures Sams and Stoick have taken of whitetail deer. Since 1982, Sams and Stoick have taken more than 40,000 photos of a particular whitetail deer family. In the May 1987 issue of Audubon Magazine, Sams' photos appeared on the cover and thirty pages of the magazine. Of the pictures, Audubon Magazine editor Les Line wrote, "They are, quite simply, the most remarkable and extraordinarily beautiful images of the All American deer that have ever been captured on color film."

Douglas Cornett and Gary Bourne combine their talents to create functional pottery with an animal theme that you kind of have to see to really comprehend. In their work, animal sculptures are configured so that they may be used as bowls, pots and other functional items. Cornett describes how he and Bourne's work developed to its present state. "Our current work is the result of the growth and evolution of an idea over the past several years. Initially, we were decorating traditional functional pottery with animal, bird and fish motifs. The painted and trailed animals evolved into three dimensional additions to the functional pottery forms. At this point we are striving to reach a balance in our work wherein the pottery form and the animal form become one, with each helping to define the other."

Cornett throws the pottery while Bourne does the glazing. The two met in 1986 when Bourne took a pottery class instructed by Cornett. Shortly thereafter, they decided their talents were complimentary and began to collaborate on projects. Cornett says, "It is unusual for two artists to successfully collaborate on a single body of work for any length of time, however, the differences in our training and skills have worked to our advantage."

Art Festival hours will be 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Saturday, Aug. 12 and 11 a.m. to 5 p.m., Sunday, Aug. 13. Castle Farm is located two miles south of Charlevoix on M-66. There will be a shuttle bus running from downtown behind Central Drug to and from Castle Farm for the Art Festival. Admission to the Festival is $1 for adults and no charge for children younger than age 12.

This weekend, glass artist, Meredith Wenzel will be displaying her work at the Castle Farm Art Festival. Meredith is primarily known for her precision diamond cut pieces which reveal elaborate air trapped patterns. Her works may be found in many prestigious collections including the Corning Museum of Glass, Corning, N.Y. Recently, however, she is gaining more attention for her fish Witch™ ornaments which represent a blending of ancient folklore and the whimsical cartoon appeal of fish. In 18th century England, it was believed that hanging decorative glass balls in ones home would deter evil and misfortune. Superstitious fishermen also floated the balls in their nets to ward off danger. As the story has it, the dazzling colors of the ball would lure the demons to come in. Once inside, the beauty of the reflections would confuse the spirits to the extent that they could not find their way out.

Meredith will have a wide selection of fish Witch™ available for you to purchase this weekend along with her other handcrafted items such as: tumblers, vases, bowls, paperweights, ornaments, candy canes and jewelry. She invites you to stop by and visit her in booth 131 on Saturday, August 12th from 10 a.m. - 6 p.m. and on Sunday, August 13th from 11 a.m. - 5 p.m. The catch is guaranteed to be good!

Some of the art work displayed at the Castle Farm Art Festival is functional, as well as beautiful. Such is the case with this jacket by Jack Southern.

Castle plans keep crumbling

By Laurie Lounsbury

Castle Farms' executive director John Porter is on a rampage to save the Castle from reverting back to Reibel Family Trust. But the $850,000 needed to save the project is still eluding him. On December 21, the six month redemption period will expire. Either the castle will be bought and paid for in full, or it will go back to the Reibel Family Trust.

Porter had four plans for the castle, each a potential source of revenue and benefit to the community. But all four plans are collapsing like a house of cards. The plans involve obtaining a DNR grant, construction of an equestrian arena, Intermediate School District sponsorship and historic landmark status.

Porter went before the Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners in a last ditch effort to qualify for DNR grant money. The DNR gives funds to some recreational parks owned by government agencies. Marion Township agreed to sponsor the castle for the grant application last March. But the township failed to hold a public hearing on the matter, as required by law. It was a concern for some of the county planning commissioners. Another concern was the possible duplication of efforts. The castle could be taking money away from existing county youth programs.

At the August 6 county planning commission meeting, the planning commission voted four to three to amend the county recreation plan to include Marion Township. County board members followed suit, voting to support to the castle. "They're in a desperate stage, about to give up the ship if we don't help," said Don Smith, chairman of the board. The vote doesn't financially obligate the county board in any way to the Castle Farms project.

After the vote was taken, Porter turned to planning department director Larry Sullivan, pointed at him and said, "I want this information sent immediately to Bob Couvreur at the DNR." Porter also said that Sullivan, as director of the planning commission, was violating his fiduciary responsibility if he didn't do everything he could to help obtain grant money for Marion Township. Sullivan had two words for Porter. "Pork barrel," he said.

According to the DNR grant administrator Bob Couvreur, the issue is a moot point anyway. The deadline for having all of the preliminary grant application work in order for a 1996 grant was April 1, 1995.

"Our deadline was April first. The staff recommendation is that the Castle Farms project should be dropped (out of funding consideration) for this year," Couvreur said.

Porter acknowledged that the recreational plan amendment was late when he addressed the county planning commission at their August meeting. "We want to get the approval in place even though we're late," Porter said at the meeting.

Two weeks ago, Porter addressed the planning commission's questions about current and long term plans for the Castle. "We will develop profit centers to subsidize youth activities," Porter said. The profit centers Porter has in mind include a motel, conference center, concerts, and an indoor riding arena.

...Castle plans fail to pan out

When asked about the success of the programs the castle is currently operating, Porter said that the story tree hour for children, held every Wednesday, was well attended, and the drama camp was successful. "The Coffee House hasn't been successful because there's no booze on the property. That's made the difference with the live entertainment at night. It just doesn't work without it (liquor)," Porter said.

Porter said that if and when the castle is purchased, an equestrian center would be established. "I have a donor willing to build a half million dollar horse arena at the castle," Porter said at the meeting. While it is true that Tom Phillips of Charlevoix is planning to build an equestrian center, when contacted by the Courier, Phillips said he's going to build it at the Charlevoix Country Club, not at Castle Farm.

"I support the idea of an equestrian center at the castle, but I wouldn't personally own a business at Castle Farms," Phillips said. "I would share some resources, such as trainers, veterinarian services, and expertise with the castle," he added. But would he put up the money for it? "The answer is no, but I support the idea," Phillips will start construction on an equestrian center at the country club next spring.

Porter met with Mark Eckhardt, superintendent of the Charlevoix-Emmet ISD, to discuss the possibility of the ISD sponsoring the castle. "We were willing to listen, but that's as far as it went," Eckhardt said. Eckhardt added that the castle could have benefits to the ISD, but he needed to see how the benefits would outweigh the liabilities. That was not shown by Porter and the castle supporters.

Another one of Porter's plans is to get historical landmark designation for the castle. This would open the doors to grant money for preservation and renovation projects. Porter said he had the assurance of the state preservation commissioner that the historical designation would be given to the castle. So why hasn't Porter gotten the historical designation status? Porter explained that if the property is designated an historical landmark, then reverts back to the Reibel Family Trust, the designation would provide quite a few tax breaks for the Reibels. "I don't want to give that man anything," Porter said, referring to Art Reibel. Some of the planning commissioners questioned the sense of Porter's position. "It would be a good selling point to have that (historical) status. If you're selling it, I don't think you need to display any grudges," said planning commissioner Peggy Midener.

"It really shouldn't be a personal thing," commissioner Larry Levengood said. "It won't go back to Art Reibel, it goes to the Reibel Family Trust," he added.

Levengood was one of the three commissioners opposed to amending the county recreational plan to include the castle. "I think it could be a drain on the county," Levengood said. "Fund-raising efforts for the castle are a deterrent to other fund-raising efforts in the county."

9-1-1 wants to know about special emergency needs

by L. Scott Swanson

This week Charlevoix people will be receiving in the mail a folded piece of paper addressed to "Postal Customer." It may look like junk mail, but the Charlevoix-Cheboygan-Emmet Central Dispatch Authority (9-1-1) doesn't want you to pitch it. They want you to fill it out and send it back so they will be able to better serve your business or household in an emergency.

According to 9-1-1 dispatcher Roxanne Beach, the form isn't an effort to be nosy. The information just eliminates surprises which could endanger the lives of residents or emergency personnel or slow down an emergency response.

The form asks if any of the following special conditions are present in the home or business: handicapped person; oxygen supply; speech impaired person; Alzheimer or other memory impaired person; watch dog or dangerous animal; telecommunication device for deaf user; foster care home; someone under medical care for heart problems; bedridden person; hearing impaired person; day care provider; gun or rifle.

The form also asks if the following hazards are present: gasoline; ammunition; poisons; diesel fuel; explosives; radioactive materials; pesticides; propane; other chemicals.

People who have special situations in their household or business are asked to fill out the forms as soon as possible and send them to: C.C.E. 9-1-1 Special Needs, P.O. Box 866, Petoskey, MI 49770. If your household or business has no special needs, then it isn't necessary to fill out the form.

Beach says the information will be plugged into the 9-1-1 dispatch system. When a call comes into the 9-1-1 center, the information will appear on a screen. The dispatcher can then relay the information to emergency personnel so they know what to expect when they arrive on the scene.

The 9-1-1 center is scheduled to be up and running by the first of the year. Gathering the special needs information is only one among many things going on in preparation for opening the center.

Efforts are also being made to get homes and businesses properly numbered in the three counties and to have the addresses at all homes and businesses posted so that they are clearly visible from the road. Kiwanis Clubs of Charlevoix, Petoskey and Cheboygan will be constructing and installing address numbers for $21 per house for people who don't wish to put up their own signs.

Charlevoix people who for one reason or another don't receive a special needs form in the mail this week may pick up a form at the Charlevoix County Sheriff's office on Grant Street.

As 1995 Miss Charlevoix, Erin McNamara Wright received several gifts donated by local merchants. The Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce which coordinates the pageant wishes to thank the people who made donations to make the pageant successful. McNamara Wright will be representing Charlevoix at parades and other events throughout the state during the coming year. (Photo by L. Scott Swanson)

People here get an August driving attitude

Charlevoix is a town with its fair share of quirks. One of them is that in August people tend to get testy in downtown traffic. The same minor driving transgression that in June causes another driver to disdainfully roll his eyes will in August incite a full-fledged profanity-laced fury.

In June, the town is just starting to fill up for the summer and waiting in traffic is still kind of new and different. It doesn't seem like such a burden. Drivers on Bridge Street pause and wave in other drivers off of side streets. Pedestrians are met with a smile and motioned across.

By August it's an entirely different world. Any sense of traffic novelty that existed in June is gone and long forgotten. If you're driving on a side street and hope to turn on to Bridge Street, you best have a lot of friends or family in this town because the odds of a stranger letting you in are pretty thin. Pedestrians who are allowed to casually shuffle across the street with impunity in June, best pick their spots carefully and step lively in August.

Two of the most volatile traffic spots are where Bridge Street narrows from two lanes to one lane near Antrim and Park Streets. Nine months of the year, merging at these locations is effortless. In August, every merge is fraught with hazard.

Just within the past couple of weeks a driver of a car headed south pinched in front of a pick-up truck at the Park Avenue merger point. The driver of the pick-up (And no, it wasn't the writer of this editorial.) loudly proclaimed, "I can't believe you did that, you stupid ####!"

In that incident, nobody collided. However, in a similar incident a couple of years back, two cars did bump. A pick-up truck (And the disclaimer above does not apply in this instance.) was coming down the south Bridge Street hill in the right hand lane. A van was beside the pick-up, in the left lane. Traffic was stop and go, bumper to bumper. When it came time to merge, the pick-up was just a bit ahead of the van and the logical place for the pick-up to merge would have been in front of the van. But, for some reason the van driver didn't want the pick-up merging there. This didn't bother the pick-up driver in the least. Being in no hurry, he figured, fine, if the guy doesn't want me there, I'll fall in behind.

The van driver didn't know the pick-up driver had decided to wait, so, bound and determined to hold his spot, he kept an eye on the pick-up, while at the same time keeping his van tight to the vehicle ahead of him. In fact, he kept it a bit too tight. Bang! He hit that car right in the rear bumper. He quickly whipped his head around, looking away from the pick-up and instead looking out the front window - which obviously is where he should have been looking in the first place.

Fortunately, since everybody was moving so slowly, no damage was done. Nobody even got out of their vehicle. Sure, the driver of the car scowled. And the driver of the van scowled. And the driver of the van when he looked over at the driver of the pick-up and saw that he wasn't scowling. The driver of the pick-up was laughing. He was laughing a lot! If you have the right sense of humor, seeing justice rendered can be quite a funny thing.

A similar incident which occurred within the past few summers could have gotten ugly were it not for police presence. City Police Chief Dennis Halverson was walking down Bridge Street on the way back to his office from a Rotary meeting when he heard tires squawk, bumpers come together and some guy begin shouting. A big guy in a van had been bumped in the rear bumper by a guy in a car. The big guy jumped out of his van, ran back and snatched the guy out of the car.

Unbeknownst to the big guy, the police chief was less than 30 feet away. Before the big guy even got beyond the introductory statements of a stern lecture, let alone into administering a thrashing, he found himself with a cop in his face. Enhance your 9-1-1 systems all you want, you'll never improve that kind of response time.

The big guy began to plead his case, but Halverson wasn't having any of it. The police chief held firm to the position that regardless of the type of error another driver makes, fetching him out of the car and shaking him until his innards rattle is simply not a permissible form of driver education. Oh, the law may not say that in so many words, but that's clearly the spirit of it. Halverson told the guy that if he wanted to fill out an accident report, that could be arranged. The guy declined and everybody went about their business.

As you drive through Charlevoix during the next few weeks, bear these stories in mind. There are times when traffic problems annoy us all. August is especially bad. But if we keep our sense of humor and remember that in just a few more weeks traffic will start thinning out, we'll all get through this.

Stupak objects to telecommunications bill

On August 4, 1995, the U.S. House of Representatives voted to approve a bill, H.R. 1555, the Communications Act, that makes radical changes in the nation's telecommunications laws for the first time in sixty years. This is the largest and most important consumer legislation in many years, and it will vastly reduce regulations on everything from cable television to local and long-distance telephone services. This bill will have long-lasting and direct effects on the cost which the average consumer will have to pay for television, cable and telephone services. I voted against the bill, because I don't think it is in the best interest of the people of Northern Michigan.

Experts say that cable and telephone rates will increase as big communications conglomerates are allowed to become even bigger. In fact, every time Congress has voted to deregulate an industry, such as banking, airline, trucking, and previously the cable industry, it has re-

City shouldn't spend tax dollars to tear out garden

Editor,

I'm disturbed by the fact that the city is going to spend our tax dollars to rip out a lovely flower garden and replace it with a rock. I understand that the garden infringed on city property, and perhaps it shouldn't have been put there, but it was done ten years ago at no expense to the city and is maintained at the owner's expense. I'm a home owner in Charlevoix, and I take pride in keeping the easement, between the sidewalk and the curb, attractive to passers by. It seems to me that the keeper of the garden is doing no less than all of us, who take pride in our yards.

I'm not sure that the city council members have actually gone to see the garden. If they had, they would realize that they would be wasting our hard-earned tax dollars for nothing. Moreover, they would be removing a garden that contains many perennial flowers and a juniper that is over six feet tall. Every time I drive by, on the way to the hospital, I look to see what flowers are blooming.

If the city has a problem with the property owner about the driveway infringing on city property, they should deal with the driveway and not rip out the garden just to make a point ... at the taxpayer's expense.

I hope the readers of this letter will take a look at the garden in dispute, at 701 Park St., and if you agree that you don't want to waste our money to rip the garden out, call the City Manager (at 547-3270) or write to express your feelings about the issue.

A concerned citizen,

sulted in less meaningful competition, fewer services and higher rates for consumers.

One reason I voted against this legislation is because it deregulates the cable industry in a manner that does not provide protection for the consumer. This bill will remove federal price controls for cable television programming and equipment rentals. As a result, rates will probably rise for most customers, especially for smaller markets and rural areas such as in Northern Michigan, where there is little competition to provide cable services. This bill adversely affects consumers, not only because it will erase limits on cable rates, but it will also make it harder for customers to press formal complaints about higher rates once they go into effect.

This bill substantially changes the rules of competition in the long-distance telephone market by giving local phone companies — the Baby Bells — the right to enter the long-distance market. The regional telephone companies will be able to offer long-distance service while maintaining large portions of their local-phone monopoly. The bill requires local phone companies to sell their services to companies that want to compete with the local phone companies. This will not only hurt competitors of the Baby Bells, but also consumers who want low-cost telephone service. Experts predict that, because the Baby Bells would use their monopoly power in local markets to impede new competitors, consumers will pay an additional $10 a month for local phone service in the year 2000.

This bill will also ease restrictions on the number of radio and television stations a single company could own. Currently, common ownership of television, or radio stations and newspapers in the same market is forbidden. This bill will allow companies to buy an unlimited number of radio stations and expand their potential reach to 35 percent of American households. I believe that this will result in less diversity in news reporting and entertainment programming for consumers.

In an effort to improve the bill, I supported efforts to include an amendment which requires that all new television sets include technology that would allow parents to block out programs with violence or sexual content. This would give parents more control over what their children watch on television and would allow parents to screen out violent programming.

I offered an amendment, which was opposed by the majority leadership but passed the House overwhelmingly, that gives back control to local government. Specifically, this amendment ensures that local governments have the authority to manage public rights-of-way and to receive fair and reasonable compensation for use of public property by telecommunications companies. I offered this amendment, because I believe that Washington, D.C. doesn't have all the answers and sometimes the local government should be given greater autonomy to manage industry.

I am not opposed to deregulation as long as it is done in an orderly manner and protects consumers. I voted against the Communications Act, because Congress did not deregulate our telecommunications industry with the best interests of the average consumer in mind.

U.S. Congressman, Bart Stupak

Retrospective

A brief look back at some of the ways of times past in the Charlevoix area.

Recalling the entrepreneurs of the Atwood Threshing Company

by NANCY RITSEMA
Norwood Historical Society

Hearts beat faster at the sight and the sound of the steam engine thresher starting down the road. A picture evokes smells and sounds even today: the big horses harnessed and fresh, pulling the thresher to the field; the rhythmic putt-putt of the tractor pulling the wagon load of water barrels to be used when the steam engine which powered the thresher was in operation.

Norwood's farmers looked to the Atwood Threshing Company in the early 1900's to harvest the oats, beans, wheat and rye they grew. The Atwood Threshing Company was a group of local men who pooled their resources, bought a grain separator, a bean thresher, and a steam engine and hired out from farm to farm. The men who formed the Company were Jim Heeres, Charlie Warner, George Parsons, Ethan Jolliffe, George Lord, and John Parsons.

The increased use of machinery on farms transformed the work of rural life in small communities such as Norwood. The work of threshing grain with flails on the barn floor could now be accomplished in a day with the threshing rig. Work began early. Women rose at dawn to prepare their best food dishes for the famished threshing crew at noon, and again at supper if needed. Bill Parsons, who helped his father George make mid-summer threshing rounds at neighbor's farms, recalls that the crews looked forward to sumptuous meals especially in Nina Hull's and Edna Stafford's kitchens in Norwood. Freshly prepared beets and carrots, mashed potatoes and thick brown gravy, fried chicken, roast beef, fresh bread or biscuits, and pies of all sorts downed with plenty of coffee and cold drinks satisfied the appetite.

The sun was broiling, the work hard, the food hearty, and the sense of neighbor helping neighbor was strong. It is with a sense of nostalgia and regret that old timers look back at the days when the threshing rig with its puffing engine and thresher could be seen moving back and forth across the fields.

New sailing program founded for area youth

Charlevoix Courier Wednesday, August 16, 1995 - PAGE 9

A crew of 20 area high school students will leave part on a 60-foot schooner next week to launch NorSTAR, a sail-based training program operating out of Charlevoix.

The students were selected by 4-H leaders and counselors from high schools throughout the Char-EM I.S.D. Crews of 10 each will be aboard the Suttons Bay schooner Inland Seas for two three-day cruises in Lake Michigan, learning the fundamentals of sailing and about the area's maritime science and ecological learning experiences.

The trainees will also be exposed to shipboard operations and maintenance, as well as actually participating in sailing the vessel.

Participants on the first leg of the cruise include Jamie Whitey of Charlevoix; Jamie Bowers of Petoskey; David Miller, Michelle Sulak, Casey Sulak, Emily Wright and Joshua Wager of Boyne City; and Erin Putalik, Brad Shepperly and Becky Rowland of Harbor Springs.

Crews will be exchanged on Wednesday, Aug. 23 when Carrie Beemon of Charlevoix joins Matt Ellenwood, Dianna Hellstrom, Mike House, Nicole Sulak, Brandy Sieggreen and Carey Rouleau of Boyne City; Elijah Otto of Pellston; Rebecca Keek of Mancelona and Daniel Frye of Carp Lake. Counties represented include Emmet, Charlevoix and Antrim.

Long-range goal of the NorSTAR (Northern Sail Training and Renewal) program is to develop a fleet of schooner schoolships traversing the Great Lakes and beyond on extended cruises. Interim plans call for establishing programs for alder participants (youth of all ages); the chartering of longer sailing sessions in future summers; working extensively with area youth at risk; and eventually acquiring a suitable sailing vessel for its own use.

Retired Coast Guard Commander, David S. Smith, Ph.D., is the executive director of NorSTAR. Commander Smith reports that the program has been received with great enthusiasm by area educators as well as by local sailing interests.

"Much of the history of northwestern Michigan is directly tied to schooners, other tall ships and sail based commerce. NorStar plans to build on this historical foundation. Their intention is to assist young people in learning about this region's scientific, environmental and maritime related career potential," Smith says.

NorSTAR is affiliated with ASTA, the American Sail Training Association. ASTA guidelines provide detailed outlines for the use of sail training in developing positive character traits as well as exposing trainees to appreciation for the sea

Navy Petty Officer 2nd Class Charles R. Struthers, son of Howard G. and Mona Struthers of Charlevoix, is currently halfway through a six-month overseas deployment aboard the guided missile frigate USS Kauffman, which has included duty in the Mediterranean and Black seas.

Struthers is one of 285 sailors aboard the ship who have traveled approximately 20,000 miles since leaving Norfolk, Va., in mid-March. Struthers' ship is part of the formidable 11-ship USS Theodore Roosevelt Battle Group which includes jet fighters, attach aircraft, helicopters, and ships and submarines armed with Tomahawk cruise missiles.

While most of the deployment has been spent at sea, Struthers also has visited Cyprus, Italy, Morocco, Romania, Spain, Turkey and Ukraine. While in Morocco, Struthers had an opportunity to visit Casablanca and the ancient city of Marakeseb. In Constanta, Romania, USS Kauffman sailors donated their free time to renovate a local school for handicapped children. During the three-day visit, the sailors painted walls, rebuilt windows and stools, repaired a ventilation system, and built 100 new bed frames. While in Odessa, Ukraine, Struthers and fellow shipmates helped the local citizens celebrate the 50th anniversary of the end of World War II and donated 500 English text books to a local school.

In that position, she had some responsibility for social work services to homebound patients. For two years from 1984-86 she was social work consultant at Bortz Health Center.

Parsons holds an associate's degree from Northwestern Michigan College; a bachelor's in social work from Michigan State University; and is a master's candidate at Grand Valley State University. She is a member of the National Association of Social Workers.

She and her husband Dale live in Boyer City. They have three children: Steve, 28; Kelly, 20; and Sarah, 17.

Parsons will be working with area health care agencies and nursing homes in discharge planning for patients. She replaces Camille Greene who retired after 24 years at the hospital.

The Michigan Association of Certified Public Accountants (MACPA) recently elected East Jordan resident Brian D. Olszewski, CPA, its Northern Chapter Chair.

Olszewski, an audit supervisor with Hill Schroeder & Company in Petoskey, joined the MACPA in 1988 and has been a chapter officer since 1992. He is a former member of the Nominations Committee.

Other organizations Olszewski enjoys participating in include: The Jordan Valley Community Band; East Jordan Little League; and East Jordan 4-H Soccer programs.

Donald D. Hice has been named maintenance manager at Consumers Power Company's Big Rock Point nuclear power plant. He assumed his new duties August 7, 1995.

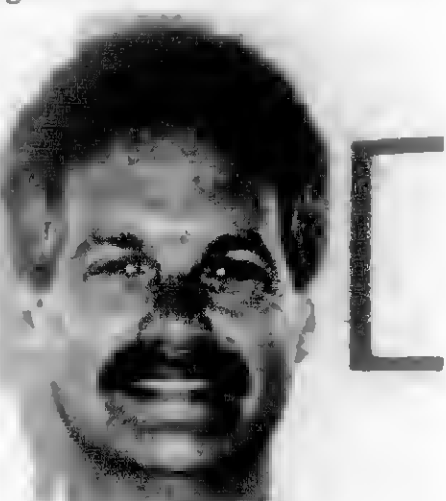

Hice, 39, had been the training director at the utility's Palisades nuclear power plant since 1993. He joined Palisades in 1976 as a chemistry and health physics technician. In 1978 he accepted a position in the chemistry department at the Midland nuclear plant project and in 1984 returned to Palisades as a chemistry supervisor. Hice transferred to Big Rock Point in 1985, where he worked in the operating experience area and earned certification as a senior reactor operator. In 1989 he returned to Palisades as the chemistry and radioactive waste superintendent.

In his new position, he will be responsible for the overall maintenance of the plant.

Community Foundation awards grants to medical students

Charlevoix resident Chad DeYoung has been selected as the first recipient of the Julius Gilbert Memorial Scholarship, awarded through the Charlevoix County Community Foundation. DeYoung, a graduate of Charlevoix High School and The University of Michigan, will attend Wayne State University School of Medicine this fall, where he plans to focus on family practice.

A committee representing the Charlevoix Area Hospital recommended DeYoung for the award, based on his academic achievement at the U of M, his leadership skills, and his record of community volunteerism.

The scholarship fund is designed specifically to assist area students who aspire to become physicians. It was established several years ago to honor Julius Gilbert, who served for many years as a Charlevoix Area Hospital trustee. In 1994, the $10,000 fund was placed under the care of the Charlevoix County Community Foundation, where it joins other special endowments. The Foundation invests and manages the Gilbert fund, while hospital representatives review applications and make recommendations about the scholarship awards.

The Charlevoix County Community Foundation was established three years ago by a group of area residents. A nonprofit organization, it receives charitable donations and designated endowments on behalf of the community. Investment income is used to support a variety of civic and human services programs throughout the county. More information about the Community Foundation, and the Julius Gilbert Memorial Scholarship, is available by calling 616/536-2440, or writing the Foundation at P.O. Box 718, East Jordan, Michigan 49727.

Nancy T. Loeffler, a Central Lake resident and L.P.N. who has worked at the Charlevoix Area Hospital for 20 years, will have some help in her quest for an Associate Degree in Nursing. Loeffler has been selected to receive the annual Charlevoix Area Hospital Nursing Scholarship, awarded through the Charlevoix County Community Foundation.

She will use the $500 grant to attend Northwestern Michigan College in Traverse City, while continuing to work at the hospital. In recommending Loeffler for the award, a special committee representing the hospital considered her academic performance, leadership skills, and, in particular, her long-standing dedication to the nursing profession.

Another area nursing student, Louise M. Ernst, who received the scholarship last year, was awarded a second grant of $500 from the Charlevoix Area Hospital Nursing Fund to complete her two-year nursing program at North Central Michigan College.

The nursing scholarship fund was placed under the care of the Charlevoix County Community Foundation by hospital trustees last year. While the foundation invests and manages the fund, hospital representatives continue to make recommendations about awarding scholarships.

Charlevoix junior golf program completes its first summer

More than 100 young golfers participate at area courses

The Charlevoix County Junior Golf Association completed its first summer program last week with a tournament hosted by the Charlevoix Country Club. One hundred and twenty golfers registered for the program's eight week sessions. Tournament winners in the various flights were as follows: Lance Smith, James Waha, and Michael Russell were medalists in the 7, 8, and 9 year old division; co-champions for the 10 year olds were Cody Britton and York Smith; in the 11-12 year olds, Tony Shearer won flight A while Michelle Martin and Kevin Curtin tied for the B flight championship; the 13-14 year old title winners were Jon Sell in flight A while Jessica Corey won flight B; Jason Vincent won the 15 year old's title with a score of 46 while Scott Blechel also had a 46 to win the 16-17 year old flight.

The tournament also featured a putting tournament with the following winners: Matt Novotny won the flight I title, while Trevor Kline won flight II. Aaron Murdock, Nate Touchette, and Tyler Lieberman all tied for the flight III championship. The day's events concluded with a pizza party and award ceremony.

Program Director Dean Davenport emphasized that many people combined their talents and efforts for a summer of successful golf for area youngsters. "We had great cooperation from the management of our area's golf courses. The Belvedere, Municipal, Dunmaglas, and Country Club courses all offered their facilities free to our program. The teaching pros; Dave Poquette, Joan Waha, Steve Braun, and Bruce Schepeler from the same courses gave of their time so that youngsters got excellent instruction. Participants played golf at every session which was made possible by the dozens of adult volunteers that walked with each group of youngsters as they played. It was a great blend of youth enthusiasm and adult interest and support."

The intention is to offer the program again next summer.

The Inland Seas is a floating classroom outfitted with the latest scientific equipment to enable trainees to study the Great Lakes ecosystem. It is staffed by a professional crew and experienced educators. In addition to learning maritime-related academics the trainees will practice general seamanship and navigation using Radar, LORAN and GPS.

American Sail Training Association guidelines will be strictly adhered to, and all educational material will be maritime related. Subjects to be studied include marine biology, astronomy, celestial navigation, safety, and ecology. In addition, instruction will be given in those areas of knowledge necessary to command a ship, such as maritime history, mathematics, geometry and physics.

Weather observation, water sampling and testing, bottom sampling, fish collection and identification also will take place aboard Inland Seas. The Inland Seas is owned by the Inland Seas Education Association. The vessel comfortably sleeps up to 11 trainees. "It is the perfect craft for our 1995 activities and for setting a benchmark for our overall long-range program," according to Smith. It is U.S. Coast Guard certified for 25 day and 11 overnight passengers.

Charter advisory board members for the recently-formed NorSTAR organization include Jack Ewing, Dave Smith, Robert Hoffman, Atty., Gordon and Susan Van Wieren, and Bruce Hamilton of Charlevoix; Roger Strigley, Dr. Jeremy Willis, Dr. and Mrs. Scott

Lots of rain keeps lake levels high

During the month of July precipitation was above average on the Lake Superior and Michigan-Huron basins, at average on the Lake Ontario basin and below average on the Lake Erie basin. For the year to date, precipitation is about 7 percent below average for the entire Great Lakes basin. The net supply of water to each of the Great Lakes in July was below average.

In comparison to their long-term (1918-1994) averages, the July monthly mean water level of Lakes Superior and Ontario were 7 and 3 inches below average respectively, Lake Michigan-Huron was at its average and Lakes St. Clair and Erie were 6 and 5 inches above average respectively. Shoreline residents are cautioned to be alert whenever adverse weather conditions exist, as these could cause rapid short-term rises in water levels. Should the lakes approach critically high levels, further information and advice will be provided by the Corps of Engineers.

A more detailed summary of Lakes Michigan-Huron water levels follows. All elevations are referenced to International Great Lakes Datum 1985.

Lakes Michigan-Huron at the end of July were at elevation 579.49 feet (176.63 meters) above the mean water level at Rimouski, Quebec, or about 24 inches (63 cm.) above Chart Datum. The July monthly mean level of 579.49 feet (176.63 meters) was about the same as the long-term average for July. The lakes were about 30 inches (76 cm.) below the all-time high July monthly mean level, which was recorded in 1986. The forecast shows that the August monthly mean level of Lakes Michigan-Huron will be about 1 inch (2 cm.) below what it was at Mid-July. The lakes are expected to continue their seasonal decline into January. The water level in Mid-January 1996 is expected to be about 1 inch (3 cm.) below the long-term average for that month, or about 8 inches (21 cm.) below what it was at the same time in 1995.

City council discusses red x's on city sidewalks

by L. Scott Swanson

X marks the spot. But some people attending Monday evening's city council meeting felt there are too many x's marking too many spots on city sidewalks. The city street department recently went through the city and painted red x's on pieces of sidewalks which have cracks or have lifted. The city's intention is to replace the pieces of sidewalks which have problems.

Monday evening, some council members and audience members said they felt too many pieces of sidewalk had been marked and that the marking could have been more discrete.

First ward council member Don Meggison said he doesn't see any reason to replace sections of sidewalks which only have small cracks. Former council member Bob Timms said that in the past small marks, rather than big red x's, were used to point out which sections of sidewalk should be replaced.

City manager Mike Wiesner said that rather than completely replacing all marked sections of sidewalk, the city would attempt to patch cracks where it is appropriate.

Council members also discussed the width of sidewalks, debating whether the ideal width should be five or six feet. Second ward council member Butch Russell said he feels five feet is wide enough for two people to comfortably walk down the sidewalk. First ward council member Cheri Hoffman said five feet can sometimes get crowded on high traffic sidewalks with groups of people walking in opposite directions.

After discussing the matter, the council decided that when existing sidewalks are replaced, they will be replaced at their current width, be that five feet or six feet. When new sidewalks are constructed, it will be left up to the city manager to determine whether foot traffic in that area can be accommodated by a five foot sidewalk or merits an extra foot in width.

In other matters, the council approved a bid of $178 per hour, or up to $35,600, for Lowery Construction to do electrical work in Bridge Park. The money will come from the city electrical budget.

Timms asked if the work is being necessitated by the Bridge Park project and said that if it is, funding should come from the Downtown Development Authority, rather than from the general electrical budget. City electric department superintendent Ed Whitley said that although the timing of the repairs is being driven by the Bridge Park project, virtually all of the work is something that would probably have to be done even without the project.

The city council also approved an estoppel agreement with Park Avenue property owner Dick Georgi. For the past several months, the city council and Georgi have been engaged in a debate regarding a driveway and a garden near the intersection of Lake and Park. The garden and a portion of the driveway are on city park property. According to the agreement, Georgi will abandon the garden and related equipment; the driveway will be re-cut to its previous dimensions; the city will accept the abandonment of the garden; Georgi will be granted

by L. Scott Swanson

After emerging from a pole barn, a local band named Hot Water Bottle has picked up steam and is rocking area parties and dances. Members of the five-piece band are: Jeff Boss, lead vocals; Jeremy Biggerstaff, guitar; Jesse Antaya, guitar;

Noel Kammermann, drums; and George Scholey, bass and back-up vocals.

The band formed in the summer of 1994. Scholey, Biggerstaff and Paul Keehn had been messing around playing some music in Keehn's pole barn and invited Boss out to sing with them. A short time later, Keehn, a drummer, began marching to a different drummer when he joined the Marines. The band replaced Keehn with Kammermann. Kammermann had been playing drums at home, accompanying taped music.

Hot Water Bottle made their debut Dec. 3, 1994 - live at 13191

Pleasant Street. The address is Boss' house and the gig was his birthday party with friends.

Playing the music was fun so Hot Water Bottle began to branch out. They played at the Charlevoix High School Christmas assembly. Then they began playing at high school and middle school dances in Charlevoix and Ellsworth and at some area parties. They played a couple of times at Boomers, a club near Petoskey. They also played at the Club 77 teen center's reopening to help the center raise money. They played at a Venetian beach dance in the pavilion at Ferry Beach in a performance which Boss said went real well. Hot Water Bottle also has a performance lined up at the Castle Farm coffee house.

"It's been a blast. I never thought we'd do what we've done so far," Boss says. "No one else has had a band come out of Charlevoix since Peril."

Hot Water Bottle plays a broad range of music. As Boss describes it, "Everything from '50s to now. Anything from Buddy Holly to Green Day." Audiences the group has played for have liked the diversity. While the band gets a big response to Green Day and the song "Blister In The Sun" by the Violent Femmes, everyone always gets out on the floor and dances to "Rock Around the Clock" by Bill Haley and the Comets.

Scholey is the band's elder statesman. He's 25. The rest of the band members will be seniors in high school this coming fall. Boss says the guitarists each bring their own musical background to the group. Antaya brings Southern rock and blues influences while Biggerstaff brings rockabilly and blues. Boss said that for himself and Kammermann, playing with a live band has expanded their musical abilities and generated dramatic improvement.

Currently, Hot Water Bottle has a musical repertoire of between 30 and 35 songs. They also have a couple of original songs and want to focus on creating some more original music. They've talked about doing some recording at an area studio, but first they need to develop some more original music and get some money together.

Currently the group doesn't have a manager because they don't feel they're at a point yet where they need one. However, people wishing to hire the group may phone 547-9098. "As much as we could get out, the better," Boss notes.

In another matter, the city will be modifying its policy regarding repairs to sewer laterals. Laterals connect houses to sewer mains. In the past, repair of the laterals, even in the city right of way was the responsibility of homeowners. Following Monday evening's policy revision, homeowners will be responsible for lateral maintenance if the lateral is plugged, but if the lateral is damaged in the city right of way, the city will repair it. In cases where a home owner has problems with a sewer line, homeowners are asked to first call the city and have them check the main. Then, if that fails to correct the problem, they can call a plumber and have the lateral checked.

Heidi Miller returns from a four-week visit to France

by Laurie Lounsbury

Heidi Miller was 11 years old when she started saving her babysitting money for a trip to France. It took six years, but this summer Miller was able to pay for a trip to Normandy, France, where she stayed one month as a foreign exchange student. The experience was so rewarding for Miller that she's already planning her next trip abroad.

Miller set her sights on a trip to France after traveling to Europe with her family. She had the complete support of her parents, Pat and Bob Miller, even though Pat admitted she was a bit nervous about sending her daughter alone to France. "Living up here in Charlevoix, we really have to make an effort for our kids to get a flavor of the rest of the world," Pat said.

Miller's trip had plenty of excitement right from the start. She flew from Detroit to New York's JFK airport with 30 other Michigan exchange students. In New York, the Michigan group teamed up with 200 students from all over the United States. An unknown man with a gun was spotted in JFK. Officials evacuated the airport. Miller and the other students sat in an outside parking lot in the oppressive New York heat for two and a half hours. Everyone re-entering the airport had to go through security. The man with the gun apparently disappeared in the commotion.

Miller's first four days with her French family in the village of Cresserons were an adjustment period. After that, Miller said she fit right in. "I adapted well to French life. It became a part of me, because that was the culture I was living in," Miller said. Part of the adjustment to French life included learning how to greet people with the appropriate number of kisses. In France, kissing is a regional affair. Two kisses, one on each cheek, is the accepted greeting in Paris, while four kisses are the going rate in Normandy. Not following the tradition of appropriate kissing is an insult to the person you're greeting. Miller took the kissing in

Editorial

People need direct information to form their own opinions

Lore has it that one day President Ulysses Grant was on his way to a speech he was to give. As he walked along, he fell in beside another gentleman.

Grant asked the man where he was going and the man said he was on his way to hear a speech by President Grant.

"And what is your opinion of Grant," Grant asked the man.

"I think he is much over-rated," the man replied.

"That is my opinion too," said Grant.

Aside from being amusing, that tale also reflects something that all too often is missing in American politics at the state and federal level. What is missing is the opportunity for people to talk to state and federal political figures one to one in a conversation.

In a small town, when somebody's name comes up and you're asked if you like them or dislike them, on what grounds do you render an opinion? Well, usually you base it on how well or poorly your own interactions with the person have gone. You think or say, "Well, I see him around occasionally and he seems all right." Or, you think, "I've talked to that guy a few times and he annoys me. I don't like him." Or, you might say, "I don't know what to think of that lady. I've never met her."

For most people, the third of those three situations almost always applies to most state and federal politicians. How are you supposed to know what to think of them when you've never met them? Without meeting someone, it's very difficult to get any sense of their human side. The only thing most people know about their state or federal politicians is what position they've taken on some issue of concern. And somehow that just doesn't seem like the whole story.

People with the press have more of an opportunity to have conversations with politicians and that's helpful. You get a better sense of the person's character. Senator Spencer Abraham's wife Jane was in town this past Thursday. She had her twin two-year-old daughters with her. When most people think of U.S. Senators, they probably don't think of them having all of the same challenges other parents have when raising children, but they have them. One to one conversations make you more aware of those types of things.

Governor John Engler has stopped in at the Courier office in the past. Although his detractors would have you believe he's cold and detached, he's a lot of fun to talk with. State Representative Bev Bodem is very down to earth. Former state Senator Mitch Irwin was an extremely personable guy. State Senator Walter North is an interesting guy, initially kind of quiet, but a bright guy who talks more as the conversation goes along. Bodem brought state house majority leader Paul Hillegonds with her on her last campaign swing. He's very intellectual, committed to his positions and bright enough to defend them when asked challenging questions.

Although it's impossible for state and federal politicians to have one to one conversations with each and every constituent, there are things the media can do to better approximate that situation. Rather than quote expert analysts or run summary stories, the print media can run stories in question and answer format. That allows readers to see not only what a politician is saying, but allows them to see how it is being said. Broadcast media can also avoid expert analysts and rather than running sound bites or two-minute ranting and raving sessions, do one on one interviews. If broadcast people doubt the desire for that from both politicians and voters, they can look to the role that Larry King type interviews played in the last election.

One of the greatest advantages of local government is that it's closer to the people. State and federal government face a greater challenge in staying in touch with their constituents. But for state and federal government to be effective, it's necessary for that challenge to be met. As the political hype for the 1996 presidential election gears up, people should keep in mind that they don't have to accept second-hand information and they don't have to have their opinions formed for them by expert analysts. People need to get their information in a more direct manner and form their own opinions.

Clinton's anti tobacco position supported

Editor,
I'm writing in response to President Clinton's stand on tobacco. It's about time someone takes a stand for the youth of our country. The tobacco industry says they don't want teenagers to start smoking, but they spend $6 billion dollars a year on advertising. They have to replace 3,000 smokers who quit each day. Believe me, adults are not their target population!

How many of you parents have picked up a magazine your child is reading, to look specifically at the cigarette ads? And have you noticed how specific cigarette brand names appear at sporting events on TV? Aren't we foolish to think that cigarette advertising is not allowed on television?

They certainly make their product look appealing. The teenagers that try that first cigarette, may do so because of peer pressure. And with such enticing advertising, why shouldn't they try just one? What harm could that cause? And if cigarettes are so bad for you, why are they so easily obtainable?

...tobacco use criticized

As part of my job, I spend time in the schools talking to students about the use of tobacco products and second-hand smoke. My heart breaks when I have seventh graders tell me, that they would like to quit smoking, but they can't because they have been smoking for so long they are addicted. Some of these students have been smoking since they were 10 years old.

The president is calling for a government crackdown on teen smoking. It's illegal to sell tobacco products to a person under 18 years of age. So why aren't we doing more to enforce the law? Students I talk to have no difficulty buying tobacco products. They know which stores will sell to them without checking IDs.

Won't you join in the campaign to stop kids from smoking and using spit tobacco. Educate your children about the health risks of tobacco. Encourage retailers to ID young people so they don't sell to those under 18. Report establishments that have cigarette vending machines close to entrances or not properly supervised. Encourage law enforcement agencies to enforce the law when it is broken.

Anyone interested in working to decrease the use of tobacco products in our community is welcome to join the Charlevoix-Emmet-Antrim Tobacco Reduction Coalition. For more information call 616-547-6523.

Sincerely,
Mary Ann Cox, RN, BSN, Coordinator

Do politicians ever listen to voters?

Editor,

I agree with Terry Salmonson on not wasting tax money to tear out the beautiful Park St. garden. But what good will it do to voice an opinion, when the government will go ahead and do exactly what they want to do? The vote was against putting islands in the boat launch parking lot at Ferry Beach. It has islands in it with numerous tire marks where long trailers couldn't make the curve. The voters didn't want 911 but everyone is getting new addresses to facilitate that program. Who wanted the speed limit raised from 25 to 35 on Bridge St.? Now traffic goes 45 mph.

I wonder what words of wisdom this plaque will spout? None to compare with the visual beauty of those perennials. I wonder whose gravel pit the boulder will be purchased from? If it's a boulder you want to see, drive another 1/2 mile and view the ones au-natural along the shore. Come on group, let's do this one right!

Sincerely,
Victoria Wallick

These three members of the Oak Park, Illinois High School graduating class of 1935 gathered for a mini class reunion in Charlevoix last week. It didn't involve making any big trip. As fate would have it, all three of the classmates ended up living in the same little northern Michigan town for decades. The women are (from left) Rose Bergmann, Evelyn Peters and Virginia Rountree. Al Montague of Beaver Island is also a classmate, but was unable to attend.

School seeks volunteers for new reading program

by Laurie Lounsbury

Calling all volunteers - The Charlevoix Elementary School is starting a new reading program to help young students who are struggling with their reading skills. The program, called S.T.A.R. (Success To All Readers) is based on the concept of one-on-one instruction. But in order to fit the program into the elementary school budget, the one-on-one instruction needs to come from volunteers in the community.

The S.T.A.R. program will match students who are at risk of failing with a volunteer for one half hour a day, four days a week. Elementary school principal Dick Swenor said that students don't need to have the same volunteer each day in order to benefit. "The more people who show an interest in the student, the better it is for the child," Swenor said.

Volunteers will be trained by the S.T.A.R. team, which is headed by Joan Carson. First grade students will spend ten minutes on a computer, working on reading fundamentals such as vowels and consonants, ten minutes reading, and ten minutes writing a sentence about what they read. Second graders will spend ten minutes working on a computer, then 20 minutes reading one day, and 20 minutes writing the next day. The program is designed to accommodate a total of 40 students.

Anyone interested in volunteering for the program may call Joan Carson at 547-3219.

High school to have seminar class

by Laurie Lounsbury

The Charlevoix school board has approved a new course offering at the high school this year. The class, simply called a seminar period, will give students one-fourth of a credit. More to the point, it will give the school district maximum state funding. "Under the new funding scenario, we must have students in instructional classes a certain number of minutes. I recommend we approve this," said school superintendent Dr. Robert Jackson at the school board meeting held last Monday.

Under the new state rules for school funding, students must be in class a total of 995 hours or the foundation grant from the state will be reduced. According to school business manager Rich Kelly, the one-fourth credit class will ensure full funding from the state.

The curriculum for the seminar period is still vague. High school principal Gary Grundman said that the class, which will meet two times a week, will deal with life management skills and test taking skills. Grundman acknowledged that the seminar will duplicate some of the curriculum being taught in the life management class, but it will be a different presentation of the material.

School board members Mary Lee Campbell and Sulane Hamilton raised questions about the course curriculum. "I'm not opposed to the credit. I just want to know what kids are getting for that credit," Campbell asked. Hamilton said she didn't want the class to look like students are getting credit for a study hall. "The concept is good, but we need more grit," Hamilton said. Hamilton also asked what the criteria would be for passing or failing the class. "Attendance more than anything will count to get credit," Grundman answered.

Grundman said the curriculum would be developed during the first four to five weeks of the class. Some of the possible topics for the class are sexual harassment and community issues. The class will be offered to all high school grades, with the idea that students taking the class each year will get a full credit by the end of their senior year.

The board unanimously approved the new class.

BEACONS

OF BLESSINGS

by REV. BRUCE HAMILTON

Twelve young people began what may very well be the adventure of their lives on Monday morning in Round Lake. They climbed up the gangway of the sailing vessel Inland Seas for a week's "educational" cruise. The quotes are there for a reason. They are not on board to sightsee or be entertained. They have come aboard to work and to learn.

Captain Kelly and his crew will teach their teenage charges about standing watches, rigging sails, and other basic ship handling techniques. They will learn to take weather observations out in mid lake and report them to a forecasting office. The stars will become more than points of light in the night sky. They will turn into signposts that will forever steer their newly aware acquaintances from one port in their lives to the next.

What intrigued me was learning about the diverse backgrounds that these young folks brought to this voyage. They are from all over the area. What will fascinate me even more is watching how they change from relative strangers on Monday to a family, a crew of friends, in their own right by journey's end.

Doubtless, there will be mistakes made. There will be things that the group's advisors will learn from as well and plan to do differently their next time out. But then again, that's why life is known as a "learning experience." The day we stop learning is when real problems begin.

I call this unique tall ship's mission to your attention to remind you of another group of twelve that was summoned together for an adventure long ago. Their leader was a tall tanned man who knew the ins and outs of life's challenges like the back of his hand for his teacher was the One who created them all. It was a diverse group that He sought to unify and fill with a spirit and a vision that would change their lives forever.

When they began their adventure, they were strangers to each other just like the young people on the Inland Seas. But over time and testing, they found they had more in common than they realized. They took advantage of their uniqueness and turned it into strength for even the most difficult moments. Leaders emerged who everyone looked up to. One even dropped out in frustration. Yet some 2,000 years later, you and I are still experiencing the benefits of their being willing to venture out in faith.

If God, through His son, could take carpenters, fishermen, doctors, and tax collectors and mold them into a team that would change the world, think of what He could do with more willing hearts today. In old fashioned gospel music, the church was called "the ship of Zion." Your ship awaits you. You probably already know where it's tied up. Climb aboard this Sunday morning and see what adventures our captain and His faithful crew of ministers have in store for you.

Senator's wife acts as eyes and ears for her husband

Michigan democrats face an uphill battle in the elections of the year 2016. How can they expect to compete when current republicans, such as U.S. Senator Spencer Abraham and his wife Jane and Michigan Governor John Engler and his wife Michelle, are producing future republican voters two and three at a time?

Jane Abraham and her two-year-old twin daughters Julie and Betsy visited Charlevoix this past Thursday. During the U.S. Senate's summer recess, Spencer Abraham is travelling up the east side of Michigan while Jane Abraham is travelling up the west side of the state.

Abraham was elected to the Senate last November. Jane Abraham said the Senate schedule has been chaos, consequently the Abrahams haven't been able to get back to Michigan for an extended period of time. Even with the recess, given the size of the state one person couldn't cover enough ground so Jane Abraham agreed to do some touring in an attempt to be an extra set of eyes and ears for her husband.

Abraham said one of the major things you're seeing now from her husband and others in the federal government is an effort to shrink the role of federal government and allow more decisions to be made at state and local levels.

"For the first time in a long time we're seeing an honest effort to dismantle some of this bureaucracy," Abraham said. She said her husband has been named to co-chair a committee which is assigned the task of dismantling ineffective sections of the federal government.

Abraham said there are 50 states with innovative ideas and if the federal government will let states experiment rather than burdening them with regulations and bureaucracy the end result will be better delivery of services.

Reducing the bureaucracy and scope of the federal government is part of the larger task of getting the budget of the federal government under control. "There's no bigger problem this country has to deal with right now than getting the budget under control," Abraham said. She said that some estimates claim that each child born in the United States currently will be expected to pay $187,000 to make interest payments on the national debt. Looking at her own two-year-olds scurrying around the room she said that's not something she's particularly thrilled about.

Abraham said businesses and local governments haven't been allowed to deficit spend. Consequently, they're used to making tough decisions about what they can and can't afford. Strange as it may seem to the average working person, some federal legislators are having a very difficult time making the transition to that way of thinking.

Abraham said that in order to make tough decisions that the people of Michigan are comfortable with, it's necessary for Senator Abraham and other legislators to find out exactly what people want and don't want from the federal government. Thus the Abrahams' tour of the state. "We're really out trying to get a sense of what (people's) priorities are," Abraham explained.

When the Senate reconvenes in September, people can expect to see welfare reform and the federal budget as the first things addressed. As time passes, another issue people can expect to see Spencer Abraham's name associated with is legal and regulatory reform.

Of her husband's involvement in legal reform, Abraham said, "He has made this a huge priority on his list of things to be involved in."

Among legal reform proposals likely to be discussed are having the loser pay their own and the other parties legal fees and changing the concept of joint and several liability in which the party with the deepest pockets is sometimes forced to pay significant portions of the damage award, even if they are only minimally at fault.

In regard to regulatory reform, Abraham said one of the things Senator Abraham wants to see is a cost analysis of new regulations to determine if the cost of the regulatory outweighs its benefits.

stride, along with the bountiful meals, loaded with french cheeses and pastries that resembled works of art.

Miller occasionally yearned to hold a conversation in English, despite her easy assimilation to French life. On one of her sightseeing trips she spotted an English speaking camera crew setting up for a modeling shoot. Miller was chatting happily with the crew when supermodel Claudia Schiffer stepped out, ready to go to work. Schiffer immediately struck up a conversation - in English - with Miller, then the two posed for a photo together.

Miller spent the last six days of her trip in Paris, where she packed in all the favorite sightseeing trips. She also found time for shopping in Paris, where she noticed the fashions were quite a bit ahead of the American fashion scene. Miller came home with stack heeled, metallic gold sneakers, a tight, black French mini skirt, and a traditional beret. Pat Miller hardly recognized her daughter when she stepped off the plane in Detroit, looking like a typical French teenager.

Miller plans to continue studying French in her last year of high school, then pursue a college degree in French. "I want to be fluent when I'm done," Miller said.

Re-elected to three-year terms on the nine-member board were Warner Cheyne, a Grayling electrician, 3,271 votes; Fred P. Foltz, a Petoskey farmer, 3,244 votes; and Frederick F. Vermeersch, a Central Lake farmer, 3,282 votes.

A total of 3,621 ballots were cast by members of the customer-owned electric cooperative. The total also includes ballots by mail and by proxy.

Top O' Michigan serves more than 44,000 customers in Charlevoix, Emmet, Antrim, Otsego, Kalkaska, Crawford and six other counties.

School discusses garbage bids

by Laurie Lounsbury

With competition growing in the waste collection business, the Charlevoix Board of Education had to weigh their options carefully before awarding the refuse collection bid to Waste Management Inc.

Waste Management wasn't the only bidder for the job of garbage collection this year. They also weren't the low bid. Tom Rankl, of Top Rank Disposal, came in with a monthly bid for collection that was $2.48 lower than Waste Management's bid. Rankl's bid totaled $815.74 a month, with Waste Management's bid at $818.22.

The school board decided to award the bid to Waste Management because they have been satisfied with their performance in the past, and because Top Rank is new to the industry and has no track record.

Rankl was rankled with their decision. Rankl went before the board at their last meeting to discuss the matter. "I think your rationale was unjust and it compromises the bidding process... It is unfair to the public to disregard the low bid," Rankl said.

Board member Larry Levensgood pointed out that the board policy for accepting bids is to take the lowest and the most responsible bid. "I'm not a believer in always taking the low bid," Levensgood said.

Rankl told the board that his bid included recycling, and that his company would accept a greater variety of recyclable materials than Waste Management currently accepts. Jim Hahn, account executive for Waste Management, said that his company's bid didn't include recycling because that wasn't part of the bid request.

Board members Steve Czerkes and Ardith Wieland favored the idea of recycling. "The possibility of recycling needs to be supported any way we can," Wieland said.

Since the board had awarded the bid to Waste Management at their last meeting, the decision couldn't be changed unless a board member moved to re-visit the issue. No board members made a motion to reconsider the bid.

Deer baiting will be allowed to continue

Following hours of public testimony and a final tally of 7,134 cards and letters submitted to the Department of Natural Resources on the question of hunting deer over bait, DNR Director Roland Harmes has announced his decision regarding baiting in the 1996 deer hunting season.

"We carefully reviewed the testimony and correspondence of those who attended citizen input meetings or wrote letters," Harmes explained. "Most people expressing opinions indicated that they did not support restricting or banning baiting. I then consulted with the Natural Resources Commission and the experts in our Wildlife and Law Enforcement Divisions."

"After listening to various viewpoints and weighing the options, I have decided that there will be no changes at this time regarding the practice of hunting deer over bait."

Harmes added, however, that he is taking action to address concerns related to territorial conflicts between hunters.

"Public testimony convinced me that the primary problems area associated with hunters occupying permanent hunting blinds on public lands," Harmes noted. "Therefore, I hereby adopt the recommendation of our Wildlife and Law Enforcement Divisions that construction and use of permanent hunting blinds on all state and federally owned public lands be prohibited as

Businesses will fondly recall summer of 1995

by L. Scott Swanson

As Labor Day weekend approaches and summer concludes, Charlevoix business people are reporting that from a business perspective the summer of 1995 was one of the best ever.

"It was a phenomenal year. By far the best. Big time summer," Terry Left of the Villager Pub reported.

A few doors down, Kit Foster of Bridge Street Bookshop said, "We had a great year. We were way up over last year."

Jacqueline Mabce of The Clothing Company concurred. "We had a good year, a little up from last year which was also good."

Chuck Whitney of Whitney's of Charlevoix said, "I think it was the best summer in five years, by far."

Fred DiMartino of Trademark Clothiers said, "We had a real good year this year. I think there were more people in town than I've ever seen."

Different business people cited different reasons for the summer's success. Mabce, DiMartino and Whitney said the warm weather, not so much in Charlevoix, but in the cities played a role in bringing people to Charlevoix.

"They were sweltering, so they got out of the city," Whitney said of summer tourists. DiMartino said that heat forced people out of pavement areas and chased them to resort areas.

DiMartino also said the fact that the domestic auto industry is doing so well and has everybody working also helps northern Michigan.

Foster said that since the book store has only been in business for a couple of years, it's difficult to say with certainty whether the reason sales are up this year over last year is because this has been a good year in general or because of natural growth in a new business.

Other possible factors are modifications in the business and new businesses surrounding it. Foster said that in addition to books, the shop has been selling cigars. He said that this summer, cigars were a hot item - no pun intended. Sweet Sam's Java Joint also moved next to the book store and Foster felt that helped. The Beacon Center Complex now has a coffee shop, book store and music store. Foster said that in cities it's not uncommon to see that combination work well.

Left said that this summer he modified the operation of the Villager Pub and Great Lakes Whitefish and kind of combined the operations. He said that worked out very well.

Whitney said that with the Parkside Restaurant not operating this summer, money that would have gone there went into other restaurants.

Even though a good summer is winding down, business people aren't complaining about its end. Instead, they're looking forward to fall.

"I'm optimistic," Mabce said about the prospects for fall retail sales.

"I think fall's going to be great," DiMartino predicted.

Holiday moves up deadlines

Due to the Labor Day holiday, Monday, Sept. 4, deadlines for the Sept. 6 Courier will be moved up.

Deadlines will be as follows: Classified and display advertising Friday, Sept. 1 at 10 a.m. News, Friday, Sept. 1 at noon.

The Courier staff wishes you all a safe and happy holiday.

Charlevoix has had a busy summer with lots of people coming and going both on land and sea. Business people report that summer sales in 1995 were exceptional. One of the prevailing theories is that hot weather prompted people to leave the cities and spend more time in northern Michigan communities where there are plenty of lakes and more grass than pavement. County commissioners adopt new salary schedule

County commissioners granted several county employees four percent pay increases for longevity at their Aug. 23 meeting and also granted larger pay increases to the friend of the court, sheriff and probate court administrator.

Some county department heads appeared at the meeting to complain that a study county commissioners hired a private firm named

Plante-Moran to do indicated the raises should have been higher. County commissioners don't feel the study covered all of the ground that they expected it to and consequently said that although it was used as a reference in determining wages, it was not the only factor considered.

County treasurer Joan Balch said that the study indicates that the average salary for county treasurers is $37,000, while in Charlevoix County the salary is $33,000. County commissioner chairman Don Smith said there are a number of variables between counties. Among those variables are hours worked per week, benefits, staffing levels and tasks performed. Smith and other commissioners said these items were things they don't feel were adequately addressed in the Plante-Moran study.

County planner Larry Sullivan said that an indication of whether or not Charlevoix County salaries are competitive with other counties is the number of applicants the county receives when positions are open. If the county is not getting a fair number of applications, that would indicate the salary range is not up where it should be, Sullivan maintained. Currently the county has an opening for an equalization director and has received three applications.

Smith said he feels the salary structure adopted places Charlevoix in the mid-range for northern Michigan counties. In his discussion with Balch, he also sought to link private sector to public sector salaries.

"With your experience as a county treasurer," Smith said to Balch, "let me put this to you. Could you go out and to work in a bank or accounting firm or something like that and earn a salary of $33,000 a year, plus the health benefits that you have with Charlevoix County?"

Balch replied, "Gee, I sure would hope so. After 28 years, I sure would hope so."

Commissioners said they gave larger pay increases to the sheriff, probate court administrator and friend of the court because of the tasks their jobs entail, stress and number of employees supervised.

Balch said she felt areas of county employment outside of the judicial system also should have been recognized by the commissioners.

Pool road constructed

Spurred by the threat of more rain, Ken Mousseau revved up his K&J Excavating company equipment before dawn Saturday to put in the long awaited gravel road to the site of the Charlevoix Community Pool on US 31 North.

"Mousseau planned to build the road this week so we're very pleased that it's in ahead of schedule," said David Strawbridge, president of Charlevoix Friends of the Pool, sponsors of the indoor pool.

According to Laura Smith, pool administrator for CFOP, the next step is pouring the shell for the pool which is scheduled for later this week by Acme Pool Company.

The organization is continuing to seek construction funds to add to those being held by Charlevoix County Community Foundation. Questions about the pool may be referred to Smith at 547-0982.

OPINIONS

Editor's notes

Several Charlevoix students have already left for college and many are leaving this week. For students headed to college for the first time, here's a little advice.

Students who are one-semester wonders often suffer from one of two problems. The first is obvious. They go to college and party 'til they drop and fail to study and take care of business. The other problem isn't so obvious. Students go to college and become hermits. All they do is study and stay in their room and watch TV. They don't get out and meet people and do things. When they spend life that way, they quickly become lonely, bored and homesick.

College freshmen from Charlevoix, I say unto you, somewhere between being a party monster and a monk, there is a happy middle ground. Find it! If you're spending more time at parties and bars than in classrooms and libraries, this is not good. On the other hand, if within about three weeks you don't know the names of all of the people in the dorm rooms or apartment units surrounding your room or apartment, that's not good either.

And don't feel like you're going to be overwhelmed because you grew up in a small town in northern Michigan. The first few weeks a college campus seems like a big place to a lot of people, regardless of where they're from. But give yourself a semester or two and you'll be surprised how well you learn the ropes.

Get out of the dugout. Grab a bat and get in the game of higher learning. Hold your head high. Step up to the academic plate. Take your cuts and do us proud kid. Back here at home, we're pulling for you.

L. Scott Swanson

Along the same lines, fall sports are beginning. One of the areas where high school sports has improved tremendously in recent years is that they're becoming a vehicle for kids from different towns to meet one another and form friendships. At one time, players from other communities were viewed as the enemy, both on and off the field. Now, it seems like players and coaches have made strides toward realizing that you can play hard against somebody on the field without carrying any ill-will off the field.

A number of things have probably led to this improved interaction. A lot of high school athletes are now attending summer camps together and getting to know each other there. Other sports are simply more conducive to meeting people from other teams. In sports like football and basketball, there usually isn't that much time before or after a game to mingle with people from the other team. In sports like golf, cross country or track, players have time before and after a match or race to get together and talk. And many of the players are taking advantage of that.

The development of friendships between players from neighboring communities is a very healthy thing. When kids go off to college, one of the first things they find is that the kid from East Jordan, Boyne City or Petoskey who used to be the opponent is now somebody who they've got a lot more in common with than people from distant schools. It's not long before players who spent four years in high school crashing into each other on the football field or the basketball court are sharing rides home on the weekend.

Business people are claiming that this summer was one of the best ever from a business perspective. (See story on page 1.) One of the reasons they're citing is the warm weather. But something else which shouldn't be overlooked is that many businesses in Charlevoix have modified their operations in a continuing effort to improve the merchandise and services they offer. Some of these modifications have been major such as building a new theater, opening a new restaurant, remodeling an auto parts store. Others have been minor, perhaps adding a new line of shirts or upgrading computer software. Whatever the improvements have been, Charlevoix business people have done a nice job over the years of keeping their operations reasonably current. Granted, geographically we're blessed in this town. But if we're going to continue to do well economically, the business community has to stay hungry and not get complacent. Hot weather or not, this summer's success indicates that local businesses are continuing to be innovative and maintain their edge.

Accidents point out the importance of water safety

Editor,

Once again the area has experienced a tragic drowning, "Youth Drowns Swimming at Sturgeon Bay," Petoskey News-Review, August 22, 1995. This latest incident and the near drowning off our Lake Michigan Beach earlier this summer probably share the same basis. Drownings and near drownings of competent swimmers are often precipitated by over-confidence in their own abilities and under-estimation of aquatic hazards. Similarly, risks continually encountered in our region's cold water are frequently discounted and/or misunderstood, especially by those who live here and should know better.

The building of a community pool in Charlevoix might not cure all the foregoing. But, it would certainly give us a good start for advancing public awareness and training for regionalized water safety. Many who would say such an opportunity are probably unaware that the field of water accident avoidance has markedly improved in the last few years. For instance, on a national basis drownings have decreased by almost 40 percent since 1980, — but more needs to be done.

A community pool provides a viable point for introduction of new, vital and proven safety information and techniques into our own and our children's lives; not to mention all of its other year-round attributes for recreation, conditioning and physical therapy for all age groups.

Investment in a community pool is a relatively cheap form of insurance. If you doubt this, consider those who still and will grieve over totally needless and highly avoidable water deaths.

Respectfully,
Dave S. Smith, Ph.D.

Camp McSauba wraps up a great year

Editor,

Another summer of Camp McSauba is in the memory book for many who attended our daycamp in previous years. At the end of each week there were several kids begging their parents to let them go back to camp again the next week.

This year we had some children attend every session of the summer! We were blessed with the presence of 392 campers this summer with some weeks taking over our limit of 50 kids. There were also many who were turned down. Next year we are looking to fill every session and we think it is a realistic goal, so just to be safe — get those applications in early next year!

At this time I would like to thank the many organizations and individuals that funded our program. Without their help our camp would not be possible. I would also like to take this time to thank my hardworking staff for everything they've done.

After a beautiful, hot, and busy summer we are ready to hit the sketchboard for new ideas next summer.

Have a great year and we'll see you again next summer!

Sincerely,
Meg Fowler
Camp Director

School looks at ways to improve

by Dixie Darling Ashton

Charlevoix and Boyne Falls Public Schools recently sent their teachers, support staff, administrators, and some board of education members and parent volunteers back to school early. Their mission: continue training in the Quality Schools Project.

Jane Bailey, Professional Development Coordinator for CharEm Intermediate School District, was impressed with the 135 school employees and community members from Charlevoix and Boyne Falls who willingly gave up a week of their summer to continue their focus on what entire school communities want for their district: excellence in education.

According to Bailey, "The power and excitement of the conversations between parents and educators was phenomenal. They talked about what really matters in education: working together as a team to help all students successfully achieve quality in their learning. Now, that's a commitment that can't help but make a positive difference in the education of our youth."

Charlevoix and Boyne Falls School Districts agreed last year to make a two-year commitment to join forces with parents, community members, and school personnel to work together toward the common goal of excellence in education for all. Core team representatives from each district will again attend five two-day Partners for Quality Learning Workshops throughout the 1995-96 school year followed by another week-long training for all interested parents and school employees next summer.

In keeping with the philosophy of the nationwide Quality Learning Program, Dr. William J. Smith, Executive Director and presenter, emphasizes, "We believe that quality and excellence are within the grasp of all students and staff. Everybody's involved with the school improvement process."

Mary Lieberman was part of a group of Charlevoix teachers, administrators and parents who attended a school improvement seminar last week.

When at last the summer tension
And the summer heat relax
It's a bumper to have to mention
And to pay that summer tax.

FAMILY

Returning to school today isn't the same as in the past

by Anne Kelly
Charlevoix Elementary students will reenact the annual back-to-school drama next week. When they do, they will arrive at a sprawling, modern building. They will be welcomed by a team of 30 teachers into cheery, carpeted classrooms. They will be learning from colorfully illustrated texts, state-of-art visual aids, and technological equipment which would surely have made the eyes of their great-grandparents pop. Gone forever are the long rows of interconnected desks. Non-existent is the pot-bellied wood-burning stove. There may be a pigtail or two, but there is not one inkwell to be found. And where is the school marm in her one-room school house?

Five miles out on Barnard Road, the ghosts of school days past resurrect for a brief morning in the late spring. They skip rope and bob for apples with fourth graders who have learned to appreciate the rural subtleties of their heritage as part of a study of local Michigan history. Well-scrubbed boys, with their hair slicked back and sporting knickers and a belt load of books, run across the field and through the woods as the school bell clangs its greeting. Little girls, with bonnets and pig-tails flying, skip hand-in-hand to join the parade. It is Little House On The Prairie in Northern Michigan, the turn of the century and the country schoolhouse lives again. The sole teacher, hair in a neat bun, conscientiously checks for dirty hands on the mischievous boys, and cordially greets the practiced politeness of the young ladies. The tinkle of the little, brass, come-to-order bell, and school is about to begin. Songbooks and slates, a McGuffey reader, or two, recitations and sums, spelling bees, reports and recess mark the reenactment.

The days of lunch pails and high-buttoned boots are well behind us now; the sophistication of the present is the crowning glory of progress. But there is more than a bit of nostalgia here, that a hundred years of curriculum development, educational trends and state mandates cannot erase from the slate.

Ah yes the country schoolhouse; where teachers were strict, children were respectful and parents punished misdemeanors at home after the knuckles of misconduct had already been rapped at school. When a school teacher's job description included stoking the stove and making the noontime soup.

This past May, the combined fourth grade classes of Anne Kelly and Mary Ann Chew enjoyed a morning spent at the Barnard Grange, reenacting a typical day in a one-room country school house as part of their study of Michigan history.

Students returning to school next week will find a different atmosphere from the one-room schools of days past. Last May, a group of Charlevoix fourth graders took a step back in time as they spent a day at the Barnard Grange experiencing what life was like in a one-room school.

BEACONS

by REV. BRUCE HAMILTON

Eighteen years ago this week, I got to skip out on Sunday morning church. It's one of the few times that this pastor did not make his scheduled appointment to preach. We knew that "it" might happen at any time. We just really didn't think about "it" happening on Sunday. The "it" I am referring to is the birth of our first child.

It was back in the days when fathers were not allowed to go into the delivery rooms with expectant mothers. I was the only one in the maternity waiting room. The pool table had no balls or cue sticks to play with. I'd have given anything for a good old-fashioned John Wayne flick. The television had nothing but preachers on to watch. It took from the wee hours of the morning until almost 1 o'clock in the afternoon before the news came. And even then, the doctor wouldn't tell me if it was a boy or a girl. He said, "Wait for your wife to tell you."

The little girl she introduced me to swaddled in green sheets has become a young woman now. It seems like only yesterday that I had her on the seat on the back of my bike peddling to the grocery store near the seminary. I remember her first tentative toots on the flute in sixth grade band. She looked so grand in costume for "Oh Freedom," her first performing arts drama. And I will never forget the shared joy of handing her her high school diploma.

I looked in on her while she was sleeping one night. In some ways, she'll always be my baby. But now, it's time for her to make the leap of faith into her first great adventure of her own. She is heading to Anderson University in Indiana and a future full of promise and hope. Her mother and I have done our best to give her a strong foundation to build her life on. What's next is up to her.

Have you ever thought about what it means to God to be your heavenly Father? He has known about you long before you were even a twinkle in your parents' eyes. He shared in the excitement they had when you made your entrance into this world. He may have even had one or two angels looking out for you during the inevitable adventures every young child experiences.

Make no mistake about it. He took pride in your accomplishments. He was there in the midst of your hurts. Everything He possibly could do to ensure that you got a decent start in life was set before you. But some things He could not decide for you. There comes a point where we are all too aware of the difference between right and wrong or good and evil. There comes a point where the choice to follow Him or go it alone is entirely up to us. That's why He gave us Jesus. He shows us that even hard choices can have good endings. He proves that faith really works. I've told you my tale. I have faith in God's handling of the future. If you've done your best, never forget that your heavenly Father stands ready to take care of the rest.

(Rev. Bruce Hamilton is pastor of the Charlevoix Community Church of God. Beacons of Blessings is provided to the Courier by Hamilton and other members of the Charlevoix Ministerial Association.)

Church to host carnival

Wednesday, Aug. 30 the Charlevoix Reformed Church invites all children (4 yrs.-6th grade) and their parents to a free Carnival and Magic show. The carnival and food booths will be open 5 - 6:15 p.m. at the church on the corner of Meech St. and Petoskey Ave. Games, prizes, and a hot dog/bratwurst supper will be provided.

At 6:30 p.m. Shawn R. Jacob will present his Illusion Show: "Seeing is Believing" in the sanctuary of the church.

"Seeing is Believing" explores God's call for us to be active with our faith. Chock full of visual illusions and tricks, comedy and plenty of audience participation, Jacob shares personal experiences and Bible stories to illustrate God's call to put our faith into action. To show people that we believe.

A graduate of Hope College, with a degree in Psychology and Religion, Jacob is the founder and former co-owners of Jacob's Ladder Christian Music & Video, downtown Holland, Michigan. In addition, he was the 1991 recipient of the Sloan-Stegeman Mission Prize for witness in the field of Christian world service and mission. A free-will offering will be taken. For more information call the church office at 547-9482.

The triumphant return of America's football contest

It's back! Michigan's greatest football contest north of Ellsworth and south of Bay Shore. If the Dallas Cowboys and Atlanta Braves can claim to be "America's Team," then we might as well just declare the Courier contest to be "America's Football Contest."

The rules are simple and they're outlined in the contest. As we did last year, we'll be running the names of the top 10 prophets as the season goes along. At the end of the season, we'll also be running a special list with the top 10 people who entered every week.

Following, are the Courier Guru's picks for the opening week of 1995:

Charlevoix at St. Ignace. Charlevoix is bigger and stronger this year, but St. Ignace has also improved. Charlevoix is looking to bounce back from 3-6 seasons the past two years, but they'll have to start bouncing after the opening game. Pick - St. Ignace.

Petoskey at West Branch. Petoskey lost some good players off last year's team, but at the moment they have a better program than West Branch. Pick - Petoskey.

Cheboygan at Alpena. An east coast battle. Cheboygan became a power in the late '70s and is still a power. Pick - Cheboygan.

U of M at Illinois. This is a tough one to call. Despite Michigan's fourth quarter rally in the opener, I'm still not that impressed with Dreisbach. He was throwing up the ball and Hayes was making him look good. Pick - Illinois.

Miami at UCLA. The Miami Hooligans...oops. Hurricanes against the Stokesless Bruins. Miami, despite allegations of various forms of mischief, still can play the game while the PAC-10 has been weak in recent years. Pick - Miami.

Colorado at Wisconsin. Both teams lost some good players off last year's teams. Colorado even lost their coach. This one should be interesting. Pick - Wisconsin.

Detroit at Pittsburgh. This is a great early season game. Pittsburgh's offensive line will show whether or not Detroit's defensive line has really improved. This may be unfounded optimism, but... Pick - Detroit.

Cleveland at New England. Bill Parcell is putting together a sound team at New England, but one of his former assistants, Bill Belichick had a head start at Cleveland. Pick - Cleveland.

Minnesota at Chicago. Some people are picking Chicago to win the NFC Central, but it ain't gonna happen. Chicago has some weaknesses in their offensive line. Pick - Minnesota.

San Diego at Oakland. While the geographic move has gotten all the attention, the important moves in Oakland have been what they've done on draft day during the past couple of years. Firing Art Shell was questionable, but other than that, they've done a lot of things right. Pick - Oakland.

BASKETBALL

After losing four of five starters from last year's conference and district championship team, some people might consider this a rebuilding year for coach Joe Powers and the Charlevoix girls' varsity basketball team. But rebuilding isn't such a painful task, provided you've got the right construction materials.

Powers has 11 players on this year's Rayder team: seven seniors, one junior and three sophomores. And testifying to the strength of the entire Rayder girls' basketball program, there are no stiff among them. Powers can and will send any of his players out on the floor at any time without having to worry about being embarrassed.

Looking at this year's team in preseason workouts, Powers says, "We're a decent team and the question is whether we can be a real good team or not. And I think it's something we can do."

To say Powers emphasizes defense is an understatement. The Rayders employ five different presses. Other teams don't attack the Rayder defense. The Rayder defense attacks them - attacks them constantly from the opening tip until the final buzzer. Played with proper intensity, the Rayder defense not only forces opponents into physical and mental errors, it creates an atmosphere of chaos which leaves other teams bewildered and in which the Rayders thrive. But the key is intensity.

"We don't have that intensity level yet," Powers said, as he watched his team running wind sprints. But he added, "I think we're going to get it."

One player Powers doesn't have to worry about in terms of intensity is senior forward Liz Kelly. Kelly, a three-year starter on the varsity team doesn't just guard an offensive player. She locks onto a target. Although only 5-5, Kelly is quick, coordinated, aggressive and if the Hubble telescope was as focused as she is, astronomers would be reading newspapers at the edge of the universe.

Another senior at a forward position will be Kris Blanchard. Blanchard also is an intense player. Although she only lists at 5-6, she plays taller. She has a soft shot around the basket and is particularly good in the transition game, anticipating passes on defense, stepping in to steal the ball and scoring well on the fly.

The third senior currently in the starting line-up is Jenni Swenor. She was one of the first players off the bench last year. Swenor has good shooting range, strong hands and maintains her composure handling the ball under pressure.

The other two spots in the starting line-up are filled by sophomores. Lisa Parrish, a 5-9 forward, spent much of her freshman season with the varsity. She's strong, but despite her size and strength has a soft shooting touch in the paint.

Shooting in traffic doesn't bother her in the least. Sophomore Amanda Eaton is starting at point guard. Eaton is an excellent athlete - strong, fast and coordinated. Fortunately, she's also smart because at point guard, she's going to be required to make a lot of decisions.

So far, Powers likes how she's handling the position. "In my system, point guard is by far the hardest position. And she's doing wonderfully at it."

Playing at the pace the Rayders play requires a deep bench.

Senior Christie Kaczynski is 5-9. She has long arms and moves her feet well making her a good shot blocker and rebounder. Last year, she had a tendency to play light (i.e. too timid and passive), but in preseason practices this year she's begun to be more aggressive.

Senior Traci Allison is a stabilizing force, doing nothing spectacular, but several things well. Powers describes her as being "about as steady as steady can be."

Senior Beth Norton is kind of a "tweener, a little on the short side for a forward, a little slow for a guard. Her strengths are her ability to score and get and maintain good rebounding position. She's always had a nice scoring touch around the basket and this year she's improved her shooting range so that she's now a threat to step out and hit three point shots.

Ann Marie Terryberry is another sophomore on the varsity. Like Eaton and Kelly, she's an exceptional athlete. In the open court, she has blazing speed. The challenge for her is consistency.

Jenny Eveleigh is the team's only junior. In regard to basketball, Eveleigh brings to mind Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde. Off the court, she's one of the most pleasant people you could ever hope to meet; polite, always a hello and a smile. On the court, if other players don't enjoy getting bumped, thumped or completely run over, then they best just stay out of the way. And she's got some skills to go with the physical part of her game.

Sherry Gels is a senior who will see some time at both guard and forward. Gels lurks around the edge of the paint. If a defender doesn't play her honest, she has a nice soft midrange shot and makes them pay.

"We're definitely multi dimensional in our offensive scheme," Powers says. "In my three years, this will definitely be our best offensive team."

Aside from establishing the defensive intensity, Powers says the team's toughest assignment is going to be getting together as a team. "We've got to get everybody on the same page," he says.

Powers expects his own team and Kalkaska to be among those fighting for the league title. Other teams which could also end up in the chase are Traverse City St. Francis, Harbor Springs and East Jordan.

Charlevoix's varsity football team only has 23 players this season, but you win based on quality of players, not quantity.

Another critical factor governing a team's success is the play in the trenches. Head coach Roger Gowell says this year's Rayders are stronger in the offensive and defensive lines than what they've been in the past few seasons. Among the linemen expected to play key roles are Bruce Reinhart, Josh Skeel and Mike Rautio. Reinhart is a senior while the other two are juniors with varsity experience last year. None of the three has seen the short side of 200 pounds in a while. Reinhart and Skeel are also weight room intensive and athletically versatile. Reinhart is one of the state's best heavyweight wrestlers. Skeel slings a big piece of lead for distance in track.

Gowell also has a more experienced backfield this season. Mark Boss and Jason Terryberry are competing for the quarterback position. Boss looks like he will be starting to begin the season. When Terryberry's not seeing time in the offensive backfield, he's likely to be seeing time in the defensive backfield.

The Rayders have a nice stable of running backs. Rory McKeown, a senior, and Bob Anzell, a junior, have been providing the power at fullback. Scott Smith and Gary Leitner are the running backs. Smith and Leitner also have been putting in time on defense, Smith in the defensive backfield and Leitner at linebacker.

Gowell says the Rayders have a good defensive secondary this year. Along with Smith and Terryberry, Jason Smith and David Manker have been playing well.

Charlevoix opens their season Friday at St. Ignace and is looking to better the 3-6 mark they've had for the past two seasons. Gowell said he expects Traverse City St. Francis, Boyne City and East Jordan to be among the Rayders' toughest league foes.

CROSS COUNTRY

Boys' cross country team has lots of new faces

This year's Charlevoix boys' cross country team is having a youth movement.

As coach Ken Plude says, "We were third in the state last year and we graduate 10 seniors and not a slow one in the bunch."

Charlevoix has only one returning runner with experience in a regional or state meet. That's senior Justin Davis.

But before you shed any tears of sympathy, bear in mind that this is the Charlevoix boys' cross country program - owner of seven Class C state titles and one of the premier high school athletic programs in Michigan.

The reason the returning runners don't have experience in big meets isn't because they're slow. It's because they were running behind all-state teammates. This year, it's their time to shine.

Plude says his returning runners did well this summer and put in a lot of miles. Along with Davis, who finished in the top 35 at last year's state meet, are juniors Brian Martinus, Nate Martin, Marc Dohm and senior Patrick Butcher. Martinus has a long fluid stride. To a degree, so does Dohm. Butcher's also on the tall, lean side. Martin and Davis have more compact running styles.

Dan Keehn, another senior, is running cross country for the first time this year. Plude says Keehn has been running well in practice and looks like he will fill in a spot on the varsity squad.

The rest of the squad is either inexperienced, young or both. Mike Post, Nathan Jones and Bill Parton are upper classmen, but still need to get some race experience. Juliene Pignon is a French exchange student.

The team has five freshmen. Plude says it's way too early to even guess how they're going to do. The freshmen are Jeff Popenhagen, Devon Post, Matt Campbell, Andrew Moats and Mike Czerkes.

Plude says defending champion Carson City Crystal has to be considered the favorite in Class C. They lost their top runner to graduation, but are returning everybody else. Charlevoix competes in the state's toughest region. Last year, Charlevoix, East Jordan and Benzie Central came out of the region to finish third, fourth and fifth at the state meet. Plude expects East Jordan and Benzie Central to be tough again this year.

Girls' cross country team has set high goals

Head coach Ken Plude and assistant coach Paul Gelderblom say this year's team is the hardest working crew of girls Charlevoix has had. Plude's wife, Mary, a world class runner, has been working with the team and says the girls are anxious to progress as quickly as possible. Some of the girls on the team make no secret of their goal. They'll tell you very bluntly that in the next two years, they want to win a Class C state championship. Seven banners for boys' state championships hang on the walls of Charlevoix high schools. Some extremely strong-willed young ladies have it in their minds that a banner for a girls' state championship should be added to the collection.

Last year's Charlevoix team placed tenth at the state meet despite losing their top runner to exhaustion midway through the race. This year's team has seven returning runners, six of them with varsity experience.

Chelsea Gorkiewicz is a junior who was all state both athletically and academically as a sophomore. She placed 17th at last year's state finals meet. Pushing Gorkiewicz and having the potential to join her as all state runners are junior Rachael Newcomb and sophomore Candice VanderGriff. Monica Browe was also one of the Rayders' top five runners last season and continues to improve.

Other returning runners are Liz Andreae, Sarah VanLoo and Candy Siwarga.

Tricia Kelly, Staci Borths, Johanna Moore, Meg Spang and Jessa VanGuilder are out for cross country for the first time.

The team also has five freshmen:

Jessica Corey, Tricia Hodge, Allison Kujawski, Kelly McFarlin, Tonia Peterson and Alyssa Westenbroek.

Plude expects Clare to again be one of the better teams in the state. Closer to home, he says Elk Rapids always has a good team. At the regionals, Clare, Bear Lake, Benzie Central and perhaps Suttons Bay should be Charlevoix's main competition.

Soccer team has talent, but needs consistency

Charlevoix boys' soccer coach Mike Dennis feels that in the three years Charlevoix has had a varsity soccer program, this is the most talented team they've put on the field. How well the team does with that talent remains to be seen.

This past weekend in the season's opening tournament at Leland the Rayders opened the tournament with a 7-1 loss to the host team, but then came back to beat Reed City 9-0 in the consolation game.

"It's kind of a Dr. Jekyll and Mr.

Hyde (situation)," Dennis said of his team. "Whoever shows up."

Something the team does have going for them this year is better conditioning early in the season. In order to play in the Leland tournament, players had to run a mile in 6:30 or less. "All of them reported in better shape this year," Dennis says.

In addition to their physical condition, Dennis is also pleased with his team's attitude. He says this year's seniors are the best he's had for assuming a leadership role and encouraging the less experienced players.

Among the key players on this year's team will be halfbacks Noel Kammermann, Jason Firman and Steve Carland. All three are tall, lanky players who run well. Anchoring the back row at fullback will be Seth Kilander. Kilander is a senior with speed to burn. In the front row on right wing will be sophomore Josh Dennis. Senior Cam Carr is back at goal tender, but he will also be able to play more in the field this year due to the development of the Rayders' other goal tender, Drew Belding. Chris Mikulski is perhaps the most versatile player on the team. Dennis says he will move Mikulski all around and have him playing everywhere but in the goal.

A couple of new players who are looking like they can make a contribution are Josh Miller and Chad Allen.

Dennis says that from a tactical standpoint this year's Rayders will play more of a controlled game with a lot of passing, as opposed to kicking long, running and shooting whenever the goal is in sight. He said the team will use the goalie more to start the offense and then set things up for a good shot.

Charlevoix has an 18 game schedule. In the district tournament, the Rayders will be matched against Suttons Bay, Harbor Springs and Elk Rapids.

"I think we'll do well," Dennis said. "Elk Rapids is probably the favorite, but Suttons Bay or us, either one of us, could look to win it."

GOLF

Golf team looks to defend titles

Despite losing several players to graduation, the Charlevoix High School golf team still has a great shot at defending their conference and regional titles.

"We're looking real good," second year coach Jim Glynn said of his team.

The team has two returning seniors, Brad Eaton and Scott Blechel. Eaton has been all conference for three years and Blechel was all conference and all region last year.

"They're my heart and soul," Glynn said. "They're my leadership. We'll build around them."

Glynn said Eaton has been a bit inconsistent early this year, but he has a knack of playing well when the pressure's on. Blechel is a strong golfer and hits accordingly. He's already playing well and shows the potential to play even better. "He could explode," Glynn says.

Juniors Dan Pardee and Bob Sommerfeld are also playing well. Pardee's a good athlete who's still growing and becoming bigger and stronger. Glynn says both have a good work ethic which is expediting their improvement.

Ryan Murdick and Jason Vincent are sophomores on the varsity. Glynn says that despite being young, both are making steady progress early in the season.

Glynn says that as the season progresses, the names on the varsity and junior varsity may change. In golf, the coach has the luxury of having a completely objective way of determining who plays varsity in matches. The people turning in the best scores go varsity, the rest go junior varsity - plain and simple.

Glynn says he has some younger players pushing for varsity spots. Freshman Keith Grunch has been playing well and is looking for a varsity spot. R.J. Stebe, another freshman, and Jon Browe are also strong and can hit long. They're both looking for consistency and a balanced overall game to cut their scores.

The team practices and plays at the Belvedere Golf Course, but also occasionally practices at the Charlevoix Municipal Course. This season, the Charlevoix Country Club has also invited the team to do some practice work on their course. Glynn said local golf pros Dave Paquette, Joan Waha and Bruce Schepler have all been extremely gracious in sharing their expertise with the high school team. Glynn said having that variety of expertise has worked out great for the players. Like any athletes or instructors, golf pros each have their own styles and teaching methods. Different players progress better with different pros. With three pros helping them, each Charlevoix golfer is finding someone who helps them take their game to the next level.

Glynn says that with the technical advice the golfers are receiving from area pros, he stays away from giving the players technical advice. Instead, he makes sure the players are working hard, have a positive attitude, play smart, conduct themselves responsibly and work as a team. It's a philosophy that worked for the team last year, and Glynn expects it to work again this year.

Romance of Red Fox Regatta leads couple to marriage

by Laurie Lounsbury

Scott Shepard wasn't looking for any summer romance last year. He was fed up with dating, tired of summer sizzle that always turned to a fall fizzle. He spent last summer content with working and sailing in Charlevoix during the Wednesday night races. Shepard was a veteran crew member on Jack Begrow's boat, the Mint Julep.

Ruth Music was working as a design assistant for Begrow last summer. She knew little of sailing, but it sounded like fun, so when Begrow invited her to race on his boat, she said yes. Music was a single parent, having been divorced for more than a decade. She had pretty much given up on the idea of finding Mr. Right.

When Music met Shepard on the boat, one thought quickly flashed through her mind. "He was gorgeous, but I could see we had an age difference, so I didn't pay any attention to him," Music said.

The two sailed together week after week on the Mint Julep. Shepard taught Music about the finer points of sailing. "I guess that impressed her, I'm not sure," Shepard said. Music was impressed. "He was really sweet. He taught me a lot of the crucial things about sailing," she said.

Still, the relationship remained platonic.

On the evening of the last yacht club race last year, the Mint Julep found itself near the back of the pack, doing poorly in the very light winds. Begrow threw in the towel and dropped out of the race. Instead, he took his crew to dinner at the Landing. It was a casual experience that offered Music and Shepard a chance to chat and get to know each other better. The crew sailed back to Charlevoix after dinner. Shepard and Music found themselves alone together, walking back to their respective cars after the race. Shepard asked Music if she'd like to go for some ice cream downtown. She said yes.

The following weekend was the historic Red Fox Regatta race. After the triangle races on Friday night, Shepard again asked Music to go for ice cream. They ate their cones in East Park, looking out on Round Lake. "I kissed her for the first time by the trout pond," Shepard said. As they raced in the Red Fox Regatta last year, they knew their relationship was starting to move past the platonic stage. "I figured out he was very different than anyone I'd ever dated," Music said.

Exactly one year after that fateful kiss by the trout pond, Ruth Music and Scott Shepard were married. The first little kiss took place by a small pond, but the marriage took place by Lake Michigan. As the romance escalated, so did the waterfront settings. The two were married at the waterfront home of Shepard's mother and step-father, Susan and Gordon Van Wieren. Susan planted a special wedding garden for the occasion.

Last weekend, the couple stepped back on board the Mint Julep to race in the Red Fox Regatta, this time as husband and wife. High winds and heavy waves tested the crew's ability. The boat looked like it was doing fine. So did the smiling newlyweds.

Aboard the Mint Julep, newlyweds Scott Shepard and Ruth Music, on the back of the boat, took high winds in stride while sailing to Boyne City in the Red Fox Regatta. Their romance began exactly one year ago during the Red Fox Regatta.

We can't have everyone manning the helm. Some people have to ride the rail and keep things steady. These people appeared to be enjoying their role this past weekend in the Red Fox Regatta. (Photo by Laurie Lounsbury)

Charlevoix Township returns money to property owners

by L. Scott Swanson

When Charlevoix Township finished paying off a $600,000 bond for a sewer project earlier this summer, the township board found themselves facing an unexpected question. They had between $170,000 and $180,000 left over and had to decide what to do with it. In a move which some people might feel is uncharacteristic for a government entity, rather than finding a way to spend the money, the township gave the money back to the property owners who had paid it.

"We thought that would be a first - to pay back, instead of keeping it," said Charlevoix Township Supervisor Oscar Stroud.

The rebate will not go to all Charlevoix Township taxpayers since it wasn't derived from the township's general fund. It will go to 32 property owners in a special assessment district who approximately 10 years ago paid to have sewer lines extended out into the M-66 area of the township.

Stroud said that approximately 10 years ago when the sewer was put in, the township established a

Rich Kelly takes job with Intermediate School District

Charlevoix to restructure business operations

by Laurie Lounsbury
School business manager Rich Kelly couldn't pass up the opportunity to accept the newly developed position of business manager at the Char-Em ISD. The Charlevoix School District will miss him. But the school board, after confirming that Kelly will be leaving, couldn't pass up the opportunity to eliminate the business manager position. It is a chance for the school district to save about $40,000 and redistribute Kelly's former responsibilities to the school employees who have hands-on experience with the duties. For example, transportation requests for school busses will go directly to Gordon Russell, head of the bus garage, instead of going through a business manager at Central Office. One of the school's building and grounds employees will be directly responsible for developing a long term building and grounds plan, rather than lending expertise to a business manager who would then draw up a plan. A part time bookkeeper will step up to a full time job to handle the school's finances.

The school board voted to eliminate Kelly's position during the school board retreat at the Sleep Inn last Thursday. The concept of eliminating the position was supported by five board members, with Larry Levegood and Ardith Wieland opposing it. Levegood wanted to table the matter so the board could have more time to consider the necessity of a business manager. New school board member Allen Telgenhof favored quick action. "School is starting soon. Something needs to be done. Something needs to be in place right away," Telgenhof said, adding, "With educators, there's a resistance to change as a general rule. I approve of this. If we had more people thinking of different ways to do things, we'd all be a lot better off."

The total cost of Kelly's position, including benefits, is about $91,000. Superintendent Dr. Robert Jackson drew up preliminary plans to redistribute Kelly's duties, at a cost of about $51,000.

The board gave Jackson the go ahead to continue refining plans to redistribute Kelly's work. The board's decision to eliminate the business manager position was eased by the knowledge that Kelly will be around to lend financial advice. As business manager for Char-Em ISD, his duties will include lending his financial expertise to the local districts. "I'll be helping all the schools in the district with their business and finances," Kelly said.

special assessment district and sold $600,000 in bonds to pay for the sewer line extension. The bonds were to be paid back with money from the special assessment and with money derived from sewer hook-up fees. The wrinkle developed when more people hooked up than what was originally anticipated.

The township invested the extra money and found that after they paid off the bonds earlier this summer there was money left over. Stroud said the board felt property owners in the special assessment district should get back a portion of the money they'd paid in.

Asked how the property owners responded when they got the money, Stroud said, "They just took the check. They were surprised it wasn't a bill."

Shawn McDonough has a lot to look forward to- and up to- at the middle school. He and his mom, Jean, look up at honor roll board, posted outside the principal's office at the middle school. (Photo by Laurie Lounsbury)

All incoming sixth graders have to satisfy their curiosity about one thing. Will they fit in their new locker? Joe Grubb found out he fits in his locker, while his friends Kiel Tilley and Chris Loper think about closing the door on him. (Photo by Laurie Lounsbury)

Two projects improve area recreation

One project is at the north end of town and the other is at the south end of town. One is nearing completion while the other is just getting started. Both will be tremendously beneficial to Charlevoix recreation programs.

The project at the north end of town is the new soccer fields at Charlevoix Township's Shanahan Field. The project at the south end of town is the renovation of the City of Charlevoix's softball complex at the end of West Carpenter.

During spring and summer evenings hundreds of people, young and old, enjoy the Charlevoix softball fields. Six-year-olds take their hacks on the tee ball field while old duffers huff and puff on the big field. On the field in between, girls in ponytails and boys who are all arms and legs chase down fly balls.

On a fall evening, hundreds of children scurry around the soccer fields while mothers and fathers lend a hand coaching, officiating or just cheering from the sidelines.

For years the soccer field has suffered from drainage problems. The old field was mostly clay. This caused the field to be hard as a rock when it hadn't rained and to be a lake when it did rain. In order to correct the problem a proposal was made to resurface the entire area and install an irrigation system, in the process creating two large fields. When bids were taken on the project, the lowest bid came back at about $70,000 for one field. Volunteers have undertaken the project and are trying to do two fields for a total of about $30,000. Lots of people and organizations have contributed in one way or another. The project is nearing completion, but more volunteers are needed. Tom Conlan is coordinating the project. Contact him if you can pitch in a few hours some evening or weekend.

The softball complex has also had drainage problems for years. The parking lot has never been paved. When it's dry, it's a dust bowl. When it rains, it's a duck pond.

Over the years, the complex has grown from two fields to three softball fields and a Little League baseball field.

The city has secured a Department of Natural Resources (DNR) grant and will also be kicking in some city money to dramatically improve the complex this fall. The fields are being renovated so they will drain better and be easier to maintain. New restrooms are being constructed. Lights are being added to the small softball field. Fences are being improved to make the Little League field safer from balls hit out of the big softball field. The parking lot is being paved and reorganized. A better drainage system is being installed and a sidewalk is being constructed along Carpenter to State Street.

Current estimates put the total project at somewhere around $500,000. By the time things are done early next spring, Charlevoix's softball facilities will be very impressive.

Both the soccer and softball facilities will be ideal locations for weekend tournaments. It's quite possible that they will be able to attract teams and accompanying revenue from throughout the state. That would be a nice bonus, but the real benefit to the projects is the amount of fun and entertainment local people will derive from the facilities.

There are three great untruths that you often hear espoused. These untruths are conventional wisdom that when objectively analyzed quickly prove to be conventional, but not wisdom. The three great untruths are: 1. All elderly people are impoverished; 2. Kids in small towns like Charlevoix get in trouble because they don't have anything to do; 3. Everything you read in newspapers is bad news.

With any luck, we can put two out of three of these untruths to rest right here and now.

Letters to the editor

School requires more to do less

Editor,

I had a dream the other night. I had a dream that I heard about a new way to do business at work, but it would take some significant changes that I would have to convince my management to go along with.

I had to convince my management that with the changes, My department would produce 20 percent less of its service. I also had to convince my management that, to produce 20 percent less service, I needed one additional staff member.

I had a dream that I had to convince my management that everyone who received the decreased service would be better off, because they would then be getting "quality time" that they were not getting before (the quality time, being new to my way of doing work.)

I had a dream that the service that I was offering less of, was scant enough that it would not be fully reimbursed, so I lobbied to lower the standards.

Finally, in my dream I convinced my management that this was a good thing to do and it was implemented.

When I woke up, I laughed at how ridiculous the dream was. Surely there would be no business that would operate in such a manner.

That same evening, I read Laurie Lounsbury's, August 23 1995 article, High School To Have Seminar class and found that apparently, Charlevoix High School operates in this fashion.

My daughter, will have 20 percent less class time this year than last, the school needed an additional teacher to provide that, and now I come to find out that the decreased class time would not even meet the state's minimum standards for full reimbursement. In order for the school system to be reimbursed fully, my daughters (I have two in high school now) will be given a quarter credit per year for "Attendance more than anything" during the seminar hour, according to Mr. Grundman (high school principal).

Will they perhaps get a half a credit per year if they come to school with both of their shoe laces tied?

Could this be why many high school graduates are unable to functionally read (23 percent nationally, 44 million American adults are functionally illiterate), make change in a retail shop, function in the work place? Could it be why even the high school graduates who are at the top of the class find it difficult to compete at universities that have high standards?

We expect more of our children than this. It would be of benefit to the community as a whole (local and national) if Charlevoix High School would expect more too!

Bob and Diane Gorkiewicz

1995 Red Fox Regatta sails in brisk winds

Lots of people clung to whatever they cling to on this boat during the Red Fox Regatta this weekend.

Photos by Laurie Lounsbury

Many of the sailors on the Red Fox Regatta don't let their racing get so intense that it precludes relaxation and enjoyment. These sailors are shown maintaining a sense of balance.

The America's Cup races may have suffered from some lackluster winds, but the Red Fox Regatta had beautiful sailing weather this past weekend. Perhaps someone should suggest bringing the America's Cup to Lake Charlevoix. Let those high powered yachtsman find out how it is to sail on some real seas.

Two long-time members of Kiwanis, Ralph Hamilton and Harold Pletz, were honored by the Charlevoix Kiwanis Club at the 78th Annual convention of the Michigan District of Kiwanis International, held at Gaylord, Aug. 24-27.

Both of these men were made George F. Hixon Fellows. This award, named after the first president of Kiwanis International, is given by a club to honor the long and outstanding service of a member. The money given for this award is used by Kiwanis International in its world wide service projects, Iodine Deficiency Disorders, the biggest single preventative cause of mental retardation.

Ralph Hamilton joined the Charlevoix Kiwanis Club in 1948. He served as the club president in 1957 and was Lt. Governor of his Division in 1960. Charlevoix City Police program encourages use of seat belts

The City of Charlevoix Police Department is participating this summer in the "Seatbelt Challenge" program sponsored by the Office of Highway Safety Planning. The goal of this program is to increase awareness, and use of safety belts.

As part of this program Charlevoix Police officers will be rewarding young persons who choose to use their safety belts while on our roadways. Police Officers will reward young persons using their safety belts by giving out Safety Awards during traffic contacts.

Attached to this award will be a coupon from a sponsoring restaurant for a free food item. These awards will be given as part of the Departments CARE patrol, and during regular patrol time also. The CARE patrol program is supported by a State Highway grant. Its purpose is to reduce accidents on our highways.

The Charlevoix Police would also like to remind people that all front seat occupants must wear safety restraints. All persons less than 16 years but older than 4 years must use safety belts in the front or rear seat. All persons under 4 years must be in an approved child car seat in both the front and the rear. Please remember to Buckle-Up.

Hospital rehabilitation center moving to a new location

In one year the Boyne Rehab Center, a service of Charlevoix Area Hospital, has outgrown its Lake Street Plaza location. Now serving up to 35-40 patients a day, the Center is moving as of Sept. 5, to the old Burns Clinic Building at 197 State Street in Boyne City.

"We will be able to better accommodate our patients as far as parking, treatment area and privacy," says Cindy Banner, physical therapist and supervisor of the center. The new facility is nearly twice the size of the Lake Street location.

"It is very gratifying to us at the center to know our service was needed by so many Boyne area residents," Banner says. When the center opened a little more than a year ago, it was projected that about 10 people per day would be seen. Now the center sees as many as 40 patients a day.

Banner expects to expand their services for the treatment of orthopedic and neurological problems as well as for sports injuries. The office is open 7 a.m. to 6 p.m. Appointments are scheduled upon a doctor's referral.

Midwest International wins Jordanian contract

Midwest International of Charlevoix was recently awarded its third contract from the Hashemite Kingdom of Jordan.

The Ports Corporation Aqaba, will be installing the new Midwest computerized dust free shiploader on its berth on the Red Sea in southern Jordan.

In 1993 this same port successfully installed two large 2200 TPH Midwest Chokefeeder loaders for ocean shipments of dry phosphate rock, an abundant commodity in the area.

A similar Midwest shiploader was also recently commissioned at the Port of Ashdod, Israel on the Mediterranean, another major supplier of chemicals to the world market.

Midwest International recently celebrated 27 consecutive years of providing dust control technology to more than 50 countries on seven continents. They have been located on Stover Road in Charlevoix since 1974.

Basketball team rebounds from opening loss with big win

After opening the season with a 51-41 loss at Grayling Aug. 29, Charlevoix's varsity girls' basketball team bounced back with a 63-33 thrashing of Ellsworth two nights later.

In the Grayling game, Charlevoix had trouble with Grayling's height and never really got their offense rolling. Lisa Parrish had 19 points while Liz Kelly had 12. Nobody else hit double figures.

In Ellsworth, the game started out sloppy. Charlevoix starts two sophomores. Ellsworth plays a lot of sophomores and juniors. Both teams play aggressive defense. Consequently, the opening minutes played like a busy bakery - lots of turnovers.

Rayder guard Jenni Swenor was among the most stable players in the opening minutes and scored the game's first basket at the 6:42 mark. Kris Blanchard and Amanda Eaton each added a basket to put Charlevoix up 6-0.

Ellsworth's first point came on a free-throw with 5:20 left in the quarter. The Lancers' first basket came nearly halfway through the quarter at the 4:28 mark.

Charlevoix closed out the end of the quarter strongly, outscoring Ellsworth 12-2 in the final three minutes. Eaton, a sophomore point guard, played an integral role in the run. She scored a basket with 2:56 left and then broke down the defense on drives and when interior defenders rotated over to pick her up, she delivered three sweet passes to Traci Allison and Lisa Parrish who had stepped to the open spot when the defense left them. Allison, doing nothing spectacular, but lots of things well, scored six points in the final three minutes of the quarter. The quarter ended with Charlevoix leading 18-5.

Parrish began the second quarter where she'd left off the first, in the paint and scoring baskets. Parrish dropped in two baskets in the final 28 seconds of the first quarter and added two more in the first 35 seconds of the second quarter.

Jenny Eveleigh scored with 6:24 remaining in the half to put Charlevoix up 24-7.

Kris Blanchard, a senior forward, had been conspicuously absent from the Rayder offense during the Grayling game and the first quarter of the Ellsworth game. Midway through the second quarter, she showed up, declaring herself present and accounted for with 10 points in the final four and a-half minutes of the half. She would've had 13, but she missed three free throws.

The half ended with Charlevoix up 36-20.

Trailing by 16 at the beginning of the second half, Ellsworth still had a glimmer of hope. But in the opening minutes of the third quarter, that was snuffed. Charlevoix went on a 13-2 run.

Liz Kelly sandwiched a free throw and a basket around another basket by Blanchard. Kelly finished the game with five points, low by her standards, but also hard-earned. Ellsworth may be a bit young this year, but that doesn't mean they're small and they're certainly not wimps. Kelly, who is small and light for a forward, got bounced like a pinball several times in the lane.

Although Kelly might have had some trouble scoring, Parrish and Blanchard weren't. Blanchard scored six third quarter points while Parrish had 10. Sherry Gels also had a long two-point basket while Eveleigh hit a soft shot from the left baseline. The quarter ended with Charlevoix up 59-29.

In the fourth quarter, Charlevoix played a halfcourt trap which turned out to be very effective. Christy Kaczynski, a 5'9" forward with the wing-span of a condor, played at the top of the trap and gave Ellsworth's guards fits. Ellsworth's guards were picking up their dribble, before they knew where they were going to pass the ball. Against a player like Kaczynski, that's a crucial tactical error. Once the offensive player gave up the option to drive, Kaczynski quickly stepped up and used those long arms to form her own little eclipse. Twice, she stole the ball herself. On other occasions, her defense caused the offensive player to throw floating passes which either sailed out of bounds or were picked off by other Rayder defenders.

Blanchard and Parrish each finished the game with 18 points. Nine Rayders scored in the game. Jenny Drenth and Sofie Bootz each scored 10 points for Ellsworth. Trina VanderArk also played well by streaks. Ellsworth got some points from the perimeter, hitting three three-point baskets. Neither team shot particularly well from the free throw line. Charlevoix was three for 13 while Ellsworth was 6 for 24. Charlevoix was whistled for 19 fouls while Ellsworth was called for three.

Charlevoix won the junior varsity game 52-29 and is now 2-0 on the season.

Charlevoix has its first home game Thursday, Sept. 7 with Petoskey. Petoskey and Charlevoix both had stellar seasons last year and this year are again considered to be two of the best teams in northern Michigan.

Soccer team beaten 4-2

The Charlevoix boys' soccer team suffered a 4-2 non-league loss at Roscommon Aug. 30.

Charlevoix fell behind early in the first half, but Noel Kammermann tied the game at 1-1 with a goal on an assist from Steve Carland.

In the second half, Roscommon went up 2-1 at the 5:02 mark and made the score 3-1 at 16:30.

Charlevoix closed to within a goal at 3-2 when Carland scored late in the game off of a corner kick.

Roscommon put the game out of reach when they scored again at the 31:20 mark.

Drew Belding tended goal for the Rayders. Coach Mike Dennis credited fullbacks Matt Dennis and Chris Mikulski for sound play along with halfbacks Josh Miller and Matt Mikulski.

Liz Kelly (22) looks for an opportunity to dive into the tangle of arms and bodies under the basket during Charlevoix's 63-33 win at Ellsworth. Both teams are young, but strong and aggressive under the basket.

Freshmen win Petoskey tournament

Charlevoix freshman basketball coach is minus his beard this week. The beard which he had been growing since July was sacrificed in practice Thursday when Parrish made good on a promise he made to his team. He told the girls he would shave off his beard if they won the Petoskey preseason tournament.

The Rayders looked a little rough in the opening game of the tournament, but still managed to win. In the finals last Wednesday, they overwhelmed the host team 53-37.

Football team opens with 39-8 loss

Charlevoix's varsity football team opened the 1995 season on an ugly note, getting thrashed 39-8 by St. Ignace.

Three of St. Ignace's touchdowns came on big plays: a 36-yard return of a fumble; a 62-yard punt return; and a 70-yard run.

Charlevoix came up with a big play of their own in the second quarter, scoring on a 38-yard touchdown pass from Mark Boss to David Manker. Boss passed to Scott Smith for the two-point conversion.

That touchdown made the score 13-8, but after that the wheels fell off for the Rayders. St. Ignace scored two more times in the first half to take a 25-8 halftime lead.

Early in the third quarter, St. Ignace scored again and put the game out of reach.

On the bright side, Boss was 11 of 16 in passing for 147 yards. Manker caught four passes for 98 yards. Smith ran for 47 yards on 11 carries.

On the defensive side of the ball, Rory McKeown led the Rayders with seven solo tackles and four assists. Jason Terryberry had seven solos and two assists. Mike Rautio had seven solo tackles. McKeown also recovered a fumble.

Charlevoix opens its home season against Grayling this Friday night. Kick-off is at 7:30 p.m.

Traci Allison (42) came off the bench to lead a Charlevoix burst at the end of the first quarter which put Charlevoix ahead to stay in the Rayders' first win of the season at Ellsworth.

Meggison wins first week's football contest

Tom Meggison won the first week's Courier football contest with a record of 8-2. He and Larry Nunemaker both went 8-2, but Meggison was closer in the tie breaker. He picked 49 points while Nunemaker had 45. The total number of points scored in the Wisconsin - Colorado game was 50.

We had a lot of entries in the first week of the competition, but we also had a lot of people who didn't fare all that well. Perhaps they were following the Courier Guru's example.

Granted there were a couple of 8-2s, some 7-3s and 6-4s, but there were also a fair share of 5-5s and 4-6s. Even the Courier Guru's 3-7 didn't finish last.

This week's games should be easier. There are a couple of easy picks. You'll have to figure out which ones.

Talk about a bad start. The Courier Guru opened the season with a 3-7 week. When looking for guidance in making this week's picks, I'm going to have to use a different coin.

Well, bouncing back from 3-7 to go 10-0, here are this week's games and picks:

Detroit at Minnesota. Both of these teams lost last week. The difference is that while Detroit looked fairly good in defeat, Minnesota looked terrible. Mitchell is rising while the Moon is waning. Pick - Detroit.

Miami at New England. Miami pounded the Jets while New England pulled out a last minute win against Cleveland. Miami has a good offensive line while New England has been searching for help on the defensive line. Pick - Miami.

Chicago at Green Bay. Chicago looked great in beating Minnesota, but I still think they're over rated. But probably not as over rated as Green Bay. Green Bay has Brett Favre, Reggie White and some other people. Pick - Chicago.

Cleveland at Tampa Bay. In the opening week, Tampa Bay administered a large dose of reality to Philadelphia. Cleveland lost a heart breaker. Cleveland is still the better team here. Pick - Cleveland.

Memphis at Michigan. What's this cupcake game doing on the Michigan schedule. A Memphis at Michigan basketball game might be all right, but football? Come on! Remember when Michigan used to play teams like Miami and Notre Dame in nonconference games. Pick - Michigan.

Nebraska at Michigan State. Sure Michigan State is going to get waxed, but at least they're playing a real opponent. Pick - Nebraska.

Tennessee at Georgia. This is one of those southern games where you've got to decide which team's got the most grit. Pick - Georgia.

Grayling at Charlevoix. After the trouncing Charlevoix took last Friday, how can you pick them to win this week? Well, you cringe a bit with uncertainty, but it can be done. Pick - Charlevoix.

Petoskey at Cadillac. Petoskey just doesn't have any luck with that West Branch team. But they do better with Cadillac. Pick - Petoskey.

St. Ignace at Rogers City. St. Ignace has momentum going into this game. Best not mention why. Pick - St. Ignace.

Fund established for Edwards memorial

Charlevoix Boy Scout Troop 11, the Charlevoix Kiwanis Club and the Charlevoix Historical Society are coordinating an effort to raise funds for a memorial for the late Louis Edwards. Edwards was the Charlevoix Boy Scout Troop Leader for decades prior to his death. He was also a former president of the Charlevoix Historical Society.

The memorial effort is raising funds for a boulder and bronze plaque which will be placed at the old Charlevoix Depot building. The building is being converted into a museum by the Historical Society. Edwards had a deep interest in railroads and was smiling from ear to ear the day the Depot building was donated to the Historical Society.

Some money has been raised and the boulder has been selected. A total of approximately $1,500 is needed for the project. Donations may be sent to the Louis Edwards Memorial Fund, 211 Antrim Street, Charlevoix MI 49720.

Organizers of the effort would like to have everything in place for a dedication ceremony by mid October.

County receives new breathalyzer

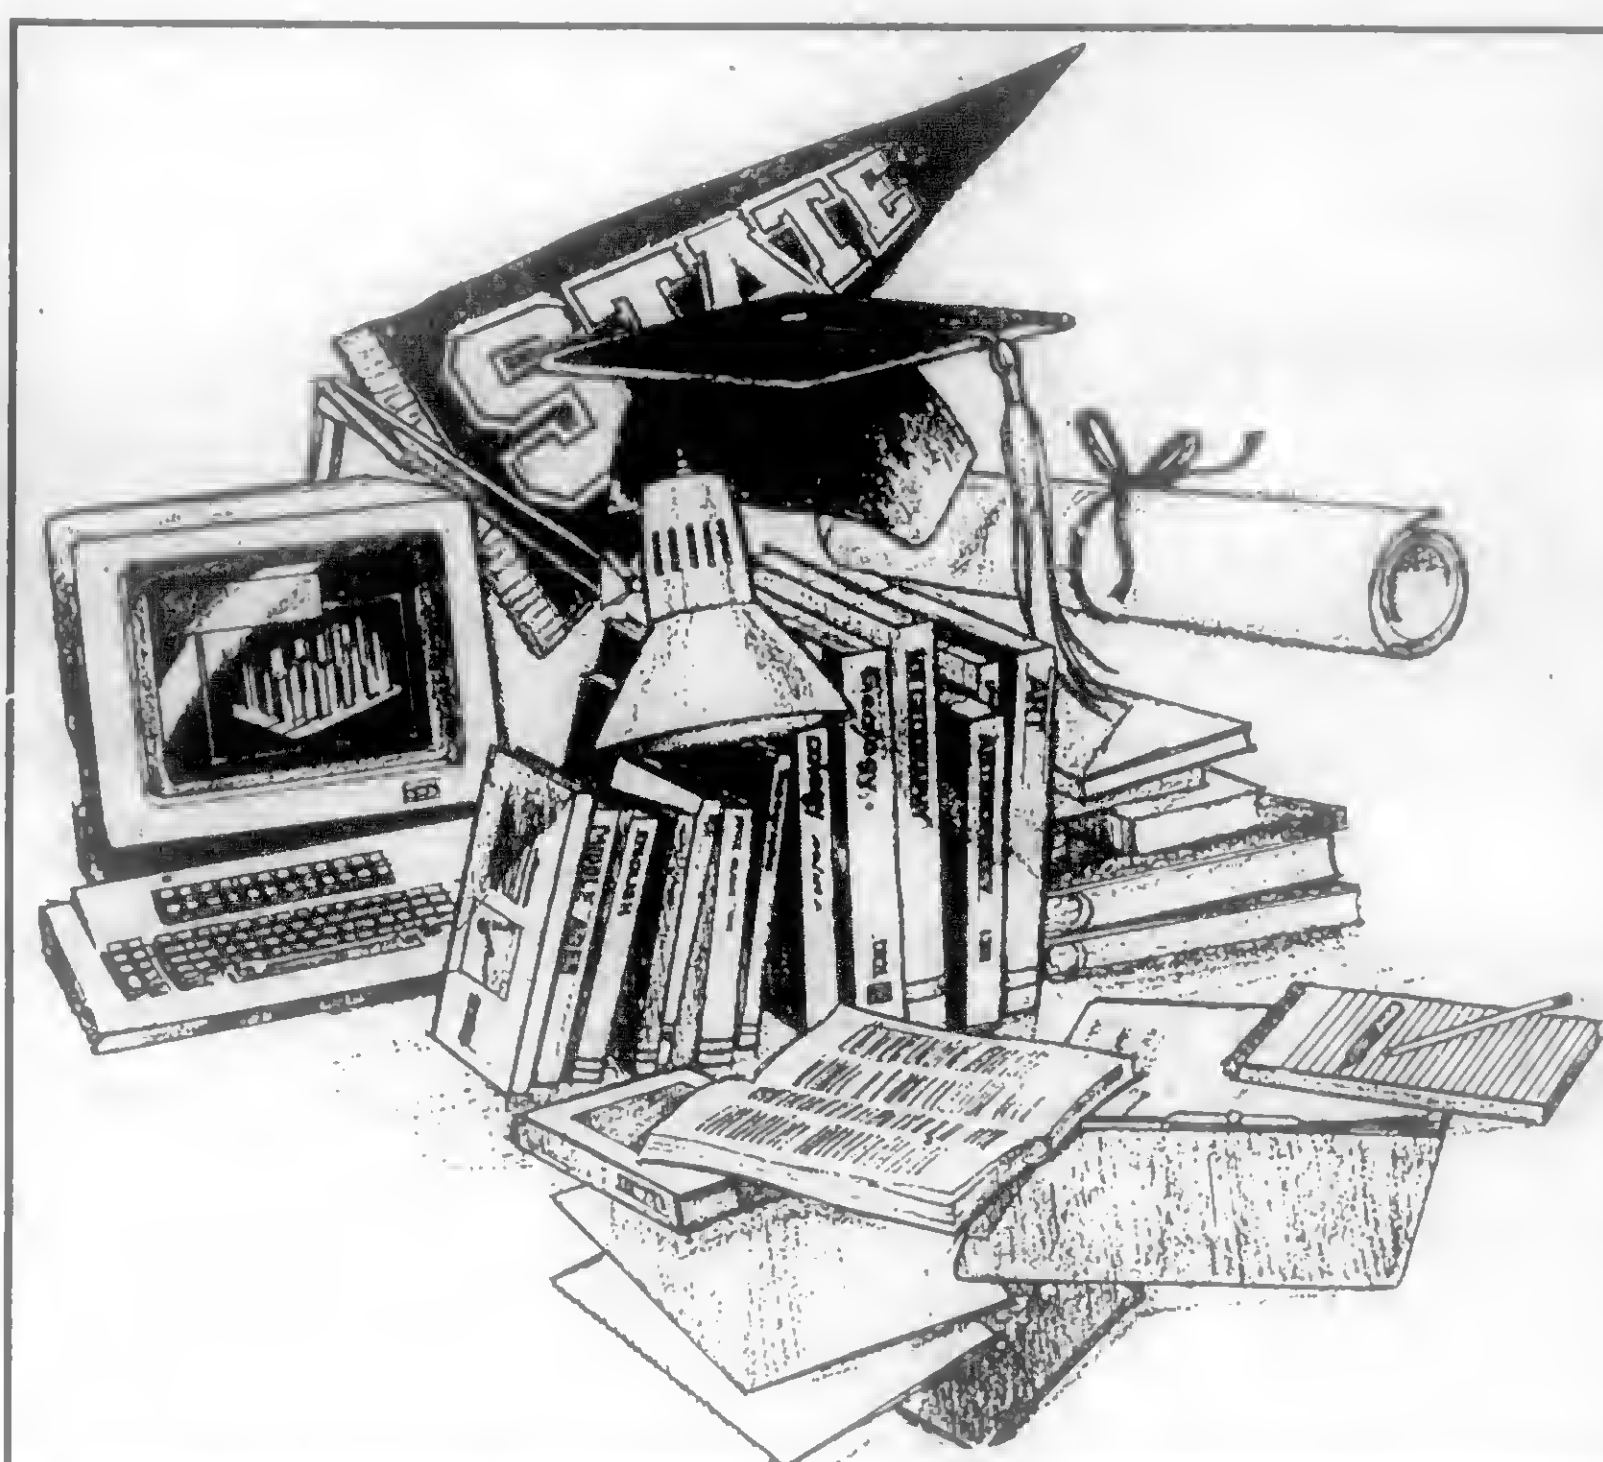

Charlevoix County Prosecutor, Mary Beth Kur and Sheriff George T. Lasater are pleased to announce the arrival of the BAC DataMaster breath alcohol testing instrument at the Charlevoix County jail. The new testing instrument streamlines the procedures involved in testing a person suspected of driving under the influence of alcohol by cutting down on maintenance procedure for operators. The ease of operation of the BAC DataMaster offers the real possibility of training all road patrol officers in the state. Virtually each deputy with the Charlevoix County Sheriff's department has been trained to operate the DataMaster.

Also certified are officers from each local police department as well as all three attorneys from the Prosecutor's office. Each operator attended a five hour course offered by the Michigan State Police in Gaylord. Kur said the fact that so many officers are trained in the operation of the new instrument will aid her in the swift prosecution of drunk driving defendants because trials will have fewer witnesses to coordinate. "Now, in the vast majority of cases, the arresting officer and the breathalyzer operator will be one and the same." In the past much time would be wasted when an officer would make an arrest and have to locate a certified operator to run the breath test on a suspect.

The State of Michigan purchases and maintains the instruments in each county statewide. Michigan is one of the very last states in the country to utilize infrared breathalyzer technology. Each county will have at least one DataMaster in place before Labor Day and the State Police expect to replace all breathalyzers by late fall.

Old Courier office being re-created

While the Charlevoix Courier isn't planning to move back to its old building on Clinton Street, the old building is being reconstructed. The building which housed the Courier in the 1950s and '60s isn't being reconstructed in its original location between the library and bank building on Clinton Street. Instead, a building designed to look like the former Courier building is being constructed at the Raven-Hill Discovery Center by Ron Abfalter, grandson of former Courier owner Harold Totten.

Raven Hill, a center devoted to the study of science, history and art, is receiving an old Linotype printing press from Paul Lisk of Central Lake. The press and some additional equipment donated by Dee Hawkins will be the center piece of an old press shop. The press shop is the first building being constructed in what will eventually become a time-line village, where each building along a street will represent not just a place on the street, but a place in time.

Cheri and Tim Leach, who operate Raven Hill, hired Abfalter to construct the building. For Abfalter, the project presented an opportunity to revisit some wonderful boyhood memories of helping his grandfather in the Courier shop.

"When you're eight or nine years old and your grandfather's doing it, it's like the best in the world," Abfalter says of his boyhood experiences at the Courier. "It was like a blur of good memories. I remember working late Wednesday nights putting the paper to bed."

The original building was torn down more than two decades ago. However, from his own memories and some historical research Abfalter has been able to replicate the building. He found an old photograph at the Charlevoix Historical Society and he also has a floor plan of the inside of the building. "Sonny Lang drew it. He used to work at the Courier," Abfalter explained.

Currently, the building is only roughed in. Eventually, it will be bricked up and trimmed out like the original building. "We're trying to generate enough interest to generate some donations," Abfalter said.

Raven Hill Discovery Center was founded in 1992 by Tim and Cheri Leach on a 150 acre site on Fuller Road between Boyne City and East Jordan. During the past three and a-half years more than 20,000 people have visited the facility. The center has hosted school field trips; Scouting seminars, teacher workshops and several other events. Funding is derived from tour and seminar fees as well as grants.

Ron Abfalter, recalling what it was like to help his grandfather in the old Clinton Street Courier office.

Raven Hill currently has a hands-on museum, exhibit area, live animals and a small library. The old press shop is the first step toward creating a time-line village.

For more information about the old press shop project and Raven Hill Discovery Center, phone (616) 536-3369.

Masonry union picketers protest work at county building

Approximately half-a-dozen picketers from the Bricklayers and Allied Craftsmen Union marched in front of the Charlevoix County Building Monday. The picketers, who were from the union's Chapter 40 area which extends from Traverse City to the Mackinac Bridge, said they were protesting Comstock Construction Company's planned use of nonunion labor to do masonry work on the county building project.

Comstock, a Traverse City based construction company that is the general contractor on the project, has hired Standfest Masonry out of Williamsburg to do the brick work on the project.

Union field representative Chris Crawford told the Courier that Comstock has an agreement with the union and that the union is protesting because Standfest pays wages that are less than what the union agreement calls for. Crawford said the agreement calls for masonry wages of $17.50 per hour in base rate and $22.50 including benefits. He alleged that Standfest is paying between $16 and $16.50 per hour in base rate and no benefits.

The picketers showed up at the site at 6:30 a.m. Monday. Union carpenters and laborers who showed up later, chose to honor the picket line and didn't work on the project Monday. Other contractors were at the site backfilling basement walls in preparation for masonry work.

The picket was peaceful with picketers marching along Mason Street and on sidewalks surrounding the county building. They carried signs and explained their position to people walking by the site.

Crawford expressed optimism that the dispute would soon be resolved.

"We're trying to get a meeting up with Comstock and Standfest. Hopefully it's in the works right now," he said Monday afternoon.

Contacted by phone, a Comstock official said that he doesn't anticipate the pickets affecting the project completion date which will be sometime in March. He said that the problem apparently came up because Comstock's masonry contract used to be in the union and no longer is.

Medusa wants to amend emission permit

by L. Scott Swanson

Medusa Cement has filed request to modify permit requirements for sulfur dioxide emissions at the company's plant south of Charlevoix. Local environmental activists would prefer that rather than modifying the requirements to meet the emissions, Medusa modify the emissions to meet the requirements. A consent agreement between the Department of Natural Resources (DNR) and the company would likely be a compromise and is being discussed.

In a Sept. 6 meeting, Dennis Drake, Department of Natural Resources (DNR) Air Quality Division chief, listened to public comments regarding the request. Following that meeting and comments made by the Environmental Protection Agency and Jerry Puhl of WATCH, a local environmental group, DNR officials are reviewing information and a ruling is expected to be issued within the next two weeks.

The sulfur dioxide permit in question was issued in 1977 when Medusa converted from a wet cement production process to a dry process. While nearly doubling the plant's production capacity, the switch was also expected to cut sulfur dioxide emissions by nearly four times. The permit was granted based on the lower emission estimate. However, between 1977 and 1993 tests done by Medusa indicated plant emissions occasionally exceed levels allowed by the permit. Consequently, in December, 1993 Medusa made a request to the DNR to have the plant's operating permit modified to reflect the plant's actual emissions.

Dennis Armbruster, Supervisor of the DNR permit section of the Air Quality Division and Tom Bacon, Senior Environmental Engineer at Medusa's Charlevoix plant, both explained that Medusa is not asking to make changes in the plant's operation and that the sulfur dioxide comes from raw materials which go into the cement rather than fuel burned in the process of making cement.

Of the sulfur dioxide emissions, Bacon said, "They are a normal stack emission due to the natural sulfur content in our raw materials (limestone and shale). These naturally occurring minerals found in our quarry are primarily iron pyrite (also known as 'Fool's Gold')."

Puhl says WATCH feels that rather than changing the rules governing emissions, the plant should change equipment to lower emission levels to what is currently allowed by the permit. Puhl says he feels there is equipment available and even if it took a few years, Medusa should install it.

Bacon noted that as part of the proposed agreement with the DNR, Medusa will be installing stack gas monitoring equipment to verify that Medusa stays within the new permit limits which reflect actual plant emissions of sulfur dioxide.

Armbruster said the revised levels requested still would protect public health and there would be no adverse effect on the community as a result of plant sulfur dioxide emissions.

Puhl said that Charlevoix is a resort community and both the summer people who come here as well as the people who live here all year don't like to have a smell coming from the plant.

Stuart Fox gave his 13 month old daughter, Maria, a ride down the slide at Michigan Beach last week. Saying "Whee" all the way down the slide, Maria now calls the slide a "Whee." Mother Leslie Fox watches the two. The Foxes, now living in Denver, were visiting Stuart's family in Boyne City. They always return to northern Michigan after Labor Day weekend because, as Leslie says, "We miss the crowds and have the lake to ourselves." (Photo by Laurie Lounsbury)

Your mail can follow you

If you are planning to move away during the winter season the postal service has developed a forwarding-of-address kit to simplify your move. The Charlevoix Post Office will have "Snow-Bird Forward-of-Address" kits available in the post office lobby beginning Sept. 1 of this year. The kits contain information and necessary forms for customers to use so their mail is forwarded quickly. Each set contains two sets of forms. One set is used for departure and the other for the return to Michigan.

Based on customer responses, the kit has been slightly modified and enhanced by adding a special feature called prepaid re-ship service. As each class of mail received varying levels of free forwarding service, for a small fee, customers can have their local post office package and ship all of their mail, regardless of class, to their temporary location. Frequency is determined by the customer. Contact the local post office for further information on prepaid priority re-ship service.

Legislators' school proposal raises questions

Representatives Bev Bodem (R-Alpena) and Pat Gagliardi (D-Drummond Island) recently sent out a press release saying they're introducing legislation to require all public schools to open after Labor Day. Whether or not this proposal is a good thing is open to question, but for some reason it seems to come up every fall, yet nothing ever seems to be done about it.

Like a lot of proposals, if you think about it, you come up with more questions than answers.

In their press release Gagliardi and Bodem make a pretty good pitch for having schools wait until after Labor Day to open. Gagliardi claims many families plan their vacations around the opening of school and having schools hold off until after Labor Day would give these families a few more days of August sunshine. Bodem says that many tourist related businesses complain about a sharp drop-off in bookings in late August due to classes starting early.

And finally - and this is the most fun part of the pitch - according to the press release, "Research done by the Science and Technology Division of the Legislative Service Bureau showed that in 10 Michigan cities from Kalamazoo to Detroit to Ironwood, August/September temperatures were consistently higher than May/June temperatures."

You've gotta wonder how exhaustive that research was and what expense was incurred in doing it. Had we at the Courier known this research was being done, we'd have offered some old Courier weather boxes so our town could have been included in the research.

The pitches made by the representatives seem to make sense, but the question raised is that if holding off until after Labor Day is such a red hot idea, why isn't everybody doing it now? Or, is everybody doing it now?

Every year when you hear somebody say that schools shouldn't start until after Labor Day, you never hear anybody offer any reasons as to why a school would start before Labor Day. Assuming that some schools do start before Labor Day (And from here that is an assumption because virtually all schools in this area already start after Labor Day.) there must be a reason for it. In order to determine whether the reasons for starting after Labor Day are more compelling than the reasons for starting before Labor Day, we first have to hear both sets of reasons. Oddly enough, on this issue you never seem to hear the other side - whatever it might be.

This post Labor Day school starting band wagon may well be one worth jumping on. But then again, it may not. It is kind of odd legislation to introduce during a time when allowing schools more freedom to experiment seems to be all the rage in Lansing. Along those same lines, if schools went all year long like the rest of the world instead of for just nine months, when the school year should start wouldn't be an issue at all.

Guest Commentary

by Clark Durant, President of the State Board of Education

On August 16th, the Michigan State Board of Education adopted a resolution recommending the Legislature reform Michigan's system of public education through a program of mission, choice, freedom, and quality. If the Legislature takes bold action in this matter, Michigan will lead our nation in education reform. Families, children, and educators will profit as a result.

We live in an age of choice and freedom. The Iron Curtain has been torn down and the command and control economies of the past have given way to the freedom of competition. The world is adopting the premise of our Declaration of Independence and moving toward freedom by embracing democracy and free markets. Americans, after years of frustration with a failing welfare system, demanded fundamental change in 1994 and elected a new Congress.

Yet, as Albert Shanker, President of the American Federation of Teachers, has pointed out, our system of public education more resembles the failed East European command and control economies than our own free market system. Our schools are defined by attendance boundaries and administrative bureaucracy - not by their mission. With the exception of a few new public school academies, students and families have no public school choices - residency determines where children must attend school. The tax system pays for schools regardless of students' or parents' satisfaction. The state, not parents and teachers, determines curriculum and controls schools. No one would seriously suggest that this system be applied to food or housing. The result would be public monopolies of collective farms and public housing projects. Indeed, no one even suggests that such a system should apply to postsecondary education.

Public K-12 education is a public monopoly, and by many accounts, it is failing. Surveys reveal that many parents are dissatisfied with public schools. Students are falling behind other major nations. Business and parents demand improvement. Other states have undertaken public education reform. It is time for Michigan to be bold and lead the nation to more fundamental change in the organization and delivery of public education.

The State Board, therefore, has proposed that the system of public education be reformed by focusing on mission, expanding public school choice, expanding public school freedom, and ensuring quality. The board asks the Legislature to define schools by mission - providing teaching for learning. The board proposes that all public school students be entitled to attend any public school, while ensuring that students be able to enroll in their local schools if they so choose. The barriers to the development of public school academies should be removed by eliminating the artificial cap in the number of academies and who may attend them. Parents should have a Public Education Savings Account through which they could choose where to spend their allocation of public education dollars within the public school system and retain any savings for postsecondary education. Schools should be permitted to waive burdensome and nonessential components of the School Code so long as they disclose those waivers. Through a pe-tion and vote, local educators and parents should be empowered to more directly affect education in their local schools. New, smaller locally controlled districts should be created through a vote if a community so desires. The Board also stands for quality and recommends that all schools be subject to state assessment through a periodic academic test, state accreditation standards, model content standards, and requirements to disclose vital information in an annual prospectus.

Today, most parents have no choice in public education. Our proposals provide parents and teachers a wide array of public school choices - Their local district, neighboring districts, public school academies, new districts, and empowered schools - all with parents directly controlling their Public Education Savings Account. By injecting mission, choice, freedom, and quality into the system, these proposals would hold those responsible for the education of children accountable. Unlike failed top-down reforms, by opening up the public school monopoly to competitive forces, choice, and local accountability, these proposals will dramatically increase the quality of public education. We hope parents and teachers will embrace the new opportunities - and challenges - choice and freedom will bring.

Beaches to be swept Saturday, Sept. 23

Saturday, Sept. 23, will find hundreds of volunteers armed with garbage bags invading Michigan Beaches from South Haven to Petoskey. The Great Lakes Beach Sweep is a volunteer beach cleanup program that involves eight state in the Great Lakes region and one province in Canada.

Michigan residents will take part in the Fifth Annual Great Lakes Beach Sweep. This one day beach cleanup event takes place in conjunction with participants from throughout the world and is held in cooperation with the Center for Marine Conservation's International Coastal Cleanup. The Inland Seas Education Association (ISEA), operator of the popular Schoolship program aboard the schooners "Inland Seas" and "Malabar" will again coordinate the local volunteer participants. The program is designed to increase the public awareness about the hazards of beach debris and to collect data that will help determine what kinds of litter are polluting the shores of the Great Lakes.

ISEA is recruiting environmentally concerned individuals, and groups to participate in the Beach Sweep throughout the eight county area of Manistee, Benzie, Leelanau, Grand Traverse, Wexford, Antrim, Charlevoix and Emmet Counties.

Volunteers from this area in the past have included environmental and conservation groups, Girl Scout and Boy Scout troops, AARP members, civic organizations, families, students and lots of people unaffiliated with a group, but very concerned about the Great Lakes. Individuals are also needed to help coordinate this event. Beach Captains are needed by ISEA to act as area coordinators who will hand out data collection cards.

The goal of the Beach Sweep is to not only remove litter from the shore of the Great Lakes, but to document and determine the type and sources of beach litter and to create public awareness of the problem of beach litter. Beach Sweep coordinators such as ISEA send the data cards to the Lake Michigan Federation and the Center for Marine Conservation, which compiles and analyzes the data from the Beach Sweep. Resulting reports are used by local, state and federal legislators, conservation groups and some industries and businesses.

The Fall 1994 Beach Sweep results indicated that more than 35 miles of shoreline area was covered by the beach cleaners in the Northwest Michigan area, more than 1000 pounds of debris was removed from area beaches. Manistee County resident Jean Crampton indicated that "There was less stuff on the beach in 1994 than in 1993." ISEA area beach clean-up coordinator Sally Somsel doubts that will be the case this year. Because of the hot weather, more individuals used the beach this summer, but one encouraging fact she has noticed is that many of the beach goers are using the trash containers. One of the goals of ISEA is to protect the Great Lakes through education. Somsel states "If ISEA can increase public awareness about beach litter, and remind the beach visitors to use the refuse containers or to take home their trash and not leave it on the beach in areas where there are no containers, then everyone can feel that they are helping the environment."

More than 13,441 items were removed from area beaches, 76.98 percent of those items were made from plastic, foam products accounted for 8 percent, 6 percent were paper products and the remaining share consisted of glass, rubber, metal, wood and cloth. Cigarette butts accounted for the most numerous item found. Other items have included discarded tires, plastic bags, soda cans, money, glass, pieces of an airplane, a sail boat hull, Christmas tree lights, tackle box, life jacket, welcome mat, many balloons with ribbons attached and fishing line. This past spring, ISEA volunteers found a chemical drum that had washed ashore near Otter Creek in Leelanau County that had Argentina stamped on it. The strangest item ever recovered during an ISEA beach clean was an ATV registered in Wisconsin that washed ashore at The Sleeping Bear National Lakeshore. It seems that the vehicle had been driven out onto the ice in Wisconsin and broke through. The driver ditched the ATV, and the wind and waves carried it across Lake Michigan where it washed up near shore the following spring.

Tom Kelly, the Executive Director of the Inland Seas Education Association asks that interested individuals call the ISEA office at 616-271-3077 and request a Beach Clean up data card.

Participants in the Great Lakes Beach sweep are contributing to the long-term health of Lake Michigan. ISEA volunteers are making strides in removing beach debris that has been on our beaches for a number of years as well as the recent summer trash.

Prisoners recognized for their help during Aug. 17 flood

several jail inmates who volunteered to assist the county in preventing flood damage from heavy rains Aug. 17 in Advance and Eveline Township. The prisoners joined Boy Scouts and other volunteers in filling, placing and later removing more than 1,000 sand bags.

In presenting the certificates, Lasater said, "Even though these men have committed crimes against society and are serving time, this shows to me that they are still interested and concerned about their community and in this case willing to stand in swift, knee-high water for hours placing sand bags."

VFW celebrates 50th anniversary of the end of World War II

The Veterans of Foreign Wars, Post #1153, celebrated the 50th Anniversary of the ending of World War II with a pot-luck picnic at Ferry Avenue Beach this past week. All members of the Veterans of Foreign War, the American Legion, their Auxiliaries and families, plus all other veterans were invited to attend. Also present were the colors; the American Flags, Banners from the Veterans of Foreign Wars and of the American Legion and their Auxiliaries. After pledging allegiance to the American flag, and a moment of silence for our honored dead, Mistress of Ceremonies Rosalyn Goldstick read a poem commemorating the 50 year anniversary of the ending of the War.

The Auxiliary also celebrated the 50th anniversary of their Charter. They were awarded a plaque from the National and State VFW Auxiliaries. Pauline Russell, Charlevoix, and Shirley Ashdon, Ormond Beach, FL are the only two living charter members with continuous membership. Ashdon was not present, but a poem was read by Goldstick honoring Russell, who is also a Past Auxiliary President. BEACONS

by REV. BRUCE HAMILTON

After a wonderful evening meal, it was just too beautiful outside to stay on the couch and vegetate. My wife and I got in the car and drove down to the lighthouse at Lake Michigan Beach. It was cool enough to merit a jacket but refreshing enough to make it feel great. The sun was just high enough in the sky that we were able to value the color changing display it cast up and down perhaps the most perfect shoreline in all the state.

There must be fish biting about two miles offshore. As we walked toward the end of the pier, we lost track of the number of small outboards that cruised past us and headed toward South Point. We decided to make a circuit of sorts and headed down the walkway towards the bridge. Three land-bound fishermen took up different positions along our path. One would prove to be rather successful while we were there.

An older couple was strolling toward us. They were doing something that reminded me of a simple pleasure in life that most married folks forget about all too quickly. They were holding hands. Far be it from me to miss a cue like that when I'm presented with one. I reached out for my wife's hand. When you share simple acts of caring, you'd be amazed at how much sweeter everything becomes.

Where a few weeks ago the pier had been lined with people, on this evening there were relatively few of us out and about. You could hear and enjoy the symphony of waves colliding with the rocks. You could speak in quiet tones and really unwind as the golden beams gave way to orange, then pink and even purple hues. It wasn't children. It was grown ups that filled the beach swings giving their all and reliving childhood flying days.

You have to forgive the preacher in me and the imagination that seems to be so much a part of what I write. I found myself speculating about the kind of day David the Psalmist might have been experiencing when he wrote these words, "The earth is the Lord's and everything in it, the world, and all who live in it; for He founded it upon the seas and established it upon the waters..."

Taking in the evening's sights, watching another couple on the north pier renewing their own spirits, and being with someone I hold more dear than words will ever say, my heart filled with praise to God for the world that He has let us experience. I offered quiet thanksgiving for the beauty that kept unfolding the longer we lingered at the shore. It was with great reluctance that both of us pulled away from such a beautiful sunset. You never like to see a special moment in your lives come to an end. Yet there is something reassuring about knowing, that in God's good time, there will be more special moments for us all to share.

Government takes its cut in the marriage process

by Laurie Lounsbury

So far this year, 239 couples have decided to get married in Charlevoix County. Those couples discovered that the path to the altar is lined with people waiting to relieve them of a few burdensome dollars. But once the marriage wheels are in motion, there is no choice but to pay along the way. When a couple is selecting a reception hall or a wedding dress, they can choose to spend a lot or a little. They don't get a choice about paying government agencies. This year, $11,950 will go into government coffers through marriage fees. First in line is the District Health Department. The State of Michigan decided a few years ago that impending newlyweds need to be educated about AIDS and Sexually Transmitted Diseases (STDs). For a $30 fee, the couple watches a 15 minute video on AIDS and STDs. After the video, an educator discusses the video with the couples and then gives them a pop quiz on the information. If they don't know the answers, the educator gives the answers to them.

Susan Killam is an educator at District Health Department #3 in Charlevoix. Killam admits that it's a bit contradictory to educate people about AIDS and STDs when they're about to enter a monogamous, heterosexual relationship. But the health department also views it as an opportunity to distribute information about pregnancy and family planning. "It's a nice time to capture people who might have children in the future. We can give them information about pre-conception planning," she said.

Some of the couples viewed the instructional video and concluded it was a waste of time. "It's all common sense. If you watch the news for five minutes, you'll know it all anyway," said Jay Ruggerole, who was married in August. Jan Egler watched the video at Planned Parenthod, which also offers the pre-marital health instruction. "It didn't tell me anything I didn't already know," she said.

After couples receive their health certificate for watching a video, they proceed to the county clerk for a marriage license. This costs the couple $20. Only five of those dollars go to the county's general fund for processing the license. Fifteen dollars are earmarked for the Charlevoix Friend of the Court. It's a sobering statistic to learn that three-quarters of the marriage license fee is set aside for divorce counseling services offered through the friend of the court.

Jordan River Arts presents children's play

A Charlevoix sister and brother are among a cast of 22 actors who will present a new musical version of "The Princess and the Pea" at East Jordan High School at 7 p.m. Thursday and Saturday, Sept. 21 and 23, and at 2 p.m. Sunday, Sept. 24.

Laura Borths, Charlevoix Middle School seventh grader, is Princess Pocatelo, one of four princesses vying to become the prince's bride.

Jerry Borths, Charlevoix High School ninth grader, is Pericles, the prince's servant the queen's friend and confidante.

They are two of seven royal cast members who are spied upon throughout the play by nine peasant dancers, who envy the royal lifestyle. The cast also includes six dancing vegetables who delight the queen with their rendition of the boogie woogie.

Written by playwright Kitty Beletic, of Richardson, Texas, based on Hans Christian Andersen's classic fairy tale, the musical comedy is adapted and directed by East Jordan Playwright Lenore Bechtel.

This production by Jordan River Players is the third of Jordan River Arts Council's fourth annual Children's Theatre Festival, which presents new and unpublished plays. This is the second time "The Princess and the Pea" has been produced, the first being at Richardson Children's Theatre in Texas.

The play features new music by Kitty Beletic, along with jazzy adaptations of some old favorites. Martha Dodge, Ellsworth actress and musician, is musical director.

Tickets, available at the door 30 minutes prior to curtain, are $3.50 for adults and $1.50 for children.

The productions are partially funded by grants from Michigan Council for the Arts and Cultural Affairs, Cheboygan Area Arts Council, Charlevoix County Community Foundation and Malpass Family Fund.

Three people in this two-car accident escaped serious injury. The accident occurred Sept. 6 on Bridge Street, near St. Mary's Church. According to police reports, a car driven by Verna Truman was stopped and preparing to make a left turn off of Bridge Street when it was struck from behind by a car driven by Jodi Bingham. When struck, the Truman vehicle went forward off the roadway and struck a tree. Truman, Bingham and Sara Fairbanks, a passenger in the Bingham vehicle, were taken to Charlevoix Area Hospital where they were treated and released.

Rayders overpower Grayling

by L. Scott Swanson

In football, down in the line where the big people play and no wimps need apply, a single choice is often painfully clear. You can either spend the evening beating on the person across from you or spend the evening having him beat on you.

After getting thumped around pretty good in the opening week of play, a little light switched on for the Charlevoix Rayder linemen. Friday evening's home opener against Grayling was played on a new and brighter day. Behind an offensive line which moved bodies all night, the Rayder offense accumulated nearly 300 yards in beating Grayling 20-14.

The Rayder offensive interior line of Bruce Reinhart, Mike Rautio, Eric Rowell, Zach Bakker and Josh Skeel set the tone on the opening drive, creating big holes for the Rayder running backs. Unfortunately for the Rayders, the drive was thwarted by mental mistakes which resulted in penalties. On the night the Rayders accumulated more than 100 yards in penalties.

After the defense held, the Rayders got the ball back and began marching again, this time leaving out the penalties. Running back Gary Leitner was the chief beneficiary of the line play. Leitner did an excellent job of setting up his blockers and then hitting the hole hard. Grayling defenders found that sorting through all those wide bodies just to find Leitner was no day at the beach. And once they got him located, bringing him down was another adventure. Leitner finished the night with 132 yards on 15 carries.

Mixed in with the running plays was a nice pass from quarterback Mark Boss to junior wide receiver David Manker. Manker caught the ball near the sideline, made a nice little spin move and went up the sideline for another 10 yards. Playing the game about two steps quicker than anybody trying to cover him, on the night Manker caught five passes for a total of 53 yards.

The Rayders finished their first scoring drive of the evening with 1:13 left in the first quarter on a one-yard quarterback sneak by Boss. The extra point attempt failed and the Rayders led 6-0.

While the offense played well, the Rayder defense had some trouble with short passes. Grayling opened the second quarter with a scoring march that ended in a seven-yard touchdown pass. Grayling's extra point kick was good and the Vikings led 7-6.

Grayling's lead was short lived. The Vikings kicked the ball short, but Charlevoix's Sean Kimble knocked it down and after allowing the ball to bounce in front of him just long enough for everyone on the Rayder sideline to gasp in terror, pounced on it.

With 2:21 remaining in the half, Boss hit Manker with a three-yard touchdown pass which put the Rayders ahead to stay. Boss was tackled just short of the goal line on the two-point extra point attempt and the half ended with Charlevoix leading 12-7.

Some administrative confusion prior to the beginning of the game had not allowed the band to take the field in advance of the kick off.

Aside from ticking the band off, this left the pre-game with no National Anthem. Now, imagine that - having a high school football game

Although he should have his hand a bit farther forward to cover the point of the ball here, Gary Leitner did not fumble. What he did do was run for 132 yards as Charlevoix beat Grayling 20-14. (Photo by L. Scott Swanson)

Basketball team loses 62-44

Despite a career game by senior guard Jenni Swenor, Charlevoix's varsity girls' basketball team lost 62-44 at home to Petoskey Sept. 7. Swenor had 18 points, but no other Rayders were in double figures. For Petoskey, Rachel Brown had 19 points and led a third-quarter burst which was the deciding factor in the game.

The game began at a frantic pace which was to Charlevoix's liking and the Rayders jumped out to a 4-0 lead. However, the lead didn't last as Petoskey answered with seven straight points.

The challenge Petoskey presents for opponents is that they're not only tall, but also have tall players who can handle the ball and who are mobile enough to defend well. Brown, who lived in Charlevoix until she was in the fifth grade, received all-state mention last year and is likely to receive consideration again this year. She and Amber Corneille created problems for Charlevoix's full-court press in the first quarter, leading Charlevoix to fall back into a half-court trap for much of the remainder of the game.

Betsy Castelein also caused problems for the Rayders, scoring 12 points and plugging up the lane while the Rayders were on offense.

Despite the 18-point deficit at the end, Charlevoix stayed within striking distance for much of the game. The Rayders trailed 17-13 after the first quarter and 32-24 at the half. In the opening minute of the fourth quarter, Charlevoix forward Kris Blanchard hit two freethrows to bring the Rayders within nine points, 44-35. With 5:18 left in the game sophomore point guard Amanda Eaton hit a basket to make the score 47-37. Then Petoskey went on an eight-point run and the party was over.

While Charlevoix had a lot of trouble scoring in the paint, there were some bright spots for the Rayders. Eaton continues to develop at point guard. Last week at Ellsworth she showed improvement in breaking down the defense and dropping passes off to her teammates while driving to the basket. In the Petoskey game, she also began played with no National Anthem. With Charlevoix located square in America's heartland, there'll be no days like that. Band Director Raphe Rittenhouse and his crew opened the halftime show with the Anthem. With "the home of the brave" still hanging in the air, the crowd began whooping and hollering like sports crowds always do at the end of the National Anthem. But instead of being followed by an opening kick-off, the whooping and hollering was followed by the band launching into a Beatles medley. And for those who wondered, that sweet trumpet solo on "Hey Jude" was courtesy of sophomore Lyndsey Blechel.

Grayling opened the third quarter with an offensive drive which made its way clear down to the Rayder two-yard line and then ended. Grayling had a first and goal and the Rayder defense shut them down four times.

Fullback George McClellan gave the Rayders some breathing room in the fourth quarter when he shrugged off a couple of tackler-wanna-bees and hauled his large self 33 yards for a touchdown with 9:33 left in the game. Boss passed to Manker for the two-point conversion and the Rayders led 20-7.

Grayling scored three minutes later on an 18-yard pass and kicked the extra point to make the score 20-14.

A Rayder drive fizzled and with just more than two minutes left Grayling got the ball back with time for one last drive. The Vikings thought they would start that drive with a pass. Rayder defensive back Jason Terryberry thought that too. Terryberry broke well on the ball, stepped in front of the receiver and intercepted Grayling's hopes of a comeback.

On the final drive of the game and looking to run the clock out, Leitner was handed the ball on a sweep around the right end. The defensive end stepped across the line to make a play, but just as he got Leitner in his sights, he suffered an eclipse caused by Rautio who had pulled from his left guard position and came steaming around the end and blasted the guy. The chains moved, the clock ran out, the Rayders celebrated.

Rory McKown led the Rayder defense with nine solo tackles. Josh Skeel had seven tackles while McClellan and Boss each had six.

Charlevoix will be at home again this Friday evening with Harbor Springs. Kick-off will follow the National Anthem at 7:30 p.m.

looking to take some shots from the perimeter. With Swenor and Eaton showing improvement and Beth Norton coming off the sick list this week, the Rayders' perimeter game is showing signs that it may be able to extend defenses and give the Rayders' taller players more room to operate.

In the junior varsity game, a furious comeback by the Rayders in the final two minutes fell one point short 45-44. In the final minutes, the Rayders' rally was triggered by an attack dog press and dominance of the boards. Julie Gregory led the Rayders in scoring with 13 while Mandi Barrett had 10.

Charlevoix travels to Traverse City St. Francis Thursday, Sept. 14.

Rotary golf tournament Thursday

The Charlevoix Rotary Club will host its annual golf outing and pig roast Thursday, Sept. 14 at the Charlevoix Municipal Golf Course. Tee off time is from 3 p.m. to 5 p.m. at Alexander's Restaurant. The tournament is a modified scramble. A $25 registration fee plus greens fees (which have been reduced to $5 for the tournament) covers the tournament entry, a souvenir ball cap, pig roast dinner and a chance at several prizes.

A new Ford car will be awarded for the first golfer to get a hole-in-one on the seventh hole while $1,000 in cash will be awarded to the first golfer to get a hole-in-one on the third hole.

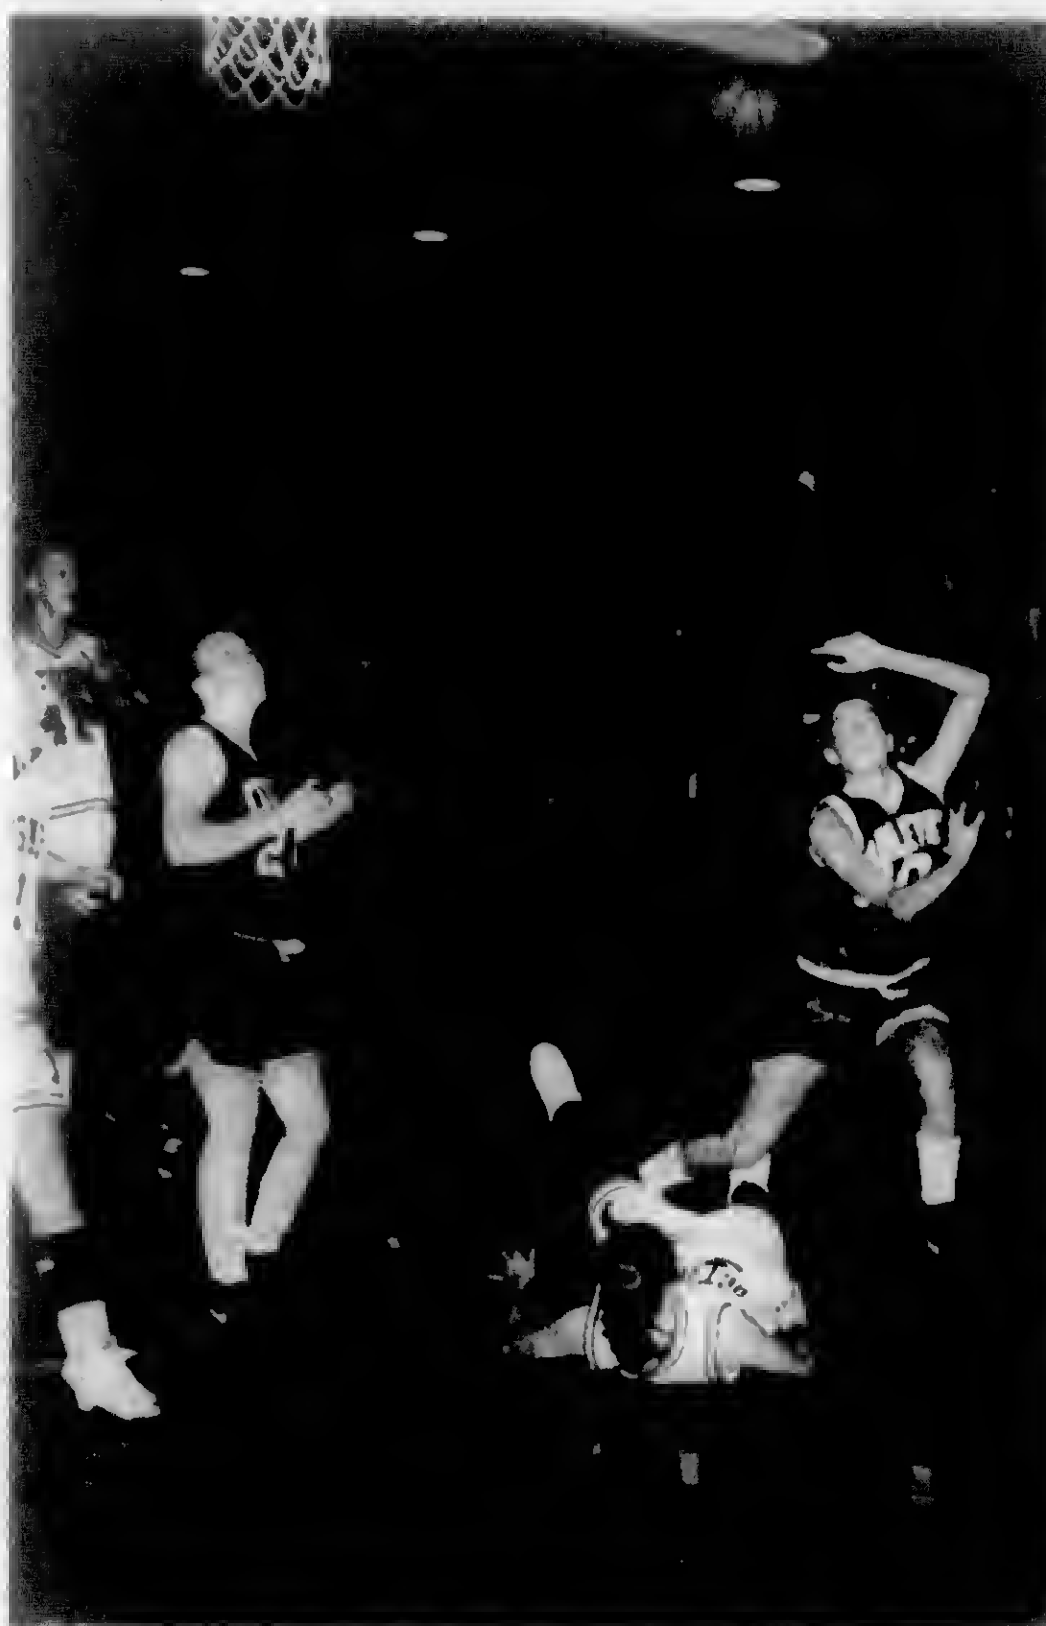

All proceeds will be used to benefit the various charities supported by the Charlevoix Rotary Club.

Norm Lawson wins second week's football contest

Norm Lawson was the winner in this past week's football contest with a record of 7-3. Several contestants went 7-3, but Lawson was the closest on the tie breaker.

Fortunately for Lawson and the others who were 7-3, Courier advertising manager Kyle Smith is ineligible to win. He made his picks just to see how he'd do and came out 8-2.

The Courier Guru, well, he did better than last week, but he was still only .500 at 5-5. However, he did pick the Charlevoix - Grayling game correctly. That game tripped up a lot of people as did Rogers City's win and Tennessee's win.

Here are this week's games: Harbor Springs at Charlevoix - Harbor Springs broke a 17 game winless streak last week. They'll be starting a new one this week. Games are won and lost with line play and Charlevoix's line is beginning to work well. Pick - Charlevoix.

Sault Ste. Marie at Petoskey - Petoskey has let us down twice so far. Apparently they can't stop the run. Let's say this week they play two good halves of football. This is reluctant, but... Pick - Petoskey.

U of M at Boston College - For some reason this game feels like it might be an upset. But it doesn't feel enough like that to pick it that way. Pick - U of M.

Ohio State at Washington - Ohio State is a good team this year even though they lost a lot to graduation. Pick - Ohio State.

Tennessee at Florida - Tennessee got lucky when they beat Georgia last week. Meanwhile, Florida coach Steve Spurrier has been whining that the Florida fans don't appreciate him. Even if he's unappreciated, his team is at home this week. Pick - Florida.

Arizona at Illinois - Both of these teams play good defense, but after that thrashing Michigan put on them, obviously the Illinois defense has a few holes. Pick - Arizona.

Arizona at Detroit - After being bitten two weeks in a row by Detroit, do you dare pick them again. Go ahead. Live on the edge. Pick - Detroit.

Miami at Pittsburgh - Miami beat New England last week, but that game should have been closer. Meanwhile Pittsburgh beat Houston, but that's no big deal. Houston stinks. Pick - Miami.

San Francisco at New England - This is another one that could be an upset. But then again, New England, like every other team in the league, doesn't have anyone who can cover Jerry Rice. And remember where you heard this, when Dallas finally does get Deion Sanders; they still won't have anybody who can cover Jerry Rice. Pick - San Francisco.

Chicago at Tampa Bay - Here's a tough one to call. Both of these teams are a week to week mystery. But the game is at Tampa and it's not uncommon for northern teams to have a tough time with those warm weather Florida games. Pick - Tampa Bay.

Walk to benefit Alzheimer's program

The Northwest Michigan Chapter of the Alzheimer's Association will host their sixth annual Memory Walk for Charlevoix and Emmet Counties Sept. 16. Registration will be in the bandshell in East Park from 8 a.m. to 10 a.m. with a send-off ceremony at 8:30 a.m. The four-mile walk will cross the bridge and go out to Depot Beach and then back to town to Lake Michigan Beach. There will be children's games, refreshments and prizes along the way.

Grandvue Medical Care Facility works with the Northwest Michigan Chapter of the Alzheimer's Association and is the site of an informational library regarding Alzheimer's disease.

For additional information about the walk, contact Linda Mansfield at 536-2286.

Big Rock bringing golfers to town

Northern Michigan will host the 1995 Consumers Power Company Golf Tournament this month, an event expected to bring more than $200,000 to area businesses during an off-season weekend.

Sept. 16, nearly 400 Consumers Power employees from across the state will descend on the Charlevoix area for tournament excitement at Antrim Dells, Belvedere, Charlevoix Country Club and Crooked Tree golf courses. A pig roast and awards ceremony will follow the 18 hole scramble event at the Charlevoix Country Club.

Big Rock Point employees Dennis LaCroix and Brian Brogan organized this year's tourney. "The location of this year's golf tournament has significantly raised the interest level for the event," said LaCroix, noting that 94 teams of four golfers are expected to participate. "We specifically scheduled the event in the fall so that our guests will enjoy some of the finest golf in the state, while our communities will enjoy economic benefits not normally associated with this time of year."

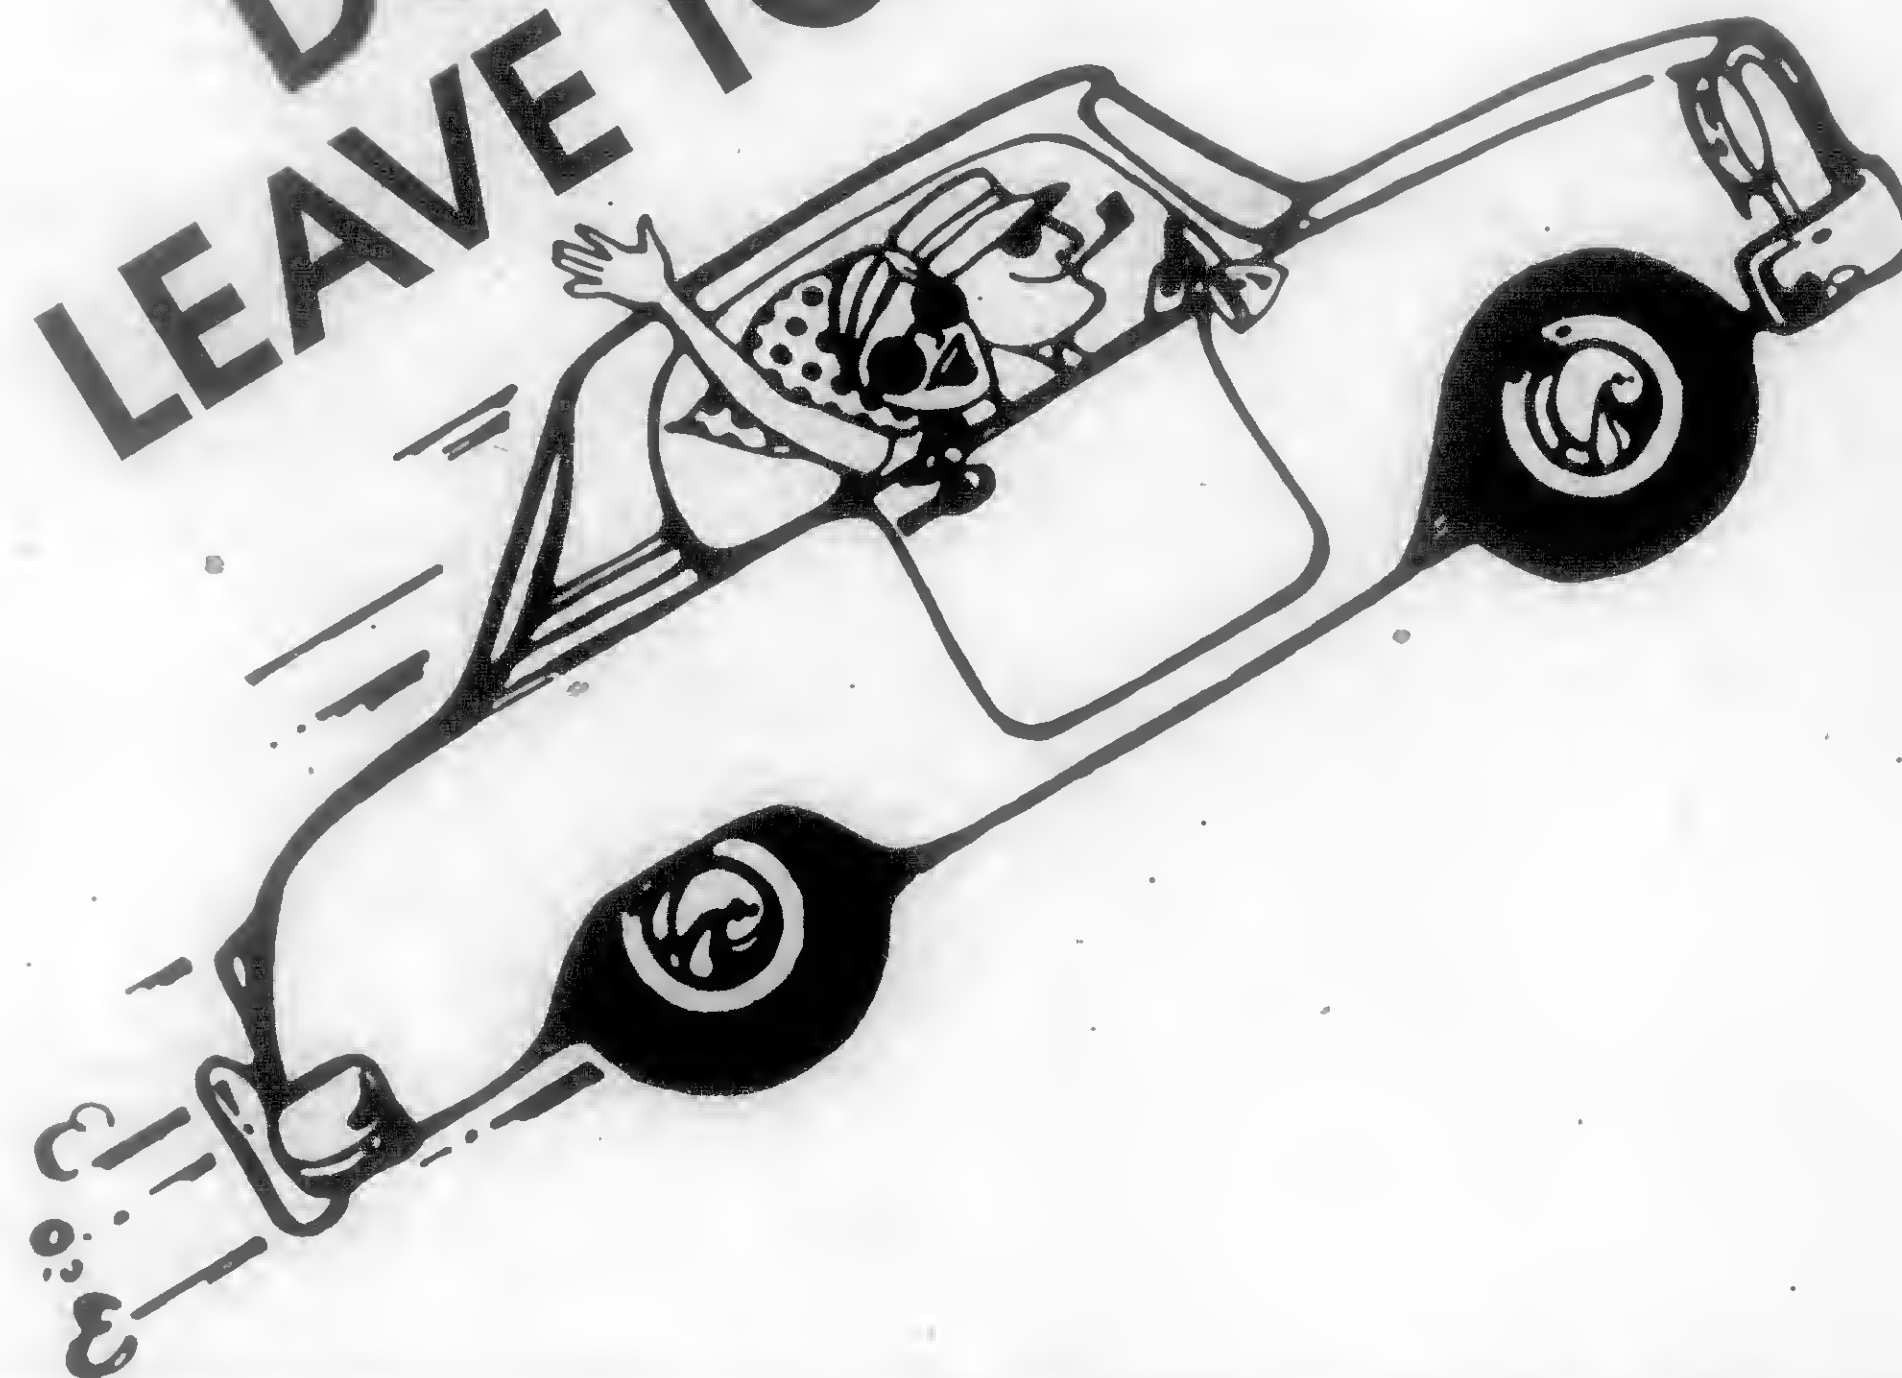

LaCroix added that because of the location of the tournament, many of the golfers are bringing their spouses and plan on staying in the area for the entire weekend.

Doing business without promoting is like working in the dark—nobody knows how to find you when they need you.

Area police to test their shooting skills
The area's best law enforcement marksmen will compete September 16 for the title of "Top Gun" at the 1995 "Turkey Shoot," an annual event hosted by Consumers Power Company's Big Rock Point plant and the Charlevoix Police Department at the Charlevoix Rod and Gun Club.
Equipped with department issue firearms, participants complete a standard competition course designed by the Michigan Law Enforcement Officers Training Council to test accuracy from varying distances, positions and speed. Awards are presented for top individual and team scores.
Marksmen from the Big Rock Point/Burns International security force return to the Turkey Shoot this year to defend top team honors earned in the 1994 event. Petoskey Police Officer Doug Keiser aims to repeat the flawless performance he executed last year to retain the title of Top Gun.
Invited participants include representatives from the Charlevoix Police Department, Michigan State Police-Petoskey Post, Boyne City Police Department, Charlevoix County Sheriff's Department, U.S. Coast Guard-Charlevoix, Department of Natural Resources-Boys City, Emmet County Sheriff's Department, East Jordan Police Department, Harbor Springs Police Department and the Charlevoix Rod and Gun Club.
Under the supervision of Burns Security officers, reporters can test their skills on the competition course. The Charlevoix rod and Gun Club is located approximately two miles northeast of Charlevoix on U.S. 31. Practice shooting begins at 9:30 a.m., with the competition commencing at 10:30 a.m.

Regional HIV planning group being organized

The Regional Community Planning Group (RCPG) of Region 7 recently received funding to implement HIV prevention projects in the 25 county area that stretches across Northern Lower Michigan. The progress of this implementation will be discussed at the regular meeting being held in Gaylord on Sept. 22 at 10 a.m. The meeting place is the Otsego office of District Health Department #3. The public is invited.

Two peer education projects received funding in this region. In addition, Region 7 will be conducting an assessment of HIV education in public schools in Regions 6, 7, & 8.

The RCPG also received funds to enhance the planning process. These funds enable the group to conduct meetings via television, provide training opportunities for individual members, and conduct teleconferences for committees.

This group is seeking new members to fill vacant positions. The group meets regularly in Gaylord. It is also possible to serve on committees in your area.

The RCPG is in the second year of a five-year project. The purpose of the group is to establish HIV prevention plans that are sensitive to the needs of the people in the local communities. Your input is welcome and encourages. If you are interested in becoming involved with the planning programs for your community, please contact Maryln Lawrence, District Health Department #3 at 547-6523.

Dump truck causes regional power outage

by Laurie Lounsbury

A dump truck working at the Crooked Tree Golf Course in Bay Shore took out a 46,000 volt power line that left Charlevoix in the dark. The accident occurred at 7:18 p.m. Wednesday evening. Charlevoix residents didn't regain power until 1:30 the following morning. Tim Pietryga, spokesman for Consumers Power Company, reported that the power line was one of the main feeds to many of their northern Michigan customers, including Petoskey, Charlevoix, Lexalite, and Bay Harbor.

Petoskey's power was restored within an hour by switching to alternate routes, but Charlevoix remained powerless for more than six hours.

Pietryga said that the truck damaged the cross arm on a power pole to the extent that it had to be replaced. The labor involved was what took so long to restore power. No one was hurt during the accident.

With the town left in the dark for so long, Charlevoix Police Chief Dennis Halverson beefed up the number of patrol cars cruising the area. He reported that there were no acts of vandalism or mischief as a result of the darkness. Halverson personally used the black-out as an educational opportunity for his children. "I told them how to do homework like they did 100 years ago, by candlelight," Halverson reported. Halverson's son suggested that maybe they didn't have homework before electricity, and therefore maybe he shouldn't have to do his homework, but the police chief didn't buy that.

City settles lawsuit after two years

Fireman reinstated, then resigns

by L. Scott Swanson

Following a brief closed session Monday evening, the Charlevoix City Council approved settlement of a two and a-half year old lawsuit involving former fireman Curt Thompson.

Thompson was one of four firemen dismissed by the city in the spring of 1993. As part of the settlement, the city agreed to reinstate Thompson as a volunteer fireman for the City of Charlevoix. However, Thompson will then immediately resign and has submitted a letter to that effect. His resignation has been accepted by the city.

In a news release issued jointly by Thompson and the city, Thompson said, "I feel this settlement restores my reputation." He added, "I harbor no ill will toward the City or its employees. I am happy we reached a resolution."

Thompson and three other firemen, Doug Bergmann, Charles Bergmann and Barry Wood, were dismissed from the city fire department in March, 1993 as a result of a dispute which occurred at a Feb. 25, 1993 fire call in Hayes Township.

Thompson was driving through town with his wife when he saw the fire truck headed north. He followed the fire truck to the fire scene. At the fire scene shift Commander Bob Lindstrom told Thompson to put on his fire gear. Since Thompson had driven to the fire scene in his wife's car, he didn't have his fire gear with him.

Thompson later said that he looked at the scene and determined that, if indeed there had been a fire, there no longer was one. He also concluded that since Lindstrom apparently didn't want him there without his firefighting gear on, and he didn't have his firefighting gear with him, he might as well go home. So he went home.

The position taken by Lindstrom, Fire Chief Doug Carver and City Manager Mike Wiesner was that there is spare gear on the fire truck and that Thompson should have known the spare gear was there, put it on and stayed at the fire scene.

Doug Bergmann and Charles Bergmann also left the scene. Wood became involved in a verbal altercation with Carver.

Following the subsequent dismissal of the four firemen, Thompson filed suit. Although the settlement addresses the dismissal in that it reinstates Thompson to the fire department, the suit itself did not directly address the Hayes Township incident or the dismissal. The suit merely sought Thompson's personnel records.

Following the dismissal, Thompson asked the city for his personnel records. He was given two pieces of paper which contained information about training exercises he had attended.

In the news release, Thompson says, "When I made my request, I did not feel the two sheets of paper I was given could be my entire personnel record."

After further requests failed to produce enough documents to convince Thompson that he had received all documents he was entitled to, in May 1993 he filed suit in

Castle Farm property returned to Reibel family

by Laurie Lounsbury

The Reibel Family Trust is one step closer to regaining ownership of Castle Farms. District Court Judge Richard May handed possession back to the Reibels in a Sept. 18 decision. The judgment of possession occurred after a land contract forfeiture filing went uncontested by John Porter, the castle's executive director.

According to Kim Reibel, who attended the hearing, Porter was actually relieved by the decision.

"This forces the issue for the community. The clock is ticking now," Reibel said, adding, "It's hard for me to do this. I'd like to see them succeed. They've already put a lot of work and money into it."

Castle Farms Incorporated, the group who would like to develop the castle into a community center, has until December 18 to come up with the total purchase amount owed on the property. That amount is $927,859. Until then, the Reibels have possession of the property.

Both Art and Kim Reibel said that they have no immediate plans for the castle. Art Reibel indicated his biggest concern was to get possession of the property before cold weather sets in so he can winterize it properly. Last winter, Reibel taught Chuck McDermott how to winterize the pipes and buildings, but McDermott is no longer involved with the project. "I just plan to winterize it and lock it up," Art said.

John Porter could not be reached for comment.

Stafford's Summer interns gathered with their mentors before returning to school. Seated are (from left) Michael Bennett, Shannon Selden, Jill Town and David Marvin. Summer employment program trains hospitality interns

A dozen college students furthered their education — and their careers — via summer internships with Stafford's Hospitality this summer.

The students held paying jobs for the summer months at Stafford's inns and restaurants, exploring a range of positions in the hospitality industry. After completing their summer season duties, each received a scholarship to continue their studies.

A farewell breakfast for the students was held at Stafford's Perry Hotel and hosted by chairman Stafford Smith, president Dudley Marvin, and the students' mentors: chef Bob Vala of the Perry Hotel, general manager Dennis Crissman of One Water Street and the Weather-vane, chef Shane Brown of the Pier, and innkeeper Reg Smith of the Bay View Inn.

This is the seventh year of Stafford's scholarship-internship program, and it produced a bumper crop of participants who will "get off to a professional start" with the background gained from on-the-job experience, Marvin noted.

"Hospitality employees are making a difference in people's lives providing the R&R that gives people a rest from the work they normally do," Marvin said.

"By the year 2010, tourism will be the largest industry in the country and perhaps in the world," Smith told the students. "With that growth comes the obligation to strive for excellence, to offer a better product."

Interns from Boyne City were Chris Bouters, NMU; Jill Town, MSU; and Maria Rich, NMU. Charlevoix intern was Mike Bennett, WMU. Harbor Springs interns were David Marvin, Albion; Debbie Marvin, Grand Valley; Marc Svatory, a candidate for the Culinary Institute of America; and Susan Taube NCMC. One intern was from Marshall: Angela Bradley, a student at MSU; and Brad Allen of Charlevoix attended a hospitality school in Ontario, Canada.

Bridge Park bids cause sticker shock

by L. Scott Swanson

City officials are recovering from a bad case of sticker shock after opening construction bids on the Bridge Park renovation project. The low bid of $4,985,000 was in the words of Mayor Josh Barnes "about a million bucks over where we expected it to be."

Three bids for construction of the project were opened Sept. 12. Comstock Construction of Traverse City submitted the low bid. Two other bids were submitted by other firms, one for approximately $5.2 million and the other for approximately $5.9 million.

In addition to the $4,985,000 construction cost, the state has set a price of $536,000 for the city to purchase park property necessary for the project. By the time property costs and engineering costs are added to the construction bid, the project's total cost exceeds $5.5 million.

In a joint meeting of the city council and Downtown Development Authority (DDA) Sept. 12 and in subsequent meetings between engineers, contractors and city and state officials, discussions have taken place regarding ways to lower the project cost. The results of those discussions will be considered at a Sept. 20 DDA meeting.

City treasurer Rick Brandi says the amount of money available for the project depends on a number of factors. One of the critical factors is when the money is spent.

Through bonding the city has borrowed approximately $3.3 million and has that money sitting in the bank drawing interest. Brandi said the revenue from that interest is approximately $200,000 annually. However, the bond money must be spent by December 24, 1997 in order for the state to assist in paying back the bonds.

One of the major cost items city officials are trying to reduce is the $536,000 for the land purchase. According to an attorney general's ruling, the Michigan Department of Transportation (MDOT) cannot dispose of land for less than appraised value. The city has tried without Charlevoix Circuit Court under the Bullard-Pawecki Act, a labor relations law. Thompson was represented by attorney J. David Kerr. The city was represented by attorney Laura Dinion of the Petoskey law firm of Smith, Plunkett and Cooney.

One of the core issues of the case was whether or not the city was obligated to furnish Thompson copies of reports written by Carver and Lindstrom regarding the Feb. 25 fire and Thompson's actions.

In the news release, Wiesner is quoted as saying, "We did have reports from Chief Carver and Commander Lindstrom pertaining to incidents which occurred at a fire call in Hayes Township on February 25, 1993. We felt, however, because the names of other firefighters were in the reports that we would violate their privacy if we provided the reports to Mr. Thompson."

The news release also notes that the other firefighters had provided written waivers saying they had no objection to the reports being provided to Thompson.

Although a trial date of Sept. 27 had been set to hear the case, earlier Circuit Court Judge Richard M. Pajtas had ruled that the Carver and Lindstrom reports are personnel records and should be furnished. Consequently, had the case gone to trial the city faced an uphill battle.

The settlement also addresses the context of the reports. The news release says that when Thompson reviewed the reports, he felt there were errors. According to the release, Wiesner said the city has reviewed Thompson's concerns regarding errors in the reports and Carver and Lindstrom, after reviewing Thompson's concerns, have revised the reports.

In the news release, Thompson is quoted as saying, "I have wanted to take the high road in this matter. I have refrained from public rhetoric and have pursued my legal remedies. I felt my reputation was damaged in March of 1993 when I was discharged and I am very happy this matter is resolved. My own view is that the most important thing is good fire service to our communities."

Thompson is currently chief of the Charlevoix Township Fire Department.

The news release quotes Wiesner as saying, "I am pleased we have reached an amicable resolution of this matter. We are happy that Mr. Thompson agreed to do this as a symbolic act and without back pay."

success in the past to get MDOT to give the city the land at a lesser price and now they are trying again. At Monday evening's city council meeting, Barnes said a meeting is scheduled to take place in Lansing Sept. 28.

In a phone conversation with the Courier Monday, Brandi estimated that if the city can get the land at little or no cost, then they could probably financially live with a construction cost of something just over $4 million.

Lake view merits high priority

In considering how to pare back Bridge Park renovation construction costs, city and DDA officials should place a high priority on maintaining a view of Round Lake from Bridge Street. During the past two to three decades projects funded by private dollars have blocked the view of the lake in many areas. The last thing Charlevoix residents need is to have public dollars join in blocking the view.

The Bridge Park project seeks to improve the area encompassing the Beaver Island and Coast Guard boat dock as well as the small park just south of the bridge. The centerpiece of the project is the removal of the old sewage treatment plant building and the construction of a new building in the park embankment.

The project has been in the works for years and early on the issue of the view of the lake from Bridge Street was raised. All along, city officials maintained that the building in the park would be low enough so that a person on Bridge Street could see right over it and have a nice view of the lake. But if you looked at the project model at City Hall to see where the top of the building would meet the old Burnside building and then you went down to Bridge Park and lined things up and looked, it gave you reason to believe that the building would block most of the view of the lake from Bridge Street.

Finally, late in the project, engineers put up a rope where the top of the building was supposed to end up. This allowed people to see for themselves just how much of the lake they would, or wouldn't, be able to see once the building was in place.

Once the rope allowed them to see what they couldn't see, a lot of people, including members of the Downtown Development Authority (DDA) weren't happy. So the DDA worked with engineers and city officials and found ways to lower the building and also designed a railing at the top of the building to minimize obstruction of the view. Those efforts improved the proposed view dramatically.

The latest wrinkle in the project developed last week when construction bids came back approximately a million dollars higher than expected. Consequently the DDA, city council, engineers and city officials are now looking for ways to cut costs. One of the things they are looking at is raising the building level. That should be one of the last things they look at, not one of the first.

To begin with, if better planning had taken place earlier in the project, the building would have been lower in the first place and lowering it wouldn't have been seen as an added last-minute cost. Beyond that, whatever view the citizens of Charlevoix end up with once this project is completed, it's one we'll live with for decades. Granted, tearing down the old sewage plant will improve the view of Round Lake. But it makes absolutely no sense to spend a couple of million dollars to improve the view and then spend another couple of million to block it.

In considering how to cut the cost of the Bridge Park project, the DDA and other city officials should make maintaining a view of the lake a high priority. They can cut costs from other aspects of the project.

Addington attends Women's Conference

Anyone familiar with the Charlevoix network will not be surprised to learn that we were represented in Beijing at the International Women's Conference which is held every ten years.

Ellen Addington, Director of Music for the Congregational Church, and former public school teacher of Special Education, tells us she was extremely impressed by the powerful, articulate and courageous women from all over the world who met in China this month. In the Peace Tent, women from Bombay, India, protested against the practice of setting brides on fire because the family is behind in payment of the dowry. Women from Islamic countries described their divorce procedures, where all a husband needs to say three times is "I put you away." Women in workshops described the traffic in children, who are sold into slavery, and girl babies who are abandoned.

Women are concerned that in war-torn countries like Iraq, Nicaragua, El Salvador, Cambodia and Vietnam nothing is being done about the undetonated bombs left behind in the fields. Farmers and their children suffer serious wounds because of this unfortunate neglect.

On the up side, a woman from Helsinki, Norway, reported that women now represent 30 percent of the legislators in that country, and they are aiming for 50 percent representation!

Ellen was one of the thousands of women we saw on television, who stood outside under an umbrella during the unexpected rainstorm the day Hillary Clinton spoke at the Conference Center. The Chinese had set up 5000 chairs outdoors, but could only accommodate 1200 inside. Ellen heard someone say,

"Let's all sing," and being accustomed to leading a choir, Ellen suggested, "We Shall Overcome." This well-known song made the Chinese security even more nervous, and they locked arms and blockaded the Center in anticipation of trouble. Fortunately, the song only lifted the spirits of the crowd and not their mettle.

The League of Women Voters put on workshops on how to make democracy work. I was pleased to tell Ellen that one of our summer visitors from the Sequanota Club, Virginia Ewing, Ph.D., Professor of History at Western Illinois University, went to Russia this summer under the League's sponsorship, and one of the results of their project is an exchange visit in the United States this fall of a number of Russian and Ukrainian women. Virginia is taking several under her wing in Illinois. During their forthcoming month's visit, she will introduce them to the skills of forming an organization, how to conduct meetings, parliamentary procedures, including brainstorming and goal setting. Virginia will see to it that they will also tour civic, cultural and religious organizations.

Ellen found she really liked the Chinese people. For example, the day she climbed the Great Wall, she had a pleasant exchange with one of the young guards in uniform, who checked her ID and said "Michigan! Michigan!" Ellen held out her hand and laughingly taught him how to do the High Five.

In reviewing her trip, Ellen was excited to exchange ideas with other non-governmental visitors. She was delighted to be able to take pictures of the old people and children, and was pleased to be invited to pose with them for photographs as well. She was amused to see a woman draped all in black with only her eyes showing, yet sporting a baseball cap!

On a more serious note, she is optimistic that the issues — such as women being disinherited in third world countries — are being addressed by the United Nations, and that many of the problems that plague women have been brought to light by the international press, and that even though no monies have been appropriated, these women's issues will be addressed by various governments throughout the world.

Letters to the editor

Children suffer from domestic violence

Editor,

As the Children's Program Coordinator at the domestic abuse shelter, I would like to tell you about the forgotten victims of domestic violence: the children.

Statistics state that 50 percent of batterers abuse their own children physically or sexually. This does not include children who are hurt by flying objects and fists.

These children grow up with the feelings of fear, anger, isolation and a low self-esteem. When a child lives in a violent home, they do not know a sense of safety or security. They do learn that violence is an acceptable form of behavior. These children need lots of support and reassurance that they are not the cause of the violence.

Children learn what they live, and although not every child who grows up in an abusive home will become an abusive adult, there is a significantly higher risk. We need to break this cycle of abuse now.

On behalf of Domestic Violence Awareness Month, I am asking you to please remember the children.

Sincerely,
Jennifer Stowe

League of Women Voters forming local chapter

A new chapter of The League of Women Voters is being formed in the Charlevoix area. The public is invited to attend a meeting at the Charlevoix Country Club Wednesday, Sept. 20, at 7 p.m. There will be no charge.

LWV is a non-partisan grass roots organization which reaches all the way to Washington DC via its national structure. Its goal is for participants to become informed about political issues, candidates for election, and civic affairs at all levels, local, state and national. The membership focuses, studies, discusses, and takes a stand; the result is then shared with the general public through newspapers, television, and forums.

Someone recently suggested that the first 535 names from the voters' roll would provide us an improved congress. What do you think? Should there be a flat tax rate, with everyone paying at the same rate? Are Charlevoix kids being "dumped down" by receiving 20 percent less class time? Should your money be spent on a bypass for Petoskey? Does Boyne City need a 100-room motel on its waterfront?

Becoming knowledgeable is the first step in answering each of these and a multitude of other queries. Join The League of Women Voters and let your informed opinion be heard.

Planned Parenthood establishes Foundation fund

Northern Michigan Planned Parenthood (NMPP) has established a designated agency fund with the Charlevoix County Community Foundation. The fund was established earlier this month when NMPP transferred a portion of its endowment fund to the Community Foundation.

Earlier this year, NMPP set up a similar fund with the Petoskey-Harbor Springs Community Foundation and is in the process of exploring a similar arrangement with the Grand Traverse Regional Community Foundation. The establishment of these funds kicks off a Planned Giving fund-raising drive which is part of Northern Michigan Planned Parenthood's 25th anniversary activities.

"Naturally, we're pleased that Planned Parenthood has created these special endowment funds," says Robert Tambillini, Executive Director of the Charlevoix County Community Foundation. "By serving as fiscal managers, we can help area nonprofit organizations expand and strengthen their financial base while they continue to maintain control over their funds. And, as community foundations, we offer donors some unique tax incentives, too."

The Northern Michigan Planned Parenthood Funds are designated endowment funds within the community foundations. The community foundations manage the funds, and all income from the funds goes directly to NMPP. As a designated fund within the community foundation, NMPP funds will have the advantage of being invested in a larger pool of assets with the potential to lead to greater growth and lower investment fees.

"We hope that the many donors who have supported NMPP throughout the past 25 years will consider contributing to these endowment funds," says Planned Parenthood Executive Director Scott Blanchard. "The NMPP funds provides a means for donors to ensure that their support will continue after their lifetimes."

Donors can receive a Michigan tax credit by contributing to Planned Parenthood via a community foundation. All contributions are also eligible for federal income tax deduction.

"By investing in Planned Parenthood through the community foundations, we all win — NMPP, the donor, the foundation, and most importantly, the women and families Planned Parenthood serves," continues Blanchard.

Rev. Cecil L. Drost

The Rev. Cecil L. Drost, 79, of Charlevoix, died Sept. 15, 1995, at Charlevoix Area Hospital.

His funeral was Tuesday, Sept. 19, at the Assembly of God in Charlevoix. Pastor Lowell Anderson, pastor Jerry Polk and Douglas Way officiated with burial in Brookside Cemetery, Charlevoix.

He was a veteran of World War II serving with the U.S. Army Air Corps in the European Theater.

The single most important thing in his life was Jesus Christ. He

He worked in the Civilian Conservation Corps camp at Higgins Lake in the 1930s, and was appointed chaplain of that camp in 1993. He was a member of the Civilian Conservation Corps Chapter No. 129.

The Rev. Drost was named Layman of the Year by the Kiwanis Club of Charlevoix in 1980.

He enjoyed Harley-Davidson motorcycles and rode for more than 50 years. He also enjoyed polka music.

Survivors include two daughters, Connie K. Bradley and her husband, Paul, of Charlevoix, and Bonnie L. Dominic and her husband, Dennis W., of Charlevoix; two sons, Jerry L. Drost of Ellsworth, and Cecil L. In addition to his wife, the Rev. Drost was preceded in death by a granddaughter, Christine Drost; a great-grandson, Nathaniel Filkins; two brothers, Ben and George Drost; and one sister, Nina Ouderkirk.

The family suggests memorial contributions be made to the East Upright Church of God for the Church of God Home for Children, or to the Civilian Conservation Corps Chapter No. 129. Envelopes for memorials are available at the Winchester Funeral Home in Charlevoix.

Margaret E. "Nellie" Taylor

Margaret E. "Nellie" Taylor, 99, of Charlevoix, died Sept. 15, 1995, at the Penfold Adult Foster Care Home in Charlevoix.

Antique shop has a rustic appeal

by Laurie Lounsbury

Big Two-Hearted Antiques in Charlevoix is named after a river in the Upper Peninsula. If it had been named after the two owners, Ned Duke and Greg Klinger, it could have been called Two Big-Hearted Antiquers. Both Klinger and Duke obviously have big hearts filled with a love of Mission period furniture and fine art. The two men set up shop in a home at 604 Bridge Street that ideally suits their business. The home dates back to the same period in time as the furniture they display inside.

Deep yellow, two-toned walls reflecting the afternoon sunlight in the home's living room create the perfect setting for Gustav Stickley furniture. Antique bookcases display the smooth, sweeping lines of Rookwood pottery, illuminated by the soft light of a Tiffany lamp in the dining room. The den is a man's mecca, decorated with rustic hunting and fishing collectables, including bamboo fishing rods, wooden nets, wicker creels, mounted stuffed pheasants, and campy outdoors art work.

Klinger's role in the partnership is to run the store and select contemporary art for the walls. Duke spends his time on road, hunting for antiques that lend themselves to the store's folksy ambience. "Right now, Ned's chasing down a Gustav Stickley table in Arkansas," Klinger said of Duke's absence last week.

The art and furniture in Big Two-Hearted Antiques will appeal to the serious collector. The pottery, while pricey, is in mint condition and carries the stamp of its origins. Klinger is unabashedly open to discussion regarding the prices of different pieces. "I'm happy when people ask about the cost of a piece of pottery. They deserve to know about it," Klinger said, adding, "We don't want to have to apologize for anything we sell, so we try to get perfect pieces."

The customers apparently appreciate the pottery's excellent quality. "The pottery has been a really important element of the business. It has sold better than anything," Klinger said.

There is far more to the store than just Mission art and furniture. The business was shaped around pieces that evoke a certain nostalgic feeling. "With everything, our approach has been, is it rustic, is it woodsy, and would it work in here?" Klinger explained. Everything does work together well, pulled together by the deep paint colors sponged onto the walls and topped with rustic stencils. The store is definitely a place where a shopper would be tempted to relax in a Stickley Morris chair in front of the brick fireplace and just soak in the visual pleasures of folk arts and crafts.

Klinger plans to keep the store open all year. For the fall season, the business hours are 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., Wednesday through Sunday. But Klinger encourages people to ring the front doorbell if the store is closed.

A plaque honoring the late E. Darrell Dinwidde, C.P.A. was unveiled at LexaLite's new Scientific Center last week. Dinwidde was a longtime financial advisor to LexaLite and the new facility was dedicated in his honor last September. The facility is manufacturing a form of flat-panel display for Allied Signal Corporation and in the future will be manufacturing additional high technology equipment at the facility. (Photo by L. Fourth quarter drive brings Rayders 15-12 win

It wasn't the prettiest win in the world, but then any win is nicer than the most beautiful loss. Charlevoix won its second straight game at home Friday evening, beating Harbor Springs 15-12.

Charlevoix came from behind to win the game with an 18-play drive which took up all but 1:20 of the fourth quarter. Fullback George McClellan finished the drive with a five-yard scoring run. Quarterback Mark Boss ran in the two-point conversion.

The Rayders final drive succeeded despite two penalties. Stupid penalties, particularly offensive players jumping early, plagued the Rayders all night. Injuries also made the evening more of an adventure. Running back Gary Leitner and wide receiver David Manker both suffered ankle injuries in the second quarter. Leitner was slowed, but able to return in the second half. Manker, who had rolled an ankle, was unable to return to the game.

The first quarter was scoreless. Charlevoix opened the scoring in the second quarter on a two-yard run by Boss, who also kicked the extra point. Early in the game, Charlevoix's running game looked strong. Leitner, McClellan and Rory McKeown were getting holes at the point of attack and bullying once they got past the line of scrimmage.

Harbor Springs got on the board late in the first half on a three-yard run. In what later turned out to be a critical play, the attempted extra point kick sailed wide left and Charlevoix held a 7-6 halftime lead.

Two plays gave Charlevoix's defense fits all night. The Rams ran a short out pass and also ran the fullback to the right side. On the Rams first drive of the third quarter, Harbor Springs took the lead on a nine-yard run by the fullback. A pass attempt for a two-point conversion was broken up and the Rayders trailed 12-7.

On the final drive, Charlevoix mixed a couple of pass plays in with a power running game to methodically march 91 yards for the score.

For the night, McClellan led the Rayders in rushing with 76 yards on 16 carries. Boss completed seven of 13 passes for 101 yards. Defensively, Jason Smith had two interceptions. Late in the first half, he made a great break on a Harbor Springs pass to step in front of the conversion.

receiver and pick off the ball. Jason Terryberry had an interception for the second week in a row. Boss also had an interception to go with seven tackles. Leitner might have been hobbling, but he was still hitting and led the Rayders with 11 tackles.

Charlevoix is now 2-1 on the season and 1-0 in league play. The Rayders will resume league play this Friday evening in Elk Rapids.

Rayder defensive back Scott Smith gives this Harbor Springs' player a new direction in life during the Rayders' 15-12 win.

Basketball team remains undefeated in league play

Charlevoix got out in front early and stayed there in beating Traverse City St. Francis 58-50 in girls basketball. The Sept. 12 win in Traverse City gave the Rayders a season record of 3-2 and a league record of 2-0. The Rayders are tied with Kalkaska for the early season league lead.

Charlevoix got a nicely balanced scoring attack at Traverse City. Lisa Parrish had 17 points, Jenni Swenor 14 and Amanda Eaton 10. Kris Blanchard hurt St. Francis in several ways, scoring eight points, grabbing eight rebounds and stealing the ball five times.

Charlevoix got off to a 17-10 lead by the end of the first quarter, led 25-23 at the half and then stretched the lead to 41-33 entering the fourth quarter.

Charlevoix won the junior varsity game 48-42. Katie Conlan was Charlevoix's leading scorer. The junior varsity team is 4-1 on the season with the only loss being a one-point loss to Petoskey.

Charlevoix will host Grayling, Tuesday, Sept. 26.

J.V. football team plays to 20-20 tie

Chris Dominic scored on a 70 yard and again on a 60 yard run as Charlevoix's junior varsity football team played to a 20-20 tie at Harbor Springs Sept. 14. Dominic's second touchdown came with 49 seconds left in the game and gave the Rayders the tie.

After falling behind 8-0 early in the game, Steve Felter scored on a 32-yard run to pull the Rayders to within two points at 8-6.

Harbor Springs scored just before halftime to push their lead to 14-6, but Dominic went on his 70 yard excursion early in the third quarter and Felter ran in the conversion to tie the game.

Harbor Springs took the lead with six minutes left in the game before Charlevoix tied the game in the final minute.

Defensively, Rusty Simmons led the Rayders with 17 tackles. Nate Metiva had 12 tackles and Steve Spiegel eight.

Golfers place second at Alpena invitational

Charlevoix's varsity golf team placed second among eight teams at the Wildcat Invitational in Alpena Saturday. The Rayders shot a 351, six strokes back of Hillman which won the tournament. Fairview placed third with a 352.

Brad Eaton led the Rayders with a score of 86. Other Rayder golfers and their scores in the meet were: Dan Pardee, 87; Scott Blechel, 87; Ryan Mordick, 91; Jason Vincent 102. The top four scores were counted toward the team score.

In addition to the eight Class C & D teams in the tournament, there were also 17 class A & B teams participating. Overall, Charlevoix's score of 351 would have placed them tenth among 24 teams.

Prior to Saturday's tournament, the Rayders opened their season with a 2-2 record. Early in the season, the Rayders are getting good performances from different players at different meets, but they have yet to get good performances from everybody at the same meet.

In the opening meet of the year, Sept. 6 at Harbor Point, the Rayders placed second among four teams. Harbor Springs took first with a team score of 167, Charlevoix beat Grayling in a tie breaker with both teams shooting 179. Rogers City finished last with a team score of 192.

Eaton led the Rayder varsity with a score of 41. Other varsity scores at the meet were: Mordick 45, Blechel 46, Bob Sommerfeld 47, Pardee 48, and Vincent 48.

In the junior varsity match at Harbor Point, Keith Grunch shot a 43, R.J. Stebe 50, Mike Staton 51, and Jon Browe 58.

Things did not go well for the Rayder varsity Sept. 13 at the High Point course in Traverse City. The Rayders lost to Traverse City St. Francis 176-201. Mordick led the Rayders with a 47. Other Rayder varsity scores were: Blechel 50, Pardee 51, Eaton 53, Grunch 56 and Sommerfeld 57.

The junior varsity had a better day beating the St. Francis j.v. team 218-223. Vincent led the Rayders with a score of 45. Other Rayder j.v. scores were: Stebe 51, Yaroch 53, Staton 69.

Rayder coach Jim Glynn said the team's progressing, but has been somewhat erratic. He said that in coming meets they need to level out.

Sally Fritz turns in 1995's first perfect score

No doubt about it, it's time for the men of Charlevoix to step back take a long, hard look at themselves. The first perfect week of selections in this year's Courier football competition contest was by a woman of the female gender. That's right, Sally Fritz was a perfect 10-0 in the third week of this year's contest. Several people went 9-1, but Fritz was the only one who didn't trip up on the Detroit Lions or Arizona Wildcat losses.

Last week's games were fairly easy. Lots of people did fairly well. Even the Courier Guru went 7-3. That's a steady two-game per week improvement in each of the first three weeks. If things continue on their present path, the Guru should be 9-1 this week and a more than perfect 11-0 in week five.

Here are this week's games and picks:

Charlevoix at Elk Rapids: Elk Rapids lost to Boyne City, but looked better than expected. Charlevoix beat Harbor Springs, but looked worse than expected. After this week Charlevoix begins the tougher part of their 1995 schedule. This week they either play well to generate some momentum or play poorly and set themselves up to crash. It'll be interesting. Pick - Charlevoix.

Petoskey at St. Ignace: Petoskey beat Sault Ste. Marie last week, but those St. Ignace players are a tougher brand of yooper. Pick - St. Ignace.

Central Lake at Harbor Springs: This is a tricky one. Central Lake has improved in the past few years with the influx of talent from Ellsworth. Harbor Springs has a new coach this year and he's improved that team. Pick - Central Lake.

Traverse City St. Francis at Muskegon Catholic Central: St.

Youth soccer results

Results from Charlevoix 4-H Youth Soccer League games last week were as follows:

Monday, Sept. 11 (Twelve and under age group):

Charlevoix Lions Club and Klooster Equipment played to a 1-1 tie. Nick Cole scored for the Lions while Jordan Nystrom got Klooster's goal.

Pat McKeown Ford beat Crown Motors 2-0. Bryce Daley and Travis Smith scored the two goals.

Tuesday, Sept. 12 (Ten and under age group):

Wojan defeated Waste Management 6-2. Radio Shack beat CB North 4-3. Wolohan Lumber defeated Belvedere Golf Club 5-1.

Wednesday, Sept. 13 (Twelve and under age group):

Charlevoix Lions Club and Pat McKeown Ford played to a 0-0 tie.

Klooster Equipment beat Re/Max 2-1. Karlee Barnard and Ryan Rafacz scored for Klooster while Spencer Bryan had the RE/Max goal.

Francis is coming off of a close call against East Jordan. That may motivate them. Pick - Muskegon Catholic Central.

Purdue at Michigan State: Although neither of these teams are going to be in the hunt for the Big 10 title at the end of the season, this still should be a good game. Both coaches are doing a good job with their program. MSU's Saban has what Wayne Fontes lacks, a willingness to demand that his players play smart. Pick - MSU.

Colorado at Texas A&M: What's this? Highly ranked teams playing each other, instead of running up scores against cupcakes? This year that's a novelty in college football. (Along those lines, the Courier Class Act of the Week Award goes to University of Michigan Coach Lloyd Carr for running out the clock rather than running up the score at the end of the Boston College game.) Pick - Texas A&M.

Arizona at USC: After Arizona crushed my heart last week with that loss to Illinois, how could I pick them again? I don't know. Don't ask me how. Don't ask me why. Pick - Arizona.

Notre Dame at Texas: Do you remember when Texas used to be a national power? For that matter, do you remember when Notre Dame used to be a national power? Here's an easier question, do you remember when some people were predicting that Notre Dame quarterback Ron Powlus would win two or three Heisman trophies? Oh, those were the days. Pick - Texas.

San Francisco at Detroit: During the first three weeks the Lions have struggled and found ways to lose. This week, that will be easier to do. Will next season see Henry Thomas, John Teerlink and Tony Dungy reunited? Pick - San Francisco.

Denver at San Diego: Both of these teams have been winning ugly, but they've been winning. The difference is that San Diego has been winning ugly against better competition. Pick - San Diego.

Although he tends to run more straight up than most fullbacks, Rayder fullback George McClellan has been a load for Charlevoix opponents to bring down during the past two games. McClellan was the Rayders' leading rusher with 76 yards against Harbor Springs. (Photo by L. Scott Swanson)

Mark Boss (8) not only completed passes as the Charlevoix quarterback in Charlevoix's 15-12 defeat of Harbor Springs. He also broke up passes as a defensive back. (Photo by L. Scott Swanson)

DNR to deregionalize

Department of Natural Resources Director Roland Harnes formally presented his proposal to abolish the DNR's Regional boundaries and supervisory structure to the Natural Resources Commission (NRC) at its Thursday, September 7 meeting at the Ralph A. MacMullan Conference Center in Roscommon. The plan was unanimously adopted.

Harnes unveiled a new organizational chart illustrating divisions and functions which will remain in the DNR following full implementation of Executive Order 1995-18, creating a new Department of Natural Resources and a new Department of Environmental Quality. Charts also reflected elimination of the Regional supervisory structure and a downsized Lansing Executive Office.

"Federal, state and local governments are being challenged with decreasing revenues and increasing public expectations," Harnes noted. "Legislative and citizen mandates are resulting in organizational flattening. The DNR is no exception."

"the streamlined structure provides a shorter chain of command and ensures a highly decentralized workforce, where nearly 85 percent of our personnel are deployed in the field," Harnes continued.

"Michigan must be a world-class mecca for tourism, jobs, hunting, fishing, trapping, wildlife viewing and all kinds of outdoors recreation. We will promote our hunting and fishing heritage, form new partnerships with volunteers to promote positive programs, and we will initiate a southeast Michigan Strategy to promote urban recreation opportunities."

"I'm excited about the DNR 'returning to its roots' of the former Conservation Department. We will continue to focus on traditional sportsmen and women, and we will be more sensitive to the interests of our younger generation. We will be ready for the future and continue to carry our mission for current and future generations," Harnes concluded.

At its September meeting, NRC Chairmen Larry DeVuyst also announced the formation of two new committees. Commissioners David Holli, Joey Spano and Paul Eisele will serve on the new Committee on Forestry, Parks and Land. Commissioner Holli will serve as Chairman. Commissioners Keith Charters, Jerry Bartnik and James Hill will serve on the new Committee on Fish, Wildlife and Law. Commissioner Charters will serve as Chairman.

County taxes could increase by as much as 5.6 percent

Amount of increase to be discussed at Sept. 27 meeting

by Laurie Lounsbury

The Charlevoix County Commissioners have the power to limit next year's county taxes to a 2.6 percent increase, which is in keeping with the rate of inflation. They also have the power to raise county taxes by $137,239, which is a 5.6 percent increase. But the commissioners can't go to the higher rate without holding a public hearing first. The truth in taxation laws demand that government agencies inform the public before they raise taxes.

Without a public hearing, the county commissioners cannot levy more millage than was levied in the previous year. But with new construction in the county and property values rising with the rate of inflation, last year's millage would still net the county a cash increase of 2.64 percent.

With a public hearing, the commissioners can raise taxes to the maximum allowed by the state. By raising taxes to the maximum allowable amount, the county will get an overall budget increase of 5.6 percent.

The 5.6 percent increase represents a total increase, averaged over all county functions. That percentage increase is skewed by the Grandvue millage, which was renewed by voters in the last election. With the millage renewal, Grandvue stands to collect $86,182 more than they did last year, which is a 15 percent increase. The county's general operating budget will be increased by 1.19 percent and transit stands to be increased by 4.25 percent.

Raising taxes for county government isn't an all or nothing proposal. Commissioners will vote on each millage separately. In other words, the commissioners could vote to raise Grandvue millage and leave the transit millage alone. Last year, for example, all of the commissioners, except chairman Don Smith, opposed an increase for the transit millage.

The public hearing is scheduled for September 27 at the county commissioner's evening meeting.

CROP Walk will take place Oct. 7

Charlevoix County CROP Walkers will make their twelfth annual fund-raising trek Saturday, Oct. 7.

Walkers from Charlevoix, Boyne City and East Jordan will be challenged to better last year's $10,479 income which earned Charlevoix County the title of top per capita fund raisers in all of Michigan.

Funds raised by the Church World Service/Christian Rural Overseas Project are used to fight hunger in the United States and abroad. One quarter of the money is returned to local food pantries. In 1994 $869.94 went to each of the food pantries in the three county cities.

With federal and state funds for hunger needs being cut back, it is increasingly important that communities help themselves. CROP Walks are a healthy, fun and practical way to meet real local needs.

The CROP Walk is sponsored by the County Ministerial Association. More information is available from local pastors or by calling coordinators Mary Helen Riggle, 547-9515 or Kay Smith, 547-2920.

August brought more rain than usual

During the month of August precipitation was above average on the Lake Superior, Michigan-Huron and Lake Ontario basins, and below average on the Lake Erie basin. For the year to date, precipitation is about 2 percent below average for the entire Great Lakes basin. The net supply of water to Lakes Superior, Erie and Ontario was below average in August, while the supply to Lakes Michigan-Huron was above average.

In comparison to their long-term (1918-1994) averages, the August monthly mean water level of Lake Superior was 7 inches below average, Lakes Michigan-Huron, St. Clair and Erie were 2, 8 and 7 inches above average respectively and Lake Ontario was at its average. Shoreline residents are cautioned to be alert whenever adverse weather conditions exist, as these could cause rapid short-term rises in water levels. Should the lakes approach critically high levels, further information and advice will be provided by the Corps of Engineers.

A more detailed summary of Lakes Michigan-Huron water levels follows. All elevations are referenced to International Great Lakes Datum 1985.

Lakes Michigan-Huron at the end of August were at elevation 579.43 feet (176.61 meters) above the mean water level at Rimousky, Quebec, or about 23 inches (61 cm.) above Chart Datum. The August monthly mean level of 579.53 feet (176.64 meters) was about 2 inches (4 cm.) above the long-term average for August. The lakes were about 30 inches (75 cm.) below the all-time high August monthly mean level, which was recorded in 1986.

Bridge Park plans revised

by L. Scott Swanson

A scaled back version of the Bridge Park project was approved by the Downtown Development Authority and city council at special meetings Sept. 20. The project had to be scaled back when bids came in about a million dollars higher than anticipated.

Between Sept. 12 when bids were opened and Sept. 20 city officials worked with engineers and contractors to pare $948,000 from the $4,985,000 construction cost. Approximately $485,000 of the items removed will still eventually be done, but at a later date.

One of the items which drove the cost of the project higher than anticipated is the cost of purchasing Bridge Park Land from the Michigan Department of Transportation. According to an Attorney General's ruling MDOT can't give the city the land, but must sell it at appraised value. The appraised value of the property is $536,000.

The city's current budget for the project incorporates the $536,000 figure, but city officials hope to reduce that cost through one of three methods. One proposal is to have the state extend the defined area of M-66 from its present termination point near the south end of town. The redefined highway would extend into the center of town, to the boat dock, across the lake to the Beaver Island airport. Redefining the theoretical boundaries of the highway would make the city eligible for additional grant money. The second proposal is to apply for a federal grant to help fund the property purchase. The third proposal is to seek special state legislative action to have the park property given to the city.

If any of the three proposals work out, the decrease in property cost will be put back into the construction of the project.

The centerpiece of the Bridge Park project is the removal of the old sewage treatment building and Beaver Island Boat Company Building. The sewage treatment services provided by the building will be moved to the new treatment plant on Lakeshore Drive and han-

Russian sailing songs echo across Lake Charlevoix

Charlevoix is a popular place with Russian business people

by Laurie Lounsbury

Word of mouth is a powerful thing. Many of Charlevoix's tourists find their way here because of word of mouth recommendations from friends or relatives. For the last two years, word of mouth has been spreading through Russia, from Moscow to Siberia. Russian cement plant managers were telling their friends and co-workers that if they ever went to America, they should go to Charlevoix and visit the DCL plant. A visit made two years ago by Russians on a science and technology trip included a stop in Charlevoix, which was the highlight of the trip.

Last week a dozen Russian cement plant managers and executives made that trip to Charlevoix. They were exploring American technology in cement plants. DCL makes many of the loading and dust collection parts for cement plants.

The visiting Russians got more than a look at American technol-

gy. They got an up-close look at the rewards of capitalism. After a plant tour, the group of Russians were invited on a cruise around Lake Charlevoix on a 60-foot yacht. Charlie Winn opened his home to the Russians, while Skip Forcier, a friend of Winn's, provided the yacht.

The Russians had their video camcorders working overtime as they recorded the details of Winn's spectacular home on Lake Charlevoix.

With weather that made the Siberians feel right at home, Forcier's boat pulled away from Winn's dock last Friday. The sleet, snow, hail, and gale force winds didn't stop the Russians from enjoying the cruise. While the boat strained forward in the buffeting winds, the Russians broke into a chorus of Russian folk songs. Winn and the other Americans on board listened to their songs and chatted with the few Russians who could speak English. Later, after enjoying the conviviality, Winn turned to one of the DCL employees and remarked,

"Why did we ever fight with these guys?"

Alexey Obukhov was a warm, outgoing Russian who could speak English quite well. He stood out on the deck in blowing snow as the yacht slowly circled Round Lake, providing the group with a panoramic view of the town and the surrounding lakefront homes. Obukhov made the comment, "Are you not afraid for your civilization? It looks like you have peaked," he said while gesturing to the homes on the water. Obukhov said he would be worried to live in such a country, because places like Egypt and Rome collapsed after reaching the peak of their civilizations.

Obukhov reported that Russia is still politically very unstable. A Russian parliamentary election is coming up soon, yet Obukhov said that only 25 to 30 percent of the voting population would vote. The people don't know what the next day will hold for them, so they don't even want to bother to vote.

Three rescued from collision at US 31 and Mercer

Charlevoix fire and ambulance personnel rescued three people following a collision Sept. 21 at the intersection of U.S. 31 and Mercer. The collision occurred when a mini van driven by Merton Lone of Lake Orion pulled off of Mercer and into the path of a full-size southbound van driven by Jason Whitley.

Francis Lone, a passenger in the mini van, was the most seriously injured of the three people involved in the accident. Rescue workers had to pry off the top of the van to treat her at the scene. She was taken to Northern Michigan Hospital in Petoskey. As of press time, she remained in serious condition.

Whitley and Merton Lone were also injured, but less severely. They were taken to Charlevoix Area Hospital where they were treated and released.

East Jordan woman pleads guilty to second degree murder

Barbara Yolanda Howes plead guilty to Second Degree Murder late Tuesday, September 19, 1995 before Judge Richard M. Pajtas. Howes was originally charged with and bound over on charges of Open Murder and Felony Firearm connected with the shooting death of Donald Lee Baker. The case had been set for a jury trial on October

9, 1995. Prosecuting Attorney Mary Beth Kur said that had the case gone to trial, the jury would have had the option of convicting Howes of First Degree Murder, Second Degree Murder or Manslaughter. Second Degree Murder carries a penalty of life or any term of years. The case was investigated by the Charlevoix County Sheriff's Department. Charlevoix County Sheriff George T. Lasater was consulted regarding the plea and was in agreement with it. Both said the plea to Second Degree Murder was appropriate in light of the facts and circumstances surrounding the case. Sentencing in the case is set for October 9, 1995 at 9 a.m.

...Russian businessmen enjoy Charlevoix visit

Obukhov said that no one has any confidence in the authority of their leaders. "It is only my opinion, but I think we should have gone step by step from socialist to capitalist country. This was too big a change, too fast," Obukhov said.

After the boat trip, Valery Serbrennikov, the vice-president of the cement ministry in Russia, presented gifts to Foreier and Winn for their hospitality. The Russians cheerfully thanked all of the Americans, speaking rapidly in Russian. The Americans smiled and returned comments in English. No one understood the words, but everyone understood the meaning. "They're no different than us at all, really," said Werner Egger, co-owner of DCL.

died by a smaller pumping station in Bridge Park. The new pumping station and Beaver Island building will be housed along with a Coast Guard storage area in a new building set down in the bank of Bridge Park. The project also called for a Beaver Island storage building closer to the channel as well as repair of the dock area and parking lot.

The main things deleted from the original project are the small storage building ($195,500) and interior work on the main building ($258,000). Essentially, the city is going to build a shell now and equip the interior of the building later as funds become available. If any of the three property purchase proposals pan out, that would be a source of funding.

Construction will begin this fall. Although some construction will still occur next summer, city officials are working with contractors to minimize disruption.

Football, the departing, and seat belts

It's fall. You've got to talk a little football. It's inescapable. The Rayders are on a three-game winning streak, U of M's on a four-game winning streak, even MSU is looking respectable, and the Lions just beat the defending champions.

A fair amount of football gets discussed at the Courier office as people drop off their football contest entries. The contest has grown during each of the past three years. Not only the number of people who enter, but the diversity is surprising. Both men and women, young and old have been participating. For some, it's become kind of a family thing with family members making their picks over the kitchen table on Thursday evenings. Most people drop off their picks, but we also get a few in the mail and more and more people are faxing them in.

When Kyle Smith and I resurrected the contest the year before last, we hoped it would be something that would serve as a vehicle for advertisers and for interaction between the newspaper and its readers, as well as being something that was fun. The first year the contest was kind of slow. Last year it solidified and this year it's going great.

Speaking of Kyle Smith, the Courier advertising representative for the past four years, this is his final week here at the Courier. He's leaving us to go off and sell windows for Wojan Window and Door. Smith's done a fine job here. As the Courier ad rep, he's been a friend and advocate for the Charlevoix business community. And even though he technically may not have been part of the news department, when your desk sits directly across from the editor's you can't escape overhearing and being drawn into a lot of discussions of whatever happens to be the hot issue of the day. During the past four years, in addition to the job he's done in advertising, Smith has also been a valuable sounding board for the news end of the operation. He will be missed, but here at the Courier, we all wish Smith success in his new job.

Letters to the editor

League of Women Voters defines its mission

Editor,

The League of Women Voters advocates for the Charlevoix area met for the first time on Sept. 20 at the Charlevoix Country Club, and some questions arose which need to be addressed. This letter is to clarify a little further the premises and scope of the League as it is formulated and as we will be organizing here in the northwestern corner of the lower peninsula of our state.

LWV is peopled by those who know how much politics and politicians affect the daily lives of each one of us, and care enough to become informed and active. League is grass-roots and non-partisan; the only requirement for joining is interest. At this time we are becoming members-at-large, which means that each person who pays dues will receive publications from the state and national offices of the League, even before we have our own chapter formed. Anyone is welcome to attend meetings, dues-paying or not; times and places will appear in the paper. Neither are there any geographic limits; we welcome all counties' residents.

Topics to be studied and discussed will be decided upon by the membership. Some suggestions have already been made: land management; water quality, as determined by overuse of chemicals; and charter schools. It was evident at the first gathering that many things are worrying our citizens, and they're eager to learn more about what can be done.

For further information or a membership application please contact Mona Bergeon, P.O. Box 331, Charlevoix, MI 49720; phone 547-2742.

Yours truly,
Mona Bergeon

Tobacco opponent to speak at NCMC

Patrick Reynolds, grandson of tobacco magnate R.J. Reynolds, will speak at North Central Michigan College in Petoskey, Monday, Oct. 2, at 11 a.m. Reynolds' appearance is the first event in NCMC's 1995-96 Lecture Series.

Reynolds is a vehement anti-smoking activist and author of "The Gilded Leaf." He has been profiled by Time, Newsweek, the Associated Press and United Press International, many major newspapers, and by ABC World News, CNN Headline News, CBS' Dan Rather and NBC's Tom Brokaw. He had made memorable appearances on the Oprah Winfrey show, Phil Donahue, Good Morning America, Geraldo Rivera, CBS This Morning, The Today Show, ABC's Nightline, Larry King and more.

Reynolds describes his lecture as "the truth about the tobacco industry." He will tell why he made the decision to fight back against the multi-billion industry, and how his family now feels about him. He will discuss second-hand smoke, banning cigarette advertising and vending machines, divesting tobacco stocks, limiting exports of tobacco products, and other issues.

"Patrick Reynolds is a dynamic speaker, and he has appeared at colleges all across the country," according to NCMC Student Activities Director Bill Damsgaard. Reynolds has also appeared before Congress, state legislatures and medical forums. He has addressed the National Cancer Institute and the United Nations' World Health Organization.

Reynolds will also be speaking to Petoskey Middle School students at 9:30 a.m. His 11 a.m. lecture at NCMC is in the Library/Conference Center.

This past Friday's weather was Michigan at its worst. The morning opened with cold rain, augmented with biting winds. As the day progressed, a bit of sleet and driving hail was added to the mix. By the weekend things had improved and by late Saturday the weather was beautiful. (Photo by Laurie Lounsbury)

Balch - Smith

Mr. & Mrs. James Smith

Kendall Kaye Balch and James Richard Smith were married Sept. 2 at the Community Church of God in Charlevoix. Rev. Bruce Hamilton performed the 3 p.m. double nuptials witnessed by 250 wedding guests. The altar was graced with a unity candle arrangement, baskets of gladioli, and candelabras decorated with ivy, silk roses, and tulle. English ivy and tulle adorned the pews. The floral arrangements were created by Dana Ward, aunt of the bride, of "Flowers by Dana" in Topsail Island, North Carolina.

The bride is the daughter of Ken and Kaye Balch of Charlevoix. The groom's parents are Richard and Beverly Smith of Charlevoix.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of slipper satin featuring a Queen Anne neckline. The bodice and tapered sleeves were embellished with iridescent sequins and seed pearls. The basque waist was enhanced with a back peplum adorned with satin rosettes and lace. The detachable cathedral length train was accented with embroidered sequined Alençon lace appliques and beaded lace edging. The bride's double tiered finger-tip veil was attached to a lace tiara adorned with crystals and pearls. She carried a cascading bouquet of white and pale peach silk roses, hibiscus, lilies of the valley, stephanotis, trailing ivy, white tulle, and pearl sprays.

Music was provided by organist Barbara Youmans of Charlevoix. Soloist Michael Fabish of Saginaw sang "The Wedding Song" and "Here and Now," and guitarist and vocalist Rodney Stevens of Charlevoix sang "I Cross My Heart."

The groom's cousin, Debra Drenth Coolman, served as matron of Honor. Bridesmaids were Michelle Ranae Vancil of Cheboygan, sister of the bride, and Sheri Gillhepsy of Grand Rapids. Junior bridesmaid was Courtney Ranae Kane of Cheboygan, niece of the bride. The bridal attendants wore tea-length gowns of jade satin featuring sweetheart necklines, lace sleeves and bodices, keyhole backs accented with pearls, and princess waistlines. They carried bouquets of peach and white silk roses, white mums, and baby's breath with white tulle and ribbon.

Best man was Michael Smith of Grand Rapids, brother of the groom. Groomsmen were Gary Coolman, Carl Dhaseler, and Ryan Kane of Cheboygan, nephew of the bride. Ushers were Randy Balch of Grand Rapids and Jeff Balch of Charlotte, brothers of the bride. The gentlemen in the wedding party were attired in tuxedos by Oscar de la Renta provided through Trademark Clothiers of Charlevoix.

The bride's mother chose a tea-length gown of blue-violet chiffon for her daughter's wedding. The mother of the groom wore a two-piece ensemble featuring a brocade jacket in autumn colors and lace edging and a full tea-length chiffon skirt of hunter green.

Following a horse-drawn carriage ride, the couple arrived at the Belvedere Casino where their reception was hosted by the bride's
